BURRELL—In loving memory of dad R. Edgar Burrell, who died Sept. 20th., 1947.

HALL—In loving memory of a dear father, Mr. David A. Hall, who passed away one year ago Sept. 18th., 1947.
One year has passed, dear father,
Since you were called away,
And ne'er shall we forget,
That sad and deary day.
The chair you filled now empty,
We miss your smiling face,
Life seems different now somehow,
No one to fill your place.
You bade no one a last farewell,
You said good-bye to none,
The Golden Gates swung open,
God had called you home.
Sadly missed and ever remembered by son Albert and family.

STORMS—In loving memory of a dear mother, Olive Storms, who passed away Sept. 19th., 1941.
No one knows how much we miss you
No one knows the bitter pain,
We have suffered since we lost you,
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
Lovingly remembered by daughter Maudie, grandchildren Wilfred, Franklin, Billie and son William, George Joseph, Howard, Wilbert. S20

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto Sept. 20 (CP) — Industrials weakened in moderately active trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Golds moved ahead quietly on narrow gains and base metals showed a slightly easier tone.

Volume for the first three hours was 403,000 shares, about 72,000 shares more than Friday's similar period.

Losses in the industrials remained in fractional range and action sagged mid-way in the session. Utilities, steels and papers led the easier trend in the groupings and a few food issues firmed slightly.

Selected junior golds advanced on penny gains while Kerr Addison rallied in the senior list and Lake Shore weakened. Macassa, Chesterville, Cochenour and Conwest were among the stronger juniors.

International Nickel, Hudson Bay, Quemont and Noranda displayed fractionally in an active base metals list. Consolidated Smelters rose 1-8 at 114 5-8 and Falconbridge, Labrador and Gulf lead were ahead 4 to 15 cents.

DREW ANNOUNCES

Disagreed With Ottawa

Following the war, he was at odds with the Federal Liberal government over the Dominion-Provincial conference called to revise existing taxing agreements. Premier Drew charged that Ottawa was largely responsible for the failure of the conference because it adopted a "rigid attitude." He later urged that the conference be reconvened but the Dominion government negotiated separate agreements with all provinces except Ontario and Quebec.

MEDIATOR ADVISED

The United Nations should provide special assurance that Jewish-Arab rights alike are "respected and maintained."

The political, economic, social and religious rights of all Arabs and Jews in Palestine and all Jews in Arab territory of Palestine "should be fully guaranteed and protected by the authorities."

Establishment of a United Nations Conciliation Commission.

The principal job of the Conciliation Commission would be to "supervise immediately truce, road, railroad, free port, free airport, minority rights and other arrangements as may be decided upon by the United Nations."

Reporting on the 360,000 Arab and 70,000 Jewish refugees, Bernadotte declared "I must emphasize the urgency of immediate urgency of this problem."

"The choice is between saving the lives of many thousands of people now or permitting them to die," he said.

Refugee Relief Under U.N.

He declared he believed responsibility for refugee relief should be assumed by the United Nations along with the neighboring Arab states and the Israeli government.

Bernadotte recommended that the existing Indefinite truce should be superseded by a formal peace, or at the minimum armistice."

Such a truce, he added, would "involve either complete withdrawal and demobilization of armed forces or fully wide separation by creation of broad demilitarized zones under United Nations supervision."

A spokesman for the Israeli government said of the report:

"We shall give it the most careful and earnest study and no doubt the government of Israel will have an opportunity of expressing its views before the appropriate (U.N.) Committee."

PAPER CHARGES

The strong-arm tactics were denounced by United States military government officials, who are considering a counter-embargo on Russian-controlled publications. The Americans said the communist raids were a violation of four-power agreements for the free exchange of information throughout Germany.

While communist police stood idly by, the pro-Russian squads moved swiftly from one newsstand to another in the Russian sector, tearing up the western publications. They made dealers promise to stop selling the anti-communist papers in the future, underthreat of "other measures". Asked what these measures would be, they pointed to gasoline cans, significantly indicating incendiary intentions.

The Ausalans themselves, in an effort to win the Germans to their side, promised greater leniency in reparations demands. In another conciliatory gesture, Maj.-Gen. Alexander Kotikov, Russian commandant for Berlin, ordered a review of the 25-year sentences imposed last week on five Berlin youths who took part in an anti-communist demonstration Sept. 8. He said the Russian military court which tried them had failed to take into account the "fact that these youths were under the influence of, Fascist program speeches."

DIVISION OF TAXING POWERS

Toronto, Sept. 20 (CP)— The division of taxing powers between provinces and the municipalities will be discussed at a conference here Oct. 18-19. Various organizations such as The Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves and the Northern Mining Municipalities Association will be invited to send representatives. The gathering, first of its kind in Ontario was called by Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar.

CREDITED WITH SAVING LIFE

Toron, Sept. 20 (CP)— Two construction workers who knew how to apply artificial respiration were credited with saving the life of Charles Shepherd, 57, who fell into Toronto harbor. The men, H. Earnshaw and Don Techel, dragged Shepherd out of the water Sunday night, called police and firemen, and went ahead with artificial respiration until help came.

Shot-gun Blasts Scare Robbers

Toronto, Sept. 20 (CP)— Two men who were attempting early today to force their way into the Bank of Nova Scotia Branch at Malton, 12 miles northwest of here were frightened off by shot-gun blasts fired by a nearby resident, Jack Mullins.

Provincial police constable Kit Still, of Malton, said the men were attempting to jimmy open the front door of the bank when Mr. Mulshinter heard them. He ran downstairs in his night clothes and fired at the men.

Police said the men also attempted to enter a dry-cleaning store beside the bank. They found jimmy marks on the front door.

J. C. Stringer, manager of the bank branch, said that no entry had been made into the building.

It is believed the pair were not hit by the shot-gun blasts. They fled in a car in the direction of Toronto.

Police said the men were stopped from entering the dry-cleaning shop by a strong wire screen. They said the shop had been broken into many times.

A police emergency squad sawed off the post and took the woman to hospital with the stake still in her body. Her condition was described as fair.

Lie Will Urge UK Constabulary Of 1,000 to 5,000

Paris, Sept. 20 — (CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King arrived here today to lead the Canadian delegation to the United Nations General Assembly.

Just before the prime minister's arrival, Governor-General Yvon Delage declared that he will demand urgent formation of a United Nations guard to forestall such acts as the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte and to maintain order in disturbed areas.

As soon as possible after the 58 countries' delegates assemble tomorrow, the United Nations administrative chief will ask for a United Nations constabulary of from 1,000 to 5,000 men backed by "the full authority of the United Nations."

In his annual report to the General Assembly, Trygve Lie said a United Nations guard to Palestine would have "greatly increased the effectiveness of the work of the Security Council, and have saved untold suffering, as it did in Indonesia and Palestine."

Lie is to present his report to the assembly soon after the opening session.

ROAD TO OLD FORTRESS

Fort St. Joseph, Ont., Sept. 20— (CP)—Soldiers and Indians took part in a ceremony marking the opening of a new road to this ancient fortress on St. Joseph Island in Algoma district. From here in the War of 1812 a British force set out to capture Fort Michilimackinac.

Helicopter Used In Plane Search

The Pas-Man., Sept. 20 (CP)— A helicopter and other search planes concentrated today on a search of dense bushland 37 miles west of here in the hunt for a missing United States Navy plane following the sighting of a "red flare" Sunday night.

Search officials said additional planes had been sent to the spot after those aboard one plane had reported seeing the flare.

J. T. Reader, a prospector at Reader Lake, west of here, also reported today he and his wife had seen the red flare southwest of their home last night. Reader's location of the flare was described by search officials as "within a reasonable distance" of the red light reported earlier by the plane.

A clue followed a report that prospector search teams would concentrate its search with renewed hope in the hills and muskeg surrounding Snow Lake. This report confirmed others that the missing plane, which had carried five men, had been seen in that vicinity.

Cripps Arrives In Ottawa

Ottawa, Sept. 20. (CP)—Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the British Exchequer, and Canadian heads probably will cover the entire field of Anglo-Canadian financial and economic relations in discussions which get under way here today.

The custodian of Britain's purse-strings, accompanied by Lady Cripps and a party of British officials, arrived here today, alighted from a special transport department aircraft early today.

The British Chancellor told reporters he had come to Canada to "review the whole field of financial and economic relations between Canada and the United Kingdom."

He declined to say whether he would ask the Canadian government to unfreeze the $240,000,000 remaining of the 1946 Canadian loan to Britain of $1,250,000,000.

During a brief interview at Montreal, Sir Stafford said in an interview that there were "so many problems in the world today in which we have common interests and objectives.

"It seems time that some of us came over and had talks with the Canadian government on these problems," he continued.

Banner Tourist Season

What is said to have been the best tourist season in Canada's history is that of the present period. This year's appeal to Americans to visit this country brought the greatest number of visitors who have ever been in Canada in any year. Though the tourists were said to have been shopping more carefully, still the year's business is expected to reach a total hitherto never before attained. What is believed to be a fair estimate of the amount of money left in the country by the guests is set at more than $260,000,000 by Dominion authorities.

This country has appeals of almost infinite variety in territory and attractions. In so great a field as Canada the tourists cannot fail to find appeal, wherever they go. In every part this appeal exists. Besides these is the fact that Canada and the United States are neighbors and while they can travel great distances the visitors can find attractions wherever they enter along the great boundary.

Not the smallest part of the season there has been an usually large number of guests from the United States. They had heard of our attractions and came to see. That they have enjoyed themselves is the wish and hope of everyone. This meeting of Americans and Canadians in one another's country is one of the happy facts which cannot fail to be mutually beneficial.

It is natural too that the movement has not all been one way. The United States offers infinite attractions which appeal to Canadians, many of whom have crossed the border and enjoyed the hospitality of the people.

That is natural in so great a country covering half of a continent. There is appeal wherever the tourist has wished to go and the Dominion and Provincial authorities have neglected no steps to make their visit enjoyable and to offer the attractions which will impress the visitors. In so great a field tourists cannot fail to find many places which please every guest of the country. Besides there is the fact that Canada and the United States are neighbors and good friends and attract one another across the boundary.

Figures Are Impressive

Just what the shortage of electrical energy in Ontario means is now brought forcibly to the attention of consumers in the municipalities. Belleville has been notified that the consumption will be cut 12.5 per cent of the daily quota to 104,000 kilowatt hours.

Figures speak plainly and can be understood so that the users will clearly understand that each and every one will realize the necessity of curbing the consumption so that all may be served.

That time of year has come when the use of electricity in the homes usually increases. Here lies the duty of householders to save to the utmost. That ordinarily when power is plentiful consumers are inclined to be somewhat careless is realized and for that reason the duty is placed upon them one and all to omit no opportunity to save electric energy.

Power is short and there must be economy in its use as far as possible.

Britain Wins Honors

Britain won the highest prize at the International Film Festival held in Venice recently. It was not a new story but one of the oldest and most dramatic stories ever written, it was a production of "Hamlet," the age-old tragedy dating back many centuries and handled by the master playwright of all time, Shakespeare, over three centuries ago. The film was the production of Sir Laurence Olivier.

But Britain also won with it the highest award carried off by Jean Simmons in the role of Ophelia. Other prizes which came to the British Isles were for the best story and script, for the best scenery and for the best photography. Critics were particularly impressed with the group of productions that Britain provided for the festival and in their opinion no nation could show anything comparable with the British for a high average standard of artistry, for intelligence and technical skill.

The world can well watch the progress of Britain in the field of art. Here people are a nation of great craftsmen. She has master artists in every field of effort and has had them for centuries as her history shows.

The British people have made many contributions to the world's riches of thought, to political progress and to freedom. The supremacy she has shown in so many fields of effort is a revelation of the character and spirit of that people to whom the world owes so much of what is worthwhile in the present day world.

JUST FOLKS

TO ALIBI MAKERS

When luck deserts, as oft it will,
And you are left to "fix" the ill,
'Tis folly long to frown;
There will be days when strength and skill
Will let the cleverest down.
Then vain it is with alibi
Some poor excuse to make;
There's better far with twinkling eye
To grin and take
The victor's hand to shake.

Loss is a part of every test
That all who strive, a threat
Must meet at times when by the best
Grim failure must be met.
Fight hard for victory's prize,
But when in vain was all your skill
Do not come whimpering in.

Meet failure in an honest way,
Admit you made mistakes,
And to excuse yourself don't try
Say you didn't get the breaks.
Be gracious when your foe receives
The silver-plated prize,
Remembering: no one believes
A loser's alibis.

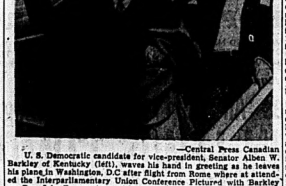
STRENGTH for the Day

By Dr. Earl L. Douglass

NOT SYSTEMS BUT MEN



The World Council of Churches meeting in Amsterdam a few weeks ago, went on record as being highly critical of both communism and capitalism.

If by such criticism they mean that capitalism is imperfect, they are of course right, but what is perfect in this imperfect world of ours? Surely, with all its faults, no American given to any measure of reflection would claim that the inequities arising out of capitalism can be compared with the cruel practices of class conflict which is the very soul of communism. Those who criticize capitalism should consider that the choice confronted us today is not a choice between capitalism and communism, but between the free enterprise which has made our country great, and various kinds of collectivism which have crushed individual initiative and all the things which we in this country call our national heritage.

The church needs to inquire of herself whether or not she has failed. All political and economic systems are inadequate if they are operated by the wrong kind of men. Frequently the church blames the system when she should blame herself for not having raised up a better quality of manhood to operate the system. Practically any system will work satisfactorily if it is based on the Christian principles of justice and fair dealing. What we need is not new system but new men. Systems are relatively unimportant.

Mackenzie's Column:

Surrender May Have Saved India From Bloodpath

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Surrender of the Nizam of Hyderabad to the invading forces from the Dominion of India may well have saved the Indian subcontinent such a bloodbath as that which followed the partition had experienced.

Certainly a continuation of the short conflict threatened to precipitate a wide-spread communal fighting which might have run rife length and breadth of the great peninsula. It was the old old story of Hindu versus Moslem —a story which has been written in blood for generations.

More than three-quarters of Hyderabad's population of 16,000,000 are Hindus, whereas the Nizam is a Moslem. The Dominion of India is chiefly Hindu and the troops sent into Hyderabad were largely from the Dominion of Pakistan, which is mainly Moslem. It had been watching the invasion with a jaundiced eye, and many of its people have been calling for reprisals against Hindus.

There was enough dynamite in the situation to blow up the whole peninsula.

Nizam Faces Problem

So the surrender is a godsend However it presents the Dominion of India with some stiff problems chief of which is what shall be done with the Nizam. His exalted highness is the most powerful and richest of all the hundreds of Indian princes—said to be the richest man in the world, for that matter, with a fortune running into many billions of dollars. His family has ruled Hyderabad since 1-712, when the dynasty was founded.

Moreover—in disposition of the huge state itself is in question—a delicate matter to handle in view of inflamed feeling.

Pro-Axis Move

It is interesting and perhaps significant that the Invasion was commanded in person by Lt.-Gen. Maharajah Shri Rajendrasinhji who himself has princely rank as a close relative of the Maharajah of Nawanagar. The point, as if see it is that the pitiful Nizam might feel he could surrender to one of his own class without losing face. I suspect that the Dominion took that into considera- tion the root disease was defeatism.

Europe's Wines Owe Something To Canada's Grapes

Cooksville Ont. Sept. 20 (CP) —Some of Europe's finest wines owe something of their origin to vines that still climb a sunny slope in this Peel County village.

When a root disease struck vineyards of France and Spain about 1850, growers sought a strong species that would be immune. They found it in Clinton, cultivated here by German born John Schiller, who had transplanted cuttings of Ontario wild grapes to his farm.

From this community 15 miles west of Toronto, thousands of Clinton cuttings were shipped to France. Growers grafted the cuttings to their own stock and in

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

WOULD YOU RATHER BE SCARED A LITTLE?

Once upon a time I said something in this column that sent an editor straight to his doctor for examination. The doctor found that the editor's trouble was not more serious than the doctor had believed it to be. So the editor sent me a letter which I am running to his doctor for examination I probably had scared a good many other people in the same way, and I am worried that a newspaper should not scare its readers, etc.

Now suppose, just suppose, the editor's trouble had proved more serious than he had believed it to be. In some thousands of instances just such trouble does prove to be as serious as trouble can be. In that event the doctor might have caught it in time. Had that happened, would the editor still have cancelled my services for this week?

Have you ever had a touch of ptomaine poisoning? Several of us have had it several times. I believe a good many people have it at one time or another, whether they suspect it or not. Anything rotting or not. We get it on lettuce, celery, chicory, greens (endive, escarole, etc.), on cabbage, on beet tops, turnip tops, in the gravy produced by many meats, on the less exposed surfaces of ready vegetables and fruits. Only careful washing to remove, Paris green or arsenate of lead in the latter quantity may produce mild chronic arsenic poisoning.

Ordinary washing or rinsing may not remove such residues. Scrubbing is better, but not ample with soapy water may remove the residue. But the safest treatment method is rinsing with 1 per cent hydrochloric acid solution. Buy from the druggist a vial (a pound) bottle of medicinal Dilute Hydrochloric Acid U.S.P. which is a tan per cent solution. Mix one part of this acid with nine parts of water to make 1 per cent solution. This dissolves the arsenic residue or helps to dissolve it. Following the acid rinse, rinse again with running water to remove the acid.

It would be wrong to regard the use of arsenical sprays to kill insects that attack fruits and vegetables as the only source of chronic arsenic poisoning, although this is unquestionably one of the most frequent sources. Workers in lead mines, for example, sometimes have chronic arsenic poisoning. And medicines, so to speak, occured in Halifax with a dreadful epidemic with malt prepared with coke impregnated with arsenic. Wall papers, fabrics and furs treated with arsenical insecticides have been the source in less frequent cases. Prolonged use of arsenic as a medicine, with or without medical advice, is an occasional source of chronic arsenic poisoning.

For that matter, kids, I remember now that I took courses of Fowler's solution (of arsenic) in my acne days, my "teens." It did me no good, maybe no harm in particular either, but like some of you kids today, as I later read your letters, I was terribly embarrassed by the blackheads and pimples and so I had to try everything mentioned in the first text book on dermatology I found in my preceptor's library. But don't do as I did—if you are troubled with or about your acne (pimples and blackhead and oily skin) send me a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask in writing for the pamphlet on Acne —Blackheads and Pimples.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Another Broken Resin

You can save a home by writing a answers comprehensive articles on the dangers to health of not bathing regularly and reasonably often. (L. T.)

Answers—Come, come, now. I can't do that. Bathing has little to do with health. But here is a hint—most of the offender is squeamish about using a tub used by others. Therefore, I foresee at the prospect will be much more pleasing. Why, even I don't mind going to a public pool after a hard afternoon's work on the baseball green—but I'd hate to wallow in a tub.

Apologies to Webster

Webster's definition of somersault is accurate. Contrary to your misguided belief, your somersaulting days ended with the Jurassic. What you have been doing since is merely forward rolling—a somewhat beneficial exercise. (——)

Answer—Well, darn it, I was presumptuous enough to hope that Webster might obtain a lot or little—but so far not even vile hot weather has greatly helped. I summer in Canandagua I gazed enviously at the place where Charlie Bradshaw and I used to do airsprings—but the lovely pool is half filled with now cropped by new (new since fly time) Nevertheless I feel I have missed something when I can't do my half dozen forward somersaults (Webster to the C n w on rolling out of bed in the morning—I'm sure that's what he means) Send stamped self addressed envelope for booklet Save Your Teeth.

For safety's sake, Johns-Manville urges you not to take chances. Make sure your brakes are perfect. Have them checked by an experienced mechanic without delay. If you need a complete brake lining job, specify Johns-Manville Brake Linings and drive away confident that you can stop on a dime.

There's a J-M dealer near you who can give you expert advice on brake relining. Remember, your local Authorized Provincial Automotive Trading Co. Ltd. dealer is at 194 Front St. W., Toronto, Ont., for the name of your nearest J-M dealer. Ask for Brake Lining dealer.

Yonkers, N. Y. — (AP)—Today's fish story:

Los Angeles — (AP)—It almost cost business executive Hal Clay $1,400 when he spilled a dinner salad on his trousers.

While dressing he forgot to remove 14 $100 bills he had stuffed in his watch pocket. Mrs. Clay sent the trousers to the cleaners.

Later, Clay remembered the money. Jack Barton, employee of the cleaning establishment who picked up the trousers, said he had went with Clay to the firm. found it locked, and, unable to obtain a rear window when police arrived.

After some explaining, Clay's trousers were found. Each note was intact. Barton thought to look around outside Clay's house. There, lying in the grass, was the buried in a pile of leaves, was the $1,400.)

Barton got a $50 reward, Clay none.

Birmingham, Ala. — (AP)—G. Ackley Brower, a music teacher, is willing to admit that the Times of London had something so far as figures are concerned when it listed a Welsh village of 58 letters as its name.

But that's far from the longest word, Brower said in a letter to the Birmingham Age - Herald. The ancient Greeks had it beat, with plenty to spare.

To prove it, he listed a word of 170 letters (the exact total) in Aristophanes' comedy, "The Ecclesiazusae."

If you want to count them, here it is:

Lepadolemakosselaochraleokraniolelpsanodrimypotrimmatosilphioparamelitokatakechymenokichlepikossyphophattoperisteralektryonoptekephalliokigklepelkiatolegoiraiokibaphetraiogalaiopterygon."

Mrs. Senger said there was only one exception. The neighborhood already is well supplied with Muffet's offspring.

Tugs Race to Aid Of Freighter In Hurricane

Miami, Fla., Sept. 20 (AP)—Western Cuba today braced for a small but severe tropical hurricane while two tugs raced to aid the stricken British freighter Lochmonar with 73 persons aboard.

The Lochmonar, of 9,000 tons, with a crew of 67 and six passengers, was hard aground on little Cayman Island near the fringe of the hurricane. Her master radioed he was "still hanging on" but that heavy seas whipped up by the hurricane were "still pounding."

The tug Curb was battling the heavy seas to reach the scene. A fleet tug also was available and presumably was rushing to the Lochmonars aid, Coast Guard headquarters here said. The Curb left Kingston, Jamaica, late Sunday en route to the Lochmonar.

A United States Navy plane flew mast-high over the Lochmonar and reported no distress flags or signals. Crew members lined the bridge to wave at the circling plane.

The hurricane, boiling up from a point almost south of Grand Cayman Island, moved slowly north northwestward about five miles an hour. It was centred last night about 230 miles south of Havana and about 400 miles south of Key West or about 600 miles south southwest of Miami, travelling about five miles an hour.

Winds near the centre were estimated at 115 miles an hour, with hurricane winds (75 miles an hour or more) covering an area 50 to 60 miles around the centre. Strong squalls reached northward over Cuba to the Florida straits.

Call Off Search For British Freighter

New York, Sept. 20. (CP)—A 9,000-square-mile search for the British freighter Leicester, abandoned four days ago by its crew in a North Atlantic hurricane, has been called off.

United States coast guard headquarters here reported last night that the freighter was "presumed sunk" after the crews of two Canadian ocean-going tugs, had failed to locate the ship in an extended hunt.

Six crew members of the Leicester were reported lost. Thirty others were rescued by other freighters. The Argentine vessel Tropero arrived in Montreal Sunday with 19 survivors.

Meanwhile, the coastguard cutter Bibb reported it had destroyed the helpless hull of the Portuguese schooner Caspar after saving 40 of the crew.

RUNS IN PATH OF FATHER'S CAR

Sudbury, Sept. 20 (CP)—Oliver Picard, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Picard of Larchwood, 15 miles northwest of here, was killed Sunday when he ran into the path of his father's car while it was being backed out of the driveway. Mr. Picard was at the wheel.

Ludwig, World-Famous Biographer, Dies

Ascona, Switzerland, Sept. 20 (AP)—Emil Ludwig, world-famous German-born biographer playwright and political essayist whose books were burned by the Nazis, died at his home here Friday night. He was 67.

Ludwig had been suffering from a heart ailment for several years. He returned to Switzerland in 1945 after spending the war years in the United States, and recently completed a book of memoirs. The biographer is survived by his widow and two sons. Funeral services will be held at his home next Thursday.

Among Ludwig's works was the Life of Napoleon, which he adapted to a motion picture in Hollywood in 1933. His biographies included Jesus, Goethe, Bismarck, Beethoven, Prime Minister Mackenzie King, William II, Lincoln and Wilhelm Hohenzollern.

Ludwig was known widely in Canada and the United States through popular reading of his biographical and fiction works as The Nile.

He said he shocked a Los Angeles audience by declaring, "We are living in music and the arts are not necessarily characteristic of democracy—In fact, the greatest music has never been commissioned was done so under tyrants."

He mentioned Beethoven, Bach, Brahms, Liszt, Franck, Tchaikovsky and Schubert. As the audience began to hiss, Ludwig cried: "I have met and interviewed three dictators (Mussolini, Kemal Ataturk and Stalin) and I have found that each was a great music lover."

He interviewed Stalin in 1932 and was told that negotiations for non-aggression pacts implied no Russian-German estrangement. Ludwig was put on Hitler's list of enemies of the state. In 1936 he predicted another world war in two years.

Search Narrows For Lost Plane

The Pas, Sept. 20 (CP)— The search for a missing United States Navy plane with five men aboard was pressed with renewed vigor today as weary-eyed crews took fresh hope in a report that the aircraft was sighted in the Snow Lake region before it disappeared nine days ago.

The report, from two Winnipeg men—Edgar Wildgoss and Sydney Pickup—was the first definite word concerning the aircraft's whereabouts since it left Churchill, Man., Sept. 8 on a 450-mile flight to The Pas.

The two men, on a fishing trip to Snow Lake 78 miles northeast of here, said Sunday night they had seen a silver plane with twin tails flying through the murky weather at approximately 11 a.m. a week ago Sunday.

Group Capt. Z. L. Leigh, director of search group here, said a thorough check failed to find any record of other aircraft of the Beechcraft type flying near Snow Lake at the time.

He added that the time had been noted coincided with the time it normally would have been over that region in charting a normal course to The Pas.

The area now being searched — while still comprising thousands of square miles, is much smaller than the territory originally marked for investigation.

The report brought hope to the joint Canadian-American search groups involving more than 400 men and more than 20 aircraft that the Beechcraft soon would be located.

V.O.N. NEWS

"Dear Joan:

Just a line to tell you not to worry about Mother. She came home yesterday from the hospital. The doctor suggested having her surgical dressed by the V.O.N. who does it so deftly, it's a pleasure to watch her.

Since the evenings with which the wound is dressed must be ready, ahead of time, the V.O.N. has taught me how to prepare them. Would you believe it, but it takes a good hour to prepare them, for they must be placed in the oven at about 300 degrees, on the top rack, with a pan of water on the lower or bottom rack for half an hour. Then comes the dressings with which the wound is dressed must be ready, ahead of time, the V.O.N. has taught me how to prepare them. Would you believe it, but it takes a good hour to prepare them, for they must be placed in the oven at about 300 degrees, on the top rack, with a pan of water on the lower or bottom rack for half an hour. Then comes the bandages which must be browning. Then the pan is removed, and the bundles of dressings are left in the oven for half hour so that they will be completely dry.

The V.O.N. makes use of home equipment as much as possible. She always examines her instruments in a pan of boiling water, which I try to keep ready for her on the stove. She told me though, if any one needs to buy instruments where people are very old and find it difficult to sterilize their dressings, she often shows them how to make up the gauze and cotton into dressings and bundles and then she takes them to the hospital to be sterilized.

It's wonderful what the V.O.N. not only does in home nursing but teaches one. I've learned a great deal in the short time Mother has been home.

Call 1125 any time you need help in home nursing. Your V.O.N. will be very glad and willing to help you.

Beauty on a Budget

By ALICE ALDEN

SOMETIME or other, we have heard young women declare that they have to go bankrupt to buy fall paintings. Rev. Father Baker very generously allows the use of the paintings more particularly those over the main altar depicting the Crucifixion of Angels. The opportunity of studying these lovely paintings was very much appreciated by the club members and this visit to be church was the highlight of the evening.

Three of the club members spent some time during the summer holidaying and studying at an art colony in Maine and these members gave a very interesting account of their holiday.

The club plans to have a friendly and helpful criticism of art work brought by some of the members present at each meeting. The necessary business matters were discussed and it was decided to hold the next meeting on the fifteenth of October at the Public Library, Front Road.

W.C.T.U. Holds Opening Meeting

The devotional service was conducted by Mrs. N. Montgomery, who called on several for their favorite Bible verse. She told the story of the "Railroad to Heaven", a journey of youth to old age, entering at last the glorious city.

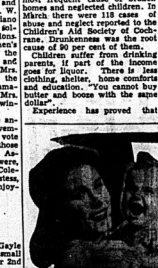
Mrs. E. Farnsworth paid tribute to the late Mrs. H. E. Meyers, who all her life was an ardent Temperance worker. For many years she conducted the "Sunday School and the public schools of Belleville, also the "Temperance in Sunday Schools' Campaign", in which many children won prizes from the local Union.

A donation was made the secretary of Temperance in S.S. to secure leaflets of the study course for distribution among the teachers in Sunday schools.

Plans for a future rummage sale were discussed.

The slip-sheet—Beverage Alcohol: the most serious public problem of today, was read and discussed. The drink habit, the liquor traffic is an increasing menace to the well-being of the homes of Canada, and children homes of today are not grown are the innocent and helpless victims. The children in the homes of today are our greatest national asset and must be safeguarded.

The ads of the brewers and distillers are plainly encouraging the drink habit. They say "Beer belongs in the home".



Bill Protects Children

The Drew-Blackwell Bill licensing dance halls in Ontario recognizes that children suffer through the late hours and in one of its provisions, Article 53 reads: "No person who is a parent, guardian or head of a family, having the care, custody and guidance of a child under the age of eight years, shall enter or remain upon any premises where liquor is sold or kept for sale while such child is unattended by a competent person."

The proceedings of a juvenile court are confidential but social workers declare that the drinking of one or more cocktails is the most frequent cause of broken homes and neglected children. In March there were 113 cases of abuse and neglect reported to the Children's Aid Societies of Ontario, Drunkenness was the root cause in 60 per cent of them.

Children suffer from drinking parents, in part of the liquor it goes for liquor. There is less clothing, shelter, home comforts and education. "You cannot buy butter and booze with the same dollar".

Experience has proved that nothing deface the image of God in the individual like a beverage alcohol, so it is a spiritual menace.

Let everyone uphold the principle of total abstinence as an admirable, acceptable social practice.

It was agreed by Mrs. Fred Wilson, 1st vice president by the president for the remainder of the year. The program was in charge of Mrs. Johns and her group. Rev. Mr. Hillis addressed the ladies on Temperance. Members Gilpbert, Donald and Adams gave a brief synopsis on the Study Book for the year. Mrs. Adams gave a delightful reading "Uncle Rastus Explains". BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Have You Learned How to Walk?

Every woman has obligations to herself. One of them is to keep her body youthful throughout the years. The manner in which she moves, walks and sits will do much to determine whether graceful lines will remain or be distorted by bulges and overcurves. The chances are a good fight to maintain fair complexion, to sport the chic hair do to keep their fingernails shining bright. The woman is perplexed that a beautiful silhouette is as valuable a beauty asset as a pretty face.

Stand on any street and watch the women pass. Note how they walk. Some shuffle, some lope, some take little mincing steps that are perky and awkward. Then along comes a woman who walks it beauty like the night. Her head is balanced, her back is straight, her chest is lifted every movement is one of grace. She may wear a simple ordinary dress, but she has style and distinction. You don't see many of these ladies of the street.

Rightness of movement constitutes the basis of beauty. There should be no striving to be graceful, Grace should be as natural a thing as breathing. You will be if one keeps the musculature in supple condition by exercising the spinal column properly. The feet should be placed squarely instead of pounding along with the movement so common to many women, especially those who are overweight.

Walking should be a progression in a straight line with no waste motion. Don't swing from the body backward or toward the sides. The side motion leads to waddling. Perhaps your fancy there are no waddlers? How about those cute models? Their walk is the same thing and it is not graceful.

Don't forget the part your spinal column—the main support of the body. Keep it in correct progression. It must be kept extended. Allow the head to tip more than it is to be correct. Knees must be kept straightened.

Stepping first on the toes

The Back Must Be Limber

throws the body backward, even while being carried forward with the ankle bent. Stepping on the heels jars the entire anatomical structure. Divide your weight by coming down on the ball of the foot and the heel.

The back must be limber if movements are to be graceful, if you are muscle-bound, try the following exercise:

Remove your shoes and strip to your undies. Lean over with your arms down to your knees. Slowly raise the body from side to side. The main movements will be at the waistline. It is precisely there that muscle toning is necessary. Arms and legs get exercise during the day's activities but the midsection gets no exercise at all unless one has some favorite outdoor sport, like tennis, golf or archery.

After five minutes of rotating start walking and keep up the same swinging motion. The time you will be rewarded

A concerted effort to gain the interest of the younger generation was made Saturday by directors of Stirling Fair when a fair program very definitely catering toward youth was presented.

Rain and sullen skies during the morning and early afternoon undoubtedly kept many potential fair patrons away from the exhibition grounds, but those who stayed away missed one of the best programs offered at Stirling Fair for many years.

Arranged in a special tent outside the agricultural building was a special exhibit of school children's work. Here was shown much creative work and handicraft of the the pupils of Stirling public and high school. Included was metal and wooden work done in the public school manual training department, while the girls had a special department where sewing done in the sewing department was shown.

Also general school work and the results of other phases of school instruction were shown. This exhibit was the centre of much attraction throughout the afternoon.

School Parade

District public school pupils paraded before the grandstand where they were judged for marching and for singing. Eight district schools took part in the parade with No. 8 Rawdon being adjudged the winner. Also winning prizes were No. 20 Rawdon No. 3 Rawdon, No. 16 Sidney, and No. 17 Rawdon.

Another phase of the fair which catered toward the youngsters was the children's pet show open to all boys and girls under 12 years of age. Thirty-five children led, carried or cajoled their best loved pet in the parade, all receiving a crisp dollar bill for their efforts. Dogs, cats, rabbits, goats sheep, hens and even a pet parrot were seen in the parade. A special prize draw was won by Mary Lou Faires of Stirling.

Ten Calves Shown

Members of the Stirling Calf Club were out in force with 10 boys and two girls showing their pure bred Holstein calves. Judge Lindsay Anderson of Campbellford placed the winners as follows: John McComb, Bonarlow; Doug Martin, Stirling; Bud Heath Campbellford; Gerald Bailey Stirling, Lionel Grey, Campbellford, and Anita Bailey, Stirling.

Although the interests of the juniors were well looked after, there was plenty to attract Dad and Mother in their respective fields. The agricultural building was well filled with products of the garden and farm, while row after row of canned fruits and bottled pickles, cakes and pies testified the interest of the women-folk. The ladies' work section was also well filled.

There was a good cheese show with four classes being well contested. Winners for the best white cheese class sponsored by the Hastings cheese producers were Horace Palmer, Foxboro; Murray Heath, Rylestone; Ivan Sine, Shamrock. Roy Brown, Harold and Les McKeown. In the white cheese class by district cheese companies, H. Palmer, B. Walls of West Huntingdon, R. Brown, M. Heath, Ivan Sine and Les McKeown were the winners.

Palmer Wins Sweepstake

Best finished cheese was shown by Tom Saries of Harold, Murray Heath and Ivan Sine. The sweepstakes prize for the highest aggregate score was won by Horace Palmer.

The baby show saw its customary feminine interest with Dr. E. A. Carleton of Stirling acting as judge. Winners in the one to six months class were Valerie Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Stewart of Stirling; Linden McMullen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl McMullen of Harold and Barbara Ann Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Montgomery of Stirling.

Seven to 12 months winners were Cheryl Usman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Usman; Terry Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Armstrong, and Valerie Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson of Rockwood. Entries in the twins class were Brice and Barbara Sine, children of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Sine.

Five Class of Horses

Some of the best horse flesh in the district was on show at the fair with both heavy and light horse classes being well contested. Heavy horse classes were shown in the special show ring, while the carriage ponies were paraded before the grandstand.

There were three entries in the drawing contest; two in the restricted class; D. Dunford, and M. Heath, while L. Fry of Campbellford was the additional entry in the open class.

There was also a good cattle show with Holsteins, Jerseys and Ayrshires being represented. Jerseys were shown by W. Matthews and Sons of Canniston and by Garnet Kerr of Campbellford; Holsteins by David Hollinger, Foxboro, and by Al McComb, Bonarlow, and Ayrshires by E. Wood, Crookston. The poultry show did credit to the fair board and to district poultry fanciers.

Farm machinery sales representatives had complete displays at the fair with Walter Elliott, Stirling; Bateman Motors of Belleville and H. C. Pitcher of Frankford and Stirling being represented.

Stirling Band on Hand

The Stirling band was on hand to provide musical entertainment while fair goers were treated to a series of novelty contests ranging all the way from a Beauty show to a bicycle race.

Winner of the beauty contest was 19-year-old Miss Helen Stinson of Stirling who copped the $20 cash award for first place. Runners-up and coming in also for cash prizes were Miss Ivy Thompson of Madoc and Miss Arlene Tummon of Stirling. Harry W. Rollins and Mrs. Harold Meyers of Belleville acted as judges.

The ladies' nail driving contest was productive of the usual amount of fun with winners being Mrs. Wilson, Miss L. Hinds and Mrs. Horton. Pony race winners were Toots Babble, Jim Ryder, Fred Orr of Tweed and Robt. Hough.

Hog Calling Contest

Bicycle race: Doug Wannamaker, Robt. Rogers and Jack Ross.

An unusual feature of the fair program was the hog calling contest in which four contestants, two of each sex, vied for honors. Eating first spot was Sid Mason who with a variety of calls ranging from raucous to musical won the approval of the crowd. In second place was Mrs. D. Morris who admitted she had never called hogs but was "willing to try".

There was a singing contest for the children which was strongly contested. After twice strutting their stuff before the microphone C. Watson, W. Jackson and K. Mumby were named winners.

The oldest man on the grounds was that grand old man Robert Eggleton of Stirling who at 92 years was the only oldster to enter the competition. He submitted he was a bit disappointed in finding he had no opposition.

A muddy track went to slow the horse racing but all heats in the two classes were completed with Ross Turley of Frankford as starter and Mr. Montgomery as timer.

Boudreau, Shortstop-Manager Of Cleveland Indians, Rates As Outstanding Player of Majors

By JOE RIECHLER

Win, lose or draw, Lou Boudreau, shortshop-manager of Cleveland Indians, rates as the outstanding player of the major leagues.

It is largely through his efforts—at bat, in the field and on the bench—that the Indians are only half a game out of the American league lead today, with an excellent chance of winning their first flag in 28 years.

Lou blasted his 18th and 16th round-trippers Sunday to account for all his team's runs in Cleveland's second game 2-0 triumph over Philadelphia Athletics. The tribe also won the opener, 5-3 to capture both ends of the doubleheader.

Boudreau's homers came off Detroit-born Dick Fowler who went the distance for the A's and gave up only three other hits. Karl Scholz was charged with the first game defeat.

The tribe's twin victory, coupled with the double setback handed to Bonnie Relfel Box by Detroit Tigers, 4-3 and 8-6, boosted the Indians to within half a game of the first-setting Bosox.

Indians Now Second

The Indians also vaulted over New York Yankees into second place when the Bronx Bombers were held to a split in their double-header with the Browns in St. Louis. The hustling Brownies won the first game 9-6, New York winning the second 9-8.

In sharp contrast to the spine-tingling American League race, the National League pennant scramble has burst wide open. Only a completely one can stop Boston Braves from winning their first flag in 34 years. The Braves won their sixth in a row and their 12th in the last 13 games, defeating Cincinnati Reds 4-2. They lead Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals by six games.

The Cards moved into a second-place tie with the Dodgers, scoring two victories over the Giants in New York, 4-3 and 5-1. The Dodgers whipped the Chicago Cubs in Brooklyn 6-1.

Pirates Almost Out

Philadelphia all but eliminated the Pittsburgh Pirates, trouncing the Bucs in both ends of a twin bill 9-6 and 5-3. Pittsburgh trails by eight games. The fifth-place Giants, only two games away from being mathematically eliminated, are 10 lengths in arrears.

A paid Cleveland crowd of 73,811 saw Jerry Dobb slam a dramatic ninth inning home run with two on base in the opener to give the Indians their first-game triumph. The Cecilton native boosted the Indians into a major league season attendance record of 2,300,-383 paid admissions with seven home games still to go. The old mark of 2,285,513 was set by the Yankees in 1946.

The Red Sox went 12 innings before finally bowing to the Bengals in the opener. Bobby Doerrins, fourth Tiger pitcher, singled home the winning run with two out in the 12th. It was Overmire's first hit of the season.

Homers Did It

The second game was called after eight innings because of darkness. Detroit's biggest throng of the season, 5,238 fans, saw Dick Wakefield break up a 6-6 deadock with his second home run of the day to win the second game for the Tigers.

Wakefield's two-run homer in the sixth won the opener for the Browns against the Yankees. Joe Dimaggio led the Yankees to victory in the second game, pulling his 17th and 18th home runs, each with a man on base, to bring his R.B.I. total for the season to 145.

For the first time in a week, Sain or Warren Spahn won for a pitcher other than Johnny Sain or Warren Spahn won for a pitcher other than Johnny the Braves. He was Clyde Shoun, who relieved Red Barrett in the eighth with the score tied at 2-2.

The Cards made it 10 out of the last 11 against the Giants with Murry Dickson registering his 15th victory in the opener, and Harry (The Cat) Brecheen winning his 18th in the seven-inning nightcap.

Veteran Dutch Leonard and Schoolboy Rowe banged the Pirates in the third and fourth straight defeats.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Syl Apps, famous National Hockey League star bowed out of the Toronto Maple Leaf team picture as an active player officially on Saturday afternoon at the Victory Banquet of the club, Pharmacist Ted (Teeder) Kennedy accepted the captaincy from pal Syl while members of the club, a crowd of rooting hockey greats from Boston and New York and sports writers and announcers looked on.

Conny Smythe dynamic manager of the Maple Leafs dispensed humor in eulogistic chunks to all and sundry including Governor General Alexander, Premier Drew and Georges (Gilles) Boulanger each of whom spoke to the world champions and their guests. Connie let loose a casual remark that this years turnout of rookie aspirants for spots on his club "was the weakest in years." So judging from that statement it appears that there is little chance of the regulars being ousted from their spot on the Leafian payroll, this year at least.

Coach Hap Day and the boys, surrounded by the press and radio in the "Martini Room" of the ritzy Royal York before luncheon admired the handsome gifts with which they were presented later. There were wrist watches, lighters, gold medals, windbreakers, suitcases and whatnot, which flanked the venerable Stanley Cup on a silk-clothed table. Individual pictures of the Maple Leaf players inset in large maple leafs decorated the walls of the luncheon hall while the club colors of blue and white were everywhere.

Representatives of firms who made the gifts possible were there and formally presented the gifts to individual players of the team. And incidentally, while on this topic, none other than Dave Price, formerly of this city and now a radio announcer from Toronto, presented the lighters to the club, on behalf of the manufacturers.

Syl Apps was presented with a handsome oil painting on the eve of his official departure as captain of the squad, by Connie Smythe on behalf of the players present and a board of directors through Smythe with a silvér tray on which were engraved the signatures of the 1947-48 Stanley Cup champions. Everyone present at their share of back-slapping with the City of Toronto officials being the recipients of a noble reminder that the Leafs are champs of the world's greatest hockey team, they were sadly remiss in not shewing their appreciation in a tangible form. Representatives of the Rangers and Boston Bruins spoke briefly adding their congratulations etc., etc.

Howie Meeker, Max Bentley, Gus Mortson, Vic Lynn, Garth Boesch and the rest of the Leafs shewed they had ability as performers as well as players. Turk Broda's illness and condition looked fit. We were flanked on one side by Jack Parker, Boston Garden boss and on the other by Lou Pieri, Lou Shefsky, Toronto softball impresario, Parks, by the way informed us that London softball is beset a magnificent one-million dollar baseball park and that the Forest City will once again take its place among the "amateur" hockey peats communities of the province.

Did not notice any of the Detroit or Montreal sports reporters down from Montreal and Toronto were well represented. It was a good show and as a pasteboard dessert, Ed Fitkin's automatic typewriter smashing second-half surge to victory over the Canadian champions.

It was curtains for the Kiwanis Juniors in Toronto on Saturday when they bowed out of the Junior O.R.F.U. playoffs after absorbing their second straight defeat at the hands of the Toronto Earlscourt squad. It was another case of too much good pitching and not enough hitting as Earlscourt will once again take its place among the "amateur" hockey peats communities of the province.

Coach Dick Irvin shook up his forward line combinations at Sunday's practice session at St. Hyacinthe Que., in an effort to find added fire power for his attacking unit as Montreal Canadiens wound up the first week of their pre-season training grind. The most significant move saw young Jacques Richard take over the left wing spot of the potent punch line beside his brother Maurice (Rocket) Richard with right flank and Elmer Lach in the pivot slot.

In his short term as Ontario's athletic commissioner, Apps had accomplished more than any other individual in developing healthful athletic activities in the province, the premier said.

Montreal, Sept. 20 (CP) — "Separating the wheat from the chaff" is the big problem facing Coach Vic Obeck as he attempts to mould his 1948 entry in the Intercollegiate Football League.

Obeck, who was imported from Columbia University at the start of last season by McGill in an effort to lift the team from the bottom of the league, quoted the phrase recently while pondering where he was going to obtain talent for this year's crew.

Says Dink: "If there were 40 football players on the team, Brother Obeck would be sitting pretty. But as it is, if he gets more than ten players of genuine intercollegiate calibre out of this mob of 40 he will be lucky."

During the past two weeks the McGill coach has been trying to pare down his squad of 80 hopefuls to 40 in his attempt to separate the wheat from chaff.

This brings Dink to the controversial subject, much has been discussed continually by football coaches throughout Canada and the United States, of whether college grid players should be awarded scholarships.

Beth Carroll and Obeck agree that a boy sincerely desirous of continuing his education should be held by graduate athletic endowment funds.

Obeck warns that the potential evil in the system is when one or both parties to it are insincere which produces those "undesirable athletic bums."

BE PREPARED TO ACT QUICKLY IN AN EMERGENCY

When an emergency arises, and you must think and act quickly, do you know what to do? Do you know the telephone numbers of your nearest fire station, doctor and police station? What would you do if your home caught fire, or if someone were injured in an accident? It is well to know such things in advance, for when an emergency occurs the speed with which you think and act may prevent serious loss or save a life: Preparedness is truly "Good Citizenship".

Copeland Hurt as Argos Drubbed by Ottawa In Football Upset Saturday

(By The Canadian Press)

The one sidedness of the drubbing by Ottawa Rough Riders rankled plenty, but the worst news in Toronto Argonauts camp today was the possibility that speedy Royal Copeland may be lost to the Dominion football champions for some time.

The burly Riders gave the Argos a physical pounding as well as a few football lessons when humbling them, 13-12, Saturday before a capacity Varsity Stadium crowd of 19,000. One of the Argonauts that Ottawa eliminated early in the game was the 22-year-old halfback.

Copeland suffered a foot injury when he made one of his hurtling dashes through the centre of the Ottawa line for the game's opening touchdown. Someone's cleats came crushing down on his foot just as he took off, tearing tendons in the foot.

After X-rays, Argo officials said he would be out for at least a week — which means he may miss the return clash between the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union's league leaders in Ottawa next Saturday.

The way the Argos collapsed emphasized the team value of the 195-pound muscle-man from North Bay, who with Joe Krol has sparked Argos to their last three Dominion titles. One Argo official bemoaned the injury, estimated his worth at six players — "because he does the work on three and it takes another three to watch him."

Worst in Several Seasons

The beating that followed was Argos worst in several seasons and the most one sided of any of Saturday's four games.

The next worst was the 23-7 defeat that the Tigers handed Sarnia Imperials at Hamilton for their second straight Ontario Rugby Union triumph. In the O.R.F.U.'s other game, Toronto Beaches Indians were hard-pressed to down the Trojans 14-6 at Windsor and keep their share of the league leadership with Hamilton.

In the Western Canada League Winnipeg Blue Bombers came from behind to defeat Saskatchewan Roughriders 15-8 at Winnipeg. The victory by Winnipeg's third over Roughriders strengthened their hold on second place in the three team loop behind the leading Calgary Stampeders, idle this weekend.

Eric Chipper led the Ottawa forces with 11 points on a touchdown, scored when he recovered his own attempted placement.

Three converts and a placement. The other Ottawa scorers were Bob Paffrath, Doug Smylie, Bert Haigh and Lally Lalonne.

Rochester Wings Square Series With Montreal

(By The Associated Press)

Having barely squeezed into the International League play-offs, Rochester Red Wings found themselves all even with the champion Montreal Royals today at the end of games in the semi - final round.

The fifth game of the best - of - seven series will be played in Rochester tonight. Then the scene shifts back to the Canadian city.

Sunday's victory was Rochester's second straight after it had dropped the first two games to Montreal.

Mikan gave up four hits to Jim Newcombe, but the Royals' Negro-star righthander was wild in walking six men. Mikan issued one pass, in the ninth, when the Royals put runners on first and second with none out.

The home crowd of 11,117 cheered enthusiastically when the big lefthander retired the next batter on infield rollers.

The Red Wings got their only run in the fifth inning, when they got two of their three hits. Dick Cole singled off third baseman Cass Grimes' glove, and raced to third on Hal Rice's line single to right after one out. Rice Derry drove Cole across with his fielder's choice bouncer to first base.

The fifth game between Newark and Syracuse was postponed by rain. The two teams will try again tonight in Syracuse.

Forwards by Frankie Filchock and some fine terrific line plunging by Gerry Walsh paced the Tigers to their victory over Sarnia at Hamilton. The Imperials took a 7-0 lead in the first quarter on Eric McKeever's touchdown, converted by Andy Sokol, and a single by Sokol. But that was all the scoring they did.

Walsh battered his way through the Sarnia line for two second quarter touchdowns. Filchock completed eight of 11 forwards — to Boris Dudoff for a touchdown. Pat Santucci converted all priotti kicked a placement.

The Rockets put up stubborn opposition at Windsor, leading 6-5 at half time before bowing to the Toronto team's nine point attack in the third quarter. Murray Crowe started the Beaches to victory with a placement and Garry Smith, stocky Negro ball added a touchdown off an extension play, his second of the game that way.

Bob Wylupek scored Windsor's second quarter major on a forward pass to give them a 6-5 lead after Dick Harrison's first quarter single.

Bombers spotted Saskatchewan a nine-point lead before a Winnipeg crowd of 8,500 and then scored all 15 of points points in a row.

Canadiens Try Out New Style Of Hockey

St. Hyacinthe, Que., Sept. 20— (CP)—Montreal Canadiens tried out a new style of hockey at their pre-season camp here Sunday, and the result so impressed onlookers they were at once predicting widespread rule changes in the National Hockey League within the next few years.

The idea is a brainchild of Coach Dick Irvin, who apparently is plenty fed up with the helter-skelter type of hockey in vogue during the last few seasons.

The one big change advocated by Irwin would permit only three players of the attacking team to cross the centre-ice red line into the opposing team's half of the rink.

It is safe to say that at least half the goals scored in the N.H.L. last season came on power plays with the puck frequently bounding into the net off an opposing player's leg, or else finding its way into the cage through a maze of players on a screened shot that the goaler probably didn't even see.

"Inside of two years, new rulings will be brought into effect in the N.H.L. which will curtail the present day scrambly type of hockey," said the gray-thatched Canadien mentor.

And the Canadien players agreed with Irwin after trying out the new game in both inter-squad practice sessions yesterday. The boys were plenty fagged out, especially the forwards.

Of the 17 goals scored in the two games, not one was of the screened variety and most came after spectacular passing plays.

King to Meet Harvey Mathe In Title Bout

Toronto, Sept. 20— (CP) — After the usual summer doldrums professional boxing swings back into business here tonight with the same star attraction — Arthur King, Canada's lightweight champion.

Promoter Frank Tunney is hoping that when the Toronto Negro places his title on the line against Sudbury's rugged Harvey Mathe over 12 rounds tonight, he will answer a little more of the tactics which earned him the nickname "Tiger" than he did, last winter.

King, a sensational amateur, was Tunney's big hope to revive boxing here, but as a pro Lil Arthur has not proven himself a crowd pleaser even though he did manage to win Dominion laurels at his weight.

Manager Dave Yack makes excuses for Arthur this way: "The boy was young. He wasn't sure of himself . . . Now it's different. Now he wants to get moving into the bigger brackets. He knows from here in the opposition will get tougher and tougher. And that's the way he's going to fight."

If Yack can convince King that he has to become a "tiger" again, there might be a lively scrap tonight. On the record books Mathe doesn't rate close to some of King's past opponents but he's a dynamic puncher and has a right straight wins to his credit.

There was some doubt that King could make the 135-pound lightweight limit but he was only 136½ at a preliminary weigh-in last Friday and should make the grade. Mathe weighed 134½ and will probably enter the ring even lighter.

Considerable interest has been attracted to the 10-round welterweight semi-final in which veteran Harry Hurst of Montreal meets Tommy Spencer of New Waterford, N.S.

Pancho Gonzales Wins National Tennis Title

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 20 (AP)

A new era dawned in United States tennis as the National Singles Championship passed into the sturdy hands of Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, a 20-year-old power player, from the busy, year-round courts of Los Angeles.

Gonzales, one of the youngest net stars ever to wear the crown, captured it Sunday when he whipped Eric Sturgess of South Africa, 6-4, 6-3, 14-12. In the finals of a tournament which was marked by the passing of the game's old guard, at least from the championship scene.

Players like Frankie Parker, Gardnar Mulloy and Bill Talbert did not progress beyond the quarter-finals in this 67th annual tournament. The 32-year-old Parker was the only one of the trio to get that far. Instead, the quarter-finals saw the developing since the war dominated the championship.

Gonzales, ranked eighth in the tournament, was the only seeded American to reach the semi-finals. He looked a potential world beater as he overpowered the steady, 28-year-old South African champion.

When the popular Sturgess refused to give up after dropping the first two sets, Pancho matched him stroke for stroke throughout the long final stanza until he was able to score his break he needed in the near-darkness of a rain-splattered stadium. Sturgess, a three - year - old accountant from Johannesburg, was the first foreigner to reach the U.S. final since Baron Gottfried Von Cramm of Germany lost to Don Budge in 1937.

Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont of Wilmington, Del., twice a runner-up but never a winner in the National, although she held the Wimbledon women's title in 1947 became the feminine United States champion to complete the upheaval.

She bounced back after a first set defeat to outlast the defending champion, Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., with whom she has shared the United States doubles title for seven years, 4-6 6-4, 15-13.

THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS . . .

No man can enjoy a true life and true liberty, or pursue a genuine happiness, without first conceding the right of his fellow man to do the same. The extent of our enjoyment of these rights depends entirely on our unselfish willingness to keep our own pursuit of happiness from interfering with that of others. The moment the use of our own liberty restricts that of another . . . we are abusing the ideals our forefathers fought to maintain.

The House of Seagram believes that moderation is the key to the successful pursuit of happiness . . . moderation in our thinking, in our actions, and in our personal habits. That is why, in the use of whisky too, the House of Seagram has repeatedly said, "Drink moderately, or not at all."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Some tournament bridge deals carry out to go to slam. It all pairs bid and make small slam with it, an average is the best they can get. So, an expert may push it into a grand slam.

It happened with this championship deal:

NORTH
♠K 9 7 6 5 2
♥K 7
♣A 8 6 4

WEST
♠10 8 4 3
♥J 10 9 8 4
♦K Q 10 2
♣K 7

EAST
♠Q J
♥A 6 5 3
♦J 9 8 6 4 3
♣Q 10 9 5

SOUTH
♥A Q J 10 9 2
♦A K
♣J 3 2

Correct rule bids take it to six hearts with south as the declarer. But one player in that deal went in it to the hilt. He went to grand slam in hearts and got a lead of a diamond.

A skilled player does not worry much about a tight contract. He resolves the problem to some definite plan. If the plan does not work, at least he has done his best with the material at his command.

This is the contract that depends on percentage plays. Obviously one needed set is like a trump finesse. Another is to establish an odd number as equally as possible. On this basis does an expert player make his first plan of a play campaign.

The second step in his calculations is the question of whether he must start his leads and how. This influences him in what he has or prepares enough entries to the right hand.

Trick one went to dummy diamond ace. A trump lead from dummy was timed by south. An entry in dummy could not be wasted. So, south laid down trump ace. It dropped the king in set.

Another trump sound drew the ace flang from west, which also took a trick. So did spade king. And a dummy spade was ruffed by south. By this time it was known that remaining dummy spades were good.

A club to the ace entered dummy. On north spades were stuffed the last south clubs. The rest were merely a matter of hauling in. Some players have the conviction of their courage.

The Movie Column

By JACK QUIGG

Hollywood, Sept. 20 (AP) — It was a surprise to hear Gary Cooper say he's planning to produce a picture of his own. He tried it once, in 1944, with "Along Came Jones." The film fared poorly at the box office and Hollywood thought "Coop" would stick to acting after that. He hasn't settled on a story yet but he wants to do "something romantic—guns, fighting and action. They're more fun to make."

You can bet the lanky actor won't buy a yarn until he hears more about Ernest Hemingway's newest book. "He won't tell me what it's about," Cooper said. "Even Ingrid Bergman couldn't break him down."

Slimming Down.

"Lose 20 pounds and you can play the life of Gandhi." That, says J. Carrol Naish, is what the Maharajah of Indore said after looking him over. The Hindu ruler, Naish said, expressed a desire to film Gandhi's life in India. The film may not recently in Canada.

Secret Ambitions of the Stars.

Frank Sinatra's: "My secret ambition is to conduct long-hair music. Imagine figuring out what a guy 200 years ago had in mind when he wrote a piece, then being able to play it that way. Imagine a conductor being able to remember all those notes."

Danny Kaye: "I wanted to be a doctor. I'm still interested in medicine. Sometimes I go to hospitals to watch doctor friends perform operations."

Jimmy Durante: "I've wanted to be a fireman. When the Los Angeles fire department made me an honorary chief, I was thrilled to the tip o' my nose."

Ot took one hour and thirty seven minutes Saturday afternoon for the Earlscourt Juniors to eliminate Belleville's Kiwanis Juniors from the OBA junior playdowns as they dumped the locals 8-1.

The game, which was played through intermittent showers, was a sparkling, speedy brand of baseball until the bottom of the sixth frame when two home runs gave Earlscourt a three run lead to put the game on ice.

Earlscourt started the scoring in the bottom of the first inning as they squeezed over a run on a walk, a sacrifice, an error, and a fielder's choice. They added another tally in the second on a double and three singles.

Kiwanis was all the scoring until the sixth, when Kiwanis counted once on doubles by Bush and Semark with none away. Three pop ups to the infield retired the side with no more damage being done.

West and Fiskari put the game away for Earlscourt in the sixth as homered to centre field and left field respectively. Both hits got into the outfield between the fielders and rolled on the hard ground.

Earlscourt added three more runs in the seventh as Rimmar, McIlroy and Smarr singled to lead off the inning for one run with no one gone. That was all for Kiwanis starter Bunton, and Art. Wright came in to relieve. Speir went down second to first as McIlroy scored and Smart slid under Soules to score on a fielder's choice as Stephen went to first. West singled and both runners advanced as Soules' throw to third got away from Lockyer. Joe Nolan, playing left field, raced in to pick up the ball and made a beautiful throw to the plate caught Stephen a few feet in. Casellieren went down pitcher to first to retire the side. A walk, a single, a passed ball and a fielder's choice gave Earlscourt their final run in the eighth.

The Earlscourt record were at full value for their win as they played well defensively and hit often enough to keep the scoreboard ticking. Murphy went the route for Earlscourt, walking three, striking out three, and giving up five hits for one run. Bunton started for Belleville but his two innings was jagged for twelve hits and seven runs as he walked one and struck out three. Art Wright went two frames, walking one and giving up two hits for one run.

Minden, Ont., Sept. 20 (CP)— A 27-year-old Toronto man, Ambrose Starling, is being sought throughout eastern Ontario following his escape Friday night from the village jail here about 15 miles southwest of Haliburton.

Arrested in a tap-room Friday night, police say Starling pried into the woodwork loose from the bars of his cell and escaped a few hours later he had been jailed.

Third Round Of Contracts Are Drawn Up

New York, Sept. 20 — (AP) — A third round of contracts has been drawn by the Tournament of Champions as a result of the cancellation of the Jersey Joe Walcott - Gus Lesnevich fight.

Instead of a championship, the T. of C. is standing or the middleweight championship fight between title holder Tony Zale and Marcel Cerdan tomorrow night at Jersey City, N.J.

Originally the T. of C. planned to go with the Zale - Cerdan alone. Then the promoters added a Freddie Mills - Gus Lesnevich light heavy title bout which was wiped out because of Mills' draft board. Zale and Gus next were signed for the same card. Lesnevich hurt his toe last week and the T. of C. decided to go along with its original plan.

New contracts were drawn up for each step. Zale signed papers Sunday which guarantee him $120,000 or the privilege of taking 40 per cent of all proceeds.

Cerdan, who is guaranted $60,000, has been asked to agree to the original terms — 17½ per cent of everything.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

The fogs were gone now; the early autumn weather was beginning, soft and sunshiny; rare days when the sea looked blue and melting and there was not a cloud in the sky. Far off toward the Farallon Isles a dim band of mist sometimes was forming, but not a breath of air stirred on the cliffs when I went one one morning in an old blue cotton frock and crownless straw hat to gather lupine and Indian brush and pink mallow for the vases. There was another flower there whose name I never knew; it grew in tight tiny bunches of cream and pink blossoms on the end of a long thin stem. My hands were full of all these lovely seaside blooms when I heard my name called and turned my back to the rippling sweet level sea and saw a man coming toward me. For a second I couldn't place him.

Then I saw that it was Bill Brent, and I let the flowers drop. Instantly we were in each other's arms, straining together, laughing and crying, as if ours had been only a wartime separation and the days between no untime broken. I never thought to ask for an explanation, and he never offered one; we were swept away into that special heaven that belongs to lovers only; everything was magic from that moment on.

Oh, it is good to have a time like that in your life, even if it can't last! There was such a morning of gently moving tides and warm blue skies, and a starair on the low cliffs was never so sweet and pungent with seaside scents; the gulls never swooped so daringly or flew so high!

When we turned back toward the house, our fingers tight-locked, I hurriedly sketched for Bill's benefit whatever I knew of the Hillyards. I told him of the old man, dying now, who lived in the rooms above and had quarrelled with his only daughter years ago. And of the granddaughter, so recently forgiven, who had come here now to win her grandfather's heart if she could and be named as his heiress.

I'd told him of Clay, half-blinded by work on war laboratories, and of Munro Wainwright, who was Clay's secretary. I sketched in the unsuspected evidence of the old man's will, giving somewhere in a private sanitarium, and of the murder of Clay's stepmother right up in the turret twenty years earlier.

But of Billee Horsfield's and her substituting for Virginia, of Virginia's marriage to Walter Munro — well, were married — of the deception that was going on right under the eyes of everyone in Hillyard House, I never said a word. That secret wasn't mine; it made me uneasy; I wanted to pretend I had no share in it. For a few hours such masquerading might have been fun, but it had gone on for days now and might go on for weeks. It was hard to think of anything that would stop it.

We talked thirstily, inexhaustibly, jumbling in each other's arms stories his tales of the Camp in San Diego, his announcement that within a few weeks now he would be sent to the South Pacific, Bill wore the uniform of a naval lieutenant; it was infinitely becoming, and my heart beat fast with pride when I took him up to the terrace before luncheon and introduced him to Clay and Virginia and Munro. He was so tall, so handsome, so openly and obviously mine.

Va and Munro and I had had for some days a plan to clear the terrace of its overgrowth of weeds and vines and open the steps down to the garden. We planned luncheons on the terrace. Mrs. Gritsell, who was invisible in our way, merely observing that no Clay favored the idea, for she and Clay favored the idea, for he said he liked company when he was sitting there, so that also so much of the time, and permission finally came from the ever distant upstairs.

At first this seemed to me not the day for it, with Bill just arrived, with the whole world's unenthusiastic, and in the end we armed ourselves with clippers, rakes, garden shears and sacks and went to work. Old gloves had been found for everyone, and they were needed, for the vines proved they not only took filthy with the soot and salt of years.

Shouting and exhilaration and excitement, we attacked the matted growth, chopping through the knotted ropes of ivy, tearing out great handfuls of periwinkle and honeysuckle, with a pair little tendrils that clotted themselves under these; dropped branches, further down, and Munro's bricks presently appeared, filthwith pale green that had never seen the sun. Bill, who apparently thrived on this sort of activity, swung into the low oak branches and lopped off great swathes of pepper and eucalytus; Louise, panting with the effort, forced through a stony obstacle and accumulating mass of wreckage.

Presently we attacked the help of McMurdock, the old Scottish gardener. He lived in a small cottage buried in the nearby shrubbery, with a pale little tottering mother. I had met her often on the cliffs and we were friends, and I think that sort of cured McMurdock's heart toward me, for on this memorable afternoon he worked away like a Trojan, carting whole barrowfuls of dead greenery away, returning with fresh ones when all was done, to wash off the last traces of mud and grime.

We sat about, breathless, at five o'clock, surveying our handiwork with ever-increasing admiration. We had done it. The old terrace was clear, the parapets were mossy brick once more, and a bit late autumn sunlight fell on unwonted freedom and lighted up the whole west face of the house. Parts of the surrounding shrubbery still looked somewhat raw and unaccustomed to their places, and the smell of dying verdure was sweet on the air, but the main object had been reached; the terrace, the wide railing, the fat balustrades were restored to their old beauty.

"I'll say one thing for Liberty," said Clay. "She may cover you with dust and cobwebs and broken leaves, but she does keep a place stirred up!"

"The house is a different place since these girls hit it," Munro admitted, lighting a cigarette with a hand that was incredibly filthy.

"Baths — baths — baths," Virginia said. But we were all too tired to stir. I was sunk into a deep basket chair, Bill squatted at my feet with his dark head against my knee. Mrs. Gritsell, coming out to admire our labors, had brought a tray with her; ice clinked in the long glasses. I was a happy hour; the happiest, perhaps, my life had ever known. I felt loved, sheltered somehow. Virginia's open surprise at Bill's charm and Billy's devotion to me was flattering; Munro had pricked up his ears, too, at the appearance of this sophisticated, likable stranger. New blood was always a challenge to a group as limited as ours; everyone was at his best.

Clay had long gone upstairs, Louise, bent back to the sick-room, and Mrs. Gritsell disappeared after I promised to see that the brooms and rags and drinking glasses were presently returned to the pantry. Before this McMurdock had carried away all the tools.

"No, but really, I never thought it would look so wonderful. I never thought we could do it; I feel honestly amazed at what we did," we said to each other wearily, happily, over and over. And when Virginia and I went upstairs to get clean before dinner it was with a sense of possession and triumph that I consigned Bill to Munro's care.

Before this Munro had said carelessly to Mrs. Gritsell, "I suppose we can put Liberty's Mr. Brent up for the night?" Mrs. Gritsell had gravely agreed that the little room next to Munro's would be the best for him. It was in order; nobody need be told out. Bill had been appreciative of this proffered hospitality, when Clay had amiably accepted, but not unduly so. He pulled his weight in any company, and by the time dinner, without the slightest effort, he was the life of it, cheerfully listening to his accounts of a perfectly ordinary camp routine. But nothing was ordinary when Bill was handling it.

He stepped into our lives as calmly as if he had always belonged there; not only took unexpected leave and we claimed every one of his movements, seemed unnaturally quiet when he went away, or, after dinner, to sink back into its own old gloom and silence.

But my own personal weight of gloom and silence had been lifted from me by that. The glorious dream of Bill's returning and his finding me, and Billy's strong arms about me, his eyes meeting mine, his lips and his always ready to catch mine, was only a dream after all. I hated the first day and part of the second, and then the sickening slow fear that he had been bowled over by typhoid and the insanitary setting behind Virginia and Munro's most positive prospects of a great fortune for Virginia, began to creep in. Sadly now, dazed by the slippery tide and catch about my ankles and my knees, I knew I was going to be submerged again.

Then he didn't tell me; perhaps at first he didn't know, but when, with the working Virginia, laughing at her, picking up her little pieces in conversation, he was challenging them. It began with his including her in any of his jokes or being alone with him. When I asked him to come to the sea he and she found bushes, to decide whether they too, might be thinned and tied up and recovered, he jerked his head toward the house and said, "Why not better ask her?" When I suggested that we have a picnic up the rocks at Chinaman's Light, he quite unconsciously phrased it, "Sure. You and Munro and Va and me, hey?"

NAMES NEVER ON LISTS

Toronto, Sept. 20 (CP)—President A. D. McKenzie of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association Sunday night said that the names of two Ottawa residents who claimed they were dropped from a list of delegates to the party's national convention had never been on the list.

The complaint came Saturday from E. L. R. Williamson and Jeanne Travers, co-chairmen on an Ottawa Diefenbaker-for-leader committee. Mr. McKenzie said their names were considered along with hundreds of others but along with many other eligible persons, they were left off.

The current number of Chemical Engineering of New York starts off with the statement that Canada is the largest country in the Western Hemisphere.

This is pretty well known, but what is not so well known is her position in chemical engineering. This is what Chemical Engineering has to say in part:

"War revolutionized the industrial life of the Dominion and the tremendous manufacturing expansion has turned Canada into predominantly industrial nation. It has provided a foundation for stability and progress . . .

"Chemicals and allied products stand as one of the nation's leading activities. The value of these materials in 1947 amounted to $400,000,000, 10 per cent more than the preceding year, or 2½ times the 1939 total . . .

"Canada has a strong and diversified heavy chemical industry which now supplies about 70 per cent of the Dominion's chemical needs and, in addition, makes a substantial contribution to export trade.

"It has buildings and equipment valued at $150,000,000, employs 19,000 workers and annually distributes $18,000 000 in salaries and wages and $40,000,000 for materials, fuel and power.

"Typical of the swiftly growing chemical industry in Canada is the sulphuric acid production . . . 1939 was almost tripled by 1944 . . . The fertilizer industry is by far the most important outlet for sulphuric acid . . . Canada, one of the world's leading producers of nitrogenous fertilizers uses only 10 per cent of its total production for its own consumption. . . . Canada also is exporting nitrogen to over 50 countries . . ."

Deborah Kerr, English screen star, was welcomed at the train by her nine-month-old daughter, Melanie Jane, upon her arrival in Los Angeles, Calif., after spending the summer in her native Britain. Deborah said, "It was wonderful visiting England, but it is even more wonderful to be home." She made the trip with her husband, Anthony Barley, and while abroad made a picture with Spencer Tracy.

Macdonnell and Leon Methot Will Likely be Appointed P-C Chairman

(By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, Sept. 20 (CP) — J. M. Macdonnell, member of The Commons for Muskoka-Ontario, and Leon Methot of Three Rivers, Que., likely will be chosen permanent chairmen of the National Progressive Conservative convention here September 30, October 1-2.

Mr. Macdonnell is president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada and Mr. Methot, a prominent lawyer, is one of its directors.

The two are expected to take over the chairmanship from Gratton O'Leary, associate editor of The Ottawa Journal, and Lionel Choquette, Ottawa lawyer, when the convention has been declared duly constituted. Mr. O'Leary and Mr. Choquette have been named as temporary chairmen.

Mrs. H. C. Smiley, president of the Progressive Conservative Women's Association in Saskatchewan, and Hreve Baribeau of Levis, Que., are likely to be chosen as joint permanent secretaries of the convention called to choose a successor to John Bracken, who is retiring.

Don H. Morrow, member of the Ontario Legislature for Carleton County, and Mrs. Ann Morin, of Montreal, will serve as temporary joint secretaries.

A 193-man resolutions committee will meet on the two days preceding the convention to study the 500 or more resolutions sent in by various branches of the party organization have sent in for inclusion in the party's platform.

Close to 3,000 people, including 1,313 voting delegates, are expected to come to the capital for the convention.

To Reduce Hoarding.

The government is said to be hopeful that the importation of butter supplies this winter from Denmark and New Zealand will act as a deterrent on domestic hoarding.

Last winter, when supplies in grocery stores and dairies ran short, government officials said the scarcity had been created largely by housewives who put away an extra pound or two. While this did not mean much as an individual total, collectively it was enough to create a real shortage.

Hurricane Lashes Southern Part Of Florida Coast

Emergency Measures Taken By Cities in Storm's Path

Miami, Fla., Sept. 21 (AP) Winds of 110 miles an hours Key West today as a big and growing tropical hurricane brushed near or over the island city 175 miles south of Miami.

Torrential rains accompanied the winds.

The storm has enlarged and hurricane winds and strong gales have come over an area 300 miles in diameter the weather bureau reported. It is moving northeast at about 10 miles an hour.

The slow movement of the storm will keep the centre over south Florida for a longer period and delay the arrival of hurricane winds somewhat, forecasters said.

Passed Over Cuba

The southern part of the Peninsula was battered down for the blow. Many Cubans crossed Cuba last night with highest winds of 86 miles an hour at Havana.

Miami, precited for the winter tourist season, braced for its highest.

Hurricane warnings fluttered in increasing wind at Jacksonville and storm warnings extended to Daytona Beach.

On the other side of the Peninsula, hurricane warnings flew to Fort Myers and storm warnings to Tarpon Springs.

The rich "salad bowl" area around Lake Okeechobee also was in danger. Hurricane warnings were hoisted there.

Florida was ready. The Red Cross opened shelters and disaster units were on the alert. Schools were to be closed today.

Shelters, Food Supplied

The island city of Key West early today experienced winds of 50 miles an hour with gusts up to 65. The United States navy there went under hurricane conditions. Shelters were stocked with food. Navy planes and ships of navy personnel and civilian employees. Navy planes and ships based at Key West sped to calmer waters in the Gulf of Mexico as the hurricane bolled through the Florida straits.

The hurricane, born in the Caribbean, headed south of Cuba, Grand Cayman Island, headed east and then slightly north before it swerved toward land. It was expected to hit the Keys with heavy damage to orange groves but apparently no loss of life.

Then it swirled across western Cuba, the centre apparently passing some 30 miles to the east of Havana.

New York Sept. 21 (AP) —A daring new operation that prolongs life and relieves agonies from cancer victims is announced in the journal of the American Cancer Society.

It removes all the pelvic organs — the organs and part of the large intestine in the lower abdomen. It was developed by Dr. Alexander Brunschwig, famed New York Surgeon.

Dr. Brunschwig, writing in the journal, describes results in 22 cases, in only one were women 32 to 60 years old.

All 22 were dying from cancer that had spread beyond the considered hopeless, in the last stages of cancer, and all were in pain. Other methods of treatment failed and the usual operations would not help, Dr. Brunschwig said.

Thirteen of the 22 were living at the time of his report. The times varied from seven months to two years and seven months recently operated upon. Some had

LEADERSHIP RACE MAY BE CUT DOWN BY DREW'S ENTRY

Not Likely to be More Than Four Candidates

Ottawa, Sept. 21 — (CP)—The decision of Premier Drew to contest the Progressive Conservative leadership may result in a much narrow down the list of leadership candidates at the party's forthcoming National Convention, a party official said today.

Mr. Drew's entry the field might be narrowed down to three or four candidates by the time nominations close at the convention Sept. 30, Oct. 1-2. Headline for nominations has been set at 8 p. m. Oct. 1. Voting will take place the following day.

Besides Mr. Drew, three other men have announced their intention of contesting the leadership which John Bracken, 65, is giving up because of his age and ill - health. John Diefenbaker, 52-year old member of the Commons for the Lake Centre in Saskatchewan, announced his candidature Sept. 17. Earlier in the week, Donald Fleming, member of the Ontario Legislature for Toronto Bruce, and Garfield Case, 49, member of the Commons for Nanaimo constituency of Coast North, announced that they would be candidates.

Have Withdrawn

However, signs of the narrowing down already were apparent Monday night when Mr. Hanna announced his withdrawal.

He said Mr. Drew "is beyond all question the man for the job. Now that Premier Drew, my leader, is definitely in the race, I feel it is only proper that I should withdraw and give my support behind him."

The official said there was a possibility Mr. Hanna also will withdraw his name before the convention opens and give his support behind Mr. Drew or Mr. Diefenbaker. The party official said, it was unlikely that Mr. Case would prove to be a strong contender.

There is a possibility, said the official, that Donald Fleming, 43, member of the Commons for Toronto-Eglinton, and Earl Rowe, 52, member for the British Columbia riding of Okanagan, may decide to enter the contest.

Might be Nominated

Others might be nominated, but it was unlikely that they would have a chance to win, the official said, fore she convention. In this class was offered Dana Porter, Speaker, Speaker, prominent Saskatchewan lawyer and invited Roy a member of the Progressive Conservative party, leader in Quebec, Howard Green, member for the Commons for Vancouver South, A. L. Smith, member of the Commons for Calgary West and Gordon Graydon, member of the Commons for Peel in Ontario.

Should Mr. Drew be elected to the federal leadership, the official said, it is possible that Mr. Graydon will be a candidate at a convention called to choose a successor for Mr. Drew in the provincial field.

Cripps' Talks Centre Around Potential Goods of War Canada Can Supply Britain

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Sept. 21. (C)—Defence emerged today on the No. 1 subject behind the economic and financial talks now consolidating here between Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Louis St. Laurent and other members of the Canadian Cabinet.

As the discussions opened this morning in the East Block, site of the Prime Minister's office, authoritative sources disclosed that Sir Stafford sought from the cabinet information about the types and quantities of strategic materials Canada would be able to ship to Britain on a long-term basis.

Sir Stafford and the half-dozen economists in his party met at 9.30 a.m. Oct. 1. Voting will take place the following day.

Wave of Cool Weather Covers Most of Canada

Toronto, Sept. 21. (CP)—Most of Canada is experiencing cool Fall weather as thermometers dropped Monday night to keep in tune with the calendar, which showed that today is officially the beginning of Autumn.

While River which has some sort of a record for low Winter temperatures, shivered 31 with a 2-degree temperature. Cool weather forecast in Ontario for the next few days carried a threat of frost for points as far south as Hamilton and Kitchener.

Toronto, which set a record during the weekend with the highest recorded temperature for the date, had a temperature of 42 degrees Monday night—a 20-degree plunge from the high of Monday.

Falling temperatures were first seen in the west, with Vancouver thermometers dropping to 60 degrees yesterday—10 degrees less than on Sunday.

The Northern Prairie regions, however, generally higher temperatures yesterday than on Sunday, although Winnipeg was 10 degrees cooler.

on strategic goods, the discussions also ranged over other problems of mutual interest, the question of foodstuffs which Canada is shipping to Britain under contract.

The discussions with the cabinet committee are expected to continue throughout the day, Later in the week, Sir Stafford will confer privately with the various ministers concerned.

He will remain here until the weekend before flying to Washington to take part in the international financial talks.

The Washington meetings are those of the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development. Mr. Abbott, as Canadian representative, also will attend and is expected to fly to Washington with Sir Stafford Sunday.

British circles have indicated Sir Stafford will deal mainly with long-term policies of trade and economic co-operation, but there is an expectation here that he also will touch on the question of Canadian credits to the United Kingdom.

He might, for example, sound out Mr. Abbott on Canada's views on the frozen, unused portion of the $1,250,000,000 loan which this country granted Britain after 1946. Canada blocked this unused portion when Britain declared April and Britain since has been anxious to resume drawings upon it.

Bull-Moose May Miss Hunters' Rifles This Year

St. Monique de Honfleur, Que, Sept. 21 (CP) — The Moose are calling in this district, but not St. John country of North central Quebec but this year there's a difference in the calling mates in comparative safety for the first time in history.

The reason: A push back in the opening of the moose hunting season from mid-September to Oct. 8, as a conservation measure.

The cow moose started calling around the middle of last week and by Oct. 8 when the hunting season opens the mating season should be over.

Then the bull moose will be instinctive — except in the odd case — to the deceitful blandishments of the moose caller's horn with which hunters in the past have imitated the call of the cow moose to lure bulls to their death.

For the hunters the later opening date means they must work harder for their kills and track the animal through the bush in many cases. And conservation experts say the regulations mean many moose that would otherwise have been killed will live through this hunting season.

Aurora, Ont., Sept. 21 — (CP) —One man was injured and a woman had her glasses smashed when a Toronto gang raided the McCormack Gang attacked restaurant patrons Monday night in a fight that ended in the arrest of Toronto.

Police said today they are attempting to locate four of the 20-man gang who invaded the place in special effort to track down a youth known as McCormack, said to be the leader.

They said the brawl broke out when McCormack walked into the restaurant with several other Toronto youths and ordered customers at an altercation between an Aurora man and a drunk.

Tel Aviv, Sept. 21 — (Reuters) — Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish terrorist organization, today accepted the Israeli government ultimatum ordering its disbandment and the handing over of its "army" to Israeli defence forces.

Most Irgunists now are affiliated with the political party called the "freedom movement," headed by Menachem Begin, once the commander of Irgun in Palestine

The Irgun spokesman said that the government's ultimatum to the extremist group resulted from Bernadotte's assassination.

5 FATALLY SHOT, TWO WOUNDED IN GUNFIGHT

Three of the Dead Kansas City Policemen

Kansas City, Sept. 21 — (AP) —Five men were fatally shot and two wounded Monday night in a gunfight breaking out at a routine police call. Three of the dead and the two wounded were policemen.

The shooting occurred in a Negro apartment house district after two patrolmen answered a routine disturbance call about a "loud party" in an apartment building.

Charles Neaves, 30, and Sandy Washington, 26, patrolmen (both Negro), were shot to death in the building. Detective Charles Perrine, 46, who responded to a call for help also was slain inside the building.

Police identified the other dead as William Bell and Edwin Burton Warren (both Negro) who were in the apartment building. Warren died in a hospital today.

Police said Bell and at least one other man participated in the fight. Others were on hand and around the three-storey building. Approximately 50 policemen and deputy sheriffs were on the scene, 15 blocks from the main police station.

Police said Bell shot to death two of the officers and was killed himself in a gun fight that followed the incident in the apartment.

Patrolman Earl Scott, 36, said he was struck by a bullet from a pistol fired by Bell. Scott said he fired at Bell as he fell wounded himself.

Police rounded up about two dozen persons from the apartment building and took them to headquarters for questioning.

Polish Treasures Still in Quebec Says Duplessis

Quebec, Sept. 21 (CP) — Premier Duplessis today told newspaper men that Polish treasures taken into custody by provincial authorities in February are still in the care of his government.

The Union Nationale government leader made a brief statement following a weekend flood of unconfirmed reports from Ottawa to the effect the treasures had been removed from provincial vaults.

Premier Duplessis said he did not know if the treasures had been stored elsewhere in the province. He added: "Those in the custody of his government are still in the hands of the provincial government and will be given up only to a recognized tribunal."

Last weekend two chests of Polish treasures were reported to have been loaded aboard a Polish ship in Montreal en route out of Canada. Inquiry brought out that these were not part of the treasures held in Quebec, but rather had been shipped from a bank vault in Ottawa.

Twenty-four chests containing part of the Polish national treasures were transferred to provincial keeping in February after Premier Duplessis announced Polish treasures had been established their hiding place in Quebec's Hotel-Dieu cloister.

New York, Sept. 21 — (AP) — The New York Times says the United States is building up a substantial stockpile of armed services requirements for a possible "mobilization day."

In a dispatch from Washington the Times says that the Munitions Board today that the tentative schedule was approved by the National board of the national military establishment.

The munitions board now is in a position to construct a firm plan for the industrial mobilization necessary for conducting modern war, the Times says.

It reports the following:

The munitions board has made considerable progress in its planning and substantial gains in its stockpiling of critical materials.

About $700,000,000 worth of critical materials have been compiled against potential military and civilian needs if war should cut off normal sources.

The munitions board also has about 50 raw materials, mostly obtained from foreign sources, among them are bauxite, cadmium, nickel, copper, industrial diamonds, mica, quartz crystals, tungsten and zinc.

Of these materials the board has bought $500,000,000 worth with goods and services and has accepted transfer of some $200,000,000 worth from the war assets administration.

A major function of the board is surveying manufacturing facilities to determine the most efficient producers of specific military items.

Thus far 12,000 plants have been surveyed and targeted for specific types of war production. The board hopes to extend its surveys to 28,000 or 30,000 industries.

Preparedness Move Forced by Grave World Situation

Vessels to be Made Ready For Duty by Next April

London, Sept. 21 — (AP) — Britain considers the international situation so grave that it suspended commercial work in the royal dockyards today in order to refit about 100 warships for service.

An official navy announcement said the ships are to be made ready for duty before April. An admiralty spokesman said, however, the work can be done quickly — perhaps with two months.

The announcement of the big naval preparedness move coming after the government had decided down demobilization of the armed forces, stepping up recruiting of new troops, began doubling the production of jet fighter planes and started preparing civilian defences.

The overhaul and refitting of the naval vessels will involve many ships already in service. The Royal Navy's big battleships, cruisers and aircraft carriers, though not all in use at any one time, are kept in a comparative state of readiness.

The admiralty did not say when the ships are to be refitted. Admiralty records showed that last spring the navy had in reserve 85 destroyers, 156 frigates and minesweepers, 31 submarines, 51 minesweepers and three fast minelayers.

The admiralty spokesman said it was from these reserves that the ships to be refitted would be chosen. Work will be carried on mainly at the large naval dockyards at Devenport, Portsmouth, Chatham, Sheerness and Rosyth.

These yards have been working on small civilian projects such as making prefabricated houses, garbage cans, gas stoves and oil burners.

The Hague, Sept. 21 (Reuters) — Queen Juliana declared Holland will strive for "the idea of an international community" in her address to the United Nations. She was opening the new sitting of the States-General, the first state function since her installation as queen.

She drove in the gold state coach through the streets lined with cheering crowds to the historical Ridderzaal to make the traditional speech from the throne.

Outlining the policy of the new Dutch cabinet, she said the government will work hard to remove all barriers in the way of an economic union with Belgium and Luxembourg.

The Netherland's main military effort will be aimed at maintaining the peace by the practice of fulfilling the task allotted to it," she stated.

She added that government is starting arrangements for the return of naval forces and contributions to the joint defence forces of the five European signatories of the Brussels pact.

MUNICIPAL ASSOC. REQUESTS BETTER HOMES FOR AGED

Welland Commissioner Says Present Facilities "Obsolete"

Kingston, Sept. 21 — (CP) — The Ontario Municipal Association was on record today as urging better homes for the aged.

The association's welfare committee, reporting to the association's 50th annual convention Monday, brought down a resolution which recommended that new types of accommodation for the people be provided in replacement some of the present kinds of shelters.

T. J. Richardson, Welland welfare commission, called present facilities for the aged "obsolete." He added that the stigma of "going to the poorhouse" still persists.

The homes are not only filled to capacity but there are no facilities for bed patients, no segregation from those who are mentally and no accommodation for elderly couples, he said. An enlightened public cannot condone such treatment."

He recommended provision of one-storey homes for the aged, well-ventilated and bright, and with modern facilities and qualified attendants.

"There would also be small cottage units for aged couples, both for self-paying and for those requiring public assistance."

Advocate Changes

Changes in the financing and control of Children's Aid Societies were called for by another resolution. The committee urged that the province undertake 50 per cent of the cost of maintaining the societies. The province now pays $2,000 annual grants to some societies, $1,500 to others.

Seth Bush, North Bay welfare administrator, said the societies should be financed by the public which pays 70 per cent of the taxes they use. He said they are governed by appointed bodies.

Council Passes Debenture By-law To Build School

City council at their regular meeting on Monday evening had two readings to a by-law to borrow the sum of $30,000 for the erection of a new public school on Yeomans Street as is proposed by the local board of education.

At the by-law was introduced Alderman H.J. Clarke stated that he had no objection to the by-law as he realized that the new school was necessary but he thought the board of education would be well advised to re-consider their site for the proposed new school.

"The city is growing to the east rather than to the west" he said. "There will be an awful howl when children from the new Parkwood Heights area have to go to Queen Mary School for 8th additional mats being needed to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of the late William Lynch. Mr. Rump was born and educated in the city and served four and one half years overseas. He has been working as a baker for the past.

A delegation of local restaurant owners with Mr. George Devyat as spokesman attended the meeting protesting against the assessment made by the city for a daily garbage collection. Mr. DeVuyt claimed this charge was unfair as a Thurlow township hog feeder was collecting their garbage twice daily. The matter was laid over until the next council meeting.

Turn Out City Lights

The current power shortage was briefly discussed with council recommending that every second light in the business section of the city and on the bay bridge road be turned out.

The Mayor noted that local industrialists had volunteered to reduce power consumption 10 per cent which would mean smaller pay envelopes for the workers. He urged that householders do everything possible to conserve power and thus obviate the necessity of further power interruptions.

Only Flat Rate Water Heaters Will be Installed by Utilities Decision of Commission Members

Until further notice only flat water heaters will be installed by the local Public Utilities, it was decided by commission members at their regular meeting on Monday afternoon.

Decision against installing new water heaters to operate through the house meter and against transferring present flat rate heaters to operate through the meter, was made following many requests for a changeover from the flat rate heaters.

"Since the hydro restrictions have been augmented this office has received many applications to transfer flat rate heaters, stated Manager O. H. Scott, "I would like a definite ruling on the matter."

It was pointed out that the flat rate water heaters may be cut off for certain periods during times of high power usage.

Those using flat rate heaters would defeat the whole purpose of the restrictions, stated Commissioner Russell Wotten. "I move that there be no further transfers 'nor installations of new water heaters to operate through house meters."

The recommendation was carried.

Main Topic of Meeting

The problem of power conservation was the main topic of discussion at the meeting. Mr. Scott noting that since the last meeting the city had taken on a number of commercial users and also with industrial users of power.

Commercial users had promised co-operation in every way possible and the local industrialists had volunteered to make a saving of 10 per cent in power. Mr. Scott pointed out that on Wednesday Belleville's allocation of power would be reduced to 104,000 kilowatts which meant that power consumption in the city would have to be cut approximately 15,000 kilowatts.

Perhaps Elevated

The importance of co-operation by domestic users in saving power was stressed by Mayor Wills who pointed out that a reduction of working hours at factories would mean smaller pay envelopes. Forty eight per cent of the power used in the city is for domestic use.

Mayor Storey asked if the continuation of Daylight Saving would mean any saving of power but he was informed by Chairman Morley Duff that in the opinion of hydro engineers there would be little saving.

Mr. Duff stated he had asked that question at the summer meeting of the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities and was told that Daylight Saving time did not appear to save any kilowatts and therefore the commission did not consider it worth while.

Mr. Scott pointed out that Daylight Saving is in force in only a comparatively small section of Ontario and that the effect to make it uniform would not be warranted.

Would be Permissible

The commissions was informed by their engineers Gore and Storrie that it would be permissible for the Utilities to install water services in the house drain in the event of Veterans' Housing area where 103 wartime houses are being built.

It was intimated that this also would be done in the Parkwood Heights area but Mayor Storey stated specifications for the installation of water services had not yet been received. Mr. Scott was authorized to go to Toronto to interview Gore and Storrie.

B.C.I. Students Visit Woodlot At Thomasburg

A practical demonstration in woodlot management was held on 40 students of the agricultural class at Belleville collegiate on Monday, when they visited the natural woodlot of Mr. Kenneth Jeffrey, Thomasburg.

W. E. Edwards, zone forester at Napanee, divided the woodlot into two one-acre plots and in the first gave a demonstration as to what trees should be cut and why they should be cut, and reported the approximate value of those to be cut.

In the second half acre plot the trees were numbered and students were asked to decide the trees which should be cut and to give reasons for cutting. They were also asked to give some suggestion of the value of trees recommended for cutting.

Students from the agricultural class at Tweed and at Stirling high school will visit the woodlot for the same program on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The woodlot of Mr. Jeffrey was chosen for the demonstration as it is stated to be one of the best natural woodlots in the district.

Alfred Ernest Facer died suddenly late Monday evening at his home 307 Foster Avenue, shortly after he had retired for the night. He was apparently in good health during the evening and had been downtown in the afternoon.

The late Mr. Facer, who was in his 70th year, was born at Newbradwell, England, and was a son of the late Joseph and Mrs. Alfred Facer. For the past forty five years he lived in this city and for forty years he was engaged with the Grand Trunk Railway and later the Canadian National Railway as an engineer motorman. He retired from active duties, during his long service, to be a pensioner of the Railway.

In this city Mr. Facer gave his support to worthy causes and for many years he was a faithful member of the congregation of St. Thomas' Church. Fraternally he was a member of the Belleville Lodge No. 123 A.F. & A.M. and the International Association of Machinists. In many friends his death has brought sincere feelings of regret.

Surviving him are his wife, she former Emma Elizabeth Jones; one son Mr. E. C. Facer, of the prominent barrister and Juvenile Court Judge in the city of Sudbury, Ontario; three grandchildren; two sisters, Miss Mabel Facer and Mrs. Amos (Mary) Rogers, both of Northampton, England.

Angola, N.Y., Sept. 21 (AP) — The "Hollywood Embrace" at the altar by bridal couples is frowned on in church is "in bad taste," in the opinion of the Lutheran minister.

Rev. Frank J. Bauer, 30, of nearby Olean told a pastoral conference of the Missouri Lutheran Church yesterday that he still was "young enough to regard kissing reverently, with the lips closed, as boundless." But he added:

"Any public display of affection, particularly in the church, is in bad taste. There is no place for it. Liturgical formality for the Hollywood embrace . . . permitted in the church is many pastors.

"Nor does the minister who is tempted to kiss the bride herself have a liturgical, to say nothing of moral, right."

Instead, said Mr. Bauer, a kiss on the cheek is preferable, "less illustrative of brotherly rather than marital love."

Picture Depicts Value of Soybean To the World

The contribution to science and to the world in general made by the soybean was explained through the needs of a brief address and a motion picture film to the Rotary Club on Monday in a club classification feature given by Rotarian Doug Whillans.

The picture pointed out the outstanding qualities of this one - time humble product with particular attention being paid to the value of its oil. Years ago, this product of the bean was considered from outside countries but the development and vastly increased production here on the United States has brought the valuable oil to the doors of the Dominion.

Rotarian Clair Hayes gave a report on the visit to Wawa on last week of members of the Belleville and Trenton clubs. A feature of the visit was the outstanding vocal selections of several numbers given by Jack Deacon. Rotarian Deacon's voice caught the fancy of the Watertown Rotarians and they gave him a splendid ovation at the conclusion of his offering.

Rotarian Judge J. C. Anderson of the Belleville Club, guest speaker at the International meeting was the recipient of many laudatory remarks from both Canadian and American clubs on the excellence of his address. He spoke on "The unconditional of Canada to the United States" and touched on such subjects as the Communistic threat, defence and economics.

Another feature of the meeting especially the lunch was the gift of two five-pound Belleville Black Diamond Cheddar cheese to the host club and which was enjoyed by the visiting guests by Toy the Americans. The Picton contingent had also brought along a large cheese but border regulations did not permit of them taking the tasty foodstuff in its destination.

Special guests at the luncheon were members of a civic delegation from Bracebridge. Ont., the city to inspect the Memorial Arena and other civic features. Included were Mayor Wm. Beasley; Councillors Roy Shier, Dr. S. A. Ryan, and Town Engineer, R. J. Russell.

Local Industrial Plants Will Reduce Power Usage By 10 P.C. to Relieve Shortage

Belleville industrial plants will make a voluntary reduction of 10 per cent in power usage as a means of assisting to relieve the critical Hydro shortage, it was decided at a special meeting of local plant officials on Monday.

Plant heads will work out their own system of saving power and as procedure at the various plants may differ considerably the saving will be made in different plants.

In some plants continuous electrical power is necessary to maintain furnaces at the proper temperature, while in others continuous electrical power is not so essential. Some factories may not open for work until an hour later in the morning and work on Saturday when the overall hydro load is lighter. The Hydro Commission is recommending that plants work on Saturday and possibly Sunday and reduce work hours during the week.

Co-operate

Mr. O. H. Scott, public utilities manager, attended the meeting of local manufacturers which was held at the Chamber of Commerce. He presented charts showing the daily usage of electrical power in the city and stressed the importance of reducing this load so as to the amount allocated by the Provincial Hydro Commission.

On Saturday, the Belleville plant went on a daily allocation of 12,000 kilowatt hours, of which on Wednesday of this week this allocation will be reduced to 104,000 kilowatt hours per day. Previous to the restriction going on the daily usage in Belleville was about 120,000 kilowatt hours.

Will Co-operate

Commercial users of power as well as industrial have now offered their co-operation in assisting to save power in an effort to obviate the necessity of power interruptions found necessary early last spring, but it was pointed out that domestic users must also co-operate or else interruptions will be necessary.

Domestic users in Belleville use approximately 50 per cent of the total power consumption and it is co-operation on the part of these users which will materially reduce power used.

The importance of co-operation on the part of domestic users was stressed in that failure to come within the power allocation will mean power inte...ruptions which will materially affect the industrial plants and in the meantime the amount in workers' pay envelopes at the end of the week.

"If local householders do not wish to see pay envelopes cut drastically they must co-operate in every way possible to save power," pointed out Mayor Storey.

The chief magistrate also told the plant officials, who were members of the Manufacturers' Division of the Chamber of Commerce, that a proclamation would be made requesting a 10 per cent savings by all consumers.

Mr. Scott suggested that another help would be for plants to arrange a system between themselves to close down for 10 day in rotation from Monday to Friday and thus have the entire city solidly closed by Saturday or Sunday. A further suggestion was the closing of the store lighting after closing hours. This suggestion was referred to the Retail Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Tweed Crowd Thrills To Speedboat Races

One of the largest crowds ever assembled in Tweed Park thrilled and chilled to the daredevil driving of speedboat drivers from Belleville and district over the weekend in an impromptu regatta that netted a substantial sum for the Belleville Community Swimming Pool Fund.

Headed by Ed. -Pine's "Maple Leaf" 225 hydroplane, Charlie Abbott's "Meteor" and Del Latchford's "Red Cap" the flotilla of motor-driven craft both inboard and outboard staged a thrilling exhibition that delighted the large crowd.

Several boats from Tweed and district which swelled the total to twenty craft, roared over the course in racing and exhibition heats. Several prizes given by city merchants were incentives for the drivers all of whom were pleased with the result of the "regatta" and who will co-operate with Belleville speedboat enthusiasts at a similar event to be staged off Government Dock on Sunday next at 2 p.m.

After racing expenses were deducted from the amount taken from the silver collection a substantial figure was handed to officials of the Moose Lodge, Belleville, who in turn handed the money to the swimming Pool Committee.

Chairman Harry Rollins of the Pool Committee, Alderman Orliff (Butler) Lloyd, Ed. Pine, Charles Abbott worked in conjunction with members of the Tweed branch of the Canadian Legion in the administration of the function. Wm. Hilton, Tweed officiated at the microphone of the public address system which was taken to Tweed by Messrs. Rollins and Lloyd. Hamish Onderdonk furnished oil and fuel free to the participating drivers.

Also included among the Belleville boats were "The Pal" and "Little Pal" owned and driven by Earl Harrow and son.

Belgrade, Sept. 21 — (Reuters) — Leo Pavlovitch, correspondent of the Times of London and the London News — Chronicle, died yesterday from poliomyelitis.

TO HYDRO USERS

THE HYDRO ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO has issued instructions, under the Power Commission Act and the Public Utilities Act, which gives the Commission power to allocate and distribute electrical power and the use of electrical power, that a cut of at least 10% in consumption must be made immediately.

THE MANUFACTURERS of Belleville, at a meeting held September 20, reduced their consumption by at least 10%. Some may possibly shift part of their working hours to Saturday.

ALL DOMESTIC CONSUMERS are requested to cut down electrical power to a minimum and unless this is done more severe restrictions will be placed on the manufacturers and this will impose a further cut in the take-home pay envelopes.

EACH AND EVERY CITIZEN is called upon to help in this emergency. We have issued instructions to cut down street lighting and the stores will co-operate in black-outs of windows and a general decrease in store lighting.

UNLESS IMMEDIATE ACTION is taken by all concerned, more drastic measures will have to be put into force to solve the problem of electrical conservation.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE WATER USERS AND TAX PAYERS OF BELLEVILLE

During the past few months there has been a regrettable controversy raging as to the best and fairest method of financing water main extensions in Belleville's newly annexed areas and to clarify this befuddled situation your Utilities Commission submits the following information and facts for your consideration and if after you have read this statement you still desire further information or details regarding the matter in dispute it will be gladly furnished.

FIRST: Anticipated Extensions and Expenditures to the Water Plant Without Taking Into Account Any of the Annexed Areas

On February 20th., 1948, the Engineering Firm of Gore & Storrie made a report on the Water Works System and recommended expenditures totalling $443,000.00 in order to extend and improve the Belleville Water Works System. Their report concluded in part as follows:

"The existing water works system is now loaded to its full capacity and must be extended to properly serve the increasing demand of the City and areas to be annexed thereto. Provision should now be made for a population of 25,000 as the City is growing rapidly and several industries are not yet in operation."

"Practically the whole cost of these extensions will have to be financed by the sale of debentures and assuming that 20-year debentures bearing interest at 3 per cent will be issued the carrying charges on the total amount of $443,000.00 will be nearly $30,000 per annum."

"All extensions, Items 1 to 17 are absolutely essential for the proper supply of water to the enlarged city and we recommend that construction be proceeded with as soon as possible.

On March 8th., 1948, the Commission unanimously adopted a motion to proceed at once with these large projects, a great many of which are now under construction.

The cost of these extensions and improvements will of course be paid by the Water Utility and will mean a considerable increase in water rates in order to meet the extra carrying charges of $30,000.00 a year or more. This fact in itself is not disturbing as the water rates in Belleville are about the lowest in the Province, but we feel that any further commitments of a large nature (many of them yet unknown) will create a distinct hardship on the water users of Belleville.

SECOND: Financing of Water Mains in Newly Annexed Areas

During the past year the City of Belleville has annexed 420 acres of what was previously suburban or rural property all of which will no doubt want water services in the near future and in this respect the firm of Gore and Storrie made the following statement and suggestion in their Supplementary Report to the Utilities Commission:

Gore and Storrie:—

"The above estimated costs do not include the cost of constructing mains in the suburban areas annexed or proposed to be annexed to the city, but only the feeder mains to supply these areas. It is suggested that the distribution mains in the annexed areas be constructed under the Local Improvement Act and paid for on the frontage basis."

At that time your Commission had information that Municipalities in Ontario when new subdivisions were being developed laying water mains on the frontage basis or the Local Improvement Plan and so on April 5th, the following motion re "Parkwood Heights" Water Mains was unanimously passed by the Commission and forwarded to Council:

"It was decided that service would be provided in the area and that the construction costs of the mains, etc., be paid for under the Local Improvement Act and that the Council be asked to pass the necessary by-laws, etc., for construction under the Local Improvement Act."

On May 17th. the Council approved of our suggestion and passed the following recommendation:

"That the Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville authorize the Public Utilities Commission to proceed with the construction of water mains, etc., for "Parkwood Heights," under the Local Improvement Act. It is further recommended than when the by-law is ready, the Council is to prepare to give the necessary two readings and present the said by-law to the Municipal Board for approval. This was reference to the letter of the Public Utilities Commission dated April 7th., 1948, and signed by Mr. O. H. Scott, Secretary of the Commission."

For some reason or other as yet unexplained the Council did not pass a By-law as agreed upon in the above resolutions. The Council did pass a By-law which created a precedent and in effect ordered the Belleville Utilities Commission to raise the Water Rates of all citizens from time to time sufficient to pay for any and all water services that may be called for in newly developed subdivisions which of course includes "Parkwood Heights."

It has been conservatively estimated that it would take a Half Million Dollars to service all these new areas if and when developed and if that was a further direct charge to water users the low cost of water today might be a prohibitive and unfair price in the near future or it might be a direct charge back in the General Tax Rate should the Water Works Department be placed in a position where they could not meet their financial obligations.

REMEMBER THESE FACTS

The Waterworks Department has no surplus in monies to undertake these works. What surplus that might have been created was voluntarily handed back to various City Councils during the past ten years to help pay the Gas Deficit and thus keep down taxes. Those rebates to the City amounted to a HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.

The Waterworks Department did show an operating profit of $26,000.00 for 1947 and some people would lead you to believe that this represented actual cash in the Bank when the year was ended. Such is not the case as this $26,000.00 had already been spent on main extensions, etc., to take care of the new homes and industries, etc., and of course was added to the capital value of the plant.

It has always been and will continue to be the policy of the Belleville Utilities Commission to keep your water utility on a sound financial basis both for the benefit of the water users as well as the Tax Payer who guarantees the payment of all borrowed money. The Commission hopes that this statement clarifies to some extent our position in this matter which we believe to be fair, sound and equitable to all concerned.

Belleville Utilities Commission

P. S.—This does not apply to the Veterans' Homes Project as it is understood the Government pays a direct grant to the Municipality for the installation of all services.

Force to Maintain Order

Those men who slew Count Bernadotte, the United Nations mediator of peace in Palestine, and messenger of the United Nations' spirit of good will, will be hunted and it is hoped captured and brought to judgment. Such a spirit of gangsterism has no place in the organized world. Secretary Trygve Lie has announced his intention of bringing before the United Nations the need of a permanent international or United Nations force to prevent such events as the assassination of Count Bernadotte and to suppress troubles should they break out. That will mean that the United Nations will act with the force of law and make troublemakers and would-be assassins realize that there will be no place anywhere to protect them from judgment of an aroused world.

The assassins' cruel and bloody deed has aroused shock and caused intense grief but it has not terrified the United Nations. It will lead, there can be no doubt, to measures which will prevent assassins the opportunity to shoot down in cold blood citizens of the world and peace who go about the mission of bringing peace among men.

Now on the third day after the assassination the report of the mediator has come to the attention of the member nations of the United Nations and of the world. They have the result of study of the Palestine problem and as a result of the murderous act of his slayers there can be no doubt that the United Nations will be more than ever determined to take every step necessary to bring peace to that troubled area of the world and all other trouble spots.

Value of Newspaper Record

Microfilm has begun to play its part in a way which would not have been thought of a few years ago. It is in use in Ontario in permanently recording the vital statistics of this province in very little space. From the B.B.C. comes the evidence of another use — a microfilm facsimile of every edition of the London Times from 1784 to 1945 has just been completed. Into less than a thousand rolls of film, each little larger than a match box, has been compressed everything which appeared in "The Times" in the space of one hundred and sixty years. All that is needed is to have a reading machine into which to fit the roll, a knob twiddled to the day and page required and the newspaper appears life size.

That one-hundred-and-sixty-year period covers a great part of modern history of the British Isles and the civilized world. As far as history is concerned, here would seem to be almost the actual fabric of events out of which history is made. This is an example of what invention is doing for the world. Microfilm news can be interesting. William Clark, editorial director of the Encyclopaedia Britannica on a broadcast stated that he turned up leap year day a hundred years before to see what was going on then. There were pages of advertisements which quite unintentially throw floods of light on the manners and morals of a period of history. He tells of reading pages of parliamentary reports, two pages of the Revolution in Paris, full of vivid detail. And he says he was struck by the fact that though this was the revolution which was so soon to catapult Louis Napoleon to power, the only mention of him was an advertisement in which he gave a "plug" for Mr. Eisenberg's methods of removing corns and warts.

Here is the tribute which Mr. Clark pays to the newspapers. "That is why newspapers are so good for historians to read. A newspaper hurriedly written each night is the only honest record of what people really thought at the time. The nineteenth century 'Times' is the daily diary of the most powerful middle class the world has ever seen."

Newspapers have come to be the most thorough agency ever invented as a record of the events and doings of the people, their good points, their thoughts, their pleasures, their fads and their weaknesses. In fact they touch life at every angle and a newspaperless world would be unthinkable. Take the newspaper and the radio out of modern life and how circumscribed would be the views of man.

What the task of the old historians must have been can be realized as they had no newspaper reports to aid them in interpretation of events or cast a glance at the life of the people as it is spent day by day. Historians of other times had traditions to guide them and their work must have been very difficult for there was a complete lack of the local coloring which the most insignificant news item may provide.

Discretion of speech is more than eloquence; and to speak agreeably to him with whom we deal is more than to speak in good words or order.—Bacon.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

BELIEF

Oft we wonder in our grief
What is gained by our belief.
Although night and morn we pray,
Still our joys are swept away,
And the loved ones we would keep
With the dead are called to sleep.

None is wise enough to say
Why the wicked seem to stay,
And the beautiful and good
Leave before we think they should
But if death seemed always just,
Soon in God we'd cease to trust.

If for evil death were meant
As a bitter punishment;
Should the wicked only die,
Then the Heaven we seek on high,
Having none we long to see,
Would a fearful region be.

It is only by belief
We are comforted in grief;
It is only by our trust
That the God we love is just;
That we bear, divinely planned,
Griefs we cannot understand.

The Packsack of Gregory Clark

After a war, a percentage of the boys who were eight to fifteen years of age during the carnage grew to manhood with definite paranoid symptoms. If you had spent the sweetest years of boyhood neck-deep in blood and fury, with the newspapers and the radio and the conversation of your elders ablaze with lurid death, how would you like to have been turned out to pasture in adult life on a diet of platitudes, a stitch in time saves nine, a rolling stone gathers no moss, and a word to the wise is sufficient?

It just does not stand to reason. We must expect a percentage of disturbance among the young. And we must be prepared to deal with it with a tough hand. The mental attitude of war must be adopted towards the residium of war. These young hooligans who are forming gangs and mobs and terrorizing some of our Canadian cities are war problems every bit as much as Hitler Youth. Ah, I too had almost forgotten them!

A superintendent of the RCMP told me a story the other day that has a lot of vitamins in it. Into a very tough district in the West, a new magistrate was introduced. He contrived that his very first case was one of obstruction of the police in the execution of their duty.

"I sentence this man," he announced, "to six months in jail with hard labor. As long as I am magistrate in this district, I will not tolerate interference with officers of the law. In taking this attitude, I am placing a very heavy responsibility on the police. Their behavior must be above reproach in order to back me up. But it is to be understood by everybody in reach of this court that from now on, interference with or obstruction of the police will result in six months in jail. I can give more: and I shall. The law is the will of us all. The police are the instruments of the law. Police can be wrong. It is my function as a magistrate to decide that. Nobody else's! I mean business."

In one month, hooliganism was banished from that tough, young district.

It may be that outbreaks of gangsterism are due not to the court's being too technical but not technical enough. There is a rough justice that comes first.

THREE POLICEMEN AND ANOTHER MAN KILLED

Kansas City, Sept. 21 (AP) — Three policemen and an unidentified man were killed Monday night and four others injured in a shooting affray in a residential district. Charles Perrine, 46, Charles Neaves, 30, and Sammy Washington, 26, the officers, answered a disturbance call and were shot as they entered the house named in the call. Seven squad cars went to the scene and one man was killed in the ensuing shooting.

EIGHT SMALL BUSH FIRES

Blind River, Ont., Sept. 21 — (CP) — Eight small bush fires were blazing in dry bushland in this Northern Ontario district. Six of them started Monday.

Chief Fire Ranger Thomas Cassidy here said his men are quickly bringing the blazes under control. The fire hazard is high because of a lengthy dry period.

"We are keeping our fingers crossed because we could have big blazes before fall rains come," district forester Arthur W. Leman said.

HITS HILL AT 500 M.P.H., JET PILOT KILLED

Flight-Lieut. Leslie P. Banner of Trenton, Ont., died instantly when his R.C.A.F. Vampire jet plane disintegrated near Orono, Ont., after bouncing from one hill top to another until it had hit four of them. Banner considered by officials and his friends as "an exteremely careful pilot," had charge of the air force's jet display at the Canadian National Exhibition. Since then he has flown on a number of exhibition flights. Here the crash victim is seen with his wife at C.N.E. as Mrs. Banner starts "plane ride" on midway. Two Vampires left Niagara Falls, N.Y., and when second landed at Trenton, the polit reported that he'd lost contact with Banner. Fourteen planes began the hunt.

Mackenzie's Column: Southeast Asia TobeBattleground For Communists

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Some time ago this column pointed out that the Communists appeared to be shifting the weight of their offensive for world revolution to southeast Asia, and expressed the view that this important theatre might become the Armageddon of the fight by democracy against the Red ism.

Since then, conditions in the Orient have worsened until the western democracies are much concerned. Apart from other considerations, this vast area, including Burma, Malaya, Indonesia and Indo-China, is rich in rice, oil, tin, rubber, sugar and other necessities of both peace and war.

The democracies need some of these supplies for military security. Moreover the rehabilitation of both the Orient and Europe call for all these products. And of course untold millions of folk in the Far East are dependent on them, especially the rice which is their "staff of life".

Bevin Warns

This situation has impelled Foreign Secretary Bevin to charge in parliament that the Communists are following a plan aimed at the seizure of southeast Asia. He told a tense House of Commons that the scheme for stirring up civil war is an instrument of foreign policy, and that if it continues "no one can see the end to which it may lead the nations who are promoting it."

He indicated Britain will do her best to oppose it 'wherever it rears its ugly head."

Simultaneously the United States State Department sharply counter-attacks in a statement against the Communist "drive for power" in Southeast Asia. The Department made known that it was considering a "course of action", though it didn't disclosa the type of action contemplated.

Communists Seize City

The Communists have seized Madioen, in the central part of the Indonesian Island of Java. This is the third largest city of the young republic and is a serious loss. The Reds accuse the Republican government of "selling the country to the Imperialists," and of trying to deliver Indonesia into the hands of The Netherlands.

Word also comes from an informed source in Jogjakarta, capital of the Indonesian Republic, that a document found in Communist party files discloses that a Communist coup was to be staged in Java after a rebellion was under way in Malaya. The document is quoted as saying the Java uprising was to form an integral part of the spread of Communism in southeats Asia.

Well, the Malayan uprising has been under way for some time, so this may be the appointed hour for the big Red effort in Java.

Prague, Sept. 21 — (AP) — Czechoslovakia has arrested Miroslav Stodulka, described as an agent of the United States Army counter-intelligence corps. The Czechoslovak press bureau said several accomplices were seized with him.

Diefenbaker Says Policies Should Be Clarified

Saint John, N.B., Sept. 21. (CP)—The traditional policies of the Progressive Conservative Party should be "restated and clarified", John Diefenbaker, candidate for National leadership of the party, said in an interview Monday night.

"The flag of freedom should be nailed to the masthead. The proposed policy should be an expression of free initiative to the end that the development of our national resources will take place in all parts of the country."

Party followers, he added, believed in "proper methods" of Social security but should not attempt to outbid the Liberal and Socialist parties in socialistic formulae.

Mr. Diefenbaker said his tour of the Maritime Provinces had convinced him that a new spirit pervaded the party rank and file, which was ready for a new test of strength.

"If out of the (National) Convention a strong policy is evolved and a national organization everywhere in Canada is launched with vigor, the hope of the party for victory at the next election can be achieved."

He said that the policy should be concise, and that the party's future would be assured if a leader were chosen "without recrimination or prejudice by an untrammeled convention".

58 Countries Represented At U.N. Assembly

Paris, Sept. 20 — (CP)—Delegates from 58 countries streamed into Paris today for the 1948 autumn session of the United Nations General Assembly.

The 10-member Canadian delegation, headed by Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier, arrived by plane in the French capital Sunday after a flight from London. Prime Minister Mackenzie King expected to join them later.

The Assembly, scheduled to convene tomorrow afternoon, faces a long list of harsh political problems growing out of the cold war between the east and west. The U. N. security council has scheduled a meeting for this afternoon to continue its hearings on the India-Hyderabad conflict. The fighting phase of the conflict has ended with Hyderabad's surrender.

The Indian delegation said it would ask the security council today to drop Hyderabad's request for intervention. The Nizam of Hyderabad said earlier that he had acted to withdraw his appeal to the U.N.

The most difficult problem probably will be the current situation in Berlin that Britain, the United States and France had been attempting, so far in vain, to settle through secret negotiations with Russia.

CHARACTER ACTOR DIES

Glendale, Cal., Sept. 21 (AP)—Leo White, one of the oldest character actors in point of service in the film industry, died of a heart attack Monday. He was about 68. Born in England, White started his career as a comedian in English music halls. He entered pictures practically at the start of the industry, with the old Essanay Company in Chicago in 1909.

IN DEFENSE OF THE ALIMENTARY CANAL

(Especially the Western or Atlantic End)

The real cause of the malaise, dull headache and general upset of the physic or enema addict who, through some derangement of schedule, becomes "bound up", is not, as so many credulous customers have been led to believe, "autointoxication" or "poisoning of the system", but just anxiety worry and morbid fear of dire consequences.

"So long as a patient is taking laxatives, hydrocarbon oil or bran," says Dr. Walter C. Alvarez in his book Nervous Indigestion (Hoeber), "no one can tell how much of his indigestion is due to disease and how much to the disturbing or irritating substances he is pouring into his stomach." Elsewhere in his book Dr. Alvarez observes that constipation is commonly of nervous origin and tells how unpleasant emotions retard digestive processes.

For that matter we might say that nearly all inactivity or delayed function of the alimentary canal is due to disturbed nerve-control, for example the constipation that attends painful fissure or irritable hemorrhoid.

And while we are taking—perhaps I should say if we are taking this hasty view of the canal it is well to remember that the regulation or control of the entire alimentary function throughout the length of the canal is wholly automatic, the mechanism being the same as that which regulates or controls the function of the heart and the function of the lungs.

Only a few of you more credulous customers deem it necessary or wise to watch the action of one's heart or one's diphragm and to keep on hand an assortment of stimulants or "aids" to these other automatic functions. But, dear me, wiseacres, how you fall for liver pills, internal "lubricants" and colonic flushes!

Probably the most profitable part of the great American nostrum and quackery business is catering to you poor geeks with the constipation habit. "Autointoxication", "toxemia", "poisonous wastes", "mucus", thorough cleansing"—to you who have the habit, I suppose it is dreadful but to a normal or healthy person or to one who knows elementary physiology, it is absurb.

Formerly most physicians prescribed physics, laxatives, cathartics, purgatives, "internal lubricants" and even suppositories and enemas for a great many patients. In fact some practitioners, including the quack lately reformed, who writes this column, considered a prime essential to "keep the bowels open", no matter what ailed the patient and began treatment in nearly all cases with a 'good cleaning out" —I never met with any objection to this and I doubt whether any layman ever conceived an objection to being purged with calomel or salts or whatnot.

Few if any physicians today ply their patients with cathartics, not their more intelligent patients at any rate.

All foods or combinations of foods are laxative, without exception. Some foods are less laxative than others, but it is stupid to accep or reject any particular food one likes or can get, on the ground that it is "binding". Forget that nonsense. Enjoy whatever food you like and keep your mind off your bowels.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

The Juice of a Bale of Hay

What result is derived from taking carrot juice in helping to build up your physical condition as I have ben told, (M. K.)

Answer—I'd rather let my physical condition go to pot. But if you have some nice fresh carrots I'd like a pound or two to chaw on raw, or even to eat cooked if you know how to cook 'em. A slice of carrot or a bunch of carrots will give one everything one can possibly get from the juice, and more. Carrot yields a fair amount of carotene, from which a healthy person may manufacture vitamin A. Fresh carrot is a fair source of vitamin C and of vitamin B complex. It supplies some calcium to the body. Persons who consume extraordinary amounts of carrot or carrot juice are likely to show yellow discoloration of the skin, but this disappears after the carrots are omitted from the diet.

Outdoor Life

I have enjoyed your column for years, when I am not roaming the woods and fishing these Northern Streams. For myself and I believe, for hundreds of others who fish and hunt in all seasons and weathers, I can say you are absolutely right in your teachings about the harmlessness of exposure to cold and wet. (T. A. S.)

Answer—Thank you. Mollycoddles who still believe cold, dampness or sudden change either causes predisposes to any illness may learn something to their advantage, if they are still capable of learning anything, by reading the booklet Call it Cri—for copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

NAVIGATING BY THE STARS

Modern navigation began when men learned to take their bearings from the stars. Before that, they hardly dared trust themselves out of sight of land.

In the things of life, many of us take our bearings not from the stars but from the waves. The appearance of the waters, and especially if they are turbulent, determine our course of action. If the water is smooth (if health is good and income steady) we sail along without paying much attention to where we are going. If the waves are high (if trouble and sorrow overtake us, money is scarce, and the future uncertain) we consider ourselves fortunate if we can get through without a wreck.

Navigation never means sailing about aimlessly. It means going from one definite point to another and the only way we can accomplish this is by taking our bearings from the stars. Principles guide the wise navigator on the sea, and moral principles guide the wise navigator over the sea of existence. The North Star for every truly wise man is a belief in the existence, love, and providence of God. By this all positions are charted, all directions determined.

City Planning Subject of Talk Given by Hon. Dana Porter To Lecture and Study Club

City planning has a great deal more to it than the mere widening of streets and other civic improvements as expressed by one of the audience present at the address given to the Belleville Study and Lecture Club by Honorable Dana Porter, Minister of Planning and Development for Ontario. Mr. Porter gave his address on "City Planning" and began by comparing the system of planning in force in The Netherlands to that of Canada.

Mr. Porter travelled through The Netherlands and said that the Dutch people were starting out with a clean slate as it were. In order to adequately distribute industry and housing over the Dutch area a two fold policy was in force (a) Immigration and (b) reclamation of the land which is done by reclaiming the land from the bottom of the Zyder Zee. A monstrous 19 mile dyke was built to keep out the waters of the North Sea upon which a motor road was built. Behind this large dyke lesser dykes were constructed and the water from these small dykes was used on the reclaimed land. The Netherlands are very much like Canada now, stated Mr. Porter with their waving fields of wheat and oats.

"However," he went on "how much simpler to plan municipalities with reclaimed land when one can easily see the advantages of housing in one spot and industry in another and parks in another. In Canada we have a much more difficult problem that of planning municipalities that are already in existence to the benefit of all concerned.

Expands Population

Ontario commented Mr. Porter is expanding her population every year, 40,000 natural expansion and 80,000 immigration. Multiply this figure by ten and you see it is easy for us all to realize what a terrific problem civic planning is.

Will be Able to Supply Work

In the advent of a depression commented Mr. Porter the municipalities with a system of long term building will be able to supply its people with work because the funds will have been laid aside for this venture. A municipality that has a regular system of planning will gain help more readily from the Ontario Planning Board than one that has not. It might be interesting for you all to know stated Mr. Porter that costs of improvement are divided in this way — 25% is paid by the municipality on any improvement and 75% divided equally between the Provincial and Federal Governments. In rural areas 50% is paid by the government and 50% by the municipality, and all maintenance of lands and forests is looked after by Department of Lands and Forests out of provincial revenue.

Questions Asked

At the close of the lecture Mrs. R. N. Harbeck, the chairlady, called upon the audience to ask any questions. One of the questions dealt with the siting of industries in municipalities. The question was raised to the effect that the locating of industries might be hit or miss. No, stated Mr. Porter emphatically, this is not the case. In the case of certain British industries or American industries wishing to settle in Ontario, they go to the Ontario House in London and discuss their requirements. Some need specially high inputs of electricity and here he smiled, while others need a certain water supply. We tell them the most advantageous location for their factory and save them and trouble to everyone.

Speaker Thanked

Mr. R. H. Macklem, Public School Inspector for South Hastings thanked Mr. Porter for his address followed by a vote of appreciation by Mayor Storey.

At the commencement of the address Alderman H. J. Armstrong introduced the speaker and Miss Barbara Houston delighted the audience with her singing. She chose "Will You Remember, from Maytime" and "Vreen."

All planning should be done on a long term basis and the control of location of industries and layout of sub divisions done in such a way that the taxpayer has less of a burden.

Each municipality should have a planning board and suggestions should be submitted to the Ontario Planning Board. A municipal planning board should in no way be politic and it may then under the guidance of the Ontario legislature set by laws. The legislature will never take away the responsibility of those representatives elected by the people.

Next Talk Library Week

It is important stated Mr. Porter for all to take the long view in municipal planning and very much better for several municipalities to band together to discuss their plans. We must build what we have and adjust to human and social requirements. He pointed out at this time by way of illustration, a story, of fisherman who lived off the coast of Holland on a tiny island. The water surrounding the island was salt and the fishing very good. When the reclaiming of land was started, eventually the island was a part of the mainland and surrounded by fresh water sitting down the fisherman's catch to sell. This is what happens he commented when all concerned are not consulted.

Urban planning he related is however different to rural planning and it would be wise to have to separate planning boards in this case. Rural planning deals mostly with conservation of land and forestry and in this way presents different problems.

Weekly News Editors Addressed By Premier Drew

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 21 — (CP) — Premier Drew of Ontario Monday night urged weekly newspaper editors to devote as much space as possible to "practical political education."

He told the 50th annual meeting of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association that it is essential for Canadians to understand the basic principles of the several democratic parties under which they are governed, with its ideal field of journalism and their responsibilities.

The premier, who earlier Monday announced that he will be a candidate for the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative party, added:

"I am not, of course, speaking of political education in this case in the advocacy of a particular party point of view, but rather of the need for clear and interesting information regarding our constitution and the way in which we govern ourselves at the various levels of government, whether it be dominion, provincial or municipal.

"Perhaps I need hardly say that a wider understanding of our constitution would go a long way to misapprehension as to the course followed by the Ontario government in recent years and would have made it clear why we felt sure we were acting in the best interests of the whole of Canada, as well as Ontario, in insisting upon the recognition of the basic principles of that federal system under which this country has grown to be the great and united nation it is today."

The availability of newsprint in Canada, compared with the scarcity in European countries, was a challenge to use it for sound discussion of national problems and the impartial interpretation of events.

"The weekly newspapers of this country have a splendid tradition of impartial and fair reporting. Because they are so close to the people in their own communities, they have at all times maintained the highest principles of a free press.

"While vigorous in their advocacy of what they believe will benefit their own community and the nation as a whole, their advocacy and their criticism is measured by a restraint and fairness which in turn is the thing most likely to protect a free press in the exercise of its great public service."

B.C.I. -Teaching Staff Numbers 36 Teachers

Now numbering 36 teachers, plus a bandmaster and guidance director, the staff of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School this season has been reduced by two teachers as compared with the staff total in June.

This was made known to members of the local board of education at their first meeting of the autumn season in the report of Principal G. R. Currie.

The reduction in the number of staff members at the collegiate was made possible by the grouping of commercial and home economics grade 9 classes into two classes for academic work and three for home economics and by grouping together of small classes and paralleling others so as to effect a saving in teachers.

The resultant time table was intricate but effective but which necessitated much work on the part of teachers. All time-tables of all grades and in all courses are set up as recommended by the Department of Education. All forms have full time tables and there are no spares with the exception of a few boys who may have failed in some subjects last year.

More Girls than Boys

Enrolment at the Collegiate at the commencement of the fall school term was given as 272 — 124 girls and 148 boys. This enrolment was expected to build up considerably, especially in the senior forms.

The principal in his report made mention of the students who last year were successful in gaining scholarships. Those included Mary Lou Wishart who won an Edward Blake scholarship valued at $500;

Women's Activities

AIKENS' W.A.

Mrs. Wood, president of the Belleville Presbytery W.A. was guest speaker at the September meeting of Aikens' W.A. held at the home of Mrs. McMullen on September 16th. There were 20 members in attendance and 18 visitors from Scott's and Wallbridge.

Quiet music by Mrs. L. Grills opened the meeting. This was followed by the theme song and Mrs. Moon led in prayer. During the business period plans were completed for decorating the church for the anniversary services and Mrs. Spafford the president, outlined the plans for the October meeting. A letter from Mrs. Perry Hanley, outlining the group for the flowers they sent her was read by the secretary. Mrs. Smith then spoke a few appropriate words of welcome to the guests.

Mrs. R. Westover opened the Worship Service with a hymn. Mrs. E. Hubble led in prayer. Mrs. Grills read the scripture and Mrs. R. Westover gave the lesson on the Scripture and closed the Worship Service with a hymn.

Mrs. Moore, of Wallbridge, sang "My Task" accompanied by Mrs. L. Grills. Mrs. Ken Bush introduced the guest speaker. Mrs. Wood stressed the fact that Christian women should band together and she thought it was important to have the W.A. meetings together and not go to the daily paper. In speaking of the world problem Mrs. Wood compared it with the last days of the Roman Empire when it was slowly decaying and on its way to ruin. She gave two ideals to keep before us during the next two years, the term of her office. "A deeper passion for our work" and "to make ourselves available for God."

Mrs. Elton Sine of Scott's favored with a solo on the harp.

Mrs. J. Jeffrey thanked Mrs. Wood for her inspiring message.

Mrs. Hesketh expressed her gratitude in being able to attend the meeting and hopes to be back after having spent the last two months at their cottage.

Mrs. Ken Westover expressed the thanks of the ladies from Scott's and Wallbridge and closed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. McMullen and her assistants served dainty refreshments.

A.C. Campbell Appointed To Fill Vacancy on Board

Mr. A. C. Campbell, local memorial craftsman, will succeed Mr. Alex Nathan as member of the Belleville Board of Education, it has been decided by board members. Mr. Campbell was appointed by the board to fill the vacancy made when Mr. Nathan moved to Toronto.

All members of the board were present for the first meeting of the autumn season held Friday evening. A message of appreciation made by the board was that of Col. P. H. Wills as member of the public library board, replacing Miss Jessie Price, former high school teacher at Belleville.

The resignation of Miss Marion Rathen, teacher at Queen Alexandra School, was accepted by the board, the resignation to take effect as of December 31st, 1948. The local Progressive Club was granted the facilities of the Belleville Collegiate under the same provisions as last year. Night school classes will again be conducted at the collegiate from October until March with special caretaker services to be provided for that period.

Will Attend Conference

School administrator I. A. Kells was authorized by the board to attend the school for municipal officials and elected representatives to be held at Kingston on Sept. 16-19-20. Announcement of the special school was presented by Hon. George Dunbar, Minister of Municipal Affairs.

Approximately 60 non-resident pupils, mostly from Mountain View, are being accommodated in city public schools, the board was informed. The addition of the Inspector-Administrator with regard to non-resident pupils was approved by the board, these pupils to be admitted in accordance with established procedure regarding fee and as far as accommodation permits and with the understanding that the privilege may be withdrawn if conditions so require.

Speaker Obtained

Dr. A. C. Lewis, head master of the College of Education will be the guest speaker at the annual commencement exercises of the Belleville Collegiate on Oct 15th. The board will pay the speaker's expenses and also for printing of the programs.

Retaining of the collegiate furnace boilers was recommended by inspectors in their report, while it was also recommended that automatic fuel cut-offs and low water feeds be installed on boilers at the collegiate and at Queen Victoria School.

The sum of $500 was made available for the repair of the blue-commonwealth heating system at the collegiate while a suitable radio for Queen Victoria School was authorized on the recommendation of the property committee.

The matter of the proposed construction of a new public school on Yeomans Street will be kept a live issue with a committee of Chairman Harold Seldon, Miss Josephine Vickers and I. A. Kells being named to keep the matter in hand.

1882 Enrolled

Total enrolment in the four public schools was given as 1882 as compared with 1745 at the end of the last school term. The increase is mostly accounted for by a very large group of kindergarten pupils. Kindergarten classes of 60 pupils each at King George and Queen Alexandra schools are being handled by one teacher but at Queen Victoria an extra classroom has been opened for half days and a part time teacher also been provided to assist at Queen Mary.

In many cases classes in the public schools were now overcrowded but one spare classroom still exists at King George School and in an emergency another classroom could be opened at Queen Victoria. Inspector Kells noted that in all probability these rooms would be used at the opening of the next school year.

Mrs. J. C. Watt, public nurse in her report noted that since school commenced children of 22 classrooms had been inspected in the examination. Three children had been excluded for sore throat; three for skin conditions and three with pediculosis. Fifteen children had either glasses fitted or tonsils removed during vacation.

Wellington Unit Teachers' Assoc. Holds Meeting

Wellington Unit of the Teachers' Association of Prince Edward held its first Fall meeting September 14, at Cherry Valley Public S.S. 8, Hillier, with the teacher, Mrs. E. Matthews as hostess.

Miss Viola Valleau presided. Conveners were appointed for the policy, group insurance and sick benefits.

The next meeting will be held at Bowerman's School, the second Tuesday in October with Miss M. Donaldson as hostess.

Miss Vallens, also a delegate at the Thirtieth Annual Meeting of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario, held August 26-27 at the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto, gave an interesting and informative report. There was a short discussion as to the form of future meetings, a decision to continue the Closed Unit, the discussion regarding a joint meeting with the Unit of Trent in November.

Mrs. Matthews gave a warm welcome to all especially the new teachers and new health nurse. The short musical program was produced and gave an illustrated talk about the Highlands of Scotland. Major Matthews had spent three and one half years with the Canadian Forestry Corps in this rugged but beautiful country. His interesting descriptions and well arranged views roused many favorable comments.

At the close of the meeting a social cup of tea and delicious lunch was served by the hostess and lunch committee assisted by two Grade Eight pupils.

Sidney School Area Bd. Meets

The Sidney School Area Board recently had a long and busy session, it being their first regular meeting of the new term. This was held in the Glen Ross school with all members present.

The correspondence included a request for a certificate of teaching experience from Wm. P. Gordon, who taught at Bayside in 1918, and who now lives in Vancouver. It was left to the secretary to get the information from any records available or from Mr. H. J. Clarke, former inspector of public schools.

Accounts totalling $823.20 were presented and ordered paid. The bulk of this amount was cost on wiring, cleaning and repairing during the summer.

Jas. A. Warren reported that during the first week or school he had made a short visit to each of the schools in the area in attendance, accommodation, supplies etc., and while doing so took test samples of water from some of the schools. The remainder of these will be tested at the earliest opportunity. The reports had not yet been received at the time of the meeting. First figures placed the total attendance at 526 with approximately 60 beginners. A further list of supplies was presented and ordered by the department.

A request from the Junior Farmers' Club for the October meeting at S. S. 10 was granted with the proviso that suitable arrangements be made with the caretaker and that the school be left in the same condition as found.

Survey Ventilation

In order to improve the ventilation of some of the schools, especially during the colder weather, a survey was to be made by the supervising principal to see what schools are not equipped with or require some type of draught-breaker on the windows and to report to them to be raised but prevent direct draught upon the children.

It was stated, with the authorization of the inspector, Mr. Mackenzie, that the schools where the attendance was large and conditions such as to prejudicially affect the general progress of the school, it would be necessary to limit the age of beginners to six or six before December thirty-first of that year. The object is to discourage the sending of children to school before they are sufficiently physically fit to cope with Grade I work.

A motion was also made that the supervising principal with the

All tables reached a slam. Not all used the same bidding. Rule does it like this:

South	North
1 ♣	2 D
4 C	4 ♠
4 ♦	4 NT
5 H	6 S

The first simple takeout by north has shown a fit in two or three suits. With so strong a hand, why does he not make an immediate one-jump response? That would show six tricks. He has only five.

The second round jump by south shows discovery of 11 tricks in the pair. If north has so far promised only three, how many tricks can south now show? North thus learns that south has eight.

With five instead of three in his own hand north sees trick enough to consider a slam. Before reaching for slam, however, it is necessary for him to learn what suit is best for trump.

When south exhibits spades on the third round, north has enough support-and then some! Thing being settled, what next? Safety of a slam may depend on how many aces and kings they have.

Four no-trump is the ace and king investigation. Six hearts is the Kilsizer convention signal for two aces and two kings. Small slam in spades is the logical ending for therapeutics.

West led a heart and six spades is made. Haul it in.

Hollywood, Sept. 21 — (AP) — Feel that nervous fluttering in the autumn air? Radio's old standbys are flocking back, in new trappings, after a brief summer as most listeners can remember.

Bob Hope, Fred Allen, Eddie Cantor, Jack Carson, Edgar Bergen and others have changed their shows or their time periods radically.

Jack, just back from Europe, starts his 17th year Oct. 1. And with the same crew. Mary Livingstone's 17th year too. He's had the same writers for six years. Don Wilson has been with him 15 years. Phil Harris 13, Rochester 11, Dennis Day nine.

A Sinatra or Two

With Benny, every broadcast is a new and two although the basic character of the program remains the same. "It's the people that the fans like," says Jack. "As long as we stay in character we can do pretty much as we please. And we keep the show flexible. Maybe we put a guest star like Sinatra, for one time. Some weeks one or even two of the regular company aren't in the script at all."

Praises Britons

Jack returned from Europe about two weeks ago. He got a lot of socialist Britain's Fabulous and a lot of golf in the country-side. British audiences, he said, are just about the most gratifying in the world.

"I gave 'em the sort of thing I do here, except that I didn't have Dennis Day on or Rochester with me. Believe me, next time I want them along. Everybody there knows who they are."

Since he got back Jack has been watching his weight and getting off, as long as possible, any serious work on the season's broadcasts. He isn't worrying about television, either. "We'll take care of that when the time comes," he said.

The cast has been together so long that Benny doesn't have to work half as hard as he did. He does, personally, about three days instead of six.

BRITISH "LIFT" BILL

London, Sept. 21 — (Saturday) — It cost Britain £1,000,000 ($4,000,000) to supply food and fuel to Berlin by air from the end of June to Aug. 9, Christopher Mayhew, undersecretary for foreign affairs, announced in the House of Commons today.

Whipper, Atkins Clash Fri. For Empire Title

What can be strictly called a Maple Leaf Gardens feature wrestling attraction has been "stolen" by Arena Manager Walt Gerow for next Friday night here. Gerow has gained agreement from Whipper Billy Watson that he will meet the great Australian challenger Fred Atkins to headline Friday's show in the Memorial Arena ring. The bout will need no bally-hooing hereabouts for it is well known that Atkins has come all the way from Australia for just this opportunity. Shortage of dates in Toronto had put the bout off for some time when the Belleville interests closed in and made Watson a huge cash guarantee to take the match here.

In facing Atkins the Whip will be up against one of the best wrestlers in the whole world. Champion of Australia for several years now, big Fred is one of those hard big fellows who means business every minute he is in the ring. Atkins has a hold that has come to be a terror to North American matmen since his arrival here last Spring. He has never met Watson in the ring but has seen him in several bouts in Toronto and is still very confident of winning. The Aussie is the kind of man you have to believe when he says "I've met some very tough men in my day and I've yet to taste defeat. I don't think Watson will be any different from the top men I've taken into camp all over the world."

Last week's preliminary bout between Pat Flanagan and Jack Moore was rated one of the best scraps ever seen here. As a result both men have agreed to meet again in next Friday's semi-final but this time there will be a special time limit of forty-five minutes. In the third bout Jan Cetkin comes in to test a new man Ralph Martin of Montreal. The young handsome Martin is rated as one of the best new men the sport has seen in several years.

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

While there has been little reaction of the specific subjects which will be discussed during Sir Stafford Cripp's visit to Ottawa, his statement that he will "review the whole field of transitional economic relations between Canada and the United Kingdom" seems to leave the field wide open.

The visit of the British Chancellor of the Exchequer comes at a time when the two countries probably can get down to cases with a much better idea of what they can do together than in the critical days of a year ago.

It is only 13 months since British financial crisis of 1947 and her entrance upon her present austerity program. It is only 10 months since Canada announced her own austerity program. The wake of the British situation, it is only in the last few months that any confidence could be felt that they are making progress.

Both still have a long way to go. Britain particularly has to strengthen the adverse balance of trade, and Canada has many touchy problems in maintaining her world markets.

But in both lands have made what appears to be progress and presumably they should have plenty of data on what can be made to work.

The European recovery program is benefitting both countries, through enabling Britain to continue purchases in Canada and making payments in United States dollars; and announcements of sums being spent in Canada under E.R.P. may give the impression that Canada is in an improved position to make such expansions.

Against this argument is the fact that Canada gave virtually beyond her limit before E.R.P. and that the latter has not added anything, but has enabled trade to continue. Hence the counting on E.R.P. to continue, have to take into consideration the difficult path the program will have to tread each time it comes up in the United States Congress for yearly appropriations.

Only Canadian government officials can have much definite idea of what concessions they can make. It would seem likely that she will continue to help in the unfreezing the balance of the Canadian loan to Britain or in some other measure, but it is probably that she will ask some assurances in return, possibly increases in the amounts of goods which Britain is exporting here.

Markets Monday

Security markets continue depressed. New York prices Monday dropped to the lowest average level in five months. Canadian exchanges also dipped. Grain markets did fairly well, with Chicago corn firming after considerable fluctuation. New York cotton closed $1.00 a bale lower to 75 cents higher.

Ten Suffer Burns WhenBlastOccurs OnCreekFreighter

Halifax, Sept. 21 (CP) — Ten men suffered burns today in an explosion aboard the Greek freighter Orion which caught fire after grounding on Flower Island in the Strait of Belle Isle near Newfoundland's northern tip. The remaining 25 crew members abandoned ship.

Extent of the men's injuries was not known but they were being taken to the Grenfell Mission Hospital at St. Anthony, a fishing village nearby.

The Orion, bound from Sydney (N.S.) to Botwood (Nfld.) with a coal cargo, ran aground and burst into flames following the explosion in one of her holds.

Cleveland Indians Hottest Team in Circuit as Three-Way Race Enters Win-or-Else Stage

By RALPH RODEN

The Indians are roaring down the home stretch in their bid to bring Cleveland its first American League pennant since 1920.

The Indians scored their sixth straight victory and their 13th in their last 15 starts Monday night in beating Philadelphia Athletics 6-2. The victory enabled the pennant-hungry Tribe to stay hot a game behind the leading Boston Red Sox and a half a game ahead of the third-place New York Yanks. The Red Sox downed Detroit 7-2 and the Yanks staggered to an 8-7 triumph over St. Louis in day games.

Boudreau's warriors will rest today before taking on the Red Sox in Cleveland tomorrow night in a game that may go a long way in deciding the flag. The Red Sox locked with the Tigers again today and a Detroit triumph will enable Cleveland to tie the Sox for the lead.

Joe Gordon, who helped the Yanks win five pennants, sparked the Indians to victory before 44,442 hometown fans Monday night. Gordon drove in three runs on his 29th homer, a double and single.

Lefty Gene Bearden started for Cleveland and enjoyed a 6-0 lead going into the seventh when he was knocked from the hill as the A's counted all of their runs on five hits. The best the A's can do is the Red Sox for first place by winning all their remaining seven games while the Sox drop all of their 10.

Lefty Mickey Harris pitched the Red Sox to victory over the Tigers. Two errors in the first inning gave the Tigers a pair of unearned runs but the Red Sox blasted Freddie Hutchinson for 12 hits.

Trailing the Browns 5-3 going into the seventh, the Yanks scored twice to tie the score and then exploded with four in the seventh on three singles. They clinched the game in the eighth when Joe DiMaggio poled his 39th homer.

Dodgers Second

Brooklyn Dodgers broke their tie with St. Louis Cardinals for second place in the National League clipping the Chicago Cubs 6-3 as the Cards were idle. The victory moved the Dodgers to within 5 1-2 games of the pace-setting Boston Braves. The Braves' scheduled game with Cincinnati Reds was postponed because of rain.

Philadelphia Phillies, paced by Del Ennis, took both ends of a day-night doubleheader from the sagging Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-3 and 7-4.

Ennis cracked his 29th and 30th homers, one in each game, and drove in five runs as the Phils extended Pittsburgh's losing streak to six games.

Rochester Wings Ahead of Royals In Playoffs

(By The Associated Press)

Rochester Red Wings, latest "upstarts" of the International League, head back to Montreal today needing only one victory to blast the champion Royals from the Shaughnessy Cup play-off.

After dropping the first two games of their best-of-seven first-round series with the Royals the Red Wings rallied to take the last three in a row. Rochester finished the regular season in fourth place, barely making the grade on the last day.

They eked out a 5-5 verdict before 15,190 fans monday night at Rochester, when second baseman Jimmy Bloodworth of Montreal erred with the bases full to let in two runs in the eighth inning to win the other play-off series. Syracuse Chiefs defeated Newark Bears 2-1, in a tight 13-inning contest before 7,235 persons at Syracuse. The Bears lead the Chiefs 2-1 in the series and action resumes tonight in Newark.

Banta was sent to the showers by a three-run blast in the second inning, and Johnny Van Cuyk came in to become the winner.

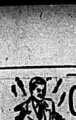
Surgont lasted until the eighth when the Royals came from behind to score three runs and lead 5-4. Steve Gerkin came in, relieved the last two batters and gained credit for the victory, although Al Papai pitched well enough inning for Rochester and set the Royals down in order.

The Bear-Chiefs contest was a thriller, as John Heiki hooked up in a brilliant pitching duel with Clarence Marshall of Newark.

Heiki gave up only four hits in the verdict in the last of the 12th when he walked with the bases loaded. Heiki allowed just four hits, one of them Yvo Sepkow's 4th homer in the fourth inning to knot the score at 1-all.

Ogdensburg Wins In Tenth Frame

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 21 — (AP)— Right hander Bill Gates of Watertown Athletics pitched hitless and scoreless ball for nine innings Monday night in the opening of the Border League's play-off finals, but lost in the 10 to Ogdensburg 1-0.



Ogdensburg Maples won in the 10th when they combined two passes and the lone hit they got off Gates. The Watertown hurler struck out 17 for a new playoff record in the border league.

Through the first nine innings, he allowed only two Ogdensburg batters to reach first base, one on an error and one on a pass.

Lou Sleator, a southpaw, allowed only four hits in blanking Watertown. He fanned 10 and walked four.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Jim Irving, who used to convert around the shuteasy position for the Chicago Cubs and later for Jersey City in the International League, and has since, to quote him, become a member of the "Retired Men's Brigade" has proven that baseball does not rob one of his fishing eye.

The genial Jim, who spends some of his summer holidays at his well-appointed cottage in Rosmere, daily, or sometimes matches wits with the pike, pickerel and bass of the bay harasbeing and finds that his batting average of well over .500. That dinner of Irving - caught beauties which graced our table the other night was testy evidence of Jim's ability with line and lure. Unlike a lot of other Isaak Waltons, the hero, James talks about his catch — thus produces the evidence. Naturally there is some margin of difference, but that is due to shrinkage.

Jim has had wide and varied experience in the realm of baseball. He played with the Cubs and Jersey Giants and during World War No. 2 coached a team in the service of Uncle Sam's Navy. Now he is a member of the Metropolitan Association of Colleges and works with pad and mask behind the plate and along the bases in big American college baseball games.

Outside of this, he is in charge of the baseball division of the Catholic High Schools Association of New York city, a job that demands and gets plenty of time and ability. And from reports at Jim's cottage he finds time for the MU to a nicety.

Stopping at the press table for a chat during the boxing matches in Memorial Arena the other night, Jim deplored the fact that American big league baseball is not what it used to be. Gone are the days of the immortal greats, and at the present time potential Ruths, Cobbs, Youngs, Gehrigs, DiMaggios, Wagners and the men who made baseball history, are scarce than Molotove at a cocktail party.

"Baseball players of today, especially in the big leagues just figure a game as the day's work and let it go at that," opined Jim. "It is vastly different to the set-up twenty years ago. And that is mainly due to the fact that the big leagues have organized baseball schools in a hunt for future talent both in the United States and Canada."

Irving comes to Canada and Rosmere every summer and spends his time at his beloved fishing. He married the former Lillian Blakely of this city. He expects to return to New York in the immediate future where he has offices in the Supreme Court Building.

Belleville Merchants after practically handing the game to the Napanee Lions in the opening game for the championship of the Belleville Baseball League, journey to Gilbardsville tonight where they meet Joe Killoran's gang in second of the two-of-three series. The game starts at 8:30 on the result hinges the fate of Merchants. They must win tonight or be relegated to the lines of "all-dame" baseball squads.

Tony Zale is a 1-3 favorite to clip Mickey Marcel Cordan, pride of Quebec province, in their fifth — record middleweight championship fight at Roosevelt Stadium, New Jersey, tonight. The veteran Zale has had sixteen knockouts, fifteen of them coming from his own lethal fists and the other from those of Rocky Graziano. Zale is guaranteed $130,000 for the fisticuffing which experts believe will end more or less abruptly.

Cordan, who has fought 94 professional bouts has only appeared four times in an American ring and was unimpressive in each. In May he lost the only decision of his career to an unknown Italian named Rondon in Brussels. Two months Cordan outpointed the same beakbuster, but the fact that he failed to halt the Belgian seems to indicate he has lost his punch. Although he flips a rather strong left hook, he is not believed to have enough to stop the rugged Zale.

•

E. A. Wilson's "Miss Canada" is an entry in the famous President's Cup race scheduled for next Saturday and Sunday in the shadow of the Parliament Hill. Driven by Harold Wilson of Bayersoll the Canadian speedster will face six starry American entries. "Miss Canada" won the race several years ago and with her powerful Mertin Rolls - Royce engine in perfect condition should make a strong bid for the silverware.

•

Guy Lombardo will not enter his boat as it is not physically or surgically possible. The doctors have estimated it will be five or six weeks before the cast on the broken Lombardo arm can be removed. There is some doubt that the famous Canadian orchestra leader will ever race again. He wants to, badly enough, although his wife, his brother and sister and the whole Lombardo band organization are arguing otherwise.

•

Four young hockey players are expected to arrive in the city this week or next. At the moment the pressing problem is suitable accommodation for them. What is needed is rooms and board for the youngsters who range between the ages of 17 and 19. Anybody having room and board for hire are requested to get in touch with Bill Cook or his staff at the tobacco shop on Front Street.

•

Something of a novelty in sport horseboxs is scheduled for next Sunday on the bay off the government dock. Several speedboats including "Miss Maple Leaf", "Mercury", "Miss Red Cap" and others from Belleville in conjunction with a number from Picton, Tweed and other parts of the district will take part in exhibition races starting at 2:00 o'clock. The event follows the sensational success of the inaugural exhibition held at Stoco Lake, Tweed on Sunday last.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Batting, Del Ennis, Phillies — Hit his 29th and 30th home runs of the season and drove in five runs as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates in a day-night doubleheader, 5-3 and 7-4.

Pitching, Mickey Harris, Red Sox — Scattered four hits to beat Detroit Tigers 7-2 and protect Boston's half game lead in American League.

Brown Bomber More Interested In Baseball

He was cornered in his dressing room Monday night, after he had gone six snappy rounds of an exhibition bout with Pat Comiskey of Paterson, N.J.

Here's what the heavyweight champion of the world had to say:

"Man, isn't that baseball race somethin!

Now about fighting, Joe

"Well," said Joe, forgetting the American League for a moment, "I felt pretty good tonight, even though I only trained two days."

What about Comiskey?

"For a young man," said Louis, "he knows how to take care of himself."

Then, after a moment's thought: "Comiskey don't run away like some fellows I know — Joe Walcott and Billy Conn."

Obviously Louis prefers someone who will stand up and slug. And in this Comiskey was his man; Comiskey could afford to be brave. Both boxers wore 16-ounce gloves.

By JACK HAND

Jersey City, N.J., Sept. 21 — (AP) — Champion Tony Zale is a solid 3-to-5 favorite to thump Marcel Cerdan, the French challenger, tonight at Roosevelt Stadium in their middleweight title bout that opens the big boxing season of the fall season.

An optimistic estimate from the promoters, the Tournament of Champions, calls for a crowd of 35,000 and a gross gate of $300,000. A cool, clear night is promised.

Two nights later, the rival 20th Century Sporting Club will present Ike Williams vs. Jesse Flores for the lightweight crown and Ray Robinson against Kid Gavilan in a non-title welter scrap at Yankee Stadium.

Due to a last-minute cancellation of the "heavyweight elimination contest" between Gus Lesnevich and Former Joe Walcott, the top prize of the Jersey extravaganza was sliced from $40 to $20. Zale and Cerdan also signed new contracts calling for $120,000 guarantee with a privilege of 40 per cent for the champ and $40,000 or 20 per cent for the Frenchman.

Makings of Thriller

The fight has all the makings of a thriller. Zale, a 34-year-old former steel mill steel worker, flattened Rocky Graziano in the third round to regain his championship at Newark three months ago. Cerdan, a willing trader with great stamina, is unbeaten in four American starts.

Expert opinion is divided. Zale's legs are the uncertain factor; Many think he will have to get Cerdan early or not at all. Most agree that it will be Cerdan if it goes the full 15 rounds.

In this corner, it looks like Zale by a knockout in five rounds. Anton Raadik, an unheralded Estonian, had Marcel down on the three times in the last round at Chicago and he has been hit freer by all four Illinois bouts than Zale has knocked out 16 of 17 opponents. The champ is a devastating puncher with both hands as Graziano found out last June.

According to Jersey custom, there will be no judges. The referee, by the same token, will be the fight, will have the sole vote. In case of a knockdown, an automatic eight-count must be taken. That's a regulation of the National Boxing Association.

King Retains Crown by K.O. Of Harvey Mathe

Toronto, Sept. 21 (CP)—Arthur King of Toronto, Canadian lightweight boxing king, retained his boxing crown with a technical knockout over gangling Harvey Mathe of Sudbury in the 8th round of a scheduled 12-round title bout here last night.

King didn't altogether live up to the "Tiger" nickname in his battling amateur days brought him. But he had little trouble in battering Mathe with blistering left hooks. The lightweight champion weighed in at 133 1-2 and Mathe, fighting his 11th professional bout, gave King the edge at 131 pounds.

A little stale from lack of fights in recent months, King took a few rounds to warm up and then let loose with a barrage of lefts that floored the green challenger twice before referee Bobby Laurence called the match at the 10 second mark in the eighth.

King now is ready to leave for England Wednesday to fight contender Billy Thompson for the British Empire lightweight title.

Close to 6,000 fans watched the five bout card that also featured Tommy Spencer 146 3-4 from New Waterford, N.S., meeting Harry Hurt, 142 1-4 from Montreal, in the semi final.

In the preliminaries, Pee Zaduk of Guelph and Toronto 157 1-2 beat Bobby Zaiter, Montreal 163 1-4, for two rounds of a scheduled six round middleweight go before knocking him out at 1.30 mark in the third.

And here is Norm Thompson clean striking Brockville fighter who made a hit with boxing fans on last Wednesday's show. He will meet George Polmanter of Belleville in the main bout of tomorrow night's boxing card at the Arena. Other Belleville fighters will also show there when in an outstanding parade of fisticuffery from all parts of Ontario.

Stanley Cup Champs Start Training Period

(By The Canadian Press)

Twenty-five players reported to St. Catharines, Ont., Monday to try out for National Hockey League champion Toronto Maple Leafs first fall training session.

Coach Hap Day ordered an all-out workout to get his Stanley Cup champions in shape for an eight-game exhibition tour beginning a week from Thursday.

Managing director Conn Smythe praised the youngsters on his squad but said there is no one in sight who can fill the shoes of centre Syl Apps, who retired last spring.

"The kids are good but it will take more than kids to win us another Stanley Cup," said Smythe.

Sarnia Imperials not only lost their Ontario Football Union championship on Saturday but also the services of star halfback Jack Lord for the season. Red Douglas, coach of the Sarnia gridders, also announced that Tony Lee, former McGill lineman, will also be out of action a couple of weeks with an injured ankle.

George Ross of West Bay, N.S. Canadian middleweight champion, will take on Pete Zaduk of Guelph, Ont., in a 10-round, non-title bout at Glace Bay, N.S., Oct 11, it was announced in Glace Bay Monday.

Detroit Red Wings of the stellar National Hockey League farm club Indianapolis Capitols of the American League swung into their final week of training at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., with the first cuts made in the squad. Charlie Clark, 18-year-old netminder has returned to Hartland N.B., while winngman Jack Hower has returned to his home in Toronto. Forwards Alex Irving and Alex Del Vecchio are stated to return to Fort William, where they will line up with the Hurricane intermediate club.

The return to form of little Billy Reay, after a mediocre season last year has made the lightweight champion leader of the Montreal Canadiens pre-season training camp at St. Hyacinthe Que. Reay scored three goals in an inter-squad game Monday to lead his team to a 6-3 victory over the Whites.

Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, climbed into the big wholesale murder against National League pitching as the season entered its final week. He jumped his league-leading mark from 37 to 375 during the last week. Runner-up in the batting race is Mitchie Ashburn of the Philadelphia Phillies with .332.

Boston's Ted Williams virtually had his second straight American League batting title—and the fourth in five seasons—clowed away with eight-point margin last week to .376 some 20 points ahead of the field. Lou Boudreau was runner-up with .355.

He picked up something in the neighborhood of $4,000 when he jammed down an eagle three on the 91st hole of what was scheduled as strictly a 72-hole tournament. By that time it was down to a sudden death match between Ed and Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, after they had eliminated three others in a 18-hole medal play round.

The fracas at the rolling Fircrest course came up to the 72-hole mark Sunday with five men tied for first money of $2,150 at 274 strokes, 10 under par. Monday they went out to play it off —Vic Ghezzi of Englewood N.J., Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans and Chuck Congdon of Tacoma completing the quintet.

They decided the winner would take the $2,150 and the others would split what was left of the $6,430 in the top five prizes. On top of that he winner won a go-kart the gate, and there were around 1,600 people in the gallery at $2 a copy.

Ghezzi had injured a rib in a lusty swing in the Sunday play and was in pain on every shot yesterday, finishing two strokes back of the field with a 75. The newcomer to favorite Congdon, was hooking his drives into deep lies and wound up with 72.

Haas, leader for three days, three putted too many greens, also closing with a 72. Oliver and Middlecoff wound up with 73 and went into the sudden death playoff.

Both were on the green with their second shots on the 493 yard par five extra hole, Middlecoff 12 feet away and Oliver four feet out. Middlecoff's putt got his birdie four— and lost the hole to he Oliver eagle.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By JOE MacSWEEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Sept. 21 — (CP) — In the pause between summer and autumn, when baseball's well on the wane, comes a lull in the affairs of the sport world, that is known as the pen pusher's bane. And a deadly time it is, too, for hardworking Marilime . sport scribes, some of whom just gave up and muttered something like "throw a rock up in the air, and where it lands I survive, you're not."

Alex (Halifax Herald) Nickerson's rock fell at the feet of Joe Louis, always an interesting personage to Alex and the rest of us. 3. What Nick said — very convincingly, of course — that that he knew all the time the Brown Bomber was kidding about retiring.

"It was clear to us at the Pompton Lakes training camp last June," said Nick, "when he announced his retirement that he had no intention of stopping in this way."

Ed (Sydney Post Record) Smith heaved his boulder all the way to Boston, and quoted a beer, city diamond oracle in discussing slugger Ted Williams. It seems that Williams often takes a few hard shakes of teammates after poling out a home run.

Says Ed: "Ted has called handshaking at home plate 'shock therapy' — putting on a show for the benefit of the gathering. He thinks that much of it is traditional hokum merely for the customers. And he wants no part of it."

The survey pointed out such unstarling things as that hockey is Canada's most popular sport, but what Dave didn't like was that no mention was made of bowling.

"Bowling," said Dave, is a sport in which more people take part than in any other, in these parts at least. There are more bowlers than hockey players, ball players, basketball players and so on."

Here they are two broths of bhoys and two as handsome specimens of masculine pulchritude as has ever flaunted their torsos for the benefit of a Belleville wrestling public. They are Whipper Billy Watson, Pride.of East York and Fred Atkins, Public Wrestling Idol No. 1 of Sydney, Canberra, Melbourne and other points in Australia who will battle for the British Empire wrestling crown at Memorial Arena here on Friday night. The Whip will make his first appearance in Belleville this year, and with Atkins' well-known popularity and clean wrestling methods the battle should be one of the best seen here in years.

Major Leagues Set All-Time Attendance Record

New York Sept. 21 (AP) —With two weeks still to go in the 1948 baseball season the major leagues already have set an all-time attendance record, an Associated Press survey disclosed today.

Led by the Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees each of whom passed the two million mark, the 16 clubs have attracted 19,251,481 paid admissions thru the turnstiles.

This total surpasses the previous record of 19,076,539 set by the majors last year. With the pennant races as tight as they are the major fans are certain to top the 20,000,000 mark in attendance for the first time in history.

Eight clubs have already drawn more this year than last, with five of them setting all time marks. The Indians are setting the pace having played to 2,345,-355 paid admissions in 72 home games, a major league season mark. The Yankees are close behind with 2,242,023.

Other clubs besides the Indians which have created earn records include the pennant-minded Boston Braves and Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League and Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics in the American league.

MUNICIPAL ASSOC.

Mr. Bush also criticized the present system under which municipalities are not responsible for homeless children born in another municipality.

Claimed Provincial Problem

"We in North Bay are paying for two children who live in Toronto and yet we have no authority who reside in Timmins, he said.

"This a provincial problem as it could happen that these children might subsidize in some way money without realizing that they are related. They should be placed in the care of the city or town or know and help each other."

Mayor Hutchinson H. E. Pense of Kingston asked that the provincial government pay more for the care and protection of children of unmarried mothers.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar told the gathering that a report soon to be released will show that the total debenture debt of the municipalities will not exceed $3,000,000 this year. That will be less than 50 per cent of what it was 16 years ago.

Committee Named

A nominating committee was appointed, comprising Clerk Alan S. Stewart, Town Solicitor Richard Raine, Peterborough, and Warden Charles Coutts, Middlesex County, to bring in a slate of officers for the association.

The association's secretary J. B. Chamberlain of St. Thomas presided. H. D. Bateman, Belleville, spoke on an assessor's standard of values." His chief point was that there need not be an increase in assessments because of the high costs of the present day.

E. V. Radbourne, Grey County who spoke to he delegates of the county assessor, suggested adop-

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

I was walking along with Shorty Judge just walking along and Shorty whispered, Hay, shh cunt say anything, just keep on walking past easy, but I bet the guy's a burglar trying to get in that house with a skeliton key.

Meaning a slepicious looking man trying to open a front door partly with a key and partly by rattleing the door nob, and I whispered, Oh, boy, I bet he knows nobody's home and he's trying to get in to look for loose jewlry.

And we kept on going a while and looked back, and he was still doing it, and Shorty said, Let's go back and ask him questions and see if we should go to jail.

And we went back and stood in front of the house, me saying, Went the key well, mister?

Oh yes, it werks perfectly, the man said. Im truthful in, there is 7 or 8 men inside, holding the door on me head said.

Sounding like a gilty bum excuse, and Shorty said, Do you live here?

Well no, as a matter of fact I live 3 blocks farther up the street but we've got a lot of moths in my house, so here's where I hang my hat and coat, the man said.

Sounding even giltier and I said, Do you mind if we ask to see you, mister, so you can ask his advice?

So and jump in a deep lake unless you can swim, the man said, and just then some lady opened the door, saying, for mercy sakes why don't you rind the bell when your key sticks, instead of trying to shake the door down? Now come on in, she said.

Which he did, and I said, Anyway, I bet he had a gilty conscience about something, I said, and Shorty said, I bet he's a counter fitter.

And we boosted each other up to look in the frunt window to see if we could see anything slepicious.

Which we didn't, so we kept on going.

Heywood, Lancas., England — (CP) — Michael Leach, 12, beat all the grown-ups in an archery contest and found himself faced with a financial problem.

He won the Scorton Silver Arrow Trophy, and with it the responsibility of providing wine for toasts at next year's contest, and entertaining next year's winner at lunch. With his 6d. (25 cents) weekly pocket money, he foresees a year of running errands and cleaning shoes.

Says Michael: "If I win again next year, will I have to pay for just my own lunch?"

Julius Pilgrim, 63, who married Rosemary Birkinshaw, 23, a year ago, says:

"It's been a perfect marriage. On my wedding day my moustache was snowy white. Since then it's been slowly coming back to its original ginger. What better proof of successful marriage could anyone need?"

Sterling, Ill. — (AP) — Miss Louise Cash, Whiteside county's home adviser, was entertained by the Tampico Home Bureau yesterday.

A snake, an apple and a mouse.

It'll be even handier now.

COST OF 'EX' GRANDSTAND

Toronto — (CP) — Ald. Allan Lamport Monday night asked city council to investigate the cost of the new, city-financed Canadian National Exhibition grandstand. He said it will cost three or four times more than the original $1,000,000 estimate.

Ald. Lamport also asked for a reason why work was stopped on a playing field in front of the grandstand.

"One of the main reasons we agreed to spend so much money was because of the crying need for a decent sports bowl in Toronto," he said.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

We never had been engaged, and until his unexpected arrival at Hillyard House, I had not had any definite expectation of being engaged. Our early friendship had all been breathless fear and wonder and mad unreasoning incredulous joy. But now, in the last few days, it had been much, much more. From the first moment of his appearance he had taken the attitude of the accepted lover; all enthusiasm, happiness, devotion. He had said nothing of an engagement; he had simply taken it for granted that we loved each other, and had been parted and were together again.

I knew, as any woman would have known, that if Bill loved me he would have suggested an immediate marriage, now, in the beginning of his last home leave and let the consequences lead us where they might. I knew that he must feel that, wanted that, a few days earlier. And I had to take it a second time, the stunning fact that that happiness was not for me.

He was splendid! He seemed to me the most arresting figure in the whole world, in my world anyway. Looking at him, one appreciated the whole bitter waste of war. To take that magnificent mind and body, the hard brown eyes, the bright quick - glancing slowness, the keen, shrewd, confident and deep laugh — to cling that on a hot tropical beach, just a ruined mass of young flesh and bone with flies buzzing over it — no, that was criminal absurdity on somebody's part, and the Bill would be too high for grieving women and unborn children to pay for.

And even while I thought these things I was ipsing him, he was moving steadily away from me, he was Virginia's, for her lightest word to make silent and speedy or transport with delight.

Those last days I never want to live through again. I had to get up and smile and go down to breakfast with Ya's arm about my waist; I had to wander out on the terrace into the warming morning sunshine and make plans for the day, laugh and talk and move about, and all the time the deadly weight of growing misery and jealousy and hurt pride was pulling me down like a physical weight. I could not breathe when I was alone; I could say to myself that Bill's infatuation for Virginia didn't amount to much, that men rarely fall in love as swiftly and completely as that, but the moment I saw them together it began again as her complacent maddening little air of confident possession, his helplessness and adoration and foolish happiness.

We went on a beach picnic, and I was left on the cliff, sitting beside Clay, while both the other men scrambled down to the rocky pools below and bent over the rocks with Virginia. She was exclaiming and wondering about everything she saw, but Bill and Virginia were inseparable, ready to be enthusiastic too. I would have gone down with them, of course, but all four of the big brown male hands had been extended to her, and as their descending heads had disappeared over the cliff she had turned back to toss me a gay farewell over her shoulder:

"Have a good time, old folks!"

The sentence drifted off into the sunny air and mingled with the steady pulse of the surf and the whining of the gulls. Clay was lying back on the short warm grass of the dunes, the soft sunshine full on his face. It was a long lean face, with a big mouth and wide, wide eyes. Everything about Clay was definite, in spite of his affliction, and it was with a mild surprise in his voice that he said:

"I do," I said somewhat falteringly. "But—you see — I have a sort of headache—"

My head indeed ached, my whole being ached, and I felt the tears very near, and my speech speaking because my throat grew thick.

"Young Brent seems to have fallen in love with you, Jean," Clay said, adding the last 3 words after a pause in which my heart stopped beating.

"Oh, he is — he's mad about it all. He says he never saw a place he loved so much in all his life."

"More than Virginia does, eh?"

"Well, she doesn't like the sea at all, really, and she likes to be where shops and children, at that."

"I suppose so. But you like Hillyard House."

"Oh, too much!" I admitted with a rueful laugh. "Clay," I began again after a pause, "don't you and I, that is, isn't Virginia Carolan. Shouldn't he know?"

"Why should he?" I mean, Brent, of course."

"Because it doesn't seem fair—he likes her so much — and he actually thinks she's—"

"I don't suppose he likes her, in this space of time, well enough to really care about it," Clay said doubtfully.

"But he does. At least I think he's going to ask her to marry him."

"You don't really think so, Libby? He's off for overseas duty in a minute."

"Yes, but people manage these things much faster in war time."

"Isn't that trespassing on your discretion?" Clay asked slowly.

"Well—not exactly—" My throat was thick, and to my own consternation and confusion I began to cry.

"You like him that much, eh?" Clay asked again after a few minutes.

"I don't know why I'm crying," I said, sniffing and trying to laugh, wiping my eyes and blowing my nose.

"Do you love him, Liberty?" Clay went on. His tone was so impersonal, especially when coming from a man stretched out on the dunes, his eyes shut, his voice far away, that I could answer shakily.

"Yes, I think so. Always. And I thought he didn't —— And then when he came here I thought that perhaps he did, too."

I faltered to silence, and Clay, after a pause, said thoughtfully:

"Tough!"

"Virginia know this?" was his next question. It somewhat relieved my overburdened heart to answer:

"Well, she must know that he wouldn't have come here except to me me — yes, she knows. I've told her there was someone—she'd know right away that it was Bill."

"I doubt if it goes very deep," he said in the tone of one who wants to comfort.

"Even if it doesn't," I said forlornly. And then, suddenly realizing that I might not soon have another opportunity to talk to him confidentially, I went back: "Clay, what about the salt-up? Is it fair to him to let it go on?"

It sounded cheap and harsh, put that way, and I hastened to add: en it.

"I don't mean just that. But —" but his thinks she's Virginia Carolan. He'd naturally suppose that at least I think it might — to find out that she's just Virginia's friend."

"Why, should it?"

"Well, but he doesn't know her real name."

"Doesn't think, then, that she's told him?"

"Oh no, I'm sure not!"

"Then I shouldn't suppose, a great deal of confidence has been established between them. Shan't tell him when the right minute comes, and if they really like each other it won't affect him at all."

"Then it's not up to us?"

"Very decidedly not."

"How will it come out, Clay? When will Virginia and Billee tell us all?"

"Well, immediately, I should think. It's probably very hard for Billee to keep this up, but after all he loves all its point if she gives up now."

"You think Munro knows?"

"I don't think anyone knows but you and me. And we're just guessing."

"Oh, I've gone beyond guessing," I said.

We were silent then in the sweet still sunshine of the cliffs and under the mantle of the aromatic air. Sounds that came to us only seemed to underscore the wide peace of the autumn afternoon.

The gulls' pipe was far away; the sea was hushed and gentle. Clay lay sprawled comfortably in the curves of the dunes and the sedge grasses, one set staring toward the west, where the sun was going slowly down the sky, and at the unanswering and uncaring sea.

Presently the other three came struggling up from the shore and the rocks, full of talk of sea anemones and starfish and tiny crabs, and Virginia had a reproach for me. "Lou lazy! It was such fun down there!"

Then we walked up the path to the old sunken gate and the house where Clay and I, not speaking, were ahead, and we could hear the laughter and nonsense of the trio who dawdled along happily behind us.

It is hard enough, heaven knows to lose the man you love, but it is surely an additional bitterness in the cup when this must happen right before your eyes and the man lost to a younger and prettier woman.

It is happening all the time, of course; it happened to me not a long — satisfied dance — but while some girls' hearts do not break, by the sight of the one man, the dear and detached boy, held captive by somebody else. It is an agony that probably I have had to know just the same. I knew all along in my heart exactly what was happening, but it had to be proved to me over and over.

Bill proved it briskly and mercilessly. He was too happy in his engagement to Virginia to remember me at all. Before he had been at Hillyard House four days he was explaining her to me, calling my attention to this adorable trait and that. He began to make casual suggestions about the old place that would be a real aid for a croquet court, that corner of the garden would show a lovely view if the tangle of old trees was cut away.

Six Prime Ministers Expected to Attend Conference in London

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 21 (CP) — The largest meeting of Commonwealth Prime Ministers will bring diverse personalities around the council table in London in October.

Six prime ministers are expected, from the United Kingdom, Canada, New Zealand, India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

The Australian Prime Minister 63 year old J.B. Chifley, visited London in July for consultations with the British government. In October he will be represented by his deputy, outspoken Dr. H. V. Evatt, External Affairs Minister.

Representatives of Southern Rhodesia, with a unique status as a "self governing" colony which conducts its business with Britain through the Commonwealth Relations Office, are also expected.

If present plans carry through he following will receive the changing structure of the Commonwealth and Empire to its problems:

United Kingdom—Clement Attlee, 65, son of a Conservative English family, a former social worker and Labor leader in the Commons, Winston Churchill, wartime deputy in parliament and since, 1945, Prime Minister and leader of the Conservative government with a sufficient majority to carry through a far-reaching Socialist program.

Will Be Elder Statesman

Canada—William Lyon Mackenzie King, 73, who will be the "elder statesman" of the conference. His grandfather, William Lyon Mackenzie, was counted "rebel" when he fought for constitutional changes in Canada-first during a second period of service as a Commonwealth Prime Minister, Mackenzie King has helped to form and maintain Commonwealth Association.

Australia—Robert Gordon Menzies, 53 Scottish Highlander who once worked for the Liberal party and went to New Zealand in 1910 to become a leading force in the Labor movement and Prime Minister in 1940. He retains traces of a soft Scottish accent but his actions are crisp, decisive and consistently in favor of continued close association of Commonwealth countries, a keynote of

New Zealand policy.

India—Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, 58, Prime Minister, son of a prosperous lawyer, who was educated at exclusive Harrow school in England, went to Cambridge University and adopted western ideas and democracies. He became engrossed in Indian self-government aspirations and was Gandhi's right hand man. He went to prison for his part in Indian demonstrations against British rule but accepted Dominion status a year ago and recently ordered the Indian Army "regrouped" along Indian National Anthem at Commonwealth conferences.

Pakistan—Liaquat Ali Khan, 53 Prime Minister who comes to the conference flight through remote Indian Mountain - districts which have been scenes of recent restless tribal forces. As spokesman for his country he often proves a strong advocate of self-government in border fights, but in the interests of Commonwealth has conceded Dominion status, he worked co-operatively with Nehru and other Hindu Ministers. Tall-bald, bespectacled, he was a prosperous landowner in old India. Like Nehru, he was educated in England.

Ceylon—Don Stephen Senanayake, now in His 40s but still known as "Big Stephen" as a wrestling jungle boy" because of youthful prowess as a wrestler. A devout Buddhist, he was educated in a Church of England school, Long a protagonist of self-government, he was imprisoned briefly in the First World War when disorders broke out, but commanded with appreciation that British officials had admitted their mistake and let him go.

Joint Council Approved By Municipal Assoc.

Kingston, Sept. 21. (CP) — The formation of a joint council of Municipal Associations of Ontario Monday was approved by the opening session of the first three-day annual convention here.

The action was taken on the recommendation of the executive committee.

The joint council will study material dealing with municipal government and will develop and conduct courses of study and training for municipal employees. It will also deal with such other matters as may be referred to it by the participating associations.

Participating associations now are, the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities, the Association of Assessing Officers of Ontario, the Ontario Chapter of the Municipal Finance Officers Association of Ontario and the Ontario Municipal Association.

The executive committee's recommendation—which was adopted—suggested that the joint council may admit additional municipal associations to become participating associations on such terms and conditions as it may from time to time provide.

The council will be composed of two representatives from each of the four participating associations. On the first three representatives will be appointed for one year, two for two years and two for three years. Each of such representatives appointed after first three will be appointed for a term of three years. Any vacancy on the council will be filled by the association concerned.

The joint council's officers will be a chairman, vice-chairman and secretary-treasurer.

The convention granted authority for the sending of up to $500 by the association to defray the joint cost of work undertaken by the joint council.

Envoy's Return Said Indication Parleys at Crisis

Berlin, Sept. 20 (Reuters)— Political observers here today regard the scheduled return of Frank Roberts, Foreign Secretary Bevin's personal envoy in Moscow, as the clearest indication yet that the Moscow negotiations on German problems have reached a crisis.

They believe the western powers are very seriously considering the advisability of terminating the negotiations immediately.

This situation has arisen, it is believed, because Foreign Minister Molotov, at his last interview with the western envoys Saturday, failed to agree clearly to a request of the three powers that the Soviet government send fresh instructions to Marshal Vasily Sokolovsky, Soviet commander in Berlin, which would make it possible for the four military governors to resume their talks on the Berlin blockade and Berlin's currency.

GOUZENKO VOICES GRATITUDE

Toronto, Sept. 20 (CP) — Igor Gouzenko, who exposed the Russian espionage system in Canada, has expressed his appreciation by letter for Gideon Bibles sent to him and his wife by the Christian Commercial Men's Association of Canada. This was revealed at a weekend conference of the organization.

Two Persons Killed, Many Wounded In Florida Storm

Winds Reach 160 Miles An Hour at Key West

Miami, Fla., Sept. 22 (AP)—Tornado-toppled hurricane winds tore through the Florida Everglades early today and headed for the heart of the state's rich citrus belt.

Two persons were killed and many injured, mostly by flying glass or debris. Winds reached 160 miles an hour in gusts at Key West. Highest winds on the Florida mainland were an estimated 125 miles an hour at Everglades City.

Hurricane winds — 75 miles an hour and upward — thrashed Miami and the lush resort area on the lower east coast as the "eye" of the storm bobbed across The Everglades, 50 miles to the west. However, even the United States Weather Bureau said early today "the worst is over" in that area.

Moving northward at the rate of 18 miles an hour, the storm headed for the citrus region in Central Florida, where millions of trees are heavy with ripening fruit.

Winds increased in Central Florida and the storm's present course would put the eye of the north-northeasterly direction from Everglades City to Daytona Beach reaching the Atlantic coast late today.

Blown from Roof

William John Evans, 46, engineer at the Talem Surf Club on Miami Beach, was killed when blown from the roof of the five-storey building. Mrs. E. Hyde-Smith, 41, was electrocuted when she touched a live wire in the yard of her home on Miami Beach.

Damage to Miami was limited to uprooted palm trees, broken power lines, smashed windows and billboards. Schools remained closed and business was suspended.

Miami Beach reported some show windows blown in, trees uprooted or snapped off by the gusty, swirling winds. Rough water undermined a span of the MacArthur causeway connecting Miami and Miami Beach and the bridge was closed to traffic.

Hundreds of cottage trickled in. Thirty privately - owned boats were sunk, four of the Coast Guard Navy craft damaged and 2 Coast Guard boats overturned at Key West. Houses were unroofed and water rose to a depth of three feet on the east side of the island.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Sept. 22 (CP)—Synopsis: Clear skies over crisp, cool air feature Ontario weather today. Tuesday night's minimums were generally near 40 in southern sections and ranged down to about 20 in northern regions. Highest temperatures this afternoon are expected near the 60-mark in all regions. Little change is indicated in this weather Thursday, although tomorrow's maximums are expected to be a few degrees higher.

Opposition Noted

Toronto, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Increased opposition to power-saving measures came Tuesday from labor unions.

Officials of the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) said they had advised U.A.W. locals to avoid working Saturday or Sunday unless Hydro officials call the union into consultation to avert a shortage.

Spokesmen for the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) said they do not believe their members are asked to work weekends without premium pay, union officials should have the power situation explained to them.

Efforts to arrange for Saturday work by members of the Toronto Printing Pressmen's Union (A.F.L.) employed by publishing houses broke down over the issue of overtime pay, union sources said.

Employees of 20 Ontario firms worked last Saturday and Sunday in response to Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission requests that plants be operated at night and during weekends to make good use of imported power available at those times.

COMPULSORY CUTS MAY BE AVOIDED SAYS SAUNDERS

Replies to Appeal to Eliminate Wastage of Electricity Have Been Encouraging

Hydro Chairman Robert Saunders said Tuesday night that replies to his appeal to eliminate waste of electricity had been encouraging.

"In some respects replies are an assurance against cut-offs which would be injurious not only to industry but also to the pay envelopes of the workers," he said in a broadcast. Premier Leslie M. Frost said the situation here also appeared favorable. He said compulsory cutoffs through pulling of hydro switches will not be necessary in Toronto if voluntary savings continue at their present satisfactory level.

A sour note was sounded by some labor union officers who balked at having unionists switch working hours to enable plants to use imported electric power. The Ontario Hydro Commission bought some power from a Buffalo, N.Y., company to offset the shortage brought by a dearth of water at generating facilities coupled with unprecedented industrial demands. Some also imported power is available only late at night and on Saturdays and Sundays.

Union Beeson Balk

Although the request for power saving has been widely publicized for more than a week, the union bosses said they hadn't been told of it personally. Nor had they been consulted by the Hydro Commission on the question of night and weekend work without premium pay.

The reluctant unions are the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.), the Toronto Printing Pressmen's Union (A.F.L.) and the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.).

Owen Sound, which has been exceeding its power quota, spent a half-hour power blackout late Tuesday in the second consecutive day. The Owen Sound Public Utilities Commission also considered the possibility of generating additional electricity with steam engines.

In Niagara Falls, Ont., the Imperial Chemical Industries of Empire Chapter hit upon a novel plan to enlist workers in the power-saving drive. Its 50 members organized clubs into "telephone" system, asking housewives to pass on the conservation request to four others who would relay it.

INDIRECT THREATS MADE AGAINST MEDIATOR'S LIFE

Dr. R.J. Bunche Placed Under Police Guard

Haifa Israel, Sept. 22 (AP) — Reliable sources said today members of the outlawed Stern Gang have made at least indirect threats against the life of Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, acting United Nations mediator in Palestine.

Bunche, an American, has taken over the duties of Count Folke Bernadotte, assassinated last Friday in Jerusalem. The Israeli government has accused members of the Stern Gang of Bernadotte's slaying.

The sources said that because of the Israeli government's extreme concern over these threats Bunche and his top associates have been placed under a heavy guard of Jewish police.

Count Bernadotte was known to have had no similar police guard when he first began his mediation work. He refused it, however, saying there should be no need for such a precaution.

Bunche is making now only at the buildings where Bunche and his aides live and work were heavily guarded by Jewish police. The sources said they were on duty at the direct order of David Ben-Gurion, Israeli Premier and Defence Minister.

Meanwhile, it was learned Ben-Gurion was reported to have told Israelis they would have to accept the guard whether or not they wanted it, saying the Israeli government would have to bear the blame for further terrorist acts and has the right to take all possible precautions.

Despite the Israeli government's action in outlawing terrorist groups after the mediator's death the sources said there had come contact with dissident Jewish groups which there was every reason to suppose the Stern Gang was broken yet.

These sources said the arrest by Israeli police of 250 suspected dissidents could not make the group inoperative. In the past, the Stern group was believed to have had about 1,200 members.

It is presumed most of the leaders are still at large, the sources said, and there was every reason to suppose the Stern Gang was broken yet.

It is presumed most of the leaders are still at large, the sources said, and there was every reason to suppose the underground once more as they did when they struck their fierce blows against British authorities during the last years of the Palestine mandate.

Prospector Found Dead in Cabin

Cobalt, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Thomas Fitzgibbon, 72-year-old retired prospector, was found dead today in his flaming cabin on the east side of Cobalt Lake, near here. Cause of death was believed due to asphyxiation.

Patriquin lived alone in the frame structure. Born in Halifax, he came to Cobalt in the 1903 boom days of 1904 and made a confidential fortune through the sale of his claims containing silver mine with a partner.

Firemen found the body on the floor inside the cabin after forcing entry. It has not been decided whether an inquest will be held.

Cripps Gives Encouraging Picture of Great Britain's Financial, Economic Recovery

Ottawa, Sept. 22 (CP) — Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, today gave the Canadian people an encouraging picture of Britain's financial and economic recovery and stressed the need of maintaining the "greatest possible flow" of mutual trade between Canada and the United Kingdom.

In an address prepared for delivery before the Canadian Club and broadcast over the CBC he traced the development of Britain's economic difficulties since the end of the war, told of the steps taken to solve them and reported substantial increases in the British production from that far in 1946.

He made only one brief reference to his economical and financial discussions here with members of the Canadian government.

That was when he said that Britain hoped she now would have the period of U.S. Marshall Plan aid in which "to work out together, to our mutual satisfaction, some long-term arrangements for the financial and economic relations of our two countries," he added:

"We fully realize the urgency and importance of this and it is one of the reasons which has brought Mr. Ernest Bevin and I to put our hearts and heads into the job jointly and co-operatively. Here there can be no delay . . . as to our ultimate success."

Adverse Balance

He said the main problem in Britain's economic difficulties still lay in her adverse balance of trade with the western hemisphere, where she now was running a deficit of almost $1,000,000,000 a year, more than her total deficit with all the world. However, she hoped to reduce this drain on her gold and dollar resources.

Britain's first task was to close the remaining gap in her dollar balance of payments and then to tackle the task of raising her present standard of living and then to tackle the task of raising her present standard of living. This would call for still greater production. Britain already was launching a drive for improved productivity which would enable her to export more and import still larger quantities of foodstuffs.

Looking to the future, Sir Stafford said Britons were confident that by the end of the E.R.P. period "we can balance our overseas payments, provided we continue with our present policies and that we shall still be largely dependent on Canada who will at that time be buying a great volume of our exports to exchange."

Britain as Vital Factor

Turning to Canada, he said Britons admired the Dominion for the advances in its industrial development.

". . . we regard Canada as one of the vital factors in United Kingdom — as a vitally important partner in our closest economic circle, and we therefore have no doubts or hesitation as to the ability — indeed more than that, as to the necessity — of maintaining the greatest possible flow of mutual trade between our two countries."

Age-Old Pre-Cambrian Rocks At Madoc Attract Geologists From Western Ontario

London Ont. Sept. (CP) — Equipped with haversacks, pocket-lenses and a thirst for knowledge of the earth's beginnings, 35 young geologists of the University of Western Ontario will start on a five-mile trip October 4 to Madoc, East of Peterborough, where the oldest age-old pre-Cambrian rocks of Ontario meet the comparatively new Paleozic era.

The trip will last five days and will be an annual event, said Dr. Alan M. Bancroft, professor of geology.

Dr. Bancroft in Northern Hastings County is Wilberforce the site of the new discovery of radio activity minerals including pitch blend from which radium is recovered.

Indian Pleads Innocence In Murder Charge

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 22 — (CP) — The murdered trial of Richard Rivers, 19, accused of strangling his 21-year-old sister-in-law in a hotel room here last July, was scheduled to start today.

About 30 witnesses are expected to testify concerning the discovery of the battered, nearly nude body of the strangled victim in Rivers' younger brother in a hotel room in Blind River, 90 miles east of here. A chambermaid found the girl's body on a blood-soaked bed, and the trail drew lightly around her pack.

Evidence at preliminary hearing in Blind River last summer was that Rivers registered at the hotel shortly after the body was found. He was reported seen with the girl earlier in the day and of her death and was seen in the hotel room the same night.

Both Richard Rivers and his girl's husband, Leonard Rivers, are members of a distinguished family of Indian chiefs of Thessalon, Mich., but was released after he gave police a satisfactory account of his activities the night of the slaying.

$5,000 Dice Game Broken Up By Toronto Police

Toronto, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Toronto morality officers sledgehammered their way through a locked door to break up a dice game at the Bowling Avenue district last night to arrest 31 men in what police described as a $5,000, dice game.

The owner of the house was charged with keeping a common gaming house.

Police said some of the men were found hiding under beds and in corners upstairs and in cellar coal bins. They said it was one of the biggest games uncovered since the city's crackdown years ago.

Sees No Depression For Many Years

Lake of Bays, Ont., Sept. 22 — (CP) — James C. Downs of Unlimited Investments, Toronto, real estate authority, said Monday there will be "no depression in either Canada or the United States for many years."

Addressing 400 Ontario real estate men at their resort centre about 100 miles north of Toronto, he predicted that prices of houses would "double in 10 years." "I honestly think they will go up," he said, mentioning steadily increasing construction costs and continuing demand.

25 DIE IN FIRE 66 ARE INJURED IN HONG KONG

Fire Guts Tenement, 50 Believed Missing

Hong Kong, Sept. 22 (CP) — At least 25 persons were burned to death and some 66 others injured when fire gutted a tenement housing and warehouse in Hong Kong's crowded West Point district today.

The fire followed an explosion among oil, rubber and film stored on the ground floor of the four-storey tenement which housed some 300 Chinese.

The telement staircase were destroyed and some Chinese, including a woman with a baby jumped to their death from the upper floors. Others saved themselves by leaping from parapets only to perish in the streets below.

In Close Consultation

"We are in close consultation — we are still working it out—and shall be continuing our consultation in Paris during the coming week.

"There have been rumors of disagreement between the three western powers," Bevin added. "Not only are we in absolute agreement over our Berlin policy but also as to the policy we would jointly pursue if that failed.

"I am not saying by that, that we are committed to war. We have not reached that stage yet.

"What we made provision for at least to save Berlin from the worst effects of those who sought to put disunity in scheme and who thought by this means to put pressure on the western allies who stood with them in the U.N. is a poor reward so soon afterwards.

Bevin also pledged Britain's support to Count Folke Bernadotte's recommendations for settlement of the Palestine question.

The foreign secretary said the assassination of the United Nations mediator in Jerusalem last week was an attempt to prevent the successful completion of the Swedish envoy's task.

Approves Report

"The best way for us to commemorate his death is to complete his work on the basis of the proposals which he put forward just before his death" Bevin said as he opened a foreign affairs debate a few hours after his return from Paris where he had attended the fourth session of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

Bevin said the British government approves the Bernadotte plan.

"It is our hope that the United Nations will join in time in throwing the full weight of their authority behind these proposals."

Frost Expected In Some Areas

Toronto, Sept. 22 — (CP) — A bit of shivering is indicated for residents of the low ground through Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions.

Frost is predicted for these regions with the risk of below - freezing temperatures extending to similar low-lying areas in Southeast Ontario.

A light frost was reported in some districts in the Toronto area Tuesday night but the lowest officially recorded temperature was 37 degrees at London.

Forecaster Hall said he "about the same as last night," the forecast-ing that "there is a risk of frost to get tonight without frost it will be a little colder tonight there is that danger again."

Temperatures tonight in southern Ontario are not expected to go below 38 except in low ground. Hall said frosts have occurred and little change is anticipated Wednesday except slightly higher afternoon peak temperatures.

The unsettled weather in unusual since autumn begins officially at 22 minutes after 11 p. m. (EST) Thursday, September 23.

Stockholm, Sept. 22 — (AP) — Government sources said Tuesday night that members of the Czechoslovak Communist Party resident in Sweden had been compelled to leave the country. The sources said authorities refused to prolong their permits.

Canadian Armed Forces Pioneers Will Conquer Arctic for Security

Ottawa Sept. 22 (CP) — Canada's armed forces have learned the "importance of preparedness" and are setting out to conquer the "great north" for self - protective security," Deputy Minister Earl Matthews said today.

"Through force of circumstances and for the good of all Canadians we have had to take upon themselves the role of pioneers," the deputy minister said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Ottawa-Hull Richilieu Club.

It was not just a matter of "pushing back the frontiers of civilization," Col. Mathieu said. "The army has, as it were, to lay the foundation of a new civilization, as living conditions are all new and strange to the Arctic."

"This is why the army has put the 1st Battalion of the Royal 22nd Regiment at Fort Churchill. This is truly an Arctic University, intended to facilitate research and experiments, and to pierce the mystery of the great white silence."

There were difficulties. One was in the field of signalling owing to the rather abnormal warp of the top air layers."

As new armed forces establishments "are spreading out towards the Arctic," Col. Mathieu pointed had to be established and new scientifically adapted clothing to be perfected.

"Special attention was paid to certain medical problems particular to the Arctic," Col. Mathieu said. These included snow blindness and fog formation.

"The problem of surface transport was solved by building a new type of snowmobile, tried out during the summer expedition and greatly improved upon since."

All these researches are being made with the closest co-operation of our other armed forces and our good neighbors, the American, the Danish, Norwegian, the Northwest Territories Administration Board, the transport department, and the natural resources department.

"We are not, and we have never been, militaristic," concluded Col. Mathieu. "However," after taking part in two World Wars within a quarter of a century, we have learned the importance of preparedness . . . and are convinced that the peaceable conquest of the great north to ensure our collective security."

Bevin Says Allies Not Ready to Give Report on Talks

Powers Confident They Can Beat 'Senseless Blockade'

London, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Britain, the United States and France are in "absolute agreement" on a policy to be pursued jointly if the Moscow talks over Berlin fail, Foreign Secretary Bevin declared today.

Concerning the blockade on Berlin he said if "this senseless blockade continues, we are confident with the combination of the two air forces we shall be able to see the winter through."

Referring to the talks of the western envoys with Stalin and Molotov and his expected statement on the matter, Bevin said: "I have to disappoint you. The stage is not yet reached which makes it possible to make a release."

PEARSON SAYS NEW WAR MAY BREAK OUT AT ANY TIME

U. N. Cannot Guarantee Peace of World Claims Internal Affairs Minister

Kingston, Sept. 22. (CP)—In the view of Canada's new External Affairs Minister, the risk of a third world conflict is greater today than at any other time since 1945.

Lester B. Pearson told the 50th annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Association Tuesday night that international relations and decisions must be reached in the realization that a new war may break out at any moment.

United Nations cannot guarantee the peace of the world and Canada looks forward to the establishment of a North Atlantic security pact with other western democracies.

He warned that Canadians will have to give sacrifices to make, probably in the near future when results of military plans in Washington and London are announced. These talks concern formation of a western regional security alliance.

"We will likely agree with other allies on the duties of each, depending on material and military defence," he said. "If resources are shared, then all will group together and have an equal voice in the over-all policy. To this end dignity and pride should make the pact unworkable . . . We've been in history have Canadians had such grave decisions to make—military, political and economic—as other powers . . .

"Canada must be reached in the realization that war may break out at any moment. Canada and her western friends need a steady nerve in the days ahead and determination to pursue an unprovocative policy against any violation of authority which may threaten the peace of the world."

Mr. Pearson said the bright hopes for world peace which surrounded the formation of the United Nations were gradually

ROAST RUINED, HOUSE FILLED WITH SMOKE

A too lengthy neighborly talk over the back yard fence was the ruination of a perfectly good roast at a Dufferin Ave. Meadowlot yesterday morning.

The lady of the house had placed the large roast in the oven and had been speaking with a neighbor over the fence for some time when smoke was noticed rolling from the kitchen. Firemen were called and carried the ruined roast out of doors. Damage amounted to a spoiled dinner and smoke in the kitchen.

Civic Committee Meets to Discuss Swimming Pool

At the invitation of the Civic Committee of the Chamber of Commerce a joint meeting of representatives of the Inter-service Club Council, The City of Belleville and the Parks Board was held in the Council Chambers on Tuesday evening.

Representing Civic Committee of Chamber of Commerce were Messrs. McDougall, McGuire, Hurlbut, Adams, MacKenzie, Hefferman C. Pice, George Brewer; the Parks Board—Mr. Harry Rolling; the Inter-Service Club Council—Mr. Frank Lane and Mr. Newton Thompson.

Mr. McDougall as chairman of the Civic Committee explained the purpose of the meeting was to co-ordinate the efforts of groups interested in the Swimming Pool and Recreational project in an effort to hasten the development.

The various advantages of Zwicks Island as a site were compared with those of the Exhibition Park. No definite decision was reached, but from the discussion it appears that to provide Zwicks Island would be a much more expensive proposition than the Exhibition Park.

Toward Community Centre

Mr. Thompson of the Inter-Service Club Council felt that with the addition of a swimming pool at the Exhibition Park, with its ball diamonds, bowling greens and race track, grandstand, would go a long way towards making it a real community centre: Tennis Courts and other facilities could be added later. He suggested that should a pool be built that it be so constructed that a cover could be added later when funds were available, in that year-round use could be made of it.

Mr. Lane reported that a local firm has offered to pour concrete at cost for such a project.

Suggestions made since the City is now overburdened with debentures, repayments and carrying charges, he felt that a strong drive should be made to raise the funds by contributions from every possible source. The pool to be built should be one for youth training, a healthy organized recreation and save them the misery and grief of dealing with youthful crime waves, which develop from lack of healthful sports and proper supervision after school hours.

The Chairman felt that the joint meeting had developed some very good suggestions and ideas. The Secretary was asked to write the various authorities for detailed information and when it has been received, a second meeting will be called.

Power Conservation Plans Are Discussed by Retailers, Stress Value of Power Wardens

While consumer co-operation has been forthcoming, the power consumption of the city last week was 9,000 kilowatt hours over the quota and did not must be reduced to quota level if cut-offs are to be avoided, H. H. Scott, Public Utilities manager told the Retail Merchants Division committee yesterday.

Instructions were received from the Ontario Power Commission yesterday to cut controlled power users in drastic fashion in this area as from 12 noon to midnight yesterday, and Thursday of this week, and daily from 4 p.m. to 11 p.m. henceforth.

It was pointed out that additional savings of power could be made through slowing elevators, using window lighting in the offices on cloudy days, despite the fact that regulations permit this type of lighting from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The committee went on record approving a motion that each business establishment should nominate an employee as power warden who would, in all places possible, reduce unnecessary use of power throughout the premises and would be responsible for turning off window lighting at 9 p.m. to comply with the regulations.

Following lengthy discussion the committee moved to adopt the system now in vogue in other cities whereby the attention of power users is drawn to conservation by use of sound truck and other advertising. It was decided that during the present power emergency sound trucks combined with a radio hook-up will be used to attract attention to light violations. Advertisements will also be inserted in the press to this effect.

Canvass for the required $950 to complete the cost quickly of the Santa Claus Parade will commence this week.

Believes Boys Take Horses from Stable At Night, Ride Them About Town

Youthful neighborhood lads who apparently have a yen for playing at cowboys, or who at least have a liking for horseback riding, are causing horses owned by the Roblin Dairy on Coleman St. to be worked overtime.

At least this is the complaint of the dairy manager who has informed police that during the night young boys have been using the dairy stable and apparently riding them about the city. After the ride is over the horses are returned to the stable.

It seems that a number of boys complained of the horses being out during the night while others are reporting for work in the mornings have not returned the horses kept in the stable.

"I don't think the boys have done any harm but I do not like them riding but they return the horses to the stable without being asked and on one or two occasions they have got out of the stable," stated Mr. Roblin.

Picton Public Inspection Artillery Station Marks Army Week

Picton, Sept. 22 — Army Week was marked at the R.C.S.A. (A.A.) station here today when Lt.-Col. Commanding Officer, Col. R. J. Fisher was host and the public at large had been invited to inspect the station. There was a full display of all artillery equipment in charge of gunnery instructor Sgt. D. J. Nesbitt. A Vampire jet plane from Trenton air station flew low and made attack on the camp and was repelled by the anti-aircraft battery. Lt. Col. Fisher was capable of displaying the O. Q. 3 target practice aircraft and explained the method used by gunners in shooting down pilotless planes and mechanical arms intricate manoeuvres by radio waves.

Army clothing and equipment was displayed by Capt. K. C. Reynolds, Regimental Quartermaster, and R. Q. M. S. Phillips, while Lieut. Norman Kennedy displayed the sports equipment which has been presented to the station on the station.

An unusual feature was the demonstration by Bdr. E. P. Veale of the long range radio set with which he has been credited with far flung points of the world.

The army will start its Special observance into next week with a display and ceremonial parade on Picton Fair next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Marmora Cousins Meet For First Time

Marmora (Special)—Two cousins who had never met before met in Marmora on Monday, when Herbert Osborne and his wife and two friends, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Horne, came from Tilden, Nebraska, to visit Mr. and Mrs. Peter Brawley.

It is about eighty years since Elizabeth Jane Doyle and her husband George Osborne left this district for Nebraska. Mrs. Osborne was one of twelve children born to the late Mr. and Mrs. John Doyle. Mrs. Brawley is the daughter of Thomas Doyle.

The only surviving daughter of Mrs. E. Doyle is Miss Martha Doyle of Belleville, now in her 89th year. Miss Doyle was born in Madoc, but was confirmed and received her first communion in Sacred Heart Church, Marmora. It was largely the desire to see her that induced Mrs. Osborne on the way from Nebraska, through ill health she was had to retire from farming.

Valued Possession

Miss Doyle claims to be the only survivor of the family of the late Sir John Burgoyne who was her great uncle. A prized possession of hers is his last will and testament. Some years ago when in Rochester, N.Y., she was greatly interested in a performance of the play "The Surrender of Sir John Burgoyne," which had been produced earlier in New York.

Picton Merchants Even Finals Series With Napanee

Behind the steady hurling of Dick Fitzpatrick and some timely clouting, the Belleville Merchants evened their Belleville Baseball League finals series with Napanee last night defeating the Killoran-led crew by an 8-3 decision. The two-of-three series now stands at one game each as Napanee stroke out a 5-4 win over Merchants in the first game here last Friday.

Fitzpatrick went the route for the city team scattering nine hits for five runs. Jake Edwards started on the mound for Napanee but was relieved by Hall. Hoover in the seventh when the Merchants poured four runs across the plate to put the game out of reach of the visitors.

Napanee took a 5-4 lead in their half of the sixth when they shoved over a run in the fifth and scoring two in the fifth and single in the second. But Merchants broke out with a four-run splurge in the seventh which clinched the win.

Slight Trace Of Frost Reported In Low Areas

With the official temperature at the water purification plant on the Trent Road dropping to 37½ degrees, a slight trace of frost was reported last night in low areas to the north of the city. According to the official temperature recorded at the water works it was the coldest experienced so far this season.

Officials of the Canada packers plant in Belleville stated that the strict farmers reported that foliage on tomato plants had in some instances been knocked down by the frost but it was stated no damage has been done to the fruit. Two nights ago there was also slight frost in the tomato growing districts farther north but no damage was done.

Although little damage to tomatoes was reported last night farmers were said to be enlisting the effects of the next frost when they would be likely plant foliage to protect the fruit.

In the city residents were reminded by the cool temperature that today was officially the last day of summer and the season was directly in the offing. To those who have been in the habit of leaving their residences, the summer was true of some private residences.

Closer Link Between VON and Hospital Is Suggested

The September meeting of the V.O.N. Board was held at the V.M.C.A. on Monday evening with Mrs. A. C. T. Morgan, president, in the chair.

Miss McCleary reported a slight increase in patients admitted and visits made for the summer as compared to last summer, 203 more visits were made this year than in the corresponding period of last year.

June Bug Month

28 children attended the toyoid clinic in June and 11 the dental conference; 233 attended the 13 weekly baby conferences. The nurses assisted the Kiwanis Club by inspecting 56 boys and 70 girls before acceptance by the Kiwanis for their summer camps. In June the chage nurse spoke to the W.M.S. of Tabernacle Church.

Miss McCleary brought up the suggestion there might be a closer link between the hospital and V.O.N. and that some of the patients now with the approval of their doctors could be discharged earlier if they were assured of nursing at home. The matter was referred to the Hospital Board.

Fire Destroys Conley Barn Near Plainfield

A fierce barn on the farm of Oran Conley, situated midway between Plainfield and Roslin on highway No. 2 was completely destroyed by fire on Tuesday from as yet unlearned cause, but it is believed the blaze was caused by spontaneous combustion. A quantity of implements, one horse and five pigs were also destroyed as well as the season's crop of hay and grain. Mr. Conley was not at home at the time the fire broke out and neighbors were successful in saving the home.

This is the second fire within a year on the same property as last year Mr. Conley's stable was destroyed by fire after being struck by a lightning bolt.

OIL AS MEDICINE

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 23 (CP)—The industrials eased slightly in midsession today on the Toronto stock exchange after opening on a stronger note in an attempt to recover Monday's losses. Trading slackened as losses cropped up in industrials. Golds and base metals were quiet and steady and western oils weaker.

Papers led a steady rise in early trading in industrials and slackened off on scattered fractional losses. Canadian Vickers Pfd., was a lone bright spot in a dull industrial board, gaining $4 at a high of $182. Imperial Oil, B. A. Oil, and Abitibi preferred were among late losers.

Interest lagged in mining issues as trading was light and golds moved in a narrow range. San Antonio, Negus, Nicholson, Wright-Hargreaves, and Canadian Malartic were among gainers.

In base metals, Noranda, Manitou, Gulf Lead and International Uranium firmed.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Sept. 22. (CP)—Prices on steers and heifers eased again today as three consignments of 50 cents lower. Sales were fairly steady as some 200 butcher cattle were brought up to mid-day.

BEVIN SAYS ALLIES

Bevin said that Count Bernadotte referred in his report to the apprehension of the Arabs about future Jewish expansion and concluded that Evers reasonable assurance must be offered not only by the Jews but by the United Nations.

"I have always felt that the Arab case has been insufficiently appreciated and I entirely agree that the United Nations should give separate guarantees" he said.

Must Await Reaction

In reply to question, Bevin said "the statement I have made does not involve the recognition of Israel. It involves the policy which the British delegation must be instructed to follow at U.N.

"We shall see what emerges from that and in the next stage we shall have to consider subsequent developments," he added.

"We do not expect that either side will accept (Bernadotte's) proposals in toto but the world cannot wait for ever for the parties to agree. It is now time in the view of the government for a final solution to be found by United Nations."

British Believe

British believe, Bevin said that Count Bernadotte's conclusions "must be considered as a single integrated whole, and it would be best for all concerned that this plan should be put into operation in its entirety."

Dealing with the political developments, Bevin said: "While we are anxious to encourage healthy developments in western Germany, we are still hoping that sooner or later a German united government will be established with whom we will prevent that establishment . . .

Made Grave Choice

"I felt when that blockade was put on that a grave choice had to be made and I made it. It was either to stand firm there or to turn around and go to appease Munich.

"We believe that east and west have got to live together. I am ready to live together and pray for peace in the area you have got."

"Let us settle that if you like, but if you settle a line only to find next morning when you wake demands have been made, revolts made up to you upsetting your institutions and doing everything in order to promote their expansion at a very cheap price indeed we are in a situation which whoever occupies these benches I am quite certain the British people, could not accept.

"We want to fight nobody. We have made, during the last great set sacrifices of any nation in the history of mankind . . .

Weakened Politically

"The United Nations has been weakened politically to the point of impotency But we must not regard the future with despair. Defeatism is the worst sin today.

"In my view, however, we should not scrap the United Nations, which is serving as a forum to mobilize the world's conscience. But we need not sit idly by and watch our collective security disappear. We can still use the U.N., if not universally, at least on a regional basis."

A resolution urging that a greater share of the contributions to the cost of caring for indigent patients in public hospitals should be borne by the provincial government was passed by the urban section of the O.M.A. The resolution said the province recently imposed a 20-per-cent amusement tax for hospital purposes, part of which the resolution said could be used for indigent care.

O.M.A. Welfare Committee decided that courts should be urged to insist that a man convicted of deserting his family pay at least 50 per cent of his wages toward their support.

A motion that money received by Aldermen and Mayors for their civic duties be tax free was rejected.

CRIPPS GIVES

Reporting that Britain hoped to increase her agricultural production by more than 20 per cent by the end of 1951, he told Canadian farmers they need have no anxiety about their British markets.

Britain still would have to buy supplies abroad, and she would look to Canada as one of her "prime suppliers" in the future as she had been in the past.

He told how the accumulating forces of dollar unbalance throughout the world came near to wrecking Britain's economy last year and of the moves to right the trade balance and drive for greater production and greater exports to the dollar areas, reduced dollar imports and consequent greater austerity for the British people and heavy taxation at home as an anti-inflationary measure.

Let now he could report that in the first half of 1948 Britain's total trading deficit with the rest of the world had been reduced to $560,000,000 or an annual rate of $1,120,000,000 against $2,520,000,000 in 1947, a reduction of approximately 55 per cent.

This was achieved by an increase in the volume of exports from 120 per cent of the 1938 volume at the end of last December to about 140 per cent at the end of June, 1948, the target set for that date.

Iron Ore Deposits In Ungava Could Ease $ Shortage

Montreal, Sept. 23 (CP)—The wide deposits of Quebec's new-developing empire of the north—Ungava—could soon take up as the eventual eliminator of Canada's shortage of United States dollars.

Hon. Paul Beaulieu, Quebec's Minister of Trade and Commerce told a Kiwanis convention development of the untapped Ungava ore is a great stabilizing factor in Canada's economy.

"With the prospects we now have, there is no limit to Quebec's, and eventually Canada's ranking among leading producing agents of the world," he said.

The Ungava discoveries, he said were unsurpassed, and plans now afoot to develop the area, with the aid of American capital would help establish a balance in the Canadian-American dollar situation.

Mr. Beaulieu said all other provinces had equally great potentialities, and if each worked to develop natural wealth, Canada would become the leading industrial nation of the world.

Three Convicted Of Kidnapping And Robbery

Toronto, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Three Toronto youths were convicted today on a charge of kidnapping Dr. David Periman, Toronto doctor, Sept. 13 and two charges of armed robbery. They were remanded to Sept. 29.

Those convicted are Gordon Cameron, Allen Decker and William Glover. They were remanded in downtown Windsor the day of the kidnapping after Dr. Periman escaped from a nearby tourist cabin where he had been left bound and gagged.

Also charged with armed robbery of the doctor and a Toronto taxi driver, the youths "just did not realize what they were doing," defence counsel F. C. Bogart told the court. Periman was robbed and forced from his cab on a lonely Toronto district where he was left bound by the wrists and ankles.

When they appeared in Magistrate's Court today the three pleaded guilty without hesitation to the armed robbery but pleaded innocent to the kidnapping count.

Enter Autumn

Time in its sweep has carried away the summer of 1948 and brings in its place the early autumn. Not so long ago it was very warm and sometimes humid, but boys and girls who attend school have known for some weeks that summer was swiftly passing for their holidays were ended and they had begun the work of another year in their pursuit of education and training. For most adults too the end of August marked the close of vacation and hence the approach of autumn is accepted with not only complacency but also with a sense of exhilaration which comes with the advent of cooler nights and days.

The autumn season offers changes in the mood and spirit of the people, it stirs body and mind. No season has such variety of weather and temperature as autumn which takes the year right up to the doorstep of winter, four days before the great winter festival, which is celebrated a little more than three months from now. Half of September, all of October and November and two-thirds of December move under the banner of autumn though earliest autumn has ties with summer and later November and early December are commonly known as part of the winter season.

Canadians now enter autumntide and look forward to a happy season between summer and winter. Soon the glorious tapestry of nature's handiwork will be revealed upon a thousand hills as the foliage changes from the green of growth to the mellow and rich tones of the full harvest season. Even when that is over there remains the spell of Indian Summer before the cold usurps the scene.

Institution of Country Fairs

Country fairs are perennially successes, they go on for year after year and decade after decade and to a rugged maturity which knows no limit.

Every fair is as new as every day is new. It is as new as the latest season of growth in nature. It is never an exact duplicate of what has gone before.

Agriculture is the oldest calling of man and on this basis has been built a civilization which numbers more than two hundred million inhabitants in the nations of the earth. Nature's work is ever new on the farm and why should it not appeal to everyone?

No calling or human interest has wider attraction than that illustrated by the fall fair, which keeps step with the advance of agriculture and the importance of the country to which it contributes no small part of progress. Just as every year is new so is the growth in the fields of the grains and other food and so are the cattle, the horses, the sheep and swine. These fairs are the show windows of the progress year by year in farm life.

Variety is there are annual as is the growth in the fields. They partake of the qualities of a festival, such as harvest home. They are the celebration in early autumn of the sense of pride and gratitude the husbandmen and their families feel as they look over the year and have pride in their work and a sense of gratitude in their hearts for the season's blessings. They show the thrift and industry of those who farm the broad acres of our country, they highlight the blessings the land enjoys in its fertility.

Fairs have to do with those whose labors feed the nations and so everything associated with these exhibitions cannot fail to draw the crowds.

The Murder of a Civilized Man

It was horribly appropriate that Count Folke Bernadotte should have been murdered. There is no place in our mid-twentieth century for a cultivated, aristocratic neutral like Bernadotte. The forces at work destroying the world today must exterminate the few Bernadottes remaining, the true European citizens and custodians of civilization, for the Bernadottes have not enough of evil, barbarity and self-seeking to earn the right to live in this uncivilized world. The Bernadottes are civilized; therefore they must be cast out. It was inevitable that Count Bernadotte should be destroyed in some way or another. He must have known this; but he faced the forces against him courageously and to the end continued modestly to serve the world which rejected him. He was murdered by one man and he was murdered by a hundred million.—Peterborough Examiner.

AUTUMN

Who knows which season is the best?
There's in the glory of the spring
When nesting birds return to nest
And hyacinths are blossoming;
But when no more the school bells ring
And children take a holiday,
'Tis pleasant, but a lovelier thing
Is autumn's glorious display.

When fields and hills in snow are dressed
And trees their sombre shadows fling,
When all things growing lie at rest,
Beneath while blankets slumbering,
Then winter plays the tyrant king
And asks too often then are

It seems the best that time can bring
Is autumn's glorious display.

When south or north we east or west,
The earth is gay with coloring.
As if its trees would manifest
That faith to which we all should cling,
That God is good and harvesting
His purposes are life slips away,
Sublimest of all picturing
Is autumn's glorious display.

Envoy

In winter bells of Christmas swing;
In early May the song birds sing
Summer is fair, but best, I say,
Is autumn's glorious display.

STRENGTH for The Day

By Dr. Earl L. Douglass

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Murder stalked recently through the quiet little village in which I happen to live. We thought it was the very centre—or at least one of the centres—of peaceful culture, and behold, with wickedness and melodrama, the greatest of all crimes soiled the parking space before our beautiful inn. An enraged stock speculator, after an angry argument with an erstwhile client who had secured a judgement against him in court, shot this client and later shot himself.

Both of these men appear to have started life under conditions of privilege. They were men of considerable ability and resourcefulness. They both died as the result of an argument over money.

The man who died would probably have gladly given up all the advantages which the court decision afforded him, could he have foreseen even a small portion of the tragic results which were to ensue, and the poor client who first committed violence and later suicide, what a price he paid for this sudden outburst of uncontrolled anger. What must have been his thoughts as he sat the last five minutes in his hotel room before he sent a bullet through his brain!

How dearly we have to pay sometimes for our impulsiveness. How swiftly we can throw away all we hold precious, in an overwhelming moment of passion! Even for the saints, this peace is always just around the corner.

Many Horses Sold at Fair Bound for Stewing Pot and Pan

London Letter.

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Because Britain is a hungry land one of the oldest fairs to be held on the outskirts of London still is a bustling annual affair.

Nearly 2,000 horses and ponies changed hands at the three-day Barnet Horse Fair in North London, and more of them were bound for stew-pot and frying pan than for harness or saddle.

The fair had its beginnings in the eighteenth century and there's still a colorful rural touch about it. Farmers in bright neckerchiefs and caps drive up in pony-traps from remote Hertfordshire villages, and Gypsies mingle with the crowds. Thousands more pour out to enjoy the thrills of the midway.

The side-shows stayed on another three days after the last pony had been sold and driven home. The rattle of roller coasters and crash of swing music now veterans shake their heads and say it wasn't like the old days.

Steak or Sausage

"I reckon most of these nags will finish up as steak or sausage," said one dealer. "Buyers take them out to graze for a year or so then they can get up to £50 ($200) apiece in the abattoirs or pet food house."

Statements like this draw hurried protests from the Animal Defence and Anti-Vivisection Society. It decided recently to ask the government to introduce the controlled price of horseflesh for human consumption to sixpence (about 12 cents) a pound, and the slaughtering of horses would be inspected.

Horses for human consumption are killed in special slaughter-houses and their flesh sold at stores which deal in no other kind of meat. They abound in London's poorer districts, and often there are queuers outside them.

Horse Cutlets

Its consumption is pretty well limited to these areas, although wealthier people sometimes buy it for their dogs. The average Briton would be shocked at the suggestion that he dine on a horse steak.

Dealers at the Barnet Fair seemed indifferent to the fate of their charges as long as they received a wad of pound notes to tuck in their pockets. With cigar-ettes alight, they exchanged, out the corners of their lips, they put the horses through their paces and hoarsely extolled potential buyers to close the deal.

EARLY CIVILIZATION

Civilization flourished in the Egyptian Nile Valley at a time when all Europe was living in stone age barbarism.

Birthday Greetings

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

Sincere birthday greetings to "Cap" Bottum on September 24th and when are you "discover", we mean that in every sense of all that word implies.

Incidentally, news floated into Montreal that "Cap" has just returned from Bobcaygeon, where he, and other members of the family, and friends, had journeyed to join in the celebrations of his "young" 84-year-old brother, Albert Edward, better known in all of us as "Al."

And now "Cap" once again it is your turn to receive felicitations and birthday honors, and while personally, I regret very much not being able to be with you, and extend the hand of fellowship and friendship, I take this medium of letting you know that on the 24th I'll be thinking of you and in Belleville, a friendship that many years, augmented firmly on the very first meeting, has always been while life shall last.

Your old friend,
E. C. Eatly,

Gesture of Amity Calculated To Impress Unwary

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

That's an interesting though not particularly adroit exhibition of the old shell game given by Russia in connection with her will withdraw her troops from Northern Korea by the new year, and calling on the United States to pull out of the south.

On the face of it this is a big-hearted gesture of amity, and is calculated thus to impress the unwary. However, we may be sure that if American troops did withdraw from Southern Korea, the Russians would move to take over.

This isn't to say that the United States might not decide to withdraw. That's a push still on the fire. There are two schools of thought on this subject of withdrawal. Some think it would be a strategic error to pull out. The other maintains that it's a mistake to stay since there is such a big gap between your strength too thin, and furthermore the United States has military responsibilities elsewhere, including Japan.

Will Russia Leave?

Whether Russia will indeed withdraw if the United States does so remains to be seen. They might pull back across the frontier and then move in any event. And why not? Northern Korea has been thoroughly communized. The Russian machine has been established, and it's an open question as to the country's ever-run with the armed secret police. Communist leaders are to be tested, gainized and equipped a big Korean army is being built up. They and judging from past events, we may be sure this force is heavily indoctrinated with Reds, even if they did pull back into Manchuria Russia could keep at hand a big "Korean" force of soldiers ready to march at the drop of a hat to invade Southern Korea with the idea of overthrowing the new regime and consolidating under the two zones under the Communist banner. As a matter of fact, the Red government has this very intention of smashing the southern republic.

Small but Strategic

Korea is small, but strategically she is a mighty stem. For centuries the Korean peninsula, which projects southward between the Sea of Japan and the Yellow Sea from Manchuria and Siberia, stood between Japan and her continental ambitions.

No wonder Japan complained that Korea was "a dagger pointed at her heart."

Controlled by Communism, Korea would be a dagger pointing at the heart of peace. Certainly it does fall into the picture of the great new Red offensive to over-run the Orient.

Health Minister Gives Advice To Dental Assoc.

Ottawa, Sept. 22 — (CP) —Ontario's Health Minister Russel Kelly urged dentists Wednesday that young women forget their worries over a slimmer waistline and think more of the joys of eventual motherhood.

He told the 150 members of the Eastern Ontario Dental Association meeting here that they were in a unique position to dispense sound advice, particularly among the young people of the day.

"Tell them to stand and walk erect," said the health minister. "Tell them to get away from the soft-drink-and-yogurt lunches . . . and eat proper food and drink milk. Tell them not to diet on milk, but it's too expensive. It's nothing short of criminal we can all afford a quart a day."

To those "over forty," he advised: "Take like a bit easier, walk instead of run and take a short nap after lunch."

Mr. Kelly said that when people call on him immediately after lunch, they are "invariably informed I am busy."

"Well, I am busy! I'm busy sleeping for 20 minutes or so and believe that is one of the most important functions of my day."

A TOOTH BRUSH IN THULE

The northernmost part of the habitable world (Gilmer, Thule) was somewhere below the Arctic Circle "perhaps in Norway, the Shetland Islands or even in Ireland—the ancients believed.

Here just the other day I discovered that there is really a place called Thule (Thulelles, accent on first syllable) far north of the Arctic Circle on the west coast of Greenland as far north of Iceland as Hudson Bay is north of Chicago. It is the place where Dr. Aage Gilberg, Danish physician, and his wife spent a year or more looking after the health of the entire Eskimo and Danish community. In his book Eskimo Doctor (W. W. Norton Co., New York) this courageous young physician gives a fine picture of the country and character of the people of that little known part of the world.

When we were in Thule (writer Dr. Gilberg, describing a long journey by dog sled) we lived for a couple of these fresh birds (so-called "sea kings" caught by the Eskimos with long tenterhooks and in a Tartar—that is, in their natural state. We made a small hole in the neck, and pulled off the whole skin and feathers. They tasted delicious, and the raw meat was the best toothbrush one could find. That, incidentally, was a utensil which we did not use except at any time when we were in Thule; I will admit without shame that, as far as I was concerned, I did not use mine more than twenty times, and my teeth were always clean for a while.

Now I (Brady) suppose a lot of hygienic souls will shudder at this confession—and from a physiological point of view, I haven't heard anything yet. I'm a physician of a sort and I haven't used a toothbrush for many years and my teeth are always at least as clean as when I left the dental surgeon of teeth of people of my age in Yankeedom.

Incidentally Dr. Gilberg mentions extracting teeth as one of his routine services in the Eskimos, but the one disappointing thing about the job is, to my mind, the fact that it tells little or nothing about the condition of the teeth of the people in that part of the world—one of the few places where people live almost entirely on natural food. Perhaps it was trivial a question to bother with.

In Denmark every ninth person dies of cancer, says Dr. Gilberg; in Thule no single case of cancer has ever been diagnosed. He says he doesn't know why this is so, but he believes it has to do up with the special diet of the Eskimos. Farther south in Greenland where the people have mixed much with Europeans and for the most part live "wrecked stuff out of the shops", cancer does occur, though not so frequently as in Denmark.

The American Cancer Society will be unable to the public excellent pamphlets on all phases of cancer, its nature, diagnosis and treatment—address your inquiry to American Cancer Society, 47 Beaver Street, New York 4, N.Y., or to the branch in your own community—might well consider sending an expedition to Thule to learn why cancer does not occur there. Perhaps Dr. Gilberg would consent to serve as leader, or chief of the project. Who knows, in Thule we might find something to the advantage of mankind.

WEDDINGS

CRANE—DRACUP

The home of the bride's mother, East Bridge Street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday, Sept. 11, when Annett Rose Dracup, daughter of Mrs. Marie Dracup and the late Fred Dracup, became the bride of Arthur Ralph Crane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Crane, Mount Forest, Ont.

The Rev. C. A. Perkins officiated and music was provided by Mrs. Eric Mumby at the piano, Mr. Lewis Holmes of Toronto, sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly", Master Charles (Skippy) Dracup sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride looked charming in a street length dress of rose crepe with headdress to match and corsage of cream roses.

Miss Marjorie Grant, her bridesmaid, wore powder blue taffeta with pink roses.

Mr. Roy Crane of Galt, was his brother's groomsman.

A buffet luncheon was served to about forty relatives and friends. Out of town guests were from Mount Forest, Flesherton, Galt, London, Toronto, Oshawa, Stirling and Frankford.

FOSTER—KELLY

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kelly, Crookston, on the lawn under an arch of evergreen and flowers on Sept. 18, when their youngest daughter, Dorothy Emma, became the bride of William John, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Foster, of Madoc. Rev. George Kelly, of Toronto, uncle of the bride, officiated. Mrs. G. Kelly played the wedding march.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was very lovely in a white slipper satin wedding gown with lace overskirt, bustle back and long train. Her long veil was caught up with a tiara of orange blossoms and she carried a cascade of red roses. Her only ornament was a necklace of three strand pearls the gift of the groom.

Mrs. Burton Moore was her sister's matron of honor, and looked charming in a floor length gown of white embroidered sheer with a headdress of white flowers and carrying deep red gladioli.

Twin sisters of the bride, Misses Jean and Joan Kelly of Belleville, were bridesmaids, wearing mauve and blue taffeta, with long net skirts. They wore headdresses of flowers and carried yellow gladioli.

The groom was ably supported by his cousin, Mr. James Young of Prescott, as best man.

Guests were received by the bride's mother wearing a dress of black faconne crepe with a corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother in a navy blue crepe with a corsage of pink roses. About seventy guests were present and were served by Miss Verna Howard, Miss Lila Wellman, Miss Esther Moore, Mrs. Les Newberry, Mrs. Ward Howard and Mrs. Albert Wellman.

Picton 60th Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated

Picton, Sept. 22 — Mr. and Mrs. Oscar A. Burley yesterday marked their diamond wedding anniversary, being guests of honor at a family party given by their daughter, Mrs. Lena and Judge W. S. Lane. Both are in good health though Mr. Burley is 87 years of age and Mrs. Burley was 80 in January.

Mrs. Burley was formerly Carolina Hurlbet, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hurlbut. Mr. Burley was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burley. They were married at the home of the bride's parents. The two attendants, sister and brother of Mr. Burley, Mrs. E. M. Bull and Harry Burley, were present at the celebration.

Mr. Burley has many interesting recollections of earlier days at Cressy. During early days he recalls seeing as many as forty sailing vessels off Indian Point. As an apple buyer for many years, he recalls great orchards that once existed in the Murrayburgh township. One year he purchased ten thousand barrels, most of which were exported.

Moving to Picton forty years ago, Mr. Burley travelled four years for a machinery company. He then secured the agency for Chevrolet cars and the demonstrator he used was the sixth Chevrolet to be sold in Canada. Later, he handled three other agencies and branched into the garage business. He retired in 1933.

In recent years Mr. Burley took up wood turning as a hobby and during the war he filled many large orders for handmade wooden toys.

Mr. Burley has one brother, Hardy Burley, and a sister, Mrs. E. M. Bull, both of Picton. Mrs. Burley has two sisters, Mrs. Harry Balfour, Toronto and Miss Georgia Hurlbet, Picton; Mrs. W. S. Lane is their only daughter.

89th Birthday Celebrated By James Sexsmith

Former resident of Shannonville, Mr. James Sexsmith of Kipling, Sask., on September 9th celebrated his 89th birthday when about 50 persons, relatives and friends gathered at the home of his son Alex Sexsmith.

Born in Shannonville in 1859 Mr. Sexsmith went West in 1882 and homesteaded in the Golden Ridge district on the farm now owned and operated by his son Alex. He was a transport driver on the lines of supply during the Riel Rebellion, one of his trips being to Saskatoon.

Recently he again visited Saskatoon, this time by car, and remarked the big gas quite different, and that Saskatoon was much changed. Still hale and hearty at 89 Mr. Sexsmith's greatest drawback is his failing eyesight. Mrs. Sexsmith, the former Sophia Bell of Listowel died in 1932. There are seven children still living.

Unusual is the child who does not at some time or other, illness from overeating such delicacies as strawberry shortcake. Here's to be used and substituted luscious which may shock a child's system and leave him feeling tired and broken. Try the new modern baby's dessert, Ovaltine Custard Pudding. It's delicious for children from 1 to 12 years. Easy to make at once to help overcome the stomach upset. Mrs. Irving Wood achieved a thrilling performance at the bowels in a gentle way. Mrs. Wood writes: "Ovaltine Custard Pudding is a delicious dessert, and so easy to make. Just add a package to milk, cook for a few minutes, chill to the custard. Ideal to the makers of Baby's Own Tablets—your information at a reliable product.

French Cooking Still is Finest In the World

Montreal, Sept. 22 (CP)—With no milk, no butter, no cream and pastry only once a week, French cooking still is the finest in the world. This is the opinion of Marcelle Barthe, Chic producer and commentator, who just returned from a three-month visit to Europe.

What milk is available is reserved for children and the aged, she explained in an interview.

"The old saying, give a French cook a bone and an onion and she will produce the best soup on earth, is still true."

Her opinion of French chic is much the same. "Even the poorest girl in Paris has an interesting way of wearing her clothes."

Miss Barthe found a quiet gravity replacing the traditional gallic sparkle. But what impressed her most was the all-out effort being made by Parisians to regain their reputation not only in the world of fashion but also in the arts and theatre.

"No money is being spared to make the theatre perfect in every detail," she said. "Stage settings, costumes, acting, lighting are all superb."

Excellent work in interpreting Canada was being done by Jean Desy, Canadian Ambassador to Italy, she said.

Barthe attended a dinner party at the Embassy at which the cocktails served were Rum Collins, syrup, the entree was Canadian salmon, the bread made from Canadian flour—it decided treat in Italy—and the meal concluded with strong Canadian cheese.

"You may be sure the table at the Canadian Embassy is much appreciated by the Italians," she said.

Women's Activities

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

Belleville Chapter 435. Women of the Moose held their regular meeting on Monday evening in the Conservative Club rooms with a good attendance. Senior Regent E. Murphy presided. Recorder Marie Thrasher read the program of the Ontario Conference to be held in Toronto and several of the co-workers are planning to attend.

Mrs. E. McGinness gave a report on the International Conference held at Chicago, Ill., where 3,000 Women of the Moose were in attendance and visited Moosehart, Ill., and stressed upon the wonders at Moosehart and the care of the little boys and girls in the baby village.

They live in well equipped cottages with a homey atmosphere and are trained until school age and later attain a high school or vocation training. A vote of thanks was extended by co-worker M. Doran. Three new candidates were initiated.

"Publicity chapter night program was held with a talk on publicity through the local newspaper and the carrying of the chapter news to the public; this was read by Mrs. E. McGinnes in the absence of Mrs. Hall.

The sunshine prize donated by Sexsmith Regent was won by Mrs. Soulis. Mrs. Mary Peoples won the special prize donated by Mrs. G. Barr of Brockville Chapter 832.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the Homemaking Committee Mesdames Mabel Carulli, Balyea, Descote and Little served. The table was decorated with the Publicity Committee in a newspaper. The table was layed with local newspapers and the serviettes and aprons of the helpers were also newspapers. Place cards were advertisements. Paper plates were also used, and made a most unique and novel entertainment.

W.M.S. OF BRIDGE UNITED CHURCH

On Friday afternoon, the September meeting of the W.M.S. took place in the Bridge Street Church parlors. It was decided that the Thank Offering meeting of the Society would be held November 5th and the guest speaker would be Mrs. Mc. Vice president of the Dominion Board.

The birthday tea to be held on December 9th, was discussed. Letters were read from the Press Secretary and Mission Board Secretary of the Presbyterial.

The president called on Mrs. Massey's and Mrs. Cronk's group for the readings.

Mrs. Massey and Mrs. Gilroy conducted the devotional. Then Mrs. Massey called on Mrs. McLaughlin as guest speaker to tell something of her work with the Children's Aid Society.

Mrs. McLaughlin presented the group with a very fine explanation of the conditions to be found in homes in this city and vicinity on her rounds since July.

Thanks for her informative address were given to Mrs. McLaughlin and the meeting closed with prayer, after which a social half hour was enjoyed.

Arctic Not Nearly So Cold as Most People Believe

Vancouver, Sept. 22 — (CP) — it takes a man like Sir Hubert Wilkins to melt the myths of the Arctic.

A pioneer of the world of ice and snow, Wilkins is a veteran of Arctic airplanes and has travelled by submarine within 350 miles of the North Pole.

"It's not solid ice. There is often open water there, but is very uninteresting.

"I was up there with a young fellow who had been there 60 times. It was just routine to him."

Orchids grow in the Arctic, cotton grows wild at Point Barrow, Alaska, and there are lots of bees.

Sir Hubert, who sponsors use of submarines for northern defence, finds the cold a bit of a myth.

"I've seen Eskimos half naked enjoying the sunshine. The Arctic is no colder than many Canadian and some United States cities in winter, but as in the tropics, it's how you feel.

He told how the Russians are producing grain, pasturing cattle, carving for millions of acres, and extracting sugar from reindeer moss with sulphuric acid.

SAN MARINO COMPLAINS

San Marino, Sept. 22 (AP)— The oldest and smallest republic in the world complained Tuesday that Britain and the United States had failed to pay San Marino's claims for damages from bombing in June, 1944. The foreign ministry said the bombers, which killed 60 persons and destroyed a museum and library, were British "but we asked payment from both nations because the bombers were under a unified British - American command."

General Council Of United Church Opens in B.C.

Vancouver, Sept. 22 (CP) — A thousand delegates from all parts of Canada and Newfoundland were here today for the opening sessions of the 13th biennial general council of the United Church of Canada.

The delegates—470 of them official ministerial and lay representatives—prepared to elect a new moderator tonight to succeed Rt. Rev. T. W. Jones of Montreal.

The retiring moderator today will conduct communion services in St. Andrew's Wesley United Church in which the council will hold its sessions. Following tonights election and Dr. Jones' retiring address the clergy and lay members of Newfoundland's one and Canada's 10 United Church conferences will get down to work for nine days of church business.

This will be their first meeting west of Winnipeg and the one at which they will plan to celebrate the United Church's 25th birthday, due in 1950.

High on their 425-page prepared agenda will be a report by Rev. Gordon A. Sisco of Toronto their general secretary who recently returned from Amsterdam and the inaugural meeting of the World Council of Churches.

Dr. Sisco will speak tomorrow night and Friday will report to the church's highest governmental body on the conversations now being conducted between it and the Anglican Church of Canada on the subject of greater union within the Protestant faith.

Speaking on the subject of greater union last Sunday in Victoria, Moderator Jones said "while there may be differences there are many more fundamentals on which we both agree."

Among notables in churchmen here for the meetings, are two previous moderators, Very Rev. George Pidgeon and Very Rev Jesse Arrop, both of Toronto.

London, Ont., Sept. 21 — (CP) — Western Ontario taxpayers will receive $15,352,540 in principal and interest from rebate of the 1943 and 1944 refundable savings portion of their income tax, the Department of National Revenue branch here estimated today.

The money will be paid out in 200,600 cheques having an average value of $76.53 and will make up 6.1 per cent of the total rebate of all Canada. The cheques will be mailed out March 31, 1949.

Plan to Reveal To Public Result Of U.S. Spy Probe

Washington Sept. 22 —(AP)— Congressional spy hunters today indicated plans to let the public in shortly on what they have uncovered in their atomic espionage investigation.

"The question is solely one of national security," Representative John McDowell (Rep., Pa.) told reporters. He is acting chairman of the House of Representatives Un-American activities committee, which has been holding extended closed-door sessions in a search for leaders of an alleged wartime Soviet spy ring it claims operated in the United States.

McDowell said the committee will decide this week whether to hold public hearings or to bring out its findings "in a report as the Royal Commission did in the Canadian spy case."

Public hearings have been twice delayed, McDowell said, because "we don't want to run the risk of exposing any secrets through questions in public."

The committee meanwhile indefinitely postponed plans to question Mrs. Stepanovna Oksana Kasenkina, former Russian school teacher. A sub - committee was to have interviewed her Wednesday in a New York hospital, where she is recovering from injuries suffered in her freedom leap from the Soviet Consulate in New York. Her doctor requested the postponement because of her condition.

The committee questioned Mrs. Louis Brantan Berman of New York Monday for about an hour and a half. McDowell said after the session that she had refused to answer all pertinent questions on constitutional grounds.

FLT. LT. LESLIE BANNER TO BE BURIED AT NORTH BAY

North Bay, Sept. 21 (CP)—The body of Flt. Lt. Leslie Thomas Banner, North Bay jet plane pilot who was killed Sunday when his Vampire fighter crashed near Trenton, was to arrive at North Bay airport this afternoon.

It is being brought here, to his home town, in an R.C.A.F. hearse with an escort of air force personnel. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2.30 p.m.

DOUBLE MURDER

Glen Burnie, Md., Sept. 21 (AP) —The battered bodies of a young couple missing since they went on a date Friday night were found today in a woods. "It looks like a double murder," said police who identified the bodies of John Mahlaw, 23, postal clerk, and Mary C. Kline, 18-year-old typist.

Paratroops Join Forces in Hunt For Lost Plane

The Pas Man., Sept. 22 (CP)— Messages flashed to a searching plane by mirrors and spelled out by strips of cloth on the ground were being investigated today as a clue to the possible fate of a United States Navy plane, missing for the last 10 days with five men aboard.

The messages came from a group of villagers in the tiny, remote community of Skownan, Man., 100 miles southeast of here. They were relayed to a Canso aircraft which had been hunting for the missing C-45 Beechcraft, unreported since Sept. 12 when it left Churchill, Man., for the Pas.

The villagers caught the searching planes attention by flashing mirrors into the sun and by setting strips of cloth on the ground, the aircraft's wireless operator reported.

When the plane dropped a message to the residents asking if they knew anything about the missing aircraft, the message "East in woods on ground" was spelled out below.

Sgdn. Ldr. Jack Hose of The Pas, R.C.A.F. reserve officer and one-time bush pilot, Monday landed his Norseman in a nearby lake and questioned Skownan residents.

He reported that the times they gave did not coincide with the times the aircraft was believed most likely to have been in that area. However, he said, the difference was "not too great."

The general feeling at the headquarters of operation sleuther", so called because of the positions the planes held by two of those aboard the missing aircraft, Capt. Sir Robert W. Stirling-Hamilton of Renfrew and Capt. Sam Scott Custer of the United States — was that the search would end today.

DENY REPORTS ANY OF SHIPMATES VICTIMS OF SHARKS

Montreal, Sept. 22 —(CP) — Survivors of the ill-fated British ship Leicester, landed here on the rescue ship Trojero, today discounted Bermuda reports that sharks "got" any of their shipmates in a hurricane-lashed sea.

Brought here by the Argentine freighter Trojero, rescued men said they had seen one man "cut to pieces" in the propeller blades of the American ship Cecil N. Bean which picked up other members of the crew.

They said two other men were washed overboard during the height of the storm which struck their vessel Tuesday night 300 miles southeast of Halifax, and three others drowned trying to swim for the rescue boats.

CNR Net Revenue Off $22,762,000 For Eight Months

Montreal Sept. 22 (CP) — A decrease of $3,210,000 in the net revenue of the Canadian National Railways for August and a decrease of $22,762,000 in the net for the eight months of 1948, as compared with the corresponding periods of 1947, was announced today in the official statement of earnings.

August operating revenues were $40,440,000 against $37,018,000 in August, 1947. Operating expenses were $40,170,000 against $33,539,000 in 1947 for a net revenue decrease during the month of $3,210,000.

For the first eight months of 1948 operating revenue was $310,706,000 against $297,269,000 in the same period of 1947. But operating expenses of $297,652,000 compared with $251,474,000 in 1947 brought the decrease in earnings during the 1948 period to $22,762,000.

Kitchener Plan Classifies Industry To Ease Shortage

Kitchener, Sept. 22 —(CP)— Classification of this city's industries into three groups for the purpose of conserving electric power was made at a meeting of industrialists at City Hall, Monday night. The new scheme goes into effect tomorrow.

Under the arrangement, Group A—which includes Dominion tire plant—will close down Friday of this week. Group B, which embraces three other rubber plants and a textile factory, will not operate on Monday and Tuesday next week and Group C starts off the program by closing on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The letter classification includes all other industries in the city.

The factories will allow this schedule for four weeks when existing days will be alternated.

Arthur Bromley, chief engineer of the Public Utilities Commission, told the meeting that the situation here "is desperate".

Dr. W. Brewing New Moderator Of United Church

Vancouver, Sept. 22 (CP) — Rev. Dr. Willard Brewing, Moderator-elect of the United Church of Canada, today prepared to lead his general council into its 18th biennial conference.

The 67-year-old cleric from Toronto St. George's Church said in an interview after his unanimous election Tuesday night: "The challenge of the church now is to breathe a spiritual significance into the new social order."

He succeeds for a two-year term the Rt. Rev. T. W. Jones of Montreal. Dr. Douglas H. Telfer of Vancouver was the only other candidate. Dr. Brewing's installation to the United Church's highest office took place in the chancel of St. Andrews-Wesley Church here where he ministered from 1929 to 1938.

The General Council's 470 official delegates from all parts of Canada and Newfoundland today swung into discussions scheduled as the heavy agenda for the 8-day conference.

Dr. Brewing, following his election, said the spiritual basis of the church's social gospel now needs new emphasis.

He sees two primary tasks before the United Church in the coming two years. An emphasis upon its foreign missions and preparation for its 25th birthday in 1950.

High also among the coming problems he said is the task of fostering the ecumenical (world-wide) movement within the church.

Retiring moderator Jones said earlier the church must strengthen its fight against the imperialistic conception of life based on Communism.

"There are forces working here to make it progressively more difficult for men and women to maintain loyalty to their convictions," Dr. Jones said. "There is a desperate need in Canada for converted men and women."

He urged the United Church to take a strong stand against gambling and liquor, both of which he termed "unrighteous" and "jeopardizing to honesty."

Unexploded Nazi Bomb Removed From Surrey Docks

London, Sept. 22 — (CP) — A 500-pound unexploded German bomb that had been buried in the quayside at Surrey commercial docks in southeast London since May 10, 1941, was removed Tuesday.

Four Germans, former prisoners of war, volunteered for the job of digging out the missile their countrymen dropped. Three British officers, headed by Royal Engineers, worked with them.

Hundreds were evacuated from nearby offices, houses and apartments and two ships were moved out of the docks. Police cordoned off the area and passing trains were limited to a speed of five miles an hour.

"Everything went according to plan," said Knight. "We took about three-quarters of an hour to remove the fuses and get the bomb out. The Germans gave us their full co-operation."

Would Regard Arctic Area As 'Sentry Box'

Vancouver, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Arctic explorer Sir Hubert Wilkins believes that the Arctic should be regarded as a "sentry box" under present world conditions.

He told the Northwest Aviation Planning Council convention Monday night that as did not think either North American or Russian studies of Arctic regions were necessarily aggressive moves.

Much of the Russian development had been economic, and not military, but he stressed the Russians had made far more use of their resources in the Arctic.

He disclosed that United States navy submarines are under-going tests beneath Arctic Ocean ice. In the event of a future war, submarines hiding under Arctic ice would be used to control guided missiles. Radar would be usable to detect the submarines through the huge thicknesses of ice.

They would carry radio-control equipment, rocket bombs and boring tubes to enable their crews to reach the surface.

Seven Provinces Win Temporary Respite on Rates

Ottawa, Sept. 22 (CP) — Seven provinces — all except Ontario and Quebec — Tuesday won a temporary respite from new demands for freight rate increases.

The Board of Transport Commissioners ruled it could not now hear an application by the railways for a general 20-per-cent freight boost and delayed the issue for a hearing Jan. 11.

The decision meant that the railways would lose some $18,000,000 — estimated as the potential revenue from the requested increase between the period October — January.

This decision appeared to take care indirectly of two arguments by the provinces:

1. That the 20-per-cent hearing should not be dealt with before the cabinet grants a hearing on the "protests of the provinces of the 21-per-cent freight rate increase granted the railways last spring.

2. The British Columbia request for hearings on their mountain differential case. These hearings are to start about Nov. 1. The mountain differential is higher than average rate on freight on some hauls over the Rockies.

Mr. Justice M.B. Archibald, new chief commissioner of the transport board, indicated that both these issues may be cleared up by the board went back to the straight freight rate request. When the Jan. 11 hearing rolls around. "I assume we'll be prepared to carry on," he said.

Braves Get Chance to Clinch National League Flag Today But All Eyes Are on Indians

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Boston Braves can clinch their first National League pennant in 34 years today but the baseball spotlight will be centred on Cleveland where the Indians tackle Boston Red Sox in a night game with first place in the American League at stake.

Billy Southworth's Braves can mathematically win it today if they beat St. Louis Cardinals and the runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers bow to Pittsburgh.

The Braves killed off the remaining pennant hopes of both the Cards and Dodgers Tuesday. Taking both ends of a twin bill from the Red Birds 11-3 and 4-0 while the Dodgers bowed 12-11 and 6-3 to Pittsburgh.

The Braves now lead the Dodgers by 7½ games. Both teams have nine games left to play and any combination of two Boston victories or Dodger defeats will give Boston its first pennant since 1914. The Cards are eight games back with 10 to go and a loss today will knock them out.

However, in the American League, the league-leading Red Sox are only a game in front of the runner-up Indians who have won their last six starts. A Cleveland victory would put the two teams in a flat-footed tie for the lead. A Boston triumph would jump the Sox two games ahead with only eight games left to play for each team.

Parnell Wins 14th Game

The Red Sox trounced Detroit Tigers 10-2 Tuesday in the only game played in the American League. Mel Parnell, last though rapped for 11 hits, coasted to his 14th victory.

Sain's victory was his 22nd this season.

Pittsburgh's 12-11 victory over Brooklyn completed a game that began in Pittsburgh Aug. 25 when a ninth-inning protest by the Pirates was upheld.

The game was resumed with the Pirates at bat, three runs behind, two out, runners on first and third. Bill Salkeld came up with a 2-1 count and Carl Erskine pitching. Erskine walked Rockman to load the bases and Hank Behrman took over. Stan Rojek then broke up the game with a base-clearing double.

Picks Up Ninth Win

In the regular scheduled game that followed Hilda Vic Lombardi held his former Dodger mates to five hits in picking up his ninth victory.

Andy Pafko's three-run ninth inning homer enabled the Cubs to grab the nightcap and end a 10-game losing streak. Johnny Schmitz, who held the Giants hitless until rookie pitcher Sam Webb singled with two down in the ninth, received credit for his 13th victory.

Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phillies also split a day-night twin bill. The Reds won the first game, 6-5 and the Phils took the nightcap, 6-1.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

Jersey City N.J.—Marcel Cerdan, 158, France knocked out Tony Zale, 159, Gary. Ind. (12) (title).

Honolulu — Dada Marino, 116 1-4 Honolulu, outpointed Chico Rosa, 116 3-4, Honolulu (10).

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tonight's headline attraction on the box-card at Memorial Arena between George Pelmaster of this city and Norman Thompson of Brockville promises to be one of the flatte events of the season. Pelmaster has readdel himself for the all-important come-back battle and is reported to be in fine shape. He was a popular favorite here a few years ago before going up to the Queen whose he made a name for himself. He needs a hard-punching, fast-stepping opponent in Thompson who proved that he is a fighter of more than passing ability in last week's show. It should be the feature attraction of the evening.

• • •

Another Bellevilly leather - pusher who also was favorite with the fans here and elsewhere a few years ago is Jumping Jerry Downs who is scheduled to meet the fast-stepping Bud Henry of Oshawa in the second main bout. Downs too, has whipped himself into shape and should give the classy Henry who punched out a decision here last week, a busy four rounds.

• • •

The fans will be watching this Fred Harding, well-known Oshawa mitt slinger who tangles with Jimmy Wise, Brockville, in the four-round preliminary. Harding holds decisions over Billy Graham, Ernie Majury, Mike Garjash and other well - known boys, and according to Promoter Harris Swarts, Oshawa, he will turn professional in the near future. Harding, however, should have his hands full with the clever Jimmy Wise who turned in a fine performance last week. The bout is a "must" for the faithful.

• • •

Carl Clapper, Soup Manderville and Ray Lucas are other Bellevilla boys on the card along with clever boxers from Trenton, Reed Ajax and Oshawa. The attraction is "Chuck" Murphy, of the Ontario Athletic Commission, Toronto, will be the third man in the ring, and that is guarantee enough. The card is a good one and deserves the all - out support of boxing and other sports enthusiasts of the city and district.

• • •

Baseball is well on the way out in this neck of the woods with the Napanee Lions the lone standard bearers of the district to seek a provincial championship. The Gibbsdrville crew has been ordered by the OBA executive to clash with the Shallow Lake team in the next round of the Intermediate "A" playdowns and they play back to the Western Ontario team at Napanee on Saturday afternoon. The second game is scheduled for the Lake on Sept. 29th.

• • •

With the ice reported to be slated for Memorial Arena come November 1st, the lack of hockey gabfest along the rialto is more or less surprising. There have been plenty of rumors anent various hockey loops and teams here but the only definite action taken thus far has been by the management of the Bellevilla Rockets Juniors. They have been working quietly along organization and player lines for the past two or three weeks and have accomplished much so far as a senior "B" team is concerned nothing of a concrete nature has been done as yet, and it's about time something was stirring in the rank and file if the village is to have an entry of this calibre.

• • •

It is quite likely that the Belleville District Hockey League master-mind will call a meeting in the near future. It is understood that the league will be an invitation affair with a strong possibility that entries will be narrowed to six teams or a maximum of eight.

• • •

Last year's idea of twelve teams divided into six - team sections proved far too wieldy for the time allotted the loop. It meant that squads were limited to sometimes one game a week and as a result the calibre of hockey was far from what it should have been. It was not fair to the players, the teams, nor to the hockey - going public. It is hoped the loop moguls will remedy this situation this year so that all concerned will benefit. Northern Electric have already signified their intention of entering a team and the grapevine has it that the plant boys have plenty of good timber, and should ice a strong team.

• • •

The Rocket Juniors, it is reliably reported, will be strengthened by four new additions this year, including a goalkeeper as the hon Mvien Maurice LaFort has reached voting age and will not be eligible to play. Bob Taylor and Amy Defelice are at the moment in training with the Galt Junior "A" Rockets, and were two of the 23 players retained by Coach Alfie Moore after the squad of young hopefuls was chased from 74. Both youngsters have shown plenty of ability with Defelice especially catching the discerning eyes of railbirds and the Rockets' management. It is more than likely that he will catch a centre spot with the Galt regulars.

• • •

Football lovers will be able to satisfy at least part of their appetites in the immediate future if they care to hop into the family jalopy and drive a few miles. It is learned that a Kingston entry has joined the new Lakeshore Intermediate League filling the fourth vacancy. Teams entered are Trenton Trenton Flyers, Cobourg Ghosts and Kingston. A schedule has been drawn up which appears elsewhere in this edition. The league opening is slated for Saturday, Oct. 2 with Kingston meeting Flyers on the latter's field.

• • •

A late announcement today is to the effect that a special meeting will be held tomorrow evening (Thursday) in the Sea Cadet Barracks, (South End Yacht Club), at 8 o'clock to discuss possibilities of the formation of Senior "B" and Intermediate "A" hockey clubs. All interested are requested to attend.

C.O.A. Secretary Says New Sports Assoc. Needed

(By The Canadian Press)

A new national sports organization is needed in Canada in an overdue house-cleaning to prepare for the next Olympics and other world sports events, Prof. Nelson C. Hart, Secretary of the Canadian Olympic Association said in London, Ont., Tuesday.

At the same time, he backed the claim of C.O.A. President Sydney Dawes of Montreal, that the C.O.A. should be independent of any sports-governing body including the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

Hamilton Tigers trounced Mimico Mountaineers 6-4 Tuesday night at Mimico in the opener of the best-of-seven final series for the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior title. Tigers took an early lead in a fast, rough game and the Mountaineers, defending the title they won last year, never succeeded in heading them.

Barbara Ann Scott, Canada's Queen of the ice blades turned professional, took to the ice at Ottawa's Minto Club Tuesday for the first time since she signed her contract last June. The 18-year-old triple-crowned champion she slipped into the club in preparation for her career with the Music Corporation of America which is sponsoring her professional debut. Details of where or when she will make her first professional appearance have not been disclosed.

At Philadelphia, Bill (Chicken) Thompson, 21-year-old Philadelphia heavyweight, died Tuesday night from injuries suffered in a fight against Jimmy Bivins of New York last Thursday. Thompson never fully regained consciousness after being floored by Haynes three seconds before the end of their scheduled eight-round bout at Philadelphia's Fopi Stadium.

Ray Gariepy of Timmins, earth-hitting defenceman with Barrie Juniors last season, took part in his first workout with Montreal Canadiens Tuesday and impressed railbirds at the St. Hyacinthe Que., training camp with his fusty body checks. Another recruit from Barrie and also a Timmins boy Gil St. Pierre checked in Tuesday. He and Gariepy likely will be sent to Dallas, Texas, Canadiens' farm club in the United States Hockey League.

A one-year suspension has been handed trainer Jack Engle, accused at Los Angeles, of doping race horses. The California Horse Racing Board announced its decision, effective Sept. 17, following a three day probe into charges against Engle. A former Howard stable groom, Robert Brennan, 25, of Hamilton, Ont., faces criminal narcotics charges in the case.

50 Million Frenchmen Weren't Wrong as Marcel Cerdan Comes Thru to Win Middleweight Title

Jersey City N.J., Sept. 23 (CP) —Fifty million Frenchmen weren't wrong!

Their hopes that Marcel Cerdan would win the world's middleweight boxing championship were fulfilled Tuesday night when the mighty Moroccan mauled Tony Zale's title submission in 12 rounds of the 12,172 who had watched five dull preliminaries set up by the tournament of champions was brought to its feet and after round in the headline bout. The scrappy 158-pound Casablanca cat took the fight right out of the defending champion's hands from the first round and left the 159-pound, 34-year-old Gala wielding weary and worn.

It was evident after the sixth round that the highly rated Zale could only win by a knockout.

Six rounds later Zale was declared knocked out, under New Jersey law, when he couldn't answer the bell.

Actually the 32-year-old Frenchman finished his opponent at the bell which ended the 11th round. But under the state's boxing laws the count was made between rounds and thus it was officially made a 12th round K.O.

Carried to Corner

The end of the 11th round was not the only time that Zale was in a state of collapse. His slavic features mashed and red, the former title holder was carried into his corner at the end of the sixth and seventh rounds.

The Canadian Press scorecard gave Zale the fourth round and allied the third even. The scorecard gave Cerdan's. The Associated Press gave Zale the third and fourth rounds while referee Paul Cavalier credited the loser with rounds three, four and called the ninth even.

Couldn't Find Target

Zale, who had been expected to cut the Frenchman in two with his deadly rights to the body, seldom could find a target.

The 11th saw Cerdan boring in relentlessly, landing punches four to one, and trying hard for the kill. Toward the end Zale was plainly in distress as he stood with his back to the ropes and absorbed punishment without raising a hand in defence.

A commission doctor who examined Zale in the dressing room said the thing had beaten him was exhaustion.

The gross gate was $242,870, with Zale's share $120,000 and Cerdan's $72,000.

Semi-Final Round Of Playoffs Reaches Climax

(By The Associated Press)

The thrilling semi-final round of the International League's playoffs reaches a climax tonight when the four contesting ball teams square off in the final games of each series.

Montreal's pennant - winning Royals and the third - place Syracuse Chiefs extended the preliminary round to its full seven-game length Tuesday night.

The Royals turned back the fourth-place Rochester Red Wings 5-2 to tie up their series at 3-3, and the Chiefs blanked the runner-up Newark Bears 9-0 to snarl their series also at 3-3.

Montreal, with its back to the wall with two games against the Wings early before a home gathering of 15,000 fans.

The Royals hammered Bill Reeder, Red Wing ace, for four hits in the first three innings, driving him to cover in the third.

The Wings pecked away at starter Clarence Podbielan, picking up two runs in the fifth and another in the sixth on a homer by Russ Derry.

Podbielan was lifted in the seventh after the Wings loaded the bases with two out. Walt Nothe came on and got the side out but he got into a jam in the eighth and Jack Banta, Montreal's 19-game winner, relieved. Banta walked the first batter he faced to load the bases but Dick Cole then grounded out to end the threat.

Dixie Howell, veteran Syracuse right - hander, throttled the Bears on seven hits while the Chiefs pounded Dick Starr and three relief pitchers for 13 blows.

Bruce Woodcock Defeats Lee Oma In Fourth Round

London, Sept. 22 (CP) —British boxing experts hung out on flags to mark the return to the ring of the British heavyweight king, Bruce Woodcock, and his fourth-round knockout victory over Lee Oma at Harringay Arena Tuesday night.

Morning newspaper critics, with remarkable unanimity, wrote it off as an incredibly dull fight which proved next to nothing about Woodcock's comeback effort from a broken jaw and subsequent eye trouble stemming from his merciless drubbing last year at the hands of Joe Baksi in the same ring.

Their opinion was shared by 10,000 fans who booed the fighter from Detroit and derisively showered the ring with coins as he lay rolling over and over on the canvas while the referee counted him out late in the fourth round.

The kayo punch was no particular sensation. It was just a right cross from which Oma was moving back when it connected to his head. But it was enough to finish off Oma, who had been taking one straight left after another without any adequate reply.

The loser landed one good punch throughout the whole bout scheduled for eight rounds. That was a left hook to the Doncaster miner's chin early in the third round. The fact that Bruce's glass jaw showed no ill effects and that the British champion continued to bore in was about the only cheering thing in it for the feet-stamping watchers.

The winner landed nothing in the way of a Sunday punch either. His straight left was consistently sound but his wild right swings, trying to finish off his opponent, were inept.

Ringsiders who have followed his career closely, said he was no better than when he lost to Baksi or when he was beaten the year before by Tami Mauriello.

Promoter Jack Solomons said it was an exceptionally poor fight and added he was "disgusted" at Oma's showing.

George Polmanter, fast-moving Belleville boxer will make his 1946 hometown debut tonight at Memorial Arena when he meets Norm. Thompson, of Brockville in the five-round main event. Polmanter is in tip-top condition and should flash his old-time form. If this is the case Thompson will be in for a busy evening. But it won't be a pushover, for the Brockville lad has plenty of ability and punch. It should be an outstanding fight.

London Majors Win in Eleventh Over Fort Wayne

(By The Canadian Press)

London Majors Tuesday night defeated, Fort Wayne, Ind., 8-7 at London in the 11-inning, opening game of their best-of-seven Sandiot World series. Majors are Canadian champions and Fort Wayne, United States Sandlot titleholders.

Second game of the series—officially opened by National Baseball Congress President Ray Dumont—will be played in London Wednesday night.

Two other senior games were played in Ontario Tuesday.

In Sudbury, Frood Tigers won the Nickel Belt Senior Baseball League championship and the Monel Trophy. They trimmed Coniston Buzzers 10-1 in the last game of the finals. The championship is the Tigers' first in 10 years.

Toronto Stafford edged Peterborough Stars 7-6 at Peterborough to take the first game of their best-of-five, Ontario Baseball Association Senior 'A' semi-finals. Second game is scheduled for Toronto, Thursday.

Joe Bechard's single in the last of the 11th gave Manvers their victory over the highly-rated Fort Wayne squad. In fact it was Bechard's game-all through. He had his team at bat with four for six —including a two-run homer and a triple. In the ninth he tied up the game with a single. Then, two innings later, he gave a repeat performance and smacked the winner.

Frood's Earl Brandy pitched good ball and had complete command throughout the game. He won his second game of the series striking out 13 batters. Bob Riverand nicked buzzer pitcher Johnny Luptak for three hits in four tries. Tigers Gerry Wallace and Chuck each got two.

Johnny Krycia, Stafford's hurler, allowed only two hits in the seven innings he was on the mound. He also was his team's top hit-getter with a homer and a single in four times to bat. Larry Eby clouted a homer for Petes and Fred Garvey hit a double.

St. Catharines Juniors Win First Contest

Vancouver Sept. 22 (CP) —A lightning fast St. Catharines, Ont. squad Tuesday night defeated British Columbia all stars 17-13 in the first game of a best-of-five series for the Canadian Junior Box Lacrosse championship. The second game will be played Thursday night.

After taking a 4-1 first quarter lead, the easterners were outscored 6-2 in the second period by superior stick-handling of the B.C. crew.

Best Titchurst, leading point-getter of the game, racked up three of his four goals in the second frame and also got three assists.

St. Kitts ran away with the third session, smashing in six of the seven goals scored, to lead 12-8 at the three quarter mark.

The visitors outweighed the B.C. boys by an average 15 pounds, split the 10 fourth quarter goals with the all stars.

Tony D'Amico who drew the attention of the crowd of 1,000 by his smart stick handling, also chalked up two tallies. Doug Blackwood had three assists.

An important weight in the balance of nature is the Prairie Chicken. By destroying weed seeds, grasshoppers and other insects, it makes the farmer's work easier and more profitable . . . it helps protect the food you eat.

The Prairie Chicken is a fine game-bird too. Given fair protection, it thrives near farms and towns and can contend with its natural enemies. But bush-fires and over-hunting are two enemies it cannot successfully fight against. The Prairie Chicken needs our help in reducing these threats to its survival.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Bridge Expert

Winning bridge depends a great deal on what happens most often. How do you expect to find unseen cards? Most often an even number of bad breaks unequally; an odd number all separate is possible.

Apply it to this deal:

NORTH
♥ 7 6 4
♦ A K Q 5 4
♣ 9 6 5 3

WEST
♠ 7 2
♥ K Q J 5 2
♦ 7 6 2
♣ Q J 0

SOUTH
♠ K 10 9 7 6 4
♦ 9
♣ A K 8 4 2

Sit south as declarer at a contract of six spades, counting lead from west is heart king. Study what you see in dummy and take stock of what you are likely to lose.

You have no worries in either red suit. The blacks are where you find trouble. Again it is evident that you must lose a trump trick. This you have no chance of saving.

There is a possible loser in clubs. If the contract can be made you must prevent any loss in clubs. And you must look to your entries in dummy for future plays there.

In each black suit opponents have five cards in uneven number. In diamonds opponents have seven cards; an uneven number. As equally possible would be three-two, two-three, four-three.

You must lose a trump trick to the queen or jack. How to save the club loser is your problem. Only hope is to sluff three of your spade club on three of your north diamonds.

Unless divisions are as expected, the contract will fail. So, get it as if they are. And hope the long diamonds are in the hand that holds the long trumps. Go as in like this:

Take heart ace. Win top diamond. Ruff a small diamond. Cash trump king and heart queen that order. Lead two top diamonds and sluff two small south clubs. Opponent diamonds are gone.

Now lead dummy liar diamond. Whether or not opponent ruffs with spade queen, sluff third small south club and they it is a trump trick. You can take the rest to the bank.

TheMovieColumn

By JACK QUIGG

Hollywood, Sept. 22 — (AP) — A short burp, the plaintive whistle of a distant train, a cowgal's cough and the gallowy clatter are a few of the thousands of odd noises that are the daily concern of movie sound men.

These boys, recorded on the sound tracks of standard movie film, are kept busy for short noise use. Thus, if Mickey Rooney's enemy comes off key, sound men merely dub in one of hundreds on file in the library.

M-G-M's collection is typical. Sounds from airplanes to zippers are carefully catalogued and stored in fireproof vaults. This "library" consists of four walk-in vaults, each holding 2,000 cans of film.

Under airplanes, for example, are listed sound for planes idling, taxiing, taking off, landing and diving, as heard from both inside the craft and on the ground.

Most animal sound in the zoo, says that scene's boys had their vocalizing immortalized on celluloid. On hand are a bull elephant's bellow, the chatter of a squirrel and the unmistakable warnings of rattlesnakes and bumblebees. Camels are classified as barking, growling or crying. Dogs are listed by breed.

Baiches Numerous

Belches are classified as "long," "short," "hearty," "boy's," "through a handkerchief" and "unnerved or queasy."

The sounds of a pen shooter, a needle being blown out, a spitoon being hit, a skull crushed are there. Native chants and yells are catalogued generically. Bedlam? It forges are listed by age and whether the blaze is large or forceful.

Your sounds are 99 per cent authentic," says Mike Steinore, chief of the department. "It's my job to record the real thing than it is to invent a substitute."

One of the most explosive in "The Beginning or the End" the sound men simply seized it and extended their biggest explosion, a 16-inch cannon blast.

His toughest assignments, Steinore says, were duplicating the din of the earthquake in "San Francisco," and the rustle of millions of locusts for the plague in "Good Earth."

AT THE BELLE

One of the greatest motion pictures which Hollywood has produced is David O. Selznick's long awaited production, "Duel in the Sun" which comes to the Belle today.

This David O. Selznick International is being released by Selznick Releasing Organization. Told against a background of Post-Civil war Texas, the screen play was written by David O. Selznick as suggested by Niven Busch's novel.

King Vidor, one of the most distinguished motion picture directors, guided "Duel in the Sun." A Texas himself, Vidor was particularly "at home", with the Texas locale. Principal parts in "Duel in the Sun" are Jennifer Jones, as a tempestuous half-breed named Pearl Chavez, Peck as Lewt McCanles, a charming but worthless man, and Joseph Cotten as his brother, Jesse McCanles an idealistic gentleman.

Other important roles in "Duel in the Sun" are portrayed by such gifted players as Lionel Barrymore, Lillian Gish, Herbert Marshall, Walter Huston, Charles Bickford, Otto Kruger, Joan Tetzel, Butterfly McQueen and Tilly Losch, an international famous Viennese Concert artist.

Casting a picture of this produce and over three years in the making, "Duel in the Sun" required the services of 6,000 extras.

Ask High Schools To Organize Jr. Kiwanis Clubs

Montreal, Sept. 22 — (CP) — High schools all over Canada and the United States will be asked to organize junior Kiwanis clubs as part of a Kiwanis International project to prevent juvenile delinquency, the 51st annual meeting of Ontario, Quebec and Maritime districts of the club decided Tuesday.

The project, which will be conducted in high schools this year, will attempt to give all possible help to boys where senior Kiwanis service clubs are established.

George S. Cowle, president of the Montreal club, won a plaque to maintain the inter-provincial character of the various divisions in the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime district. He argued against a suggestion that the increasing the number of districts from eight to 11, Manitoba and Saskatchewan and dozen other clubs in Quebec province should be made into a separate district.

As a result Montreal joins Nova Scotia, district of No 6 will be associated with clubs in Kentville and Yarmouth and Port Hawkesbury, Sillery, Quebec and Three Rivers in Quebec.

St. Lawrence and St. Georges Kiwanis clubs will go into District No. 7 which also comprise Ottawa, Pembroks and Westborough and Waterloo, Granby and Sherbrooke in Quebec.

Butter Production Up 3.9 Per Cent Over August '47

Toronto, Sept. 22 (CP)—Some 8,513,000 pounds of creamery butter were produced in Ontario during August—an increase of 3.9 per cent over the 8,195,800 pounds of August, 1947. This was shown Tuesday in the Ontario Agriculture department's monthly dairy report.

Production for the first eight months of this year, however, was 2.4 per cent less than the 53,271,800 pounds manufactured for same period last year.

The report said the cheddar cheese industry is lessening. In August 10,806,400 pounds were produced—18.1 per cent less than the 13,191,100 pounds in August 1947.

Biggest Home-building Year In Canada's History Noted; 90,000 New Homes to be Built

By JOHN LEBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Despite a merry-go-round of shortages, Canada is heading into the last quarter of 1947 as one of the biggest home-building year in her history.

And for citizens plagued by the housing squeeze, there is added comfort in the fact that the estimate of 90,000 new dwelling units is linked with evidence that the brakes are being applied to the cost of construction.

These costs are still going up, but the rate of climb has slowed down noticeably.

For the first six months of this year, figures compiled here by the Canadian Construction Association show home-building costs up five per cent from last year. This was about half the rate of rise for the same time last year.

A comparable slowdown has been noted in the cost climb for construction generally, the association says.

The easing of the cost rise has developed in the face of a cycle of shortages — of both labor and materials — chronic in some essentials and recurring in others.

Shortages Persist

At the moment, the biggest building bottleneck is in cement, though Canada is turning out more of this product than at any time in her history.

Last year, the Dominion had a cement output of more than 12,000,000 barrels of cement. This year for the first quarter, production was up by almost 25 per cent.

But still cement is tit tight supply because of unprecedented demand. What cuts down the supply is the insistence of such projects as hydro-electric dams, which set up millions of bags at a crack.

Another vital building element that is apt to get a big spurt is availability of this product in Canada depends to a large extent on imports from the United States, and these have been curtailed by scarcity of U. S. dollars and by a U. S. pipe shortage of its own.

On the other hand, the lumber picture has brightened after a period of tight supply. Lack of material was a headache. Plenty of it is now and lumberyard stocks are available, and the rate of its rise is below levelling off.

But with that situation clearing up, the shortage, headache has broken out in another direction in recent weeks. The new sore spot is the bathtub.

Bonus Little Help

Despite a federal "incentive bonus" to manufacturers to step up production, this essential has had an off-again-on-again career for several years. At present, it is off.

The various "shortages" do not develop in the ranks of production. Actually, production is at record levels in practically all commodities except for those in which the supply lines are already filled. It is a supply-and-demand scarcity created by an unprecedented boom.

Over and above the material factor, affecting the cost climb, is shortage of labor in the building trades. Skilled workmen, particularly trowel workers, are hard to get.

Construction men say this condition probably would hold down building to its current pace even if all materials were plentiful. A current drift of Ontario bricklayers to U. S. jobs paying up to $26? a week won't help any.

Looking over the whole situation, experts here are inclined to think Canada this year is hitting about the peak of her overall construction capacity, taking into account available manpower and the the production of building materials.

Yearns Ahead of 1947

In the housing field, the 90,000 units expected to be completed this year represent 10,000 more than the number actually finished last year.

By July 1, 30,528 of these had been completed and another 52,143 were under construction. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates additional contracts will bring the number of completions up to 90,000 by the end of the year.

In construction generally, progress was ahead of last year. For the period, more than $1,500,000,000 worth of building was carried out. This year, contract awards for the first eight months are running well ahead of 1947 except for industrial building.

Decline in industrial construction follows a trend started last year. It is regarded as reflecting industry's caution against overstretching itself in some areas of business slowdown.

But for the eight months as a whole the contracts awarded are close to $664,000,000 from the $472,000,000 of the same period last year. Non-residential contracts are up $135,000,000; business and institutional, $28,000,000; engineering, $38,000,000, and residential building contracts are down $10,000,000.

The construction industry is also dictated by contract awards in the eight-month period for factories rose from $163,238,000 last year to $249,897,000 this year.

Railway Counsel Urges Temporary Boost in Tolls

Ottawa, Sept. 22 — (CP) — A provincial counsel to-day asked the board on a railway application for new freight-rate increases was sought by the railways yesterday before the Board of Transport Commissioners.

Declaring a rate increase was "inevitable" because of higher operating costs, railway counsel urged a temporary boost in tolls should be put into effect as soon as possible.

Spokesmen for the provinces — all except Ontario and Quebec — opposed the railway application involving around $85,000,000 a year in freight tolls, should not be heard until after the federal Cabinet has disposed of their appeal against an earlier rise increase granted by the board.

Their joint submission was aimed at holding up hearings on a railway application for a 20-per-cent rate increase, which follows upon a 21-per-cent increase granted by the board in March.

Vive La France! At last the leading women tennis players of United States supremacy in flight championships received a semblance of a fight when Marcel Cerdan, under - dog French Canadian pugilist, gave middleweight champion Tony Zale one of the best boxing lessons he has ever received. The handsome, curly - haired gorgeous Georges Carpentier, took everything in the Zalian fight and managed to give more than as for more. It was a grand fight with Cerdan the winner of 8 of the eleven rounds. Tony, rested like a fine day champ he is, made the canvas as the gong tolled the end of the eleventh, and from that point on had no further interest in the proceedings. But more than Zale took a licking. American boxing experts also learned that Cerdan is a hard man to hit — and surprise, when the flashing Frenchman, a master of boxing, fought one of the cleverest fights ever seen in a Yankee ring. It was beautifully planned and marvellously executed.

Blacky's Belles also took the measure of the Ontario Intelligencer girls "Our Gang" gauged up on the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in the third match of the night.

A feature of the evening was the presentation to Waller Moore, veteran bowler, of a handsome trophy by the honorable "Stub". The presentation commemorated Moore's feat of rolling a perfect bowling score last summer during an exhibition game played at the Bowl-O-Drome.

Argos Release Ken Whitlock

Toronto, Sept. 22 — (CP)—Ken Whitlock, former Virginia State College halfback, today was released by Toronto Argonauts and Western Conference football champions returned to their All-Canadian status.

The 175-pound Negro joined Argos this season as the first United States import to crash the lineup since the start of their post war string of Dominion and Dominion titles. The last two titles were won while other clubs took advantage of relaxed residence rules allowing five U. S importers to any team.

Coach Tedder Morris said in announcing the release Tuesday night that Whitlock failed to live himself in four league starts with Argos this season.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

Little Benny's Note Book

My cousin Artie stayed at our house for supper, being 1am stew without dumplings, and I said, Stay Artie, 1ape me the butter will you?

No, but I'll base you the putter Artie said.

Something so funny we both started to giggle, and ma said, Now that wasn't so funny, dont be a couple of silly billies.

We're not, ma, we're a supple of billy kiffies, I said.

Sounding even funnier and making us giggle even worse, and pop said, Cut it out for Feet sake or else take your plates out to the kitchen.

But jiminny, Uncle Will, that was funny, Artie said, and I said Sure, pop, it was funny as anything.

No doubt, no doubt, but dont bear down too hard on your shole of humor, or the bottom is liable to fall out of it, pop said and I said pop, that's the last time anybody's going to hear me laff for a heck of a long while, maybe for ever.

Me too, Artie said, I'm never going to laff again even if I see a 300 pound fat man slip on a bananana peel and sit down squash in a great big mud puddle and explode everybody in the block except me, he said, and I said, That's a way I feel too. I'm going around with a sad face all the rest of my life, and every time I hear a good joke it'll make me cry, and everybody's going to call me Bellaring Benny, I said.

Oh dear, what a dizmal prospect, ma said, and pop said, Dont decide too hastily, boys. You better think it over, he said.

It's too late now, I said, and Artie said, The time is passed, we've decided.

Well, all I can do is make one last desperate effort, pop said. I'll give my imitation of the sprized look on the face of the cow that ate buttercups and gave a pailful of buttermilk, he said.

And he puffed out his face and put his thumbs in his ears and made his hands look like horns making me and Artie laff like anything and bringing us back to normal.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

Virginia took him upstairs to meet the old man, her father's grandfather, and that was the unkindest cut of all, for I never had been taken up there. Whether Calhoun Hillyard was aware of my existence I'm sure I don't know, if I didn't know. Old Calhoun succumbed to Billy's slim, serious charm as everyone else did. Billy, in his navy blue, with his modest ambition "just to get into the thing and have a hand in getting it over with," was irresistible.

He had had two years of intensive newspaper work in San Francisco, too, and could talk of some of the families I knew and could listen entranced when the old man began to delve into family histories and give Billy the background to what he called the "set-up to date." Clay had to go down to the city for a visit to his cousins; Joyce was in Reno and we were a small family for a night or two. Then Jimmy came back to find that Bill had made tremendous headway, not only with Virginia's but with Virginia's supposed grandfather too. Clay had to stay in San Francisco for the week; Virginia and Bill were inseparable. I was to remember Munro for company.

It was rather absent-minded companionship; we might be sitting on the terrace before dinner or wandering about the farm watching the big Durham bull pawing and scuffling in the corral; we might apparently be laughing and chatting quite naturally with the ranch hands or Louise or Dr. Willetts, but all the time his ears and mine were perfect for the conversation that was going on between Bill and Virginia a few feet away.

Billy's handsome head would be bent down to hear her better, Virginia's perhaps turned coquettishly above the husky gurgle of laughter punctuating his deep tones. Every hour, every day, they were in our sight; every minute of the day had its reminder that they were floating in a lovers' halcyon sea. It was hard to be angry with Bill, he was so happy.

As for Virginia, or rather Bill—for to my weighted mind on one increasingly and I never forget her true fidelity for an instant—she wasn't worth bothering about. She wasn't important enough to rate my envy; it was beneath my dignity to waste a moment's fascination on her account. She was neither an extravagantly beautiful nor even one of average intellect; and she was really stupid.

So I told myself, over and over. But it didn't help much. The distinging sense of being slighted, of being rejected, burned on and on in me. It was mingled with an intense boredom. Lovers are among the most boring of creatures; one grows deadly, idly weary of their complacent ways. Bill continued to be, for me, the wonderful man of all time. I was not surprised that Virginia found him irresistible; I would rather have been surprised if any girl hadn't found him so. But it was all dull; to watch the progress of his affair made me feel cold and nervous, as if I didn't know quite where I was.

Cold and nervous, and yet throbbing with a deep interior fever too. Meals found me restless, not interested, breaking up the food on my plate and wishing this time of enforced association were over. I heartily wished the whole thing finished; Billy's visit finished and himself gone off to the war. Sometimes I even mused bitterly upon the probability of his being wounded or killed in the terrible Pacific battles; hundreds of men like Bill were dying every day. Perhaps this idyllic affair between him and Virginia wouldn't end as beautifully as it began.

And suppose he was furious when he discovered that she really wasn't Virginia Carolan, really wasn't a Hillyard, wasn't going after all, to inherit this place with its broad acres and fields as deeply in love? My thoughts would handle this possibility hazardously. The other Virginia — Virginia Hornblight — came at unwelcome, tiny moments to tell me, and she grew laughing — you know the way she laughs —

Wallace Making Personal Charges Against Opponents

Washington, Sept. 21 (CP) — The United States presidential election campaign, now in full swing, today finds Progressive candidate Henry Wallace the only one of the three leading candidates making positive and personal charges against his opponents.

Wallace bluntly holds President Truman and Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, and their advisers, responsible for the alliance with Russia. He implies that if war comes it will be their policies that brought it.

Truman blasts away at the 80th Congress but neither Dewey nor his running-mate, Governor Earl Warren of California, can be held responsible for the actions of a session of the federal congress. No, Truman says, they could.

Dewey and Warren almost ignored Truman and his adherents in their appeal, but base their claim for support on the allegation that the 16-year-old democratic administration is inept and incapable of doing what the needs of the moment call for.

Warren, and in a measure Dewey, claim that labor is good in all people, including Democrats, and can reach unity and cooperation but under a Republican party in the administration.

Politics being what it is and human nature being what it is the dirty attitude of the Republican leaders may not be sustained throughout the campaign, but it has drawn a great deal of editorial fire.

The likelihood is that Truman will ease up on his attacks against the alleged Wall-Street and big-business cliques which he charges rule the Republican leadership and wait their chance to capitalize on the economically-small-fry people.

But Wallace has followed an unswerving line since he broke with the administration two years ago and started out on a third-party career that has brought him into close association with the Communist fringe.

Thus it is not as startling or scaring as it otherwise would be when a man who was four years vice-president and longer than that a cabinet secretary, makes the terrible charges against his chief opponents even a National radio network.

Wallace Monday night told his radio audience that the "cold war" with Russia is the first "we never before in our history, the United States is in the hands of incapable and dishonest men."

Such charges as these, made by a man who for four years was only a step removed from the presidency, make against the somber background of the gravely dangerous international crisis would put the United States in a frenzy of fear if the responsibility believed them.

However, leading political observers concede Wallace will convince only about 2,000,000 of the 50,000,000-odd eligible voters

External Trade Committee Met By Sir Stafford

Ottawa, Sept. 22 (CP)—Sir Stafford Cripps met Tuesday with the External Trade Committee of the cabinet for discussions which official government sources said were confined to trade and financial topics.

These sources said there was no basis for reports that defence was the major topic of discussion at Tuesday's meeting.

Opening week-long discussions on economic and financial relations between Canada and Britain, the British chancellor of the exchequer Britain mission conducted day-long talks with acting Prime Minister St. Laurent and five members of the cabinet committee.

Meantime, other authorities said that the vital question of strategic materials was the primary factor behind the talks, which were called at Britain's initiative.

These circles said that Sir Stafford was seeking information about the types and quantities of strategic materials Canada would be able to ship to Britain on a long-term basis.

Sir Stafford was reported to have given the cabinet committee an outline of Britain's current economic and financial position. It was thought he may also have sounded out the committee on the possibility of Canada freeing the frozen portion of the $1,350,000,000 Dominion loan to Britain.

In the committee besides Mr. St. Laurent were Finance Minister Abbott, Trade Minister Howe External Affairs Minister Pearson, Revenue Minister McCann and Agriculture Minister Gardiner.

Canada Has Busiest Election Year Since 1912 With Five Votes

Ottawa, Sept. 23 — (CP) — This is Canada's busiest election year since 1912 with votes in five provinces.

None of the 1942 elections made any changes in premiers. Premiers who led their parties to re-election this year were: Hon. George S. Henry, Ontario Progressive Conservative who was personally defeated in his own riding in Toronto High Park; Hon. J. B. McNair, New Brunswick Liberal; Hon. T. C. Douglas, Saskatchewan C.C.F.; Hon. Maurice Duplessis, Quebec Union Nationale; Hon. E. C. Manning, Alberta Social Credit.

One of the 1938 premiers is dead, Mackenzie Bowell, the Bible teacher who laid the foundation for the Conservative victories of the Social Credit party, Premier Aberhart. Campbell of Prince Edward Island now heads the supreme court in his province. Mr. A. Matheson Dewar was local premier of New Brunswick, has been judge of the county court of Kent and Westmoreland and he resigned the premiership in 1940.

In Ontario, Liberal Mitchell F. Hepburn is now the Elgin county farm near St. Thomas farming "to the great glee that he resigned as premier of Ontario and Liberal leader in the fall of 1942.

Came Back in 1942

In 1944, he came back to take over the leadership again and led the Liberals on to 1945 when his Liberal supporters voted with the C.C.F. to defeat the Progressive Conservative administration on a want-of-confidence motion. But in the election his party lost. He met personal defeat in his home constituency and headed back to the farm.

John Bracken resigned as Liberal-Progressive premier of Manitoba in 1942 to become national leader of the Progressive Conservative party from which he resigned recently because of his health. He operates a large farm at Manotick, Ont., near Ottawa. He represents Nipiwan, Man., in the House of Commons and it is expected he will continue as member despite his resignation as leader.

Defeated by C.C.F.

W. J. Patterson, former Liberal premier of Saskatchewan, went out of office when the C.C.F. won the provincial election of 1944. He remained an opposition leader in the House and is still a member although he has been replaced as leader by Walter Tucker.

T. D. Pattullo, resigned as Liberal leader of British Columbia in 1941 rather than join the Conservative coalition with Liberation government. A jaunty figure despite his 75 years he still maintains a keen interest in public affairs.

Neither Mr. Duplessis nor Mr. Macdonald have had an unbroken line of power in premiers. Mr. Duplessis was ousted by the Liberals in 1936 but went back into power in 1944 and was re-elected by 1948. He says his "Union Nationale is in power for 20 years."

Mr. Macdonald left the Nova Scotia premiership in 1940 to serve in the Dominion government as navy minister. He returned to the provincial leadership in 1945 and that fall led his party to a sweeping provincial election victory.

Says Arab States To Reject Report

Cairo, Sept. 22 — (AP) — The newspaper Al Misri yesterday quoted Nahas Pasha, Nahas Pasha as saying the Arab states will reject count Bernadotte's proposals to the United Nations on Palestine.

Azzam Bey, secretary-general of the Arab League, said the Arab countries "will decide regarding the measures they will take to prevent the evils plotted against Zionism."

He did not elaborate.

"Azzam Bey's statement is backed by the mediator's assumption vice-president and longer than that a cabinet secretary, makes the terrible charges against his chief opponents even a National radio network.

"This assumption Count Bernadotte was aiming at weakening Arab unity to make them accept his so-called realism."

The newspaper declared that the proposal to let Arab states decide the fate of non-Jewish Palestinians "is a plan to divide Arab states among themselves."

POPULATION DROPS

Toronto, Sept. 22 — (CP) — The population of Toronto dropped by 1,253 persons in the year to Dec. 31, reversing the natural increase of births over deaths, it is shown in the 1947 annual statement of the Department of Public Health.

Three Plead Innocent Of Narcotic Charge

Vancouver, Sept. 21. (CP) — Two men and a woman, charged with conspiring to transport $20,000 worth of narcotics from Toronto to Vancouver, Tuesday pleaded innocent when arraigned in Assize Court.

The trio—Jimmy Annunziello, 33, his wife Mary, and Steeve Peters, 34—were arrested last May after Mrs. Peters allegedly a suitcase filled with heroin and substituted a dummy package.

Special Prosecutor Gilbert Hogg told the jury that Annunziello was in Toronto about the time the suitcase was shipped from the eastern city. It was also claimed Peters wired a large sum of money to Toronto.

The suitcase was delivered to an apartment occupied by Annunziello and his wife were living. The prosecutor said Peters was a daily visitor.

Plans Tell Each Service How To Fight War

Washington, Sept. 22 — (AP)— The United States armed forces, for the first time, have a sheaf of strategic plans which tell each service how it will fight if war should come tomorrow or during the next few years.

This was disclosed indirectly Tuesday when the military establishment let it be known that the joint chiefs of staff have completed and filed with the Munitions Board a listing of the materials needed for a sudden "mobilization day."

Preparation of the plans top-secret documents, would have been impossible if the hitherto rival armed forces — navy, army, air force and marines — had not finally agreed on:

1. The precise mission of each service in war.

2. That materials would be needed for those missions. This involves an allocation among the services of such commodities as steel, weapons such as aircraft, and industrial manpower.

Sure, you can sell it! Make a pretty fair profit, too! But suppose it burned tonight? Would it really be worth then what you can get for it today? Would your insurance pay off on the basis of today's values? Or do you have last year's coverage for this year's market? Don't expect an "old" policy to protect you fully today. Your home is worth more! Insure it for more!

Hydro Cut-Offs Forecast Unless Consumers Assist

Lack of Co-operation May Cause Blackouts by Areas

Toronto, Sept. 23 (CP) — Blackouts by areas for certain Ontario cities were forecast today by hydro officials unless voluntary power-saving measures prove adequate to offset Ontario's growing electric supply shortage.

Brief cut-offs already had affected Windsor, Walkerville, Ford, Owen Sound, which Wednesday experienced two daily spells. Toronto also fell down badly, going 180,720 kilowatt hours over the new low load. One hydro official predicted that unless a better showing is made, power blackouts such as the city had last spring may be necessary.

Disappointing Response

At Kingston, F. J. Parker, general manager of the Public Utilities Commission warned that lack of co-operation, particularly from domestic consumers, may force electric cutbacks. He said response to power conservation pleas had been disappointing.

Hamilton, too, went above its load limit and reduced power used by A. W. Bradt, hydro general manager there, that the 180,000 kilowatt hours above the quota was too much. He said the situation might be improved by the return to Standard Time during October.

Extraordinary measures to cope with the power shortage bobbed up here and there. Mayor McCallum of Toronto said he would meet Premier Drew tomorrow and Saunders to suggest that Toronto stores close all day Wednesday instead of the usual half day.

Reduction Ordered

Galt banned floodlighting for rugby, tennis and lawn bowling. But the majority of main industries, the Howard Smith Paper Mills and Canadian Industries Ltd., were instructed by hydro to reduce their consumption at once.

One Brantford merchant solved the problem by returning to the lighting of the '90s. He equipped his store windows with gas lamps.

WOMAN ESCAPES GALLOWS, GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Yvonne Brouillette Will be Sentenced Friday for Hatchet-Slaying

Toronto, Sept. 23 — (CP) — Freed on a murder charge, Yvonne Brouillette, 36, will be sentenced Friday for manslaughter in the hatchet-slaying last June of John F. Farrell, 43.

The Assize Court jury Wednesday rejected the crown's plea for acquittal on the grounds that when the woman hacked Farrell 35 times with a hatchet in the couple's rooming-house bedroom she was defending herself against the man who had earlier threatened to kill her.

Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay told the jury he agreed with the verdict and its decision to reduce the charge. He added:

"The evidence did not support a charge of murder."

Defence Counsel Harry Rose will present, arguments for leniency before sentence is passed. The maximum penalty for manslaughter is life imprisonment.

The trim, dark-haired woman showed no emotion when she heard the jury foreman announce that she had been acquitted of the killing. She had broken down and wept in her cell when the jury retired three hours earlier after the close of the three-day trial.

The most dramatic moment of the hearing came late Tuesday when the black-garbed woman, sobbing in the witness box, declared she took the axe from Farrell, with whom she had lived intermittently for a year and a half, after he beat her and threatened to kill her. She told the court:

"It was his life or mine."

In Fear of Life

Mr. Justice Mackay summed up. He said the jury must decide whether she seized the hatchet in the room-lighthouse keeper and took it up to her bedroom. When Farrell sought to attack her again, she struck him.

Crown Counsel W. O. Gibson told the jury that when the woman left the room where Farrell lay unconscious, she could have either fled or gone to others in the rooming-house for assistance.

Instead, after a few minutes, she returned with the hatchet.

"Did she stand at the doorway at the head of the bed and cut him to pieces without more ado?" Mr. Gibson asked.

"There is strong evidence to support that. She went at the gentleman enthusiastically, unauthorizedly, then went and asked the lawyers, the jury, if it was lawful to come and see what a lovely job she had done on him.

"She took care of Farrell to the tune of self-defence. We have only one side of the story of what happened in that room. The other one died with Farrell."

ADMITS 32nd CHARGE

Oshawa, Ont., Sept. 23 — (CP) — J. O'Brien, alias J. B. Neilson, pleaded guilty in 6-month term on 31 charges of false pretenses, Wednesday in General Sessions, the 32nd charge of issuing false cheques to obtain radios. He received six months concurrent on three indefinite to run concurrently.

HEADS OF EASTERN EUROPEAN STATES MEET IN CRIMEA

Reports Say Stalin Presiding at Parley

London Sept. 23 (CP) — Reports reaching the foreign office suggest that a conference of heads of Eastern European States is at present meeting in the Crimea under the presidency of Stalin, an official spokesman said today.

The spokesman added that, while reports of such a meeting could not be confirmed there were a number of strong indications that Romania, Czechoslovakia and Hungary were represented.

Such reports had been received at the foreign office and it had been established definitely that both Anna Pauker, Romania's foreign minister and Klement Gottwald, president of Czechoslovakia, are absent from their capitals. Moscow reported last week that Gottwald was functioning in the Crimea.

There has been uncon-firmed reports that Georgi Dimitrov, Bulgaria's premier, is away from Sofia. All these are key members of Cominform (Communist Information Bureau.)

Stalin it is understood, has been on holiday in the Crimea for some days and it was for this reason, it is believed, that the conference, the three envoys of the Western Powers were forced to travel to Yalta for discussion in the Soviet capital with foreign minister Molotov, instead of Stalin.

There is no indication in London of the reason for the discussions believed to be in progress in the Crimea and there is no evidence that Poland or Hungary are represented.

The meeting, for whatever purpose is considered to be distinct from a formal session of the Cominform.

Diplomats in Washington have speculated that there would be important eastern European officials from their capitals indicated as saying that the satellite leaders either was in progress or at least was being held.

Many said they thought this Crimean was a meeting of consultation or a conference with Foreign Minister Molotov, who unlike the other Soviet bloc foreign ministers, has not gone to Paris for the United Nations assembly meeting.

Diplomatic sources said a conference session also has been called for either or both of these reasons.

The tension between Russia and the western powers growing out of the Berlin crisis;

An effort to chart a program to stamp out dissension in countries behind the iron curtain, as revealed by the recent purge of Tito's alleged deflection from communism and Moscow's current "nationalist and deviationist" elements in Poland's community party.

Berlin Quarrel Will Go to UN Soviet Rejects West Powers' Note

Paris, Sept. 23. (AP)—Sir Hartley Shawcross, attorney-general of British Labor, today said the Berlin quarrel will be given to the United Nations Assembly if Russia rejects a final Western power note" for prompt settlement.

The Foreign Ministers of Britain, France and the United States sent identical notes to Premier Stalin last night, asking a yes or no answer to this question:

Pressed in the minds of the western diplomats and the U.N. assembly were Foreign Secretary Bevin's ominous words to the Commons in London Wednesday that the Berlin crisis was grim. Bevin returned to Paris this morning.

"I am not saying that we are committed to war," Bevin told the House. "We have not reached that stage yet."

No one would venture to guess what the Russian leaders will reply to the notes. The answer is not expected from Moscow before early next week.

The first reply to Marshall from Moscow, received today in England's foreign minister, Zygmunt Modzelewski, the savagely attacked the European construction program and western efforts to unite their zones of occupation in Germany.

Sen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines led off the general debate in the assembly with a call to the small powers of the world to unite in a "third force" which would maintain a balance of power between east and west.

Denounces Stalin Veto

Romulo said: "The conscience of the world deserves a stronger voice than has spoken for it during the past three years. Let the small nations, speaking in unison, be that voice."

Later, in an obvious reference to the Soviet-led Eastern European bloc in the assembly, Romulo said the work of the United Nations had been hampered by "the refusal of a group of nations to participate in certain of the specialized organizations established by this assembly, such as the Balkan commission, the Korean commission and the interim committee.

Marshall Warns Russia Patience Should Not Be Mistaken for Weakness

Paris, Sept. 23 — (AP) — State Secretary Marshall said today in a thinly-veiled warning to the Soviet Union that American "patience" should not be mistaken for "weakness."

Marshall outlined the United States' basic foreign policy in a speech to the full session of the United Nations General Assembly.

He referred to the Russians and their six Eastern European satellites as a "certain minority" which consistently boycotts the Balkan and Korean U. N. commissions and the "Little Assembly."

"It would be a tragic error," Marshall declared, "if, because of misunderstanding, the patience of others should be mistaken for weakness."

Marshall served notice the United States will "unswervingly" mine the essential principles" or "barter away rights and freedom of other people."

In an apparent reference to the Berlin crisis, Marshall said the United States "is prepared to seek in every possible way an appropriate forum, a constructive and peaceful solution of the political controversies which contribute to the present tension and uncertainty."

United Church Says Gambling A Moral Evil

Vancouver, Sept. 23 (CP)—The United Church considers gambling "a grave moral and social evil."

Rev. R. J. Mutchmor of Toronto, secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service, at the United Church of Canada's 12th biennial general council here issued a formal statement on gambling Wednesday.

It cited with approval a provincial prohibition of the Ontario legislature.

Dog racing was "the most recent threat on Canada's gambling front," the statement said. Racing track was "a new potential form of lucrative Betting" which threatens whether or not Canada remains free from pestilence in the matter.

Up to now, this country has not taken a hand in the airborne system of supplying blockaded Berlin, though several other Commonwealth countries have volunteered aid.

The attitude of the Dominion has been based on the fact that Canada was not asked specifically to come to the aid of the United States and Britain in the air lift, and also to a persisting belief of Canadian authorities that the necessity for the lift might be deprived at any moment.

Now, with the negotiations over Berlin in a critical stage, the Dominion government is giving serious thought to the plight of the city, which is in danger of supply Berlin through the winter.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD WRECKAGE OF PLANE FOUND

11 Died in Crash and it is Rumored Currency and Gold Bullion Were Aboard

Edmonton, Sept. 23 — (CP) — A strong contingent of police and air force officials today screened off an arid stretch of bushland where the five-year-old wreckage of a transport plane, as rumors persisted that there was half-a-million dollars in currency and gold bullion aboard.

The force spokesperson in Washington discounted the reports, merely confirming that the aircraft found Wednesday 100 miles there those of three Canadians and eight United States citizens, who went down in a U. S. Air Force transport Feb. 6, 1943, on a flight from Fort Nelson to Fort St. John, B.C.

But stories kept trickling out of the northland that the plane had indeed had nearly $500 in gold and currency. The rumor, first heard shortly after a plane disappeared, was re-echoed by a United States hunter, newly returned from the area, who said: "Piles of currency" had been removed by officials investigating the crash.

The plane was found about five days ago in the Lake Tuchodi region, about 45 minutes flying time from Fort Nelson, and 500 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The finders were Johnny Bahne as Indian trapper, and Bill Follett of Yorktown, Ont., a member of a geological survey party.

Dr. W. H. Stevenson of Houston, Tex., said here Wednesday night that he was a member of a hunting party that found the plane less than a mile from the scene of the wreck when the plane was found. He said that when the plane was reported that a number of trappers had died in the area and that it was being turned back from the vicinity of the wreck.

He said investigators had brought log books and other data from the plane, establishing the identity of the crash victims.

Seven United States airmen and an American civilian were also aboard.

Fall Cultivation At Standstill, Rain is Needed

The dry weather of the past few weeks has been excellent for fall fairs but pastures are suffering from the lack of rain and a fall cultivation is practically at a standstill because of the baked ground.

The weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture states pastures in the area are completely burnt up with many farmers resorting to stable feeding in an effort to maintain milk production. Despite this, milk production for cheese factories and for shipment to Toronto is at a very low ebb.

Very little fall wheat has been sown and the report states that unless rain is forthcoming soon a much reduced acreage will be sown this fall.

In Prince Edward county canning factories are reporting less corn lower this year than last year customary and in spite of the dry weather corn silo growers are reporting satisfactory yields.

Six-Day Work Week Seems To be Answer of Industrial Plants Helping to Save Power

A return to a six-day work week today seemed to be the answer of local industrial plants by which they hope to avoid having to keep Belleville within its power quota of 104,000 kilowatt hours.

On Monday local industrials and officials met to discuss the electric power shortage and decided on the six-day week method to reduce their power usage by 10 per cent. Monday through Friday.

The procedure by which the various industrial plants would be affected by 10 per cent power saving has not been fully decided on today by the plant heads contacted but in two instances shorter hours will be worked Monday through Friday with workers to return to their benches on Saturday.

This is the case at Corbins where workers are working a five day week of eight hours each day instead of seven until five-thirty with Saturday off.

Several of the other plant heads in the city could not be reached for comment but officials at Belleville Sergeant stated the policy which they would adopt had not yet been decided.

Mr. C. H. Scott, manager of the Belleville Public Utilities, stated today there had been a reduction in power used in the city, but the amount of power used today considerably over the quota of 104,000 kilowatts per day.

Asked if there would be power interruptions to bring the power usage down to within the daily quota Mr. Scott stated he could not say whether the Commission would have to resort to power cut-offs.

"It just means that the domestic users will have to cut down on the amount of power used," stated Mr. Scott. "If there is not a substantial reduction in the power used in the city the Commission at any moment may give instructions to pull switches for power cut-offs."

Repeal of Police, Fire Departments Act Requested

Kingston Sept. 23 (CP) — Repeal of the Police and Fire Departments Act was recommended to the Ontario Legislature by the Ontario Municipal Association today.

The following amendment to the Police and Fire Departments Act was moved by Mayor Ced Price of North Bay and seconded by Mrs. M. Hamilton, Peck township, who approved: "Be it resolved that the legislature meeting with the Police and Fire Department Act, be repealed and that immediate representations be made to effect that steps be taken that will rectify the mischief of the act and unjust awards that have been made during the time that it was in force."

The recommendation of the resolution reads:

"Whereas the recent amendments to the police and fire departments act provide for final decision with respect to wage rates and working conditions by an arbitration board, which is not responsible to the people of electors in cases where the employees and the municipal authorities are unable to agree and such decision is made for any appeal from an award by such boards.

"And whereas the power to determine such matters constitutes in fact legislation to impose a tax that is contrary to the fundamental principles of democratic government in as much as it provides for the power of taxation without responsibility.

"And whereas there has been a wide variation in awards already made throughout the province such awards in some instances being in wage standard far out of line with standards set by the boards of municipal service.

"Be it resolved that the legislature dealing with such matters be amended to provide that where an award is made by an arbitration board under either of these act referred to, that such award is appealable as allowed to either party to somebody which is responsible to the legislature."

Speaks to Resolution

Mayor Price, speaking to the resolution said in part.

"Early in the year the fire department management of North Bay city with a brief, along with other departments asking us for increases in pay. This with requests of fire departments we considered lots of waste when working out our budget, and expecting to make a fair rate, and they the firemen, were given a hearing at a public council meeting.

"Our final decision was one in which as far as either were concerned we gave every municipal employee an increase of $10 per month and the fact that this was refused by the fire department of North Bay was by the way, since they had us over the barrel.

"On the basis of a letter to last year's council, and by virtue of the Police and Fire Departments Act they were unable to demand a board of arbitration, which would bring in a finding, as late as August, before which time we were unable even though our budget had been struck and most of the taxes collected for 1948.

"To have a decision brought down by a board appointed by our whole municipal structure with no recourse to appeal or representation to the court, I submit is not in accord with British justice. For the lowest citizenal has this privilege at any and all times.

"This resolution is not a matter of only the additional cost involved through the fire department arbitration but one which will probably involve a further tax bill being levied this year to the tune of five or six mills, after recognizing the awards and showing the just equality due all other municipal departments who must be treated as fairly as the fire fighters if there is any justice at all in our administration."

Net Playing Games

"We certainly cannot consider we are playing the game if our chief is earning more than the city clerk, treasurer or any other top executive position nor can we be expected to under the chief, drawing more salary than our city foreman or assistant.

"First, the chief's salary. Our official department head, and one who is not a member of the association. He made no request or asked any consideration by the board. Why should they go beyond the specific jurisdiction of the case, and if it was necessary then what jurisdiction is there

New Association To Allow Inclusion Of Republicans

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London Sept. 23 (CP) — A new Commonwealth association to allow the inclusion of Republics may be discussed at the conference of Dominions' Prime Ministers in October here.

Important developments are in the offing, for these reasons:

1. There is to be discussion on the use of the King's signature in the accreditation of foreign representatives. This would sever the formal link which joins Eire with the Commonwealth. But the Costello government, even when this step is taken, appears to anticipate some form of association with the Commonwealth.

2. The new government of India has in mind the historic resolution passed by the constituent assembly proclaiming India's objective is to be "an independent republic." But nonetheless doubts the desire of the Indian government and Indian people to close association with the United Kingdom and other Commonwealth countries.

3. Another new dominion, Pakistan, has declared its desire for the ties of the Commonwealth as a whole, but has not indicated how more definite understanding of Commonwealth members' relationships with each other. Pakistanis, who hoped for mediation between Britain and Pakistan's quarrels with India, have been disappointed by their unsuccessful efforts to bring about agreement that a family row should be settled without the threat of a divorce.

4. Commonwealth harmony has been disturbed by a dispute between Britain and Eire over the status. India claims that South Africa discriminates against Indians in their territory with less than fairness and argues that the "commonwealth relations" of the members should have the right to intervene on behalf of the fellow certain rules.

5. Beyond purely Commonwealth matters will be discussed new regional associations, like the western union project of which brings the United Kingdom into new close co-operation with France, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg. These countries would stand apart from an association between the United Kingdom and the Dominions.

One solution would be the creation of two types of membership, wealth members, that is, countries which have absolute sovereignty and a republican form, and "Queen's Park, Toronto. Later he was named editor of the Toronto Globe and in 1913 accepted a similar position with the Montreal Daily Herald.

During the First Word War he served with the 7th Battalion Canadian Scottish Regiment and the 10th Regiment. Upon discharge he joined the Soldier's Settlement Board in Ottawa.

He retired in 1937 and was the first member of the Professional Institute in Ottawa to enter official journal.

Russian Wife Divorced Him And Remarried

Detroit, Sept. 23 — (CP) — George Powers, former Canadian embassy official at Moscow, said today that his Russian wife divorced him some time ago and that she already has remarried.

Now Canadian vice-consul here, he was commenting on a Moscow dispatch which said his wife, Mrs. Eleanora Powers, today publicly affirmed that she has asked for a divorce.

"Six months and perhaps, say eight months, ago," he received word from the Canadian embassy at Moscow that she has already remarried," said Mr. Power.

A "wonderfully cooked-up story" was how he termed a letter appearing in the Russian government newspaper Isvestia which said that Mrs. Power, along with seven other Russian women who had married Americans or Britons, had protested "against the slanderous anti-Soviet campaign in the Anglo-American press about the Soviet wives question."

Mr. Power said his wife divorced him shortly after she received a visa to leave Moscow. The visa was refused her, but was given a hundred reasons.

Their eight-year-old son is in Isvestia making public their divorce intentions, the Moscow dispatch said.

Moscow Story

Moscow, Sept. 23. (Reuters)— Mrs. Eleanora Power, wife of George Power, former Canadian Embassy official here, today publicly affirmed she has asked for a divorce.

In their letters to Isvestia, they said:

"We protest against the slanderous anti-Soviet campaign in the Anglo-American press about the Soviet wives question. We state we do not want to proceed to England or America. We have applied for divorces."

Mrs. Power applied for divorce more than 12 months ago.

An Arab passenger also was killed. All three jumped as the plane approached the ground.

An Arab report said the crash came after a Jewish plane attacked the Arab craft in northern Palestine.

REDS RETURN CONSTABULARY TROOPS

Frankfurt, Sept. 24 — (AP) — Eight United States constabulary troops were picked up by Russians along the zonal border in 5 days, but all have been returned, the United States army announced today.

Two troopers seized Wednesday near Eschwage were returned this morning. Six taken earlier were also released.

Constabulary officials said in each case the troopers strayed over the border, had been accused by the Russians of crossing over into the Soviet zone.

Cheese, Butter Output in August

Toronto, Sept. 23. — (CP)— Slightly higher production of creamery butter and a reduced Cheddar cheese output was noted in Ontario during August, as compared with August, -947, the Provincial Department of Agriculture said today in its monthly dairy report.

However, production of processed milk products was "substantially higher" in figures showing up to the end of July.

Production of creamery butter totalled 8,195,100 pounds, as against 8,156,800 pounds in August last year. This brought the total to the end of August for this year to 53,671,500 pounds slightly below the 54,365,600 pounds of 1947.

Cheddar cheese was reported as 10,209,400 pounds, compared with 13,191,100 in August, 1947, with Teeds-Blanded cheese in session Preston, San Antonio, Nicholson, Conwest, Delnite and Dulama dipped a few cents to lead the Juniors.

Base metals opened weakly but firmed in the afternoon to show climbing steadily. Noranda, Hudson Bay, Steep Rock, Base Metals Corp., Falconbridge and Sherritt were among gainers.

More Salmon Packed

With a total of 613,620 cases to the present year to Aug. 14, the British Columbia salmon pack is running far for a record year. Unexpectedly large runs of pink and chum salmon have accounted for a marked increase in the current pack, which shows an increase of 175,000 cases or 41 per cent, over last year to the same date. It also appears that larges quantities of spring, steelheads, bluejacks and coho salmon are being canned this year, instead of being processed in the fresh and frozen forms.

Earlier estimates by the Department of Fisheries placed the 1948 pack at less than 500,000 cases but with the large runs of pink and chum salmon it is anticipated that the current pack should reach between one million and one million and one-quarter cases.

Production of the popular sockeye salmon is down this year in so far as 1948 is a small cycle year for this particular variety. The large run of sockeye salmon takes place every four years; the last peak pack was in 1946, when 543,027 cases were put up.

Israeli Cabinet Receives Letter Threatening Death

Ben Gurion announced a $20,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the murderers of Count Bernadotte, United Nations mediator. The "Fatherland Front" claimed it was responsible for Bernadotte's assassination last Friday.

Plan to Continue Hunt for Plane With Five Aboard

The Pas, Man., Sept. 23 — (CP) —Group Capt. Z. L. Leigh of Vancouver, directing the search for a United States navy plane missing with five men aboard since Sept. 13, was scheduled to return here today from Churchill, Man., to plan the next sleuthed plane for continuing the hunt.

The plane, a twin-engined Beechcraft which carried two high-ranking naval officers was on route here from Hudson Bay port of Churchill, 450 miles to the northeast, when it disappeared.

Since then, Canadian and American aerial search forces have combed for miles after miles over the northern Manitoba wilderness without finding a trace of the Beechcraft. Leads so far run down have proved fruitless but the carefully-plotted search continues.

Meantime, search headquarters here had no new developments to report.

A clue considered by search officials the most promising so far received flirted out when a check of flying plans showed a plane which John Whitford, an Indian of Skowman, said he saw Sept. 13 was not the missing one.

Reports of lights or flares on the night of the disappearance, 50 miles north of here, and the sighting of a fire in Sturgeon Lake, here were found on investigation to be fruitless.

Capt. Robert W. Stirling-Hamilton, naval adviser to the British high commissioner to Canada, Capt. Ben Scott Custer, naval attache to the U. S. embassy, Ottawa, were aboard the Beechcraft.

Four Canadians Hurt in Crash

Detroit, Sept. 23 (CP)—Four Canadians were injured when their car hit a street-cleaning Greyhound bus crashed into the rear of a parked truck near Dearborn, Mich., early today. One person was believed killed and at least seven others, besides the Canadians, were injured when the vehicle crashed into a truck loaded with potatoes with such force that the truck moved four feet into the bus.

Canadians injured were:

Mrs. Alice Bowdery, 55, of Vancouver, B. C.

Mrs. Eleanor Holmes, 35, and her husband, Robert, 39, of Detroit.

The bus reportedly was carrying 36 passengers.

PROMPTLY PASSED OUT

St. Catharines, Sept. 23 (CP)—

Police thought a resident of nearby Jordan was drunk when he passed out in a beer parlor. However in court Wednesday it turned out the man had suffered a pair sleeping pills from his doctor for insomnia, took some of them just before drinking one beer and promptly passed out.

HYDRO CUT-OFFS

Court action may be launched against Hamilton merchants who have displayed rules restricting industrial lighting, General manager A. W. Brandt of the Hamilton Hydro Commission said comment has been received that some merchants left store lights burning after 9 p. m.

In many parts of Ontario, industrial plants put finishing touches on plans to operate Saturday and Sunday to take advantage of week-end York Road power available to Ontario industries in December. About 20 plants are operated last weekend as a power-saving measure.

Continued cool weather in most sections of Ontario dashed hopes that rain would bring some relief from the power shortage by replenishing dwindling water supplies at northern generating plants.

Mist Reduces Consumption

Cornwall, Sept. 23 — (CP) — Two of Cornwall's main industries, Howard Smith Paper Mill and Canadian Industries Limited, have been instructed by the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission to reduce their consumption of power, it was learned here today.

Worst hit is the paper mill, which has been ordered to reduce its consumption of 15,000 horsepower. Officials say this calls for a modification of work schedules or curtailment of production.

At the C. I. L. plant, schedules of the big rayon plant is the most power at non-peak periods, it was learned. The only ones here served by the H. E. P. C.

St. Lawrence Power Company, which supplies power with power received from the Cedar Rapids project, has not yet received any notification to reduce consumption.

Plans Prepare Britain Against Possible Trouble

London Sept. 23 (Reuters) — Plans to prepare Britain for any emergency were announced by Defence Minister A. V. Alexander in the House of Commons today. Mobilization machinery has been overhauled he said "and if unhappily such machinery had to be used it would be found to work satisfactorily."

Declaring that the "plain fact" was that collective security had not proved effective, Alexander said "we have an obligation to maintain our armed forces that should a major emergency arise they can be expanded to make them adequate for collective security."

Plans for emergency recall had been prepared as "a matter of common produce."

THREE COMPLETE CHANGES

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP) — Mrs. Hazel Lorimer, 35, who recently received three complete changes of blood in 13 hours during emergency treatment for a haemorrhage, was released from hospital Wednesday fully recovered. Hospital authorities said she had received 20 pints of whole blood, 11 pints of blood plasma in 32 separate transfusions Sept. 10.

New Regulation For Deer Hunters

Fish and Wildlife Inspector, R. G. Sheppard of Lindsay, District of the Department of Lands and Forests, Tweed, reports that no deer or moose shall be killed for transportation or shipment immediately with the metal seal as provided with the hunting license for this coming season in 1948.

In other years only a linen or parchment shipping tag was used for this purpose. This tag is still furnished with each license but in a new form which is slotted to permit fastening a metal seal of the seal before the latter is separated about the leg of the animal concerned. Full instructions regarding the employment of this seal is clearly defined in a space reserved for which in the individual license.

It is hoped this new regulation will appreciably reduce the illegal kill of take and is solely in the interests of conservation. Deer are required to be sealed at the camp premises before any attempt is made to transport or ship.

MARSHALL WARNS

"More important than this boycott, however, is the disturbing lack of co-operation which the United Nations has received in its efforts to resettle such questions as Korea and Greece and to bring about the international control of atomic energy.

"The persistent refusal of a small minority to contribute to the accomplishment of our agreed purposes is a matter of profound concern."

No Plot Planned

He assured the Soviet bloc there was "no plot among members of this organization to keep any nation or group of nations in a minority. The minority is self-imposed.

"Nations consistently in the minority would be welcomed among the ranks of the majority, but only at the price of compromise of basic principle."

"Despite the co-operative action of most nations to rebuild peace and well-being," Marshall continued, "the events of the past year has increased. The forces of cold calculation are creating a deep rift between their conception of the rest of the world community. We must not allow that rift to widen any further and we must redouble our efforts to find a common ground."

He called for early peace settlements with Germany and Austria so that those countries "may, in due course, demonstrate their qualifications for admission to membership in the United Nations."

"In Austria, our aim is restoration of the political and economic freedom within its 1937 frontiers as a democratic state similar to a member of the United Nations."

Marshall also advanced admission to the U. N. of Israel and Trans-Jordan, two combatants in the Palestine war.

Turning to other sections of the world, he mentioned Finland, independent Korea, with membership in the U.N., and that Germany be kept secure from aggressive and unlawful interference from without."

INDUSTRY IS OUR MAIN SOURCE OF INCOME
Directly or indirectly it affects the income and livelihood of every living person in this community.

HYDRO
Is the life blood of Industry. With it we all prosper — without it our community will perish or deteriorate just as surely as you would die without blood circulation. This year our Hydro load is greater with new industries and homes coming to Belleville and Hydro reserves are even lower.

THE NEED

Safeguarding Health

National Immunization Week has now again brought to the public attention the marked progress which has been made in the prevention of certain diseases which but for modern science would have claimed more lives than they did. Diphtheria cases in Canada have been decreased from 3,211 in 1944 to 1,500 in 1947 and whooping cough in the same period from 12,192 cases to 10,237. This is the proof that education of the population has been a potent factor in this improvement. However success in battling such diseases comes only as a reward of unrelenting vigilance.

Though the immunization week is a short period, it should not be forgotten that immunization is important not for one week only but that every effort should be made throughout the entire year to banish these devastating and unnecessary diseases from this country. Unhappily the full use of these proven preventives has not been made available, where available, to the complete immunization job in Canada would eliminate disease risks which threaten childhood. It is known that 20 years ago diphtheria, that whooping cough vaccine checks whooping cough and that smallpox has been just about wiped out by vaccination. The latter is one of the rare diseases because of vaccine that no one can refuse to take chances. Diphtheria toxoid is absolutely harmless and should be given first to children under two years of age. Whooping cough vaccine is 80 per cent effective as a complete preventive, while the protection obtained by the other 20 per cent, while not complete, is sufficient to make the disease much less severe.

Great Biographer Passes

Many persons who probably would not have known as much history as they do, but for Emil Ludwig for what they know of historical events and figures. This voluminous biographer died a few days ago, leaving a mass of works of biography which have enlightened his day and generation.

Some have asked if Ludwig was a biographer or a compiler or creator of historical romance. What he did was to bring before the reading world a great number of figures who have played their part upon the world scene. These were not limited to one class but to all ranks of giants who stood before the world at one time or another in the past centuries. It is certain that he popularized biography and historical events.

He had a dramatic mind. In fact he wrote plays for twelve years mainly in verse form and then began his great series of psychological essays and the "humanized biography" which gave him a prominent place before the reading public. His work has been described as marked by the presentation of psychological motives, by the use of dramatic episodes in the lives of his great characters, and poignant scenes. His writing was brilliant and striking and some say controversial in type, claiming that there is as much truth in fiction as in history.

That his work was outstanding and was taken up by the public has always been admitted.

Seasonal Changes

"It isn't just the 'turning' leaves, going from thirsty August green to autumnal yellows, reds, purples, browns. These change the already changing light that filters through elm and oak and beech along many a shady and arstwhile drowsy street, says Christian Science Monitor.

But notice, now as if you could have missed them!—the tawny tops, the golden braids, the shadowy tresses, the short-cropped towheads that catch the morning sun. They reflect it back like rays of laughter, as this year's first-graders march bravely into that no man's land called learning.

Among the compensations that the fall season brings for coming cold, for November rain, for winds whose howl is no worse than their bite—these waves of children, multicolored as a scurry of frost-touched leaves, musical as a chatter of crackles congregating for southward flight in a single aching location on the late afternoon sky, make these edges of autumn warm and shining.

And if winter comes, what then? Longer family evenings, fireside conversations, less adventure afield, more companionship at home. And another season of unfoldment in thought, as present to behold as the unfolding of leaf and flower in months just past.

JUST FOLKS

SPOILING THE WORLD

There are the beauty of the rose,
The daily rise and set of sun,
The charm of autumn at the close
Of summer, with its labors done.
And then, as if to crown them all
The laughter of the children small.

'Tis only man who thinks to hate
And fashions fearful tools to slay
Believing that might can make him great
And power can justify his way.
But vain all joys which life bestows
Whenever man to battle goes.

This world for gladness was designed,
And but for man it would be
But how can there be peace of mind
While bitterer the quarrels grow?
When man is planning war again,
The charm of autumn glows in vain.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

Sept. 23rd, 1926.

Hamilton Symons has returned home from Detroit, Mich., where she visited relatives.

Mrs. Dunham and two children of St. Augustine, Florida, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mytinger, Bridge Street East.

Mrs. Tower, George Street, has returned home from Kingston.

Mr. T. P. J. Power has left to visit friends in Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. F. Dunning, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. J. Black, Hillside Street, left this morning for New York City and will sail from there for Panama. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Black, Dunbar Street, accompanied her to New York City.

Sept. 23rd, 1916.

Yesterday was a big day for local fishermen and some good catches were made, but the daddy of them all was landed by Sam Bongard in a monster maskinonge caught in Mosquito Bay which tipped the beam at 51½ pounds. He is reported an hour there was as pretty a fight as one would wish to see, with the monster fish determined that a little piece of string should not deprive it of liberty. It was a fine catch and landed in much credit upon the ability of Mr. Bongard as a fisherman.

Miss Gertie Wiggins, formerly of this city, has been awarded a scholarship in modern languages at Puget Sound University, Tacoma, Washington.

Shortly before ten o'clock last night fire was discovered in the horse sheds department on the rolling mills. The fire brigade responded promptly and succeeded in confining the fire to the building in which it started. The building, however, was totally destroyed. About thirty-five men are thrown out of work temporarily. The loss is about $6,000. A large number of citizens assembled to watch the fire.

If rain does not come soon the present drought will establish a record which will likely stand for some time. In 1888 no rain fell for several weeks and the country was as dry as it is now. Reports from all parts throughout the province and a pall of smoke overhang the country for a considerable time.

STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

IT'S THE PAY-OFF THAT COUNTS

How do you live — successfully or significantly?

There is a difference. A man who makes a million dollars is financially successfully; but is his achievement significant? The woman who climbs to the top rung of the social ladder is a success in that particular variety of endeavor; but is her accomplishment significant? The candidate who wins an election, the general who wins a war, the prize fighter who knocks out his opponent are all successful; but of what significance is their success?

What makes an accomplishment significant? The religious man would say that an achievement becomes significant if it glorifies God, enriches the life of the doer, and makes others happy. The socially minded man who is not religious would say that an act is significant if it makes the world a better place in which to live.

Stalin is an extremely successful man; but would you care for that kind of success yourself? Look at the millionaire you know and the social dowagers who go to fashionable resorts all over the place; would you want to exchange places with them if by so doing you had to become the kind of people they are? Would you be willing to pay the price some men do to hold office? There is much success which often there is nothing more. When we live significantly, however, the pay-off is real happiness.

WELCOME GOV.-GENERAL

Arnprior, Sept. 23 (CP) — A rousing welcome Wednesday greeted the Governor-General when he paid his first official visit to this eastern Ontario community, 48 miles northwest of Ottawa.

Cheering throngs lined the streets. More than 700 school children hailed him as he inspected a Veterans' Guard of Honor of 100 veterans, resplendent in woollen mills and chatted with former battle comrades of the Second World War.

He was formally greeted by Reeve Joseph Stafford Cann and Mayor Stafford Rudd.

Mackenzie's Column:

Does Not Believe Shooting War Is Inevitable

By DEWITT MCKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

What basis, if any, can there be for the view held by some that there is bound to be war between Russia and the United States eventually and that therefore Washington would be wise to strike first before the Soviets build up Russians a chance to build up strength?

From my standpoint there is no foundation whatsoever. I don't believe that a shooting war between the two powers is inevitable.

Obviously there always is danger of war, while the great powers are playing at skittles amidst high explosives. Even a mole out on the moors might be an explosion, but if it should come to fight and to conquer.

There is no indication that there is any responsible American executive, governmental or military, who has the slightest thought of precipitating such a war. On the contrary, my information is that the policy is to build dependable aggression where it now is while the United States rehabilitates itself and so gain strength which will put them out of danger.

Firm Policy

True, the policy, of the western powers is to be firm and not allow themselves to be pushed around. They've got to stand for example, of allowing the Russians to help themselves to Berlin . . . or out of any other place. Russia and the United States are going to continue to feed the Russian-blockaded German zone in Berlin.

But if there is any overt act committed within the Iron Curtain by Russia, it's going to be perpetrated by the Soviets themselves and not by the democracies.

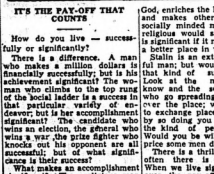
Time Favors Allies

Actually time is running in favor of the Western Allies. The Communists, for example, are held along the Stettin-Adriatic line which is reached long ago through Central Europe.

Meanwhile the rehabilitation of the western part of the continent is moving apace, thanks largely to Marshall Plan aid. This economic betterment means greater military security, and it is giving a real lift to the morale of the people who have been a bit so hard by the late war.

Thus things are looking much better for the democracies in Europe than they were even a few months ago. The line is being held along the present line and let the Soviets build up strength against the stone wall thus created.

M. McIntyre Hood Managing Editor Of Oshawa Paper



Oshawa, Sept. 23 (CP)—The Oshawa Times-Gazette Wednesday announced the appointment of M. McIntyre Hood, retired newspaper and public Relations man, as managing editor.

The 53-year-old native of Aberdeen, Scotland, previously worked for the Oshawa paper for six years, from 1929 to 1935. Before that he was with the Woodstock Telegraph. In 1937 he became private secretary to Gordon Conant, Attorney-General of Ontario in which capacity he served retired from public life, after a brief period as Ontario Premier, Mr. Hood became public relations man for the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

A veteran of the First World War he was connected with auxiliary services in the last war.

EL SALVADOR SMALLEST

Freckles, according to a recent medical survey, are on the wane. In all parts of the North American continent where fresh water predominated in at least half the juvenile population, it has been noted with some anxiety by the medical profession that as low as one in a hundred children now have them.

But it is suspected of having something to do with it. In days when freckles were popular, children went out in the day with a bowl of boiled oats, like sailing boats. At first it was allowed. Later, a new-fangled thing called bathing was set up, and no child was supposed to start the day with anything but a great gob of soap.

He could then have toast and jam; or pancakes if his grandma lived there: some families were even rash enough about their young to give them a boiled or fried egg on the side. Anyway he was freckled boy I ever knew had rolled oats, a fried egg and toast, toast, jam and milk for breakfast. Where are such boys now? Where are freckles?

No man can be expected to cope with freckles if his parents sock him full of tomato juice, grapefruit juice, prune juice or a blend of the latter two, first thing in the morning! Can a man grow freckles on rice crispies or corn flakes? It could but the best freckles should be expected to publish a guarantee on the package. If freckles are not to be lost to the human race, something must be done.

In my boyhood, the only dandruff there was in the day with freckles. I never knew a bland, immaculate boy to be so. Then. There were smooth-completed boys who were contemporaries but they ended up as big executives or lawyers or worse. The heroes had freckles; and you could more or less rate their heroism by the density.

There might well be some connection between the increasing bafflement and confusion of the world and the decline of freckles. Freckles look like rust: rust comes on iron: maybe it is iron we lack.

Viscount Hall To Enlist Reserve Of War Veterans

London, Sept. 22 (CP)

Viscount Hall, First Lord of the Admiralty, on Wednesday night that Britain's defence forces plan an emergency reserve of war veterans for immediate service.

His announcement was made in a defence debate in the House of Lords.

The British Home Fleet will sail today for the West Indies in what Lord Hall said will be the biggest and most important naval exercise of the post-war era.

Lord Hall told the Peers that the Admiralty will set up a "new emergency consisting of men in previous service in the Royal Navy and Royal Marines who will volunteer for immediate recall in the event of an emergency."

The army and air forces will make similar announcements next week.

Lord Hall's announcement came as W. J. Edwards, Civil Lord of the Admiralty, in the House of Commons reported "satisfactory progress" in the Royal Navy's build up of the Royal Navy's peacetime strength.

But he declined to disclose the present strength of the Home Fleet or the splitting of the destroyers and escort vessels had been speeded up, in accordance with government policy.

Lord Hall told the Lords, some Peers suggested that the government again must make Home Defence Britain's defence.

May Put on Khaki Again

This suggestion caused men who were civilians by day and soldiers by night, and at weekends for four years to prick up their ears. Apparently they will take their khaki tunics from the hangers, and those of them who were ready to repel Hitler with pikes and shotguns.

When they were last in 1944, more than 1,700,000 were then in the Guard. They differed not in blood and stood by in every city and town. Some had crude rifles and arms in 1940 but by 1944 they had 140,000 on anti-aircraft duty, 9,000 in the Royal Horse Artillery and 7,000 on bomb disposal.

While Foreign Minister Bevin told the House of Commons that Britain would stand by to defend Russia in Europe, Lord Blackford in the Lords' debate said that the whole electoral roll of the country should be enrolled under the Defence Act, and that they could and parcelled out to specific duties.

Lord Hampton said plans to restore the Territorial Army and re-megalic pertains to extremely large forces.

The other resquipedalian of well, it would take more than a go over it again, but a medical term for it is Raynaud's disease which was first described by Maurice Raynaud, a French physician, about fifteen years ago, as local asphyxia and symmetrical gangrene. A more familiar term for it, in mild cases, is "dead fingers" or "dead toes."

If you happen to have either mild red ache or dead fingers or dead toes, do not infer that the trouble is necessarily a manifestation of terrestrial arsenic poisoning—in most instances of either condition the cause is unknown and a cure elusive. But that arsenic seems to be responsible in some instances only to deepen the obscure and mystifying mild chronic arsenic poisoning may be

Please give me the name of a state or any place where I can get a marriage license without a health certificate. (M. W.)

Answer—Uh-uh.

Evasion

Please explain "nervous heart condition" and "mental heart condition." (C. T. M.)

Answer—Meaningless terms used perhaps to tell you it is none of your business what ails the patient or to conceal from you the fact that the doctor doesn't know what, if anything, is the matter.

Floor Mopping by Student Nurse

It would be interesting to know what school you have in mind when you write that examination that student nurses must do floor mopping. (——, N. H.)

Answer—It is much more interesting to know that pupil nurses are not required to do any such work in the hospital where you have directed a considerable pain upon your record. You and I seem to have different ideas—you refer to directed pain. The first six months of the three year training period are "student nurse"; it is then that pupils throughout the period of their training.

Gastric Acidity

Do I understand you to say that hyperacidity of the stomach is always ulcer? (C. C.)

Answer—I don't know, I never said so. Send a stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing for pamphlet Yankee Stomach.

Lady Cripps Finds Britain 'Full Of Inspiration'

Ottawa, Sept. 23 — (CP) — While there may not be much sugar in the pantry of many Britishers, the wife of Sir Stafford Cripps said today that she had found the present - day British "full of inspiration."

In a speech prepared for delivery to a luncheon meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, Lady Cripps described how Britain's men and women were striving to bring the country back to its pre-war plenty She said she had found that "real inspiration in what I see and know is taking place."

Making clear that she was speaking "in no way as the wife of the British Chancellor of the Exchequer," Lady Cripps described as "most encouraging" the situation of the last few months when "through effort on the part of the whole country, there has been an economic improvement, prices have steadied down and, on the whole, goods are more plentiful."

But we know that a continual and great effort must be maintained, and that we must still further increase our efforts, and deny our home market in order to live," she said.

Expressing thanks to Canadians who have sent parcels to Britain, she said these gifts, which have been chiefly of food, are a "tremendous boon and pleasure."

"We know our rations to be sufficient to supply all, with a fair standard of health, but it is on a minimum basis" she said. "Apart from this the diet is pretty dull and monotonous, and even the already overtired housewife has to search from place to place if she wants to get variety for her family's fare."

Mrs. Carl Clark was displayed a the Home Economics meeting.

Mrs. Robert Bunnett gave some very worthwhile thoughts on the motto "Not what you desire but what you require, that's the new motto we all must acquire." She said, "Self reliance and character are needed if we are to build safer, saner world."

In his historical research meeting held at the home of Mrs. Robert Bunnett, a very timely topic was given as the green house where good citizens are started, was presented to the ladies by Mrs. Harry Ketcheson.

She emphasized the danger of overcare or pampering causing lack of self reliance, for the child like a green house plant, will suffer in either case. In closing, Mrs. Ketcheson made a plea for more homes eminating love.

Advice to the Lovelorn

The Wife Who Has No Spending Money

One of the troubles between husbands and wives that crops up periodically in my mail has to do with the apportionment of the family income, and particularly with the wife's share, or rather her lack of it, taking it.

It seems to be the idea of a great many husbands that the money they earn belongs to them alone, and that they should dole it out for the family needs according to their own limitations. Most husbands of this type think their wives should be perfectly satisfied with any little sum, how ever inadequate, they grudgingly hand out, and many a wife writes me after she has taken the household expenses out of what her husband gives her, there is nothing left to buy clothes for herself and her children, let alone anything to spend on recreation or little luxuries now and then.

One such wife wrote:

"My husband is the sort of man who thinks that by paying the rent and filling the cupboard every day, he has done all that is required of him. He has the idea that he earns the money and he will spend it.

"Maybe one pay day I will get $10 for expenses, that is, for groceries, shoes, or whatever the needs may be. I have been to school, and our church donation. Then the next week for three pay days I may get nothing at all. I handle the money and it seems to me as though I cannot be trusted.

"He makes good money, and I certainly could enjoy myself going to a show, or getting materials for sewing, if I could just get a few dollars. But I buy what is wanted."

My suggestion to any wife with this type of problem is that if it is at all possible she should try to devise some way of earning a little money of her own, even if it is no more than that few dollars, to keep in her purse and spend as she chooses. Husbands who like to keep a tight rein on the family purse strings usually do so, partly of course, from pure selfishness, but largely because they like the feeling it gives them of being completely the master of the house. People left to take care of themselves and to be entirely independent of such a husband in a very small way would give this delusion of grandeur a much needed jolt that might go far toward improving the situation.

A great many women have found it possible to earn a little money even when they are tied down with children. Some of them indeed have been so successful as home earners that the project they started in a small way eventually grew into a well-paying business.

A new book just out, called "Money-Making Hobbies", by Joseph Leeming, offers suggestions for "Over one hundred easy ways to earn extra money". Mr. Leeming tells about people who have made money out of all sorts of handicrafts, out of knitting and crocheting; out of making dolls of various kinds; out of foods that they make in their own home kitchens; and out of numerous other things that it would seem practically anybody can learn to do.

I recommend this book particularly to the women who have trouble with stingy husbands. You should be able to buy this book at your local bookstore, or, if you can't, receive a couple of dollars for the purchase price from the pittance you get from your husband, ask for it 'it its the public library.

BEAUTY

Double Chin? Roll It into one

When a woman's chin carries a spare, the reflection in the mirror is a constant rebuke. She has not spent $5 cheerfully to attend to it. She has paragon too generously of the good things of the table. She chertishes a boiling hot bath every day.

She does not have to endure it. Facial operations can reduce that unwelcome bulge by means of clever manipulations. Plastic surgeons can put it there entirely out of business. It lends itself well to operative interference. The results are so perfect that only the faintest line can be observed under the chin and this fades out completely in time.

Plastic surgery is expensive. Medical specialists who do this work are few and far between. The perpetual youth of many society actresses and matrons is more pitiful than the camera's demonstrates the marvelous skill of surgeons who make it ideal repairs.

Some beauticians precede the massage with a sweating-out treatment. Towels wrung out in hot water as hot as the flesh can bear are applied and the patient reclines under a warm blanket. The treatment ends with applications of an astringent and an ice friction.

With perseverance, much can be accomplished without professional attention.

After washing the face at night with warm water and a bland soap, apply a heavy emollient, one that offers resistance to the fingers as the manipulations will be strong and deep.

Pick up the flesh and roll it between the fingers. Each of the cells get a crushing blow, go into a state of tumult, and burst.

But don't stop iwth the rolling; if you do, the flesh will sag. The skin covering will be too ample, will fall into folds. The underlying fibres must be toned and strengthened, To accomplish that now may be "loose". Or a glass pitcher or jug for iced tea or fruit juice; a thermos jug, with tray and glass, for a night-table. For a family of Gin Rummy enthusiasts, perhaps a compact set—two decks of cards and score pad —in a leather case. For a cook that seems to yearn for a library-set, a pair of scissors and paper cutter neatly and safely contained in a trim leather sheath. Informal dining and informal entertaining today generally means that decorative place mats are delightedly welcome . . . and you can allow your keen imagination by sending a set of these in the designs particularly appropriate to the interior of the family. Or two or four or more hostess trays, in one or different transparent colors.

Hold the chin high and the head back, but do not have the muscles loose. On tense muscles massage will accomplish much. Place flattened fingers under the chin and smooth along the jaw line to the ear lobes, pressing well into the flesh. Then use fingers and thumbs like little hammers.

The flesh will become "and tingling. Have an ice friction, rubbing the cube from collar bone to chin tip, from chin to ears.

Or show your hostess that you like to send gifts that have a "just-for-you" personality, a gift personalized with her or "their" initials or names. Perhaps a paper or plastic ensemble for parties (luncheon napkins, cocktail napkins, coasters, stirring rods for long drinks, matchbooks, and so forth) charming packed in a bevvi-container. Or a set or large supply of paper coasters; or personalized playing-cards, or with name imprinted in gilt or silver; or bridge ensemble; or plastic coasters, in one of a variety of transparent colors, light or dark shades. Or, selected for special uses, initialed or be-named paper doilies and/or napkins in various sizes, place mats, dresser runners, finger towels, and for picnics, paper plates, cups, and so forth. Pencils printed with the name. And, one of the most popular and certainly one of the most decorative of gay gifts, the elegant "drum" of metallic matchbooks, in one glowing color or in assorted colors.

Some girls like to send to the family a subscription to a magazine that may have been mentioned while listening in conversation. . . a twelve-time gift. And, as a personal gift to the hostess, there is the alluring world of beauty-gifts . . . "clad with ribbons pink and sweetly scented," as the old song goes!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother is dead, and a dear friend of mine has offered to have my wedding reception in her home. We are wondering if my sister should receive the guests or just who should?—G. H.

My suggestion is that first in the receiving-line would be your friend, presiding as hostess; then your sister, as the representative of your family; then the groom's father (if he wishes); the groom's mother, the woman guest of honor; the groom; at the groom's right, just, the bride; your maid of honor, and last the bridesmaids. Or the hostess and your sister might greet the guests near the entrance to the living-room, and you and the groom might stand together opposite the entrance to receive the best wishes of the guests. In this case your attendants may or may not stand with you and the groom.

Posts on the Dance Floor

How to be a pest on a dance floor: You and your partner dance close to another couple, to talk and joke with them; being completely inconsiderate of others on the dance floor. Or, if you want to be a particularly annoying show-off, collect a third circumference couple and form a stand - still - and - talk - together circle. If you are indifferent about really dancing, obviously preferring to talk . . . sit out the dance.

Bread-and-Butter Presents Giving Thanks to Your Hostess

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please help several of us by suggesting some appropriate gifts to send to one's hostess with (or soon after) one's bread-and-butter letter?—Margaret S.

The first and best suggestion is for the guest to keep his or her eyes widely and wisely open during the visit for "spot" something that will be particularly welcome. It may be the mention of a book, either a current favorite or a classic, , It may be a photo-river album, to fasten in its proper place, the family snapshots that

Anglo-Canadian Financial Talks Roll Into Third Day; Sir Stafford to Meet Cabinet

Ottawa, Sept. 23. — (CP) — The Anglo-Canadian economic and financial talks here today rolled into their third day.

Sir Stafford Cripps, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, and his financial mission again were expected to meet members of the Canadian Cabinet for a further discussion of the financial and economic relationships between the two countries.

There were indications that the talks may end today or tomorrow, though Sir Stafford does not leave Ottawa until Sunday, when he is scheduled to fly to Washington for international financial meetings. Finance Minister Abbott will accompany him.

Sir Stafford told a press conference Wednesday that the discussions were "going very well" and that "progress" was being made. Beyond that he had little to say.

The discussions, he went on, were on a general basis, with the whole long-term program of trade between the dollar and non-dollar countries as the major item under consideration. He was not dealing with food contracts "or that sort of thing."

Cabinet Not Sounded

He said he had not yet sounded out the Cabinet on the possibility of Canada unblocking the remaining portion—$240,000,000 — of the frozen Canadian loan to Britain. Nor could he say whether that would come up later in the talks. It would depend upon "how they go".

As for the question of whether his proposals contemplated a lower rate of trade with Canada, he said the delegation had not "got down" to the question of a detailed program.

He said he was not here to negotiate the purchase of strategic materials, but there were certain raw materials that Britain would buy in larger quantities if her production continued to rise.

Sir Stafford told the conference it would be 1952, at least, before holders of the pound sterling could exchange it for hard currencies. This long-sought convertibility of sterling "certainly won't" come in the immediate period following the end of Marshall aid in 1952.

Some Controls Necessary

Sir Stafford told his press conference that this convertibility of sterling "certainly won't" come in the immediate period following the lapsing of Marshall aid and predicted that some export and import controls still might be necessary in that interim period.

(Convertibility of sterling would mean that it could be converted into any other currency. Countries receiving sterling in payment for goods sold to Britain would easily be able to exchange it for any other currency they wished.)

But, at the same time, Sir Stafford said there was "absolutely" no possibility of a devaluation of the pound. Such a move would be "suicidal" because it would mean that Britain would have to pay more for her imports and would get less for her exports.

The tall and lanky chancellor, a member of Britain's Socialist government, met reporters in the oak - panelled Liberal caucus room of the Parliament Buildings after his Canadian Club luncheon address.

More than a score of reporters fired a barrage of questions at him about Britain's economic ills and the possibilities of greater trade with Canada and his answers generally moved around one theme — that the U. K. had to cut down dollar imports and increase dollar exports before she could return to any sort of normal trade balance.

Sir Stafford indicated he personally saw no immediate possibility of war and said he thought there would be a "good deal of exaggeration" about the chances of such a development "within a close period of time."

He said the major matter under consideration with Canadian authorities was the whole long-term program — trade between the dollar and the non-dollar countries.

No Effect on Canada

Asked what measures Britain was proposing, he said these would consist in a general strengthening of European productivity in order to get the two areas near a balance.

Questioned about Britain's new trade arrangements with Russia he said these would not have any effect on Canada's Kingston's trade dealings with Canada.

It was in the nature of a "barter" deal whereby Britain got material from Russia and supplied the Soviet with materials and machinery, including some which she got from the dollar area.

The Russian deal would not affect the dollar situation because it was not convertible.

Any Canadian machinery going to Russia under the arrangement Sir Stafford said, would be of a type not in demand in this country.

Approves Establishment

Discussing the establishment of British industry in Canada, the chancellor declared this was regarded in Britain as "an excellent thing."

He said he understood Canada was permitting British to establish British industries in Canada with funds which normally might go to paying off the 1942 British loan.

He saw no immediate indication of a world recession and said there were no signs of any general decline in British export prices "there could be none with the general trend of world prices still going upwards.

He said British contracts for Canadian timber would not be "dropped altogether" but stressed that Britain wanted to get back into her traditional Baltic timber market. This would be a return to her pre-war pattern of trade in this field.

COURT ADMITS PICTURES OF GIRL ON DEATH-BED

Hotel Owner Says He Saw Accused in Slain Girl's Room

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 23.—(CP)—Photographs of the slain May Rivers, 21, taken after her nude body was discovered on a Sturgeon River bush road by the court as exhibits as the murder trial of the girl's brother-in-law, Richard Rivers, 19, continued today at Agoma District Fall Assizes.

Argument over admissibility of the pictures took up most of Wednesday's hearing. Mr. Justice G. A. Gale questioned their submission by the Crown and said they might tend to prejudice the jurors.

He dismissed the jury until the matter was settled.

Crown Attorney Arthur W. Wishart submitted the pictures, which showed the body sprawled on the bed, would indicate the motive the accused had and revealed facts the jury had a right to know. Similar photographs had been shown at other trials.

Mr. Justice Gale said he admitted the pictures and recalled the jury.

Raoul Lauzon, owner of the hotel in the district town of Blind River in which the body was found the morning of July 22, said he saw Rivers and the girl about 6.20 p.m. July 21.

Lauzon said he saw Rivers in the room about 11 p.m. July 22 when the door to No. 7 was slightly ajar.

"I was in the hall looking after just before 11 when I saw him stripped to the waist, standing just inside the door. I saw him and he awakened at 12 o'clock, which I took to mean noon the next day.

"The next time I saw him was around eight o'clock the next morning when we exchanged good mornings. He was going upstairs from the lobby."

Shortly after that, a chambermaid found the body in room No. 7. The slain girl's face had been battered and a man's leather belt was tied tightly around her neck.

Mary Proulx, 20, of Blind River, testified that Rivers made a date to go to a show with the slaying victim, the estranged wife of his 18-year-old brother, at 8 p.m., July 22.

Miss Proulx said that she and her sister went to the town's only theatre that night but did not see either the accused youth or his part-Indian sister-in-law at the show.

Next Two-Year Program Planned By United Church

Vancouver, Sept. 23 (CP)—Internal church topics were high on the agenda today of the 13th meeting of the United Church of Canada as it entered its third day. The problem of recruits for the ministry was considered to be one of the first matters to be discussed.

A finance committee report Wednesday recommended top priority be given "the security and training an adequate supply of recruits for full-time service."

The council's treasurer, Rev. Victor T. Mooney of Toronto said "we must help our theological candidates through."

In his treasurer's report earlier, Dr. Mooney had said "Many of our ministers are living in near poverty." The council heard from another source that "its ministerial salaries were higher during 1947 than any other time in the 23-year history of the United Church.

The council heard a stern warning Wednesday night that communism can never be accepted by the church, a reiteration, with perhaps more emphasis, of what other leading speakers had voiced earlier.

Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, of Toronto, the church's general secretary said the church "must press on by peaceful means to seek solution of our social and economic ills in the light of the Christian revelation."

Communism must be rejected by Christianity for three reasons, he said: "Its materialistic determinism, its emphasis upon one class — the proletariat — and its redemption of man by mere historical processes."

In one of the council's major addresses, Dr. Sisco urged the 470 ministerial and lay commissioners here from across Canada and Newfoundland to "press for social reform . . . to raise their voice and the church's voice in protest wherever men are the victims of terror . . . are denied such fundamental human rights as security against arbitrary arrest and whenever governments use torture to override man's conscience."

BUILDING COSTS SHOW NO SIGN OF COMING DOWN

President of Housing Corp. Says 30,000 More Units Needed by End of Year

Kingston, Sept. 23 — (CP)—D. B. Mansur, president of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, believes no relief is in sight from Canada's housing headache.

Nor does he think building costs show any sign of coming down, he said Wednesday at the closing session of the Ontario Municipal Association's 50th annual convention.

The head of the federally-owned housing corporation said the Dominion government hopes to complete 85,000 housing units this year.

But an additional 30,000 family group will need housing by the end of 1948.

Our estimates today show that 800,000 household groups in Canada are sharing accommodation. And of these about 250,000 families wish to have a place of their own.

"Our surveys indicate that 1½ per cent of houses are shared by more than one family, while in small towns in Ontario it is as high as 20 per cent."

The volume of construction of new housing units was breaking records. But under present economic conditions coupled with an extremely high marriage rate and heavy immigration, that construction was only preventing the situation from becoming worse.

It costs 188 per cent more to build a house now than in 1939, in addition to added costs for inefficiency of labor and delays in delivery of material. Costs increased in the first half of 1948 by 4.9 per cent.

"As to future trends, I would not dare to make an estimate. I will only make the comment that as long as construction of all kinds is proceeding at a rate beyond the full capacity of the construction industry, it would be amazing if the cost level fell."

The C. M. A., which elected York county treasurer W. W. Gardhouse as its president, heard charges that the provincial government is "acting like a dictator" by forcing municipalities to arbitrate wage disputes with civic police and firemen without appeal.

K. L. Thompson, Warden of York county, argued that the municipality should have the sole right to say how much of the taxpayer's money shall be spent and where it goes, branding wages for foremen and police.

"The security of the municipality is being taken away by a dictatorial government," said Seth Bush, North Bay welfare commissioner. "This is the thin edge of the wedge."

Changes Made In Highway Dept.

Toronto, Sept. 23 — (CP) — Highways Minister Doucett Wednesday appointed C. H. Nelson as chief engineer of construction and Charles A. Robbins, chief engineer of maintenance. The appointments were announced after a reorganization of department personnel.

Mr. Nelson was former assistant chief engineer and Mr. Robbins was district engineer for southern Ontario. Their assistants will be T. F. Francis and W. R. Hutchinson.

Mr. Doucett said J. D. Millar remains as deputy-minister of highways and A. A. Smith as chief engineer.

He also said J. H. Hawes, divisional municipal engineer at Owen Sound, had been superannuated because of ill health. N. H. Cooke will succeed Mr. Hawes.

H. Irwin has joined the engineering staff of the municipal roads branch.

Move to Set Aside 21 P.C. Increase In Freight Rates

Ottawa, Sept. 23. (CP)—A major move will be launched Monday to set aside the 21-per-cent freight rate boost granted the railways last March.

Representatives of seven provinces —all except Ontario and Quebec —today are preparing to follow up their initial victory Tuesday.

They gained a three-month delay in hearings on the railway application for a new interim 15-per-cent freight rate increase and a general permanent increase of 20 per cent. The hearings were set aside until Jan. 11.

A five-point attack will be made by the provinces against the 21-per-cent boost when they appear before the Cabinet, Monday and Tuesday.

The provinces will contend:

1. That there was no real financial necessity for the increase.

2. Some claims by the railways were not fully investigated by the Board of Transport Commissioners which granted the increase.

3. There was insufficient evidence to show that the two major carriers had made all possible economies by full co-operation.

4. Authorization of a flat percentage increase across the country was beyond the jurisdiction of the Board.

The railways are expected to argue that their case was fully proved and that the board had ample authority to make any kind of an award.

They will probably place considerable stress on their idea that the Cabinet appeal is little more than a device to gain time in the currently-pending 20-per-cent increase case.

It is certain they will contend that the initial 21-per-cent boost was not enough.

Czech Captain Sentenced to Die On Spying Charge

Prague, Sept 23 — (AP) — A Czech army captain has been sentenced to death, charged with spying for Britain. The government said 21 other persons are under arrest, accused of spying for the United States.

The captain, Rudolf Hrsdilek, was sentenced Wednesday night to be hanged for high treason and "crimes against the people's democratic regime." He was accused of turning information over to a British intelligence agent.

The announcement came during a search for persons circulating anti - government statements charging that Jan Masaryk, former foreign minister, was murdered. The government called Masaryk's death, a month after the Communists seized power, a suicide.

Twenty-two men and women charged with circulating such pamphlets have received prison sentences ranging from one to five years. Another 70 have been arrested on the same count.

Actress Now Conscious After 16-Day Coma

Hollywood, Sept. 23. (AP)— Actress Rita Johnson has regained consciousness in hospital after being in a coma for 16 days.

A nurse said Wednesday that Miss Johnson could recognize persons in the hospital room, but still was unable to talk.

The actress was injured Sept. 6. Investigators believe a heavy hair-drier fell on her head.

URGE CONTINUED CONTROL

SIMPLY TERRIFIC ON PANCAKES

You haven't really tasted how good pancakes can be until you've smothered them in Bee Hive Golden Corn Syrup. Yum ... yum ... that irresistible combination—and in this day of high prices, folks, pancakes and Bee Hive Syrup are not only delicious, but they're thrifty!

IN 1913 ... an ideal was born

In that year the first little Laura Secord Candy Shop was opened as a demonstration of an Ideal, which began as a tiny bud, and ultimately blossomed into a full-blown flower of idealistic simplicity.

That candies which would be the freshest, and of the most superior quality, should be sold in an atmosphere of friendliness from a neighbourhood shop to neighbours, was the ideal which we set before us.

Today the daintily distinctive Laura Secord Candy Shops have come to be familiar landmarks in many Canadian neighbourhoods.

Yet our greatest pride is not merely in this unprecedented development but in the pleasant fact that down through the years, the neighbourly touch has grown stronger too.

It is in the friendly smiles exchanged across the counter ... in the years-long preference given to these favourite candies by so many friends and families.

It is this loyalty we appreciate and value above all else, as neighbourly approval of the Laura Secord Ideal which was born thirty-five years ago, to blossom throughout the succeeding years ... and which today we pledge ourselves to maintain in the highest degree.

Sincerely,

President.

Atom Research May Disclose Life's Secret

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE

Brookhaven, N.Y., (AP),—Radioactive atoms are in use at the Brookhaven National Laboratory to find out what may have happened to animal life on earth half a billion years ago.

These atoms, from the atomic piles at Oak Ridge, Tenn., make it possible to recreate chemical reactions that are no longer at work, but which may have existed at the beginning of the world.

The work is in the biology department headed by Dr. L. F. N'mal. The radioactive studies on bacteria are being made by Dr. B. A. Rubin.

But E. Coli is also one of the amazing forms of life. Dr. Rubin says this microbe, or something very closely resembling it, came into existence about 500,000,000 years ago. That was earlier than any known evidence of more complex forms of life.

When seen under a microscope E. Coli, is merely a cube-shaped dot of protoplasm.

Yet each manufactures in its own tiny way all the vitamins man needs. It also makes all the score of different amino acids that human bodies use. These acids are the substances that form all the proteins.

E. Coli has another surprising quality. It can make all these necessities of life out of inorganic substances; that is, out of ordinarily inedible minerals. Most life now requires some organic substances for food—things made by living plants or creatures.

Coli could have originated before there was any other form of life to supply it with food.

Dr. Rubin is trying when the earth's radioactivity was stronger than today. There was more unstable sun, radium and other heavy metals which emit powerful rays. Dr. Rubin says it is possible, too, that cosmic rays may have been more plentiful in the primitive days. These rays even today manufacture countless numbers of radioactive atoms in the air, water and first few feet of the earth's surface.

To recreate what may have been the radioactivity at life's beginnings, the Brookhaven laboratory is using radioactive phosphorus (P-32), a fairly powerful ray emitter.

It has been found that a small amount of radioactivity may stimulate the growth of E. Coli. These microbes can stand 300 times the dose of radioactivity that kills animals. This tremendous dose will kill E. Coli too, provided it does not have anything to eat, but not when it has plenty of food.

The chemical compounds in the new forms of E. Coli that come from exposure to radioactivity may be early forms that will explain how complex life followed the first simple creatures.

In addition to the radioactive phosphorus atoms, there are about 100 others, all now made in Oak Ridge atomic piles, that can also be used in microbe work. Each one holds new possibilities for useful knowledge.

Eight Seamen Injured in Blast Now in Hospital

Halifax, Sept. 21 (CP) — Eight seamen injured in an explosion are in hospital at Dartmouth, N.S., today after being flown from Sable Island Light where the Greek freighter Orion piled ashore Monday and a resulting fire ber her No. 1 hold.

A United States Coast Guard plane landed in choppy water near Flower Island Light on the northwest coast of Newfoundland and took the eight burned men aloft late Monday. Six were stretcher cases.

There was no immediate report on their condition.

The remaining 27 members of the 35-man crew were back aboard the Orion after getting the explosion caused fire under control, the R.C.A.F. reported.

The Greek Foundation freighter was on route up the west coast of Newfoundland toward the grounded Orion. It was possible the ship could still be salvaged if water had not poured into her after holds.

The Orion was bound for Botwood, Nfld., from Sydney N.S., with a cargo of coal when it rammed aground on the rocky straight of Belle Isle coast opposite Quebec's north shore. A few minutes after the grounding a terrific explosion ripped apart the No. 1 hold.

There were no details of the rescue flight of the Coast Guard

Eight Seamen Sent for Trial

Port Colborne, Sept. 22 (CP) — Eight members of the Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.) Tuesday were committed for trial by Magistrate T. George Street on charges of having offensive weapons in their possesion July 9.

The weapons displayed in court included a softball bat, four clubs and three large stones.

The eight, who have been free on bail of $1,000 each, will be held in Welland county jail until bail is set in the same amount by Magistrate Street is renewed by their bondsmen on Thursday.

Committed were Gilmour Monson, 16, Winnipeg; James Cluckie 25, Fredericton, N.B.; George Katona, 19, St. Catharines; Arthur Cross, 17, London; Ross Lobin, 19, Toronto; Gerald MacDonald, 17, Pickering; Robert Mace, 20, Stratford and Alfred Petipas, 19, Point Deschene, N.B.

Constable Louis Polyck testified to seizing the weapons from the jeep owned by the Canadian Seamen's Union and registered in the name of Dewar Ferguson Toronto Secretary of the C.S.U. about daybreak on July 9. The eight accused were occupants of the jeep along with a 18-year-old Humberstone driver. Constable Polyck identified six of the accused in court.

Canso, Argentia, the big American base on the south coast of Newfoundland, is about 400 miles from Flower Island Light.

Fewer Debtors Jailed in U.K.

London — (CP) — Imprisonment for debt in Britain is not a thing of the past but it is steadily decreasing.

Last available figures — those for 1938 — showed that 3,334 debtors were in prisons up and down the country at that time but comparisons with past figures disclose a drop of about 75 per cent in the number of imprisonments for debt over the last 35 years.

Justice authorities claim today that no one is sent to prison in Britain for inability to pay debts unless he is proven a wilful defaulter.

Committal to prison automatically after failure to comply with an order, made by a court of summary jurisdiction on how he takes place. The debtor now has to come again before the court which hears any explanation he has to offer. This has greatly reduced the number sent to prison.

"The abolition of automatic committal does not apply to county courts, which deal with business debts, but the committal from county courts also have fallen considerably," says a report of the Steward League for Penal Reform.

They were mostly in respect of hire purchase debts and this hire purchase system no longer functions as it did."

Most common cause of committal to prison revealed today under orders for wife maintenance. A total of 2,304 in prison

Failure of Clue Setback to Force Seeking Plane

The Pas, Man., Sept. 22 —(CP) —The slim hope that five men aboard a United States navy plane missing since Sept. 12 still may be alive — living as wild game and the few berries offered by northern Manitoba's trackless wilds — remained today to an international search force.

As Canadian and American pilots took off to scour all territory within the radius of the C-45 Beechcraft — unreported since it left Churchill for The Pas, 450 miles to the southwest — veteran bush pilots here were weighing the chances of its occupants' survival.

Group Capt. Z. L. Leigh, searchmaster, said the hunt would continue without let-up, even though the most promising clue to the plane's whereabouts had been eliminated.

Seen Plane in Trouble

An Indian, Johnny Whitford, said villagers of Skownan, 100 miles southeast of here, he had seen a plane in trouble the day the navy plane disappeared.

Whitford's hearers attracted the attention of an American Canso by spelling out messages on the grounds with logs which appeared to indicate the missing aircraft might have come down nearby.

Sqdn. Ldr. Jack Hone of the R.C.A.F. reserve, a veteran bush pilot, flew in to question Whitford. Whitford told him, he said, that he had "definitely seen an airplane approximately half a mile high."

Whitford reported the plane came near him and made a circle, its engine sounding as if it was in trouble.

"Then it went down behind some trees and he couldn't say whether it came up again," said Hone.

Clue Ruled Out

Whitford said he had seen the plane at 4:10 p.m., but R.C.A.F. officials, in washing out this clue, said the Beechcraft could not have remained aloft so long, considering its fuel capacity.

Search headquarters considered it likely that Whitford saw some bush aircraft which swooped low and then continued on its way, giving him the impression from a distance that it had come down.

Among its passengers were two naval officers, Capt. Sir Robert W. Stirling - Hamilton, naval adviser to the British High Commissioner's Office and Capt. B. S. Custer, naval attache to the U.S. embassy, Ottawa.

TALKS BREAK DOWN

St. Catharines, Sept. 22 — (CP) —Talks aimed at settlement of a strike which started July 14 at the McKinnon Industries, plant here broke down Tuesday. Local 199 of the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) called the strike to back demands of wage increases of 15 cents an hour for day workers and 15 cents an hour for piece and bonus workers.

FRESHMEN IN FEATHERS

Edmonton, Sept. 21 — (CP) — The University of Alberta campus will look like an Indian reservation for awhile. Upper-classmen have agreed that freshmen must wear. Indian feathers and loincloths, must bow to their betters and must address them with guttural "ughs" and "hows." Professors will be addressed as "Great White One."

Cleveland's Pennant Outlook Bright, But How Long it Stays That Way Depends on Detroit

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cleveland's pennant outlook is extremely bright today. How long it stays that way depends directly on the fifth-place Detroit Tigers.

The Indians beat the Red Sox 2-1 Wednesday night in the last game for the American League first half a game ahead of New York Yankees, who brushed off Chicago White Sox 7-2. Another New York victory over Chicago today would bump the Yanks into a three-way tie for first as both Boston and Cleveland are idle.

Cleveland's advantage lies in the remaining schedule. The Indians have eight games to go, all against second-division clubs. The Red Sox also have eight games to play, but five are against the Yanks who have nine games left.

Six of Cleveland's eight contests are against the Tigers, three in Detroit and three in Cleveland.

Bob Feller, who has had a poor end-of-the-week record, was pitched the "must" game against the lowly Browns last night and the big boy came through in brilliant style. Feller limited Manton on three hits and fanned six to winning his eighteenth game of the season. He held the Sox hitless until the sixth inning when Pat Seerey doubled and rode home with Boo-ston's first run on losing pitcher Joe Dobson's single.

Win in First Frame

The Indians raked Dobson for three runs in the first inning to clinch the decision. The big blow was Ken Keltner's 28th homer run of the season with one on. It was Cleveland's seventh straight triumph and 34th of the last 15 games.

A standing room only crowd of 76,772 paid fans observed "Don Black Night" with the Injured Cleveland pitcher receiving approximately $40,380 of the net receipts.

The Yanks also got some great pitching as Lefty Vic Raschi checked the tail-end White Sox on six safeties and fanned 11 in the process. Byrne blanked the White Sox until the ninth inning when two singles, a walk and double spoiled his bid for a shutout.

The pesky Tiger downed Philadelphia Athletics 5-1 as Lefty Hal Newhouser scattered seven hits in gaining his 19th victory and 150th of his career.

In the other American League games, Washington Senators nosed out St. Louis Browns 5-4 when Cliff Fannin walked Sherry Robertson with the bases loaded in the 10th inning.

Medal Hogs Spotlight

St. Louis Cardinals and Stan Musial hogged the National League spotlight. The Cards pre-vented Boston Braves from clinching their first pennant in 34 years by trouncing them 8-2.

The Braves had they beaten the Cards, would have won the flag as a triumph would have eliminated both the Cards and Brooklyn Dodgers. The Dodgers, beaten 3-1 by Rip Sewell and Pittsburgh Pirates, dropped to third place as the Cards took over second.

Boston needs to win two games to nail down the pennant. They can also clinch if they win a game and the Dodgers and Cards each lose one. Boston and Brooklyn have eight to go and the Cards nine.

Musial led St. Louis' 17-hit attack against Warren Spahn and four relief pitchers with five hits —a homer, double and three singles. It was the fourth time this season that Musial has collected five hits in a single game, tying the Baseball League record established by Ty Cobb of Detroit in 1911.

Chicago Cubs took a double-header from the New York Giants 3-2 and 11-7 and Cincinnati Reds edged the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3, in the leagues only night game.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE B. CARVER, Sports Editor

"There is" quoth the old hockey timer, wafting the froth from his semi-foam of ale, "something radically wrong with the hockey set-up of these days. Time was when the boys would go out there and for $6 minus without benefit of a hair, and go back and do it all over again the next night — and mind you, just for the love of it."

His buddy wiped the foam from his Jerry Colonna mustachios, and nodded a bald pate. "Yep," he replied, "that's just alot what they used to be. This hockey sport is misunderstanding his life's purpose entirely. And danged big business at that with the big shots of this National Hockey League sending their underground all over the place spying out the young fellas and blighting their names to something they call a negotiation list."

* * *

"Big business is right" agreed his pal. "In my day, sure the lads might have had a five-spot or so tucked in their socks but that was for spending money and not a stipend. Nowadays the young bucks practically name their own price and stage a pay parade at the end of each game. In other words the manager that can pay the most money gets the best players."

* * *

"And speaking of that" he went on, "if some of the oldtime players of this village drew their pay on the same scale as this puck-chasing artists of today, they would have been well off by the time they laid their sticks and skates aside and resorted to the pipe and slippers and a rinkside seat on hockey nights."

* * *

His buddy ordered another round of foam. "And while on the subject," he said, "I heartily agree with what someone said around here some time ago that Ottawa has not enough room to swing a cat, much less the peanuts since Ed. Thomas threw the Daw Whalen, Gunner Arnott, Bill Green, Pat Boland, Bun Gerrie, Vern Weir, and others gang at all and everything that wanted to cross sticks with 'em."

* * *

"Hockey has surely depreciated since those days, in these parts at east. We had one or two good teams that went to a title, but about that time the dough - chaser gleam in the eye of the boys as they went to greener pastures the next year. Not that you can blame 'em. Everybody was doing it."

* * *

"And it's gradually got worse. If you want a hockey player now you've got a set him a job — one to like. Also in accommodation, permanent waves every so often, a couple of girl friends a week, full pay if he's 'laid off' the job, and such things as these. And in the interim between the boy being contacted and the deadline for residence rules, managers go wacky for fear another massive will up the ante and the first thing he knows he hasn't got a player."

* * *

His pal smiled and nodded his head. He smiled to himself and said "Yep, and I know a team that got jelly beans, hair oil, sweater dry - cleans after each game, peanuts and other favors."

* * *

"What's to be done about it?" asked his buddy.

"The only thing I can see," the first oldtimer replied, "is to get rid of this cut - throating non-unionized league spending under the guise of 'amateur' hockey and put it on a basis the same as the professional teams. In other words make it all minor pro loops. Under this head, players would be signed to contracts; there would be no player - pilfering; managers could budget prospect expenses and players would know what they're getting."

* * *

"That would be all right" replied his buddy, "but wouldn't be playing right down the alley of the big fellas. They would be undergrounding every league in the country and such big shots like Smythe, Adams, Selke, Weston Adams and others of the big time would need to employ an army of scouts big enough to stage a retreat from Moscow.

* * *

"Yeah, yeah, I know, but what's the difference. They're doing it anyway. Show me a kid that's the boy hockey hero of his hamlet, and who in reality has some sort of ability, and the village hotel not long after will reserve rooms to a half-dozen strangers who want to know all about the local Frank Merrill's family background, ability, his mother's maiden name and if he would be willing to pass up a career on the farm for the brighter lights of metropolitan arenas."

* * *

"Ain't it the truth?" and the first oldtimer shook his head sadly. "In fact this money germ is affecting all sports from tiddley winks to croquet. They play bridge, cribbage, at so much a point. Football, basketball, track and field, darts are gradually becoming victims to this bug of pay-for-play. It's disgusting. In our day, we played for the love of the game and the physical and mental benefits we derived. It's enough to make the old timers revolve in their graves."

* * *

"Yep, you're right. It makes a fella feel sorta down in the mouth. Let's get outa here and go over to the club, and play a little casino."

"You're on. Let's go."

"Just a minute. How much a corner?"

"Oh, say, two bits."

"Good enough, but I can only play for three hours."

* * *

Those interested in the formation of senior "B" and Intermediate "A" hockey teams in the city are requested to attend the meeting being held tonight at the Sea Cadets Barracks in the old South End, Athletic Club on lower Front Street at eight o'clock. We understand there is some movement afoot which may prove of more than passing interest to hockey enthusiasts.

Fort Wayne Team Evens Series With London Majors

Labatt Park, London, Ont., Sept. 23 - (CP) - Fort Wayne, Indiana, General Electrics and London Majors today are tied with one game each in the Sandlot Baseball World series.

The U.S. Sandlot champions defeated Majors 4-3 here Wednesday night in the second of their best-of-seven series. Londoners, Canadian titleholders, won the opener Tuesday 8-7. The third game will be played here tonight.

In Wednesday night's game Fort Wayne picked up an early lead and held it throughout even though outpitched and outhit by the losers.

The men from Indiana got their runs early—a single in the first inning, two in the second and their fourth and final tally in the fourth. From then on London's Cy Bricker limited them to one hit for the rest of the game.

Southpaw Bricker gave up only four hits. However, during one wild streak in the second inning he walked four consecutive batters, had two runs scored on him.

Charlie Ship, pitched for Fort Wayne and had only one bad inning. That was the seventh when London's Russ Evon and Jim Sandford walloped consecutive home runs.

Filchock Leads Tigers to Victory Over the Indians

Hamilton Sept. 23 (CP)—Frank Filchock, the stocky United States import who was given a 4F draft rating in the Big Four last season in his first year in Canadian football, is doubling up his reputation even further this season by his great playing in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

The former Detroit New York Giants ace did just about everything as Hamilton Tigers drubbed Toronto Beaches Indians 32-13, Wednesday night. It was the third straight victory for the Filchock coached forces and put them all alone on top of the league standings.

A crowd of 11,000 watched Filchock, outpass, outrun, and outthink the Combines under the floodlights. Though playing with a badly swollen elbow, he completed seven of 12 passes for a total yardage gain of 126— one of them 30 yards for a touchdown and another 40 yards to set up a field goal.

He ran 55 yards for one major after intercepting a forward and even dragged out a variant of the old Statue of Liberty play to set up another.

The game was prevented from being a one man show, however, by the way the remainder of the Tiger team rose to their coach's example. The four touchdowns were shared by Filchock. Jack Stewart Jack Harper and Gerry Walsh, the reformed English rugger player.

Two Placements

The other Hamilton points were scored on a 25-yard placement by Joe Chicobi, another that Pat Santucci booted 37 yards, two converts by Santucci, one by Joe Caprioli and a single punted by Doug Smith.

Beaches standouts were Don Crowe and Garry Smith, who combined to score all their points. On both their touchdown plays, Crowe sent the stocky Negro racing around end on lateral passes while Crowe converted the first major and Smith the other.

The game marked the first meeting between the Combines as the Tigers, who shifted to the O.R.F.U. after trailing in the Big Four last season. They went into the contest tied for first place, both holding victories over Sarnia Imperials and Windsor Rockets.

In all the Beaches moved the ball dirtch 13 times after 21 for Tigers while Filchock held a big edge in the passing department. Bobby Porter completed only 3 of 13 for 30 yards while Crowe completed three of five for 47 yards.

Boxing Show Will Feature Two Champions

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—The boxing "wars" moves across the river to the Yankee Stadium tonight where a Twentieth Century Sporting Club doubleheader, starring champions like Williams and Ray (Sugar) Robinson, ends the outdoor season.

Buried in the uproar over Marcel Cerdan's smashing upset victory at Jersey City, this attractive outdoor show will be lucky to gross $100,000. The crowd probably will not be more than 15,000 as compared to 19,272 who paid $254,399 for the Cerdan-Zale show.

Sol Strauss, acting promoter for Mike Jacobs' organization, says $100,000 will keep the card out of the red ink.

Lightweight King Williams will risk his crown over the 15-round route against Jesse Flores, a capable ring "cutie" from Stockton, Calif. Robinson will not try to make the 147-pound welterweight limit for his non-title 10-rounder with Kid Gavilan of Cuba.

The Jacobs organization no longer hands out huge guarantees to the gladiators as did the rival tournament of champions for the Cerdan-Zale affair. Robinson is supposed to get $20,000 flat and the others are on percentage. Williams is said to get 32 1-2, Gavilan 12 1-2 and Flores 10.

If Williams, the dead pan thumper from Trenton, N.J., is a shoein with the betting crowd, they haven't convinced Flores, the 21-year-old Mexican-American has speed, stamina and a dashing left hand to back up his supreme confidence.

Many ring experts think Flores has the style to puzzle Williams, a slow starter, but they do not think he can hit hard enough to reach Williams to be respectful. He, one of the most underrated fighters of our time, is a terrific puncher with both hands.

The promoters tried to make the other fight a title bout, too, but Robinson, who had trouble making 147 for Bernie Docusen in Chicago last July, refused. Gavilan never has been stopped in 39 pro fights.

Whipper Will Defend Title Against Atkins

What can be definitely called a really big time wrestling promotion is under way right here in Belleville as a result of Manager Walt Gerow signing up Whipper Billy Watson to defend his title against Fred Atkins here on Friday night. Atkins is the big rock-chested Australian who has strewn the mats of the country with his recumbent foes without a single set-back since his arrival here last spring. Atkins has never yet had a chance at the Whipper but having come half way across the world for the chance he is bursting with satisfaction over Friday's match.

Although the match has a distinct Maple Leaf Gardens Stadium local fans will have their chance to see it and from all indications regarding both men, it should be a dooser. The Whip of course is "first in the hearts of his countrymen" but this Fred looking big "digger" fellow has won many a follower here. Atkins features a hold he calls the Kangeroo Klamp and when he gets it on there is no more to be said by his opponent. If he gets it on Billy the Kid on Friday night here he will likely see the British Empire championship belt change hands for the first time in nearly five years.

Jat Flanagan and Jack Moore will renew hostilities over the special time limit of forty minutes in the semi final. They had one of the fastest and roughes bouts seen in a long time here last week and each feels he is taking another or a hundred more cracks at the other, in the best bout Jan Gotch meets young Ralph Marino who is regarded in Montreal as the most promising senior since Moquin and Robert first hit the Quebec metroposis.

Napanee Legion Wins 9-4 Over Bloomfield

Napanee, Sept. 23.— Playing steady ball behind Jim Robinson's left hand tossing, Napanee Legion hung up a 9-4 win in the first game of the Eastern Ontario O.B.A. Intermediate "C" finals over Bloomfield here Wednesday afternoon. A three-hit, three run getaway kept the locals in front and they went on to a four-run clustre in the seventh, featured by Howie Van Vlack's long triple that put the game on the safe side.

The Bloomfield boys appeared to be going some place in the third when they had the bases filled and only one out, but Mr. Pitcher settled down to strike out Cork and grabbed Pyke's bounce to retire the side. They had force at the plate. Vance's attempted squeeze bunt in the eighth popped into the pitcher's hands and Mann was easily doubled off third.

Spearhead for Team

Howie Van Vlack was the spearhead for Napanee and in fact was lucky to have any head left after he dropped one of Jim Robinson's ones ip the sixth but apparently escaped serious injury. The lanky shortstop had a triple and double to drive in three runs and scored three runs himself.

Abbott left the box in the seventh after Van Vlack connected for triple and he went on to wild, pitch him in. Hayden finished the game.

Robinson had seven strikeouts and Abbott each walked two.

Line score:

Bloomfield	000 020 110—4	7 3
Napanee	200 001 41x—9	7 3

U.S. Golfers Dominate Open Tournament

Vancouver, Sept. 22. (CP)— Only two Canadian golfers could equal par or better on the first day of the Canadian Open Golf championship but the prospects today that the course will be "taken apart" by United States golfers, looks pretty good.

Two veteran American links stars and one newcomer Wednesday shot three-under 67s to lead the 125-player field for the $10,000 championship and first prize money of $2,000.

Leading the way into a second round of the 36-hole Canadian Open are Dick Metz of Virginia Beach, Va., who just missed the title in a playoff with George Fazio in 1946; Herman Keiser, of Springfield, Mo., still searching for a major win this year, and young Bill Nary of Phoenix, Ariz. Several American stars add after practice rounds earlier on Shaughnessy Heights 6,500-yard layout that the course would be easy pickings for some of their top shotmakers. A cold, wet and windy day limited the par-equaling field on the first round to only 19. But improved weather is in prospect for today.

One stroke behind the three-way lead is former tennis star Ellsworth Vines of Iowa City, Ia., with a 68.

Burn up Back Nine

Both the bespectacled Vines and loose-limbed Keiser burned up pthe back nine with four birdie spiece for sparkling 31s.

Canada's two outstanding performers were the best club pro Freddy Wood, who cut one stroke off par each nine for a 70 and Stan Leonard, also of Vancouver, who shot par for every hole for his 72.

Fred Haas of New Orleans, Chuck Congdon of Tacoma, Wash., and Bill McFarland of Tulsa, both were off the face with 70s.

Gordie Brydson of Toronto Mississauga, despite skimming the ice on two three-footers, was still right in there with a 71.

HANDS HIMSELF RELEASE

Walters, who replaced Johnny Neun as boss of the Redlegs last month, said he was stepping out of the active playing ranks for the season to make room for Steve Filipovitch, ex-Fordham football star who is getting a tryout as Cincinnati outfielder.

Syracuse Chiefs Fight Their Way Into Final Round

(By The Associated Press)

Syracuse Chiefs, for the third straight season, have fought their way into the final round of the International League's Shaughnessy playoffs.

Syracuse dogged its way into the finals of the current playoffs Tuesday night, drubbing Newark's Bears 11-4 in the seventh and final game of their best-of-seven series.

In the other semi-final round series, the scheduled seventh game between Rochester Red Wings and Montreal Royals was postponed because of rain.

Rochester is slated to meet the Royals in Montreal again tonight with the winner clashing with the Chiefs in the finals also a best-of-seven affair.

The Chiefs piled up an 8-1 lead for Erault going into the seventh inning. But the Bears drove him to cover in the seventh, scoring three times on a pinch-hit homer by Lou Novikoff. Following Novikoff's blow, Erault walked two batters and was relieved by Frank Seward who got out of the jam and blanked the Bears the rest of the way.

Lee Muller started for Newark and lasted less than three innings Kermit Wahl rocked Muller for a two-run homer in the first and Al Rubeling socked him for another homer in the second. Muller was lifted in the third during a three-run Syracuse rally. The Chiefs clipped Frank Lamsdorf for two more runs in the sixth and completed their scoring with three runs in the ninth on Frank Davis' homer at the expense of Johnny Mackinson.

WATERTOWN LODGES COMPLAINT

Watertown, N.Y., Sept. 23 (CP) —Watertown Athletics, who are not doing so well in their Border League playoff series with Ogdensburg Maples, Wednesday lodged a complaint that the pitcher's mound was two feet closer to the plate than it ought to be League President Dick Ward went around to measure the distance but someone had stolen the mound.

Smythe Rates Frankie Mathers As Coming Star

(By The Canadian Press)

Rugged Frankie Mathers can't make up his mind whether to remove teeth professionally by hand checks or with a pair of dentist's forceps.

The 24-year-old defenceman who came from Winnipeg to star with Ottawa Senators as do Emerald, is rated by managing director Conn Smythe as No. 1 contender to fill the vacancy left in Toronto Maple Leafs' rearguard by the deal which sent Wally Stanowski to New York Rangers.

Mathers was toying with the idea of pursuing dentistry when he was invited to the Toronto hockey school at St. Catharines, and a chance to make the National Hockey League.

Stan Musial, St. Louis, Cardinals slugger, Wednesday, set National League batting record by collecting five consecutive hits. In one game four times in a season. Musial hit his 38th homer a two bagger and three singles against Boston Braves. Boston.

Ty Cobb established the major league record in that department with Detroit Tigers in 1922.

Wallace Diestelmeyer, North American pairs champion and Canadian singles and dance champion Wednesdy night at Kitchener, Ont., denied a report that he had signed as instructor at the Regina Wascana Winter Club for the coming season. He said he had discussed the appointment with the club but had reached no definite decision.

President Bill Beeck of Cleveland Indians had promised that Black would receive net receipts over the 25,000 advance sale. minus the share of the visiting Boston Red Sox. Black, still in serious condition in hospital from cerebral hemorrhage suffered when he was at bat against the St. Louis Browns Sept. 13, was unaware of his good fortune.

Coach Red Douglas announced Wednesday at Sarnia that assistant coach Trip Trepnier will return to the active lineup Saturday when the injury riddled Imperials meet the Windsor Rockets in a Senior O.R.F.U. fixture. Trepanier likely will play inside, with Clare Sutton being moved to the middle post in place of the ailing Tony Lee.

Puck stars Jim Drummond and Kenny Kilrea arrived Wednesday at the Galt training camp of the American Hockey League Philadelphia Rockets. General Manager Max Kaminsky said Bill Hergesheimer, leading scorer last season, due to arrive today. Kaminsky said his team will play Springfield Indians in Barrie Friday night. Principal Rockets will go to Galt from their Welland training camp for a game Monday.

Montreal Canadiens will inaugurate the hockey season at Montreal Saturday when they meet Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League in an exhibition tilt. General Manager Frank Selke announced Wednesday at Montreal. Three Canadiens will be facing their former team-mates — Bill Durnan, Cliff Hicke, coach of Buffalo, Leo Gravelle and Floyd Curry.

BY SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Nothing succeeds like success, it is said. But how should it be achieved? By a single gamble that may lead to disaster? Or by the wonder policy that wins only in the greatest majority?

A bridge championship was won with the help of this deal:

NORTH

♥3 2 4

♦K J 10 6 2

SOUTH

♣K 8

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 S	2 C
3 S	4 C
4 S	4 NT
5 NT	7 S
7 NT	Pass

A simple (non-jump) responding bid promises one trick more than two. Therefore, the first reply by north showed not less than two tricks. With eight in his own hand, south then sees a jump promises tricks enough for a game. So, the second round jump — by south announced his eight tricks. From there on, north knew they had tricks enough to go for a slam.

While there is still time, it is best to determine the trump suit that may be best for slam. The rebid in clubs was to that end.

The five no-trump answer to four no-trump is Kibitzer convention for showing one ace and three kings. If partner can then say seven spades, south considered, club king is a clincher for no-trump.

In duplicate you get one match point for each pair that gets a lower score in the same deal, for all other tables end this deal at seven grades, the seven no-trump wins from each.

The no-trump grand slam is a big gamble. But what if east-held club queen instead of nine? Only seven spades would make 13 tricks. Was it worth the risk? You be the judge. The jury will be hung.

Hollywood, Sept. 23 — (AP) — Big plans are being made for Jane Greer, according to a wind sweeping out of the R.K.O. lot.

Announcements and rumors (and dropped employees) have been about the only things coming out of the studio since Howard Hughes took over. Latest report is that the tycoon has big picture plans for Miss Greer.

Else will she be turn down offers from four other studios to borrow her for starring movies? The actress, former wife of Rudy Vallee, has long been R.K.O.'s prime candidate for top star brackets.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reeding his paper and ma was reeding hers, and she started to laff out loud to herself, saying, Really. William, I mean really, this is just too funny!

Are they putting humor back in the comics? pop said, and ma said I'm not looking at the comics, and anyway it's old fashioned to expect the comics to make you laff I'm looking at the midweek full page advertizement for the Marvel Super Dooper Market. Listen to this, William. 'Boned shin, 78 cents a pound.'

That's what I thawt you said pop said, and ma said, But 78 cents a pound.

That's high, isn't it? pop said and ma said, Well naturelly it's high.

But I could of sworn I heard you laffing, pop said, and ma said I'll read you some more. Here's a rich item. "Shoulder of lamb 69 cents, special." Imagine Williams special, she said.

And she laffed even harder, and pop said, Take it easy my dear aren't you a little histerical?

I'll explain what's so funny, ma said. A woman called on the fone this morning, she said, and pop said, Did you tell her I wasn't home?

She didn't ask for you ma said. She explained that she was the chairman of the Associated Naybothood Women, and she asked me if I would join in a campaign to induce my frends to defeet the high-cost of living by buying only the cheep cuts of meat. Well, dont you see, William, I've just been reeding you the prices of some of the so called cheep cuts, and they're all so high it's a public scandal, she said.

And she laffed so hard she prittv near hert herself in the side, and pop claimed it was perlous and ma told him that was just what made it so funny.

George Polmanter Decisions Norm Thompson in Main Bout Of Highly Entertaining Card

George Polmanter, clever Belleville fighter, made a smashing comeback debut at Memorial Arena last night when he defeated clever Norm Thompson, of Brockville in a hard hitting, fast-moving main bout that met the popular approval of a large crowd of fans.

The card presented by Promoter Murray Swarts, Oshawa, was by far the best seen here in years. There was not a dull moment from the time two 88-pounders opened festivities until Referee Eddie Lee announced Polmanter winner of the main bout. Every bout was thrill-packed with the boys giving all they had and the promoter can bring back the card any time he prefers.

It was a smashing, fighting show and boxing fans who missed it passed up a thrilling evening's entertainment.

Polmanter made his debut here in an auspicious manner. He was in perfect condition proven by the freshness at the end of five torrid rounds of consistent batting. Thompson essayed to stay out of fighting range for the majority of the fight, but Polmanter followed him relentlessly, content for the first two rounds to flick out lightning-like left jabs.

A shifty, clever boxer, Thompson was content to let Polmanter carry the fight to him. He adopted a crouching, weaving style that kept Polmanter on the march but let him use his vicious rights and lefts when in close rocked the Brockville lad.

Polmanter tagged him with a solid right smash to the jaw in a quick exchange in the third round and the Brockville lad went down for the count of nine. In the fourth they both slugged it out toe to toe and another knocking Polmanter right caught Thompson flush on the button and he hit the canvas for another nine count. In the fifth round, Thompson landed several light blows but the crouching Polmanter met him with sturdy rights and lefts to win a clear-cut decision. It was one of the best main bouts seen here this year.

In the second main bout Jumping Jerry Downes and clever Belleville fighter also created a favorable impression on the fans with his courageous comeback display against Bud Henry, clever Oshawa slugger. Downes, returned champ carried the fight for the most of the way against his clever opponent and although he took some terrific punishment, weathered the storm in a flurry of fists. It was a good bout with both boys going all-out. Downes deserves special mention for his aggressive style and willingness to mix matters.

The other bouts were equally as good as far as action is concerned. There was not a "dull" bout in the entire card and the only shortened bout was that between Bill Pipher, Oshawa, and Blair of Brockville which was stopped in the second by Referee Eddie Lee when Pipher had Blair at his mercy.

Ray Lloyd and Carl Clapper fought two furious bouts against opponents and won their fights after going the limit in hard-slugging crowd-pleasing affairs. It was, as was said before, the best card staged here in years, and the promoter deserves the well-advised to stage re-matches.

THE RESULTS

Bruce Polmanter, Belleville, 68, drew with Jack Hall, Belleville 68.

Semi Final

Main Bout

Geo. Polmanter. 145, Belleville defeated Norm. Thompson. 145, Brockville (5) decision.

Coach of Quebec Aces in Wrong With Conn Smythe

St. Catharines Ont. Sept. 23 (CP) — Managing director Conn Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday charged an official of a Quebec Senior hockey team with selling his training camp with offers of good jobs and big money.

Smythe said Punch Imlach, coach of Quebec Aces, visited Toronto Weltert training camp of Pittsburgh Hornets and offered $3,500 and jobs to at least two players.

He added that of the players involved, Dean McBride did not show up at the Pittsburgh practice Wednesday. McBride played last year with Toronto Marlboro Seniors.

"If McBride turns up in Quebec, we will have to suspend him," said Smythe. "We have a big investment in these players and have jobs ready for them at comparable rates of pay."

TWO KILLED INSTANTLY

Tillsonburg, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Eight of thousands of persons at the Tillsonburg fall fair, two employees of radio station CKOG, Woodstock, were killed instantly late Tuesday when their Taylor-Craft plane crashed a quarter of a mile from the fair grounds.

Victims were Beverly Harrington, 18-year-old mechanic, believed to have been piloting the plane, and Stephen Brady, 19, an engineer.

Harrington held a pilot's license.

Canadian Press Staff Writer)
Vancouver, Sept. 23 (CP) — Canadian featherweight champion Jackie Turner's defeat at the fists of Oakland's Mike Bernal has prompted charges that boxing along the entire west coast is being controlled from San Francisco.

Duke (Vancouver Sun) McLeod, quoting local promoter Al Principe, writes:

"If local southern boxing managers sent Bernal here to knock Turner off. And he sure did."

McLeod adds Bernal is a "chattel of the Joe Herman Empire" czar of San Francisco, who extends to Vancouver promoter Arnold Bertram.

"Turner," says McLeod, "was knocked off because of the operations of a heavily clique entrenched into Vancouver which wants to exterminate boxing promoters appointed by the local Athletic Commission.

Promoter Bertram, after the match, challenged Bernal to fight his protege Kenny Lindsay in a main event. Principe was told no other fighter would be acceptable to Bernal."

McLeod says Bernal is too good a fighter for Turner and is far better than Lindsay regardless of challenges.

Which Should Open

Eric (Vancouver Province) Whitehead bemoans the fate of the Canadian Football Conference Association meet which follows here next Tuesday after the current Canadian Open.

Whitehead writes, "As an inevitable result of the current baloo over the Canadian Open, the C.P.G.A. has been rudely dumped to a role of second fiddle.

"Which is really quite a shame because the Oshawa trophy is actually the symbol of the Canadian golf championship and therefore is a very important trinket."

RUPTURE
READ THE FOLLOWING TESTIMONIAL:
FOXBORO, ONT. Aug. 26, 1946
J. L. ARMSTRONG, Specialist.
102 Bank Street, OTTAWA, ONT.
Dear Sir:—
On June 20th, 1945, I called upon you and had you adjust one of your patented appliances for the retention of rupture.
When I called to see you I had been ruptured over two years and, in spite of supports which I had tried, I found that I was not getting better. Seeing your advertisement, I went to Belleville. I decided to have you fit me with one of your appliances. You did so and explained carefully, using my personal situation as an example, what I must do to secure cure of my rupture. There are two reasons for me writing you this letter. One is to thank you for what you have done for me and the other is to save myself the expense of hiring a secretary to answer those calls from people who have read that I was cured with your support. I have had many calls from different parts of the country and I am only too pleased to tell anyone who writes me that I will tell them when you again return to Belleville you will use this in the Belleville Intelligencer.
I know other men whom you have fitted the same day that you corrected my trouble and they are as pleased as I am with the results. Your appliances must be one of the greatest boons to humanity ever invented and I am sure that after many years of age and service on with his farm work without the need of ever setting foot in a hospital ward. It is a great boon to humanity to be able to secure one of your appliances and, it is my belief that in the vast majority of cases, people will get the same result as I did.
Thanking you for your kind attention, I am
Yours very truly,
(Sgd.) ARTHUR I. CLAIRE.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"Yes, I know," I said dryly in the pause. I began to clip at the shrubbery again.

"No, don't do that," he protested. "Listen. You have been kind of quiet lately, and I feel as if something is wrong. It hasn't got anything to do with me, has it? I don't flatter myself that any girl is going to remember me that long. I just want to know that we are good friends, hey? Is that right?"

"Oh, quite all right, Bill," I said, hurt and bored and frozen inside. If only he'd stop talking and go away! If only he wouldn't be so gentle and strong and sorry and affectionate!

"Of course you can't."

"I mean — heck," said Bill youthfully, "nobody knows what's going to happen. I may get killed — probably will."

"Why probably?" From very anger I was regaining composure. I clipped at a strong, fierce tentacle of blackberry.

"But we're friends, anyway," he said with his big friendly laugh. "Well, I guess that's all I wanted to say," he went on, determined to have it understood and to end it. "You're the swellest girl I ever knew, and — I won't have you mad at me."

"Mad nothing," I said quietly, my back half turned to him. "Go away — go away — go away," I said in my heart.

"Va's as crazy about you as I am." The stupid clumsiness of these men! He would hang around; he would go on with it.

"She's a vital little party," I said levelly.

"She's different from anyone I ever knew." My clippers went snip-snip-snip. I pulled at vines.

"That looks kind of fun."

"I love this sort of work."

"Plenty of it to do here."

"Oh-h- . . ." I straightened my back, looked about the jungle hopelessly. After a minute I said, "You're in love with her, Bill?"

"Real thing this time." He said it with overacted joviality. But then he repeated it soberly: "Real thing this time."

"It wasn't the real thing with us, then?" something inside me that I had no intention of obeying made me say thickly. I clipped periwinkle ropes and glanced at his obliquely.

"And we knew it wasn't." he said. He was going to save me what he could.

"Is it settled?"

"Oh, gosh, no. But it'd be pretty swell to have a place like this to come back to." Bill said after a pause, following some satisfactory train of thought. "She told her grandfather yesterday that she's crazy about it, and it seems it tickled the old man to death."

"She isn't really crazy about it at all," I observer dispassionately.

"No, but she knows I am." His smile was one of quiet triumph "That means something, I hope, I hope, I hope."

"She may not ever get this place."

"Oh, I think she will. Clay has no kids; he's forty."

"But if she doesn't, would that make a difference in the way you feel?"

"Heck, no!" he exclaimed, really surprised. "What do you think I am?"

"Well, I'm glad," I murmured apologetically.

"No, nothing's settled," he said presently. "I've got to go out to the South Pacific. She's terribly young — I think that all I've got the gall to ask her now is to wait for me, damn it!"

He went on talking about her desultorily, not quite comfortably, for a few minutes, then he went away with a final "I'm glad we had this talk; I wanted to be sure you understood."

I worked along for a while and then found myself crying, so, I stopped work and went down to McMurdock's cabin to return the tools and see his mother. Little old Mrs. McMurdock was like something made of that cuttlefish people stick in bird cages: brittle, white all through, frail as tissue paper. She was a fluttery, nervous old woman; she liked to have me come in and share a cup of tea with her. Like a child, she would bustle to the breadbox, cut bread and butter it, pour a little hot water into the teapot, and shake her head at me knowingly to show me that that was the way to do it. When finally we sat down, with our pink cups, and fat pewter pitcher of heavy Durham cream, she would give her weak little hands a shadowy little clap.

Once when I wore a white ruffled dress — for we were going to the movies later — she was very much excited, walked about me, bowing, and finally, with gasped little monosyllables that sounded like a daisy trying to talk and many inneffectual gestures, she tried to describe to me some dress she had once worn or seen. Frills so — about the shoulders; and a long skirt — so — with roses or some other flower on it, and a fan. She waved the imaginary fan regally, the poor little twisted thing in the black cloth dress she always wore with the blue shoulder shawl knotted about her.

"It must have been beautiful!"

"Pretty," she whispered.

"Did you dance?"

A vigorous eager nodding of the small white head. But some memory of the dancing annoyed her, and she began to bridle, to pout and toss her head, and she drank her tea in offended silence. She was evidently weak-minded; McMurdock had never told me so, but she had childish mannerisms and despotic nursery ways. He was always glad to find company with her. I left them together, the shriveled, bloodless little mother, and went up to the big house at the dreariest hour of the afternoon.

There was plenty of garish light; the sea glittered in an unfriendly manner: the big clock in the hall struck five as I came in. Mrs. Grizell was coming out of the side door with a baske; and nodded to me. She often took food down to McMurdock's house; the frail old woman could not deal with the old wood stove; biscuits and pies and roast chicken from our kitchen were always on the move.

And I suppose in here might go the next revelation I had of the mysteries of Hillyard House. This same little tissue-paper old woman came up to the house when everyone else was in bed one night and was wandering about aimlessly in the upper hall when I happened to cross it. Virginia had lost one of her earrings, and I suddenly remembered that Tom Wing had said he thought he knew where it was. Virginia was asleep when I peered into her room to tell her where it might be, as I put on a quilted wrapper and slippers and went silently out of my room to go downstairs to look for it in the upholstery of the davenport.

Suddenly to perceive old Mrs. McMurdock slipping along against the wall with a candle in her hand was a most uncanny shock. A low gaslight was always left burning in the lower hall, and I had needed no other light, so that her childish, thin little figure, huddled down and shrinking back, threw strange great wavering shadows on the wall behind her as the candle flickered gallantly against so much darkness.

"Baby," she said in a frightened whisper with an uncertain smile. That she was frightened braced me, and I went quickly toward her and put a protecting hand on her.

"It's all right." I whispered back, "but you must come downstairs with me now; you must go home now."

Has Great Distress With Gas, Bloat, Constipation

Food Soured in Stomach, Felt Dizzy and Short of Breath. Grew Very Nervous, Became Tired Easily. Now Praises Syntona for Giving First Real Relief.

MRS. JESSIE JOHNSON

"After suffering with a nervous stomach and intestinal condition for the past eight years, I have had more real relief by taking Syntona Herbal Compound than anything elese I ever used," said Mrs. Jessie Johnson, 198 Mary St. Hamilton, Ont., in a recent report.

"The gassy pains, bloating and sourness in my stomach just kept me feeling miserable from day to day. My food seemed to ferment and I would belch up hot, sour liquids. Unless I took harsh laxatives I would go four or five days at a time without a bowel movement. I felt dizzy and short of breath and dark spots danced before my eyes. My nerves were all on edge. I would get nervous headaches and often couldn't get to sleep for hours after going to bed at night. As a result, I felt very tired all the time. Everything I tried to do seemed to tax all my strength.

"My daughter had taken Syntona some time ago and she urged me to try it. I had used so many things without getting the results that I expected that I didn't have much faith in anything, but on her recommendation I agreed to get some. In a few days I was surprised to find that my food was digesting better. As I continued taking it all the gas, bloating and sourness cleared up and I began to feel better. It relieved the constipation and the dizziness and headaches stopped troubling me. Now my nerves are relaxed and my sleep is so much more restful that I awaken mornings feeling better than I have for a long, long time."

Yes, Syntona has helped many men and women suffering as Mrs. Johnson did. Syntona is a tonic medicine made from 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots. It is pleasant to take and results are quickly felt.

BANDIT KILLERS OF 2 POLICEMEN BEING SOUGHT

Officers Shot Down in Bold Bank Robbery in Heart of Montreal

Montreal, Sept. 24 (CP)—Two policemen died Thursday before the guns of bank-robber bandits, and today two gunmen were still at large as city and provincial police set in motion a dragnet that stretched the length and breadth of Montreal Island and beyond.

A third, identified by police as Noel Clouthier, 24, was captured a few minutes after the daring holdup of an east-end branch of of the Banque Canadienne Nationale.

Police said the two still free are Donald Perreault, 28, and Douglas Perreault, 29. They are not related.

Authorities said they believed the Perreaults were travelling in a 1941 black Cadillac sedan, Quebec licence nufnber 5-2860. The car belongs to one of them.

This was not the car in which the gunmen left the bank. The get-away man, who remained in the bandit car during the holdup, sped off alone when the shooting started. The two who entered the bank commandeered a passing automobile after shooting the policemen and this car they later abandoned before one of them was caught.

Police believe the get-away man and one of those who entered the bank and did the shooting have linked up and are making use of the Perreault Cadillac.

Both men had lengthy criminal records, police disclosed, and both had been arrested for other crimes in recent months. Donald was said to have been arrested in connection with an $18,000 payroll robbery in Mont Rolland, Que., a few months ago, and now is out on bail. Douglas was arrested on theft charges last February and had just completed a short pail term, police said.

Killed as the bandits fled from the bank were constables Paul Emile Duranleau, 34, and Nelson Paquin, 41. Both were attached to the traffic division of the city force.

Records Not Complete

Events happened with such rapidity after the bandits entered the bank that even police records were not complete. Police estimated the gunmen escaped with about $6,000 in cash, but this figure was not confirmed by bank officials.

One eye-witness, Pierre Lefebvre, 17, saw the bandits enter the bank shortly before 3 p.m. closing time.

LOSES APPEAL

Toronto, Sept. 24 — (CP) — Ontario Court of Appeals Thursday dismissed an appeal by William Serheniuk against his conviction at nearby Whitby on a charge of indecent assault. Serheniuk was sentenced last month to two years' imprisonment and three strappings, but the appeal court reduced the sentence to six months and a $200 fine with an additional six months if the fine is not paid.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto Sept. 24 (CP)—Synopsis The hurricane now centred off the coast of North Carolina has accelerated and is speeding northeastward. The increased motion will allow the cloud cover over Central and Southern Ontario to clear tonight. As a result of the clearing, somewhat cooler temperatures will occur tonight in these regions, so that frost will again be a risk in low-lying areas. Clear skies with slightly higher daytime temperatures are expected Saturday in all regions.

Asked to Allow Advertising At End of Newscasts

Halifax Sept. 24 (CP) — The CBC Board of Governors was asked today to allow Canadian Radio stations to include advertising at the end of newscasts.

The request was placed before the board today by T. J. Allard general manager of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, in a 20-minute session. A decision is expected Monday.

Under existing regulations the closing announcement on a radio enwscast is limited to naming the sponsor. No advertising is allowed. Advertising matter may be included at the beginning, however.

Mr. Allard told the board the change in regulations is necessary to allow radio stations —especially smaller ones — to provide first class news coverage.

"There is probably no disagreement with our belief that news is one of the most valuable service any broadcasting station can prove," he said.

In order to maintain the necessary staff and pay for news services the station would need all the aid it could get from advertising.

"It is extremely desirable, and necessary, that stations be able to secure sponsorship of news broadcasts, in order that the best possible service can be consistently provided."

INSURANCE OF X-RAY TECHNICIANS

Toronto, Sept. 24 (CP)—Some insurance companies refuse to insure X-ray technicians and other companies place them in the same bad-risk category as steeple jacks. ALL RED PAPERS BANNED FROM AMERICAN ZONE

Nullifies Agreement Reached at Moscow

Berlin, Sept. 24 (AP)—The Russians threw anti-tireraft fire into the crowded Berlin air corridor today, but didn't hit anything. The Anglo-American air lift to blockaded Berlin kept right on running.

Berlin, Stp.. 24. (AP)—Russian anti-aircraft gunners plan to fire "dangerously high" in practice today in the Anglo-American air lift corridor to blockaded Berlin, the Americans charged in a protest.

The Russians also announced they would conduct bombing and fighter firing practice in the corridor, the Americans said. Asked what precautions they would take to protect traffic, the Russians said that when their own planes appeared, they would stop shooting.

In another development of the battle for Berlin, the United States military government banned all Soviet-sponsored newspapers and other publications from the American zone of Germany. This was in reprisal for Soviet banning of western-licensed publications in the Soviet zone and the Russian sector of Berlin.

The Americans protested to the Russians yesterday against a stunting Soviet Yak fighter plane which flew dangerously close to an American Transport carrying 30 persons from Berlin to Frankfurt.

On the political front, the war over the newspapers nullified a four-power agreement reached at the Moscow Foreign Ministers conference in 1947, for free exchange of information throughout the four occupation zones.

The American action, in effect a counter-embargo, was signed by Maj.-Gen. George P. Hays, Deputy United States military governor.

American officials said Hays acted after he had sent repeated protests to the Russians against the blocking of western-zone publications from the Soviet zone.

Hays' order was understood not to include the United States sector of Berlin.

Protest Stunt Flier

The U. S. embargo was slapped on as American authorities disclosed they have protested to the Russians that a stunting Yak fighter plane flew dangerously close to an American transport in the air corridor between Berlin and Frankfurt.

American officials said the fighter pulled up to between 15 and 25 feet of the transport, which was carrying 30 passengers to Frankfurt. The Yak flew alongside the transport at wingtip formation for several minutes, then pulled far off to do stunting rolls, they said. The officials added the fighter later returned to fly alongside the transport.

Meanwhile, German press reports said, the Russians are reconstructing Brandis airport at Leipzig in the Soviet zone under a rush program in which they are reported to be employing about 1,000 German workmen. The airfield was destroyed by the Soviet Union after the war.

When reconstructed it is expected to serve the amplified air forces which the Russians have been reported moving into Germany during the increasing east-west tension.

Arab Youth Learns to Match Coins The Hard Way, Cost Him $960

Chicago, Sept. 24 — (AP) — An Arab youth learned Thursday how to match coins while changing trains en route to California — and it was a $960 lesson.

Tajirian said he was on his way to the University of California. While waiting in the depot, an elderly man began a conversation with him, suggesting they take a walk until train-time. The man later suggested matching coins to let Tajiria always take "heads" to simplify matters.

Two hundred and fifty dollars later, a young man came along and joined the game. He claimed neither Tajirian nor the elderly man had $250. Te man showed his money and then Tajirian handed his wallet over for inspection. The two men began to argue and the older man told Tajirian to return to the depot until the argument was settled.

Tajirian went back to the depot and that was the last he saw of the wallet and the men.

Domestic Consumers in City Must Reduce Consumption Of Power or Face Cut-Offs

Co-operation by industrial and commercial hydro users has resulted in an encouraging decrease in the amount of power used in the city during the past two days but the daily consumption is still considerably above the daily quota of 104.000 kilowatt hours for this city.

This was announced today by Public Utilities Manager O. H. Scott who warned that unless there was immediate co-operation on the part of domestic users, power interruptions will be the only alternative.

"Industrial and commercial users are apparently doing their part in assisting to reduce the power load as is indicated by the reduction shown during the past two days when voluntary savings by industry and commercial users went into effect. Domestic users, however, have failed to co-operate as our daily load is still considerably above the city quota."

"It looks as though power interruptions are the only thing which will shock domestic users into the realization that there is a power shortage," continued Mr. Scott, "and blackouts undoubtedly will be ordered to bring power usage down to within the daily quota."

Mr. Scott pointed out the same conditions prevail here as prevail in other sections of the province and Hydro Commissioner Saunders has announced that there isn't the power to maintain present loads.

The local utility has received no word from the provincial hydro commission is to when power interruptions will be ordered but the official word to pull switches is expected daily.

15-Minute Blackouts

Toronto (CP) — Any Municipality in the hydro's southern Ontario system which "consistently fails to keep within its daily quota of electrical energy," will have its power cut off hourly for a period not exceeding 15 minutes each hour of the day from daylight to dark.

Announcement of the measure was made today by Robert Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission because of the worsening power situation across the province.

Hydro regional managers will receive orders by Monday to keep a close watch on all commissions and relay the Ontario commission's threat where conditions warrant it.

Israeli Sources Claim Arab Troops Violated The Palestine Truce

Tel Aviv, Sept. 24 (Reuters) — An Israeli military spokesman said tonight that Arab Legion forces attacked and captured Jewish-held heights east of Lydda this morning, but Israeli forces later counter - attacked and recaptured them.

The attacks were on heights near Midya, six miles east of Lydda.

At the same time Arab 25-pounder guns began shelling the Jewish "Burma road" in the Latrun area, the spokesman said. Jewish artillery counter - shelled and halted Arab traffic on the road between Latrun and Ramallah.

Israeli sources said that Arab troops had violated the 10-week-old truce in attacking the Tel Aviv - Jerusalem lifeline — the so - called Burma Road — won by the Jews in the week of fierce fighting "between the truces.".

Arab forces, these sources said, are based on the Latrun area dominating the highway along which the Jews run food convoys to the Holy City.

An Israeli military spokesman today said that a "full investigation is being made into Arab charges that the plane in which two British correspondents were killed Thursday, was shot down by a Jewish fighter.

He declared that Arab planes have been observed almost daily "obviously on reconnaissance" over Galilee during the last week, and that Egyptian planes several times recently have tried to shoot down Israeli aircraft over Israel territory.

A Trans-Jordan spokesman said today that Jewish firing in Jerusalem lasted for eight hours Thursday night. There were no casualties.

Three Policemen Shoot and Kill Gunman in Duel

Detroit, Sept. 24 — (CP) — Three policemen today shot and killed a gunman in a pistol duel in which 10 shots were exchanged.

The dead man is Walter Powell, 30. He was killed after he had fired a bullet at Willie Cummins, 30, while Cummins was standing on Woodward Ave. Cummins was not hit.

Patrolmen Ray Sikora, Robert Condo and Conrad Koski of Woodward station heard the shot. They saw Cummins lying flat on the sidewalk and an automobile speeding away.

The officers overtook the car and ordered it to the curb. Sikora jumped out and ordered the occupant, Powell, to come out with "hands up." Instead, Powell opened his car door and fired twice at Sikora. The bullets went through the open cruiser door.

Sikora, Condo and Koski opened fire in unison and Powell slumped to the street dead, four bullets in his body. Cummins told police Powell had threatened to kill him after a quarrel Tuesday.

UNION JACKS FOR CLASSROOMS

Toronto, Sept. 24 — (CP) — Union Jacks will be supplied to all public school classrooms, the Toronto Board of Education decided Wednesday night. Canadian ensigns were decided against and the board is awaiting samples of pictures of the King and Queen before committing themselves to supplying them.

Probably Russia Getting Ready To Quit U.N.

A possible hint that she may do so was contained in the latest radio blast from Moscow. It accused the United States of seeking to "torpedo the United Nations."

It followed another veiled intimation by Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet deputy foreign minister, at the U. N. General Assembly in Paris, that Russia might pull out of the world organization.

The Moscow radio made the "torpedoing" charge in a French-language broadcast to Europe recorded by government monitors and distributed to officials here.

"The enemies peace and international co-operation insist upon transforming the U. N. into an instrument for their expansionist ideals," it said.

STEAM GENERATORS UNUSED FOR YEARS, IN USE

London, Ont., Sept. 24 — (CP) —Two steam generators unused for years are going back into service in two of London's largest factories, General Steelwares and McCormick's Limited, to help the city meet its quota of 585,000 kilowatt hours daily. The units are expected to handle the plants' own needs.

PLOT UNCOVERED TO ASSASSINATE PERON AND WIFE

U.S. Citizen Alleged Head of Plot Ring

Buenos Aires, Sept. 24 (AP)— The government today said 12 persons, including three priests, were arrested in an alleged plot hatched by an American citizen to assassinate President Juan Peron and his wife, Eva.

A police communique identified John Griffith, former cultural attache of the United States Embassy here, as "head of the movement." Gen. Arturo Bertollo, chief of the federal police, indciated to newspaper men an effort will be made to extradite Griffith from Uruguay, where he has been living since he was expelled from Argentina, April 29.

In Montevideo, the newspaper El Pais quotes Griffith in an interview as saying the government charge is a "fantastic joke."

Named as Leader

The police statement named Cyrpriano Reyes, a labor leader and former congressman who broke wiht Peron after the 1946 presidential election, as the Buenos Aires leader of the plot It said the group planned to kill Peron and his wife when they left the Colon theatre, Buenos Aires' famous opera house, Oct. 12.

The announcement came shortly after 15 brigades of police combed the capital picking up suspects. Two women, two physicians and three Argentine navy chaplains were among those arrested, the announcement said. All were taken to penitentiary.

Griffith was expelled from Argenitna in April with several other foreigners whom the government charged with helping to foment a bank strike.

Those arrested. the statement said, held meetings during the last two months in the building of the civil aeronautics board to make their plans.

Records of the meetings have been seized, the announcement said.

The arrested persons now are being held in Buenos Aires' central jail. Police said there probably will be more arrests.

First Snowfall Halts Field Work In Foothills

Calgary, Sept. 24 (CP)— Albetra's first autumn snowfall Thursday brought field operation to a halt in the foothills district and in other parts of northern and southern Alberta. Centre of the storm was around Penhold and Rocky Mountain House, about half way between Edmonton and Calgary.

Protest Against New Taxes, Boost In Cost of Living

Parisians Walk When All Transportation Workers Quit

Paris Sept. 24 (CP) — Between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 French trade unionists stopped work promptly at 4 p.m. today in response to the two-hour general strike of the three big trade union federations.

Observers said it would be the most widespread and thorough strike France has ever known.

It was called in protest against new taxes imposed by Premier Henri Queuille's government and against the sharp increase in the cost of living in the large cities of France.

Called originally by the non-communist force Ouvriere and the Christian Unions, with 2,500,000 members, it was joined by the Communist led Confederation Generale du Travail which has about 3,000,000 members.

The strike was maintained despite Thursday night's announcement by Queuille's government of a general wage increase of 15 per cent.

For Two Hours Only

While the strike was called for two hours only, Paris was experiencing a 24-hour strike of public transport.

No underground railway trains ran today. Public bus lines were also halted, though suburban railway lines were running as usual up to 4 p.m.

The transport strike meant that 5,000,000 persons had to use bicycles, taxis, private cars or hastily-improvised services of trucks to get to and from work.

The two-hour general strike sharpened the effect of the transport strike by suddenly bringing thousands of factory hands, office workers and shop assistants on the streets all at the same hour, instead of at the usual staggered hours of stoppage between four and six o'clock.

By mid-morning the transport strike was 100-per-cent effective. Among those who found themselves afoot were 5,000 visitors to Paris attached to the United Nations General Assembly. Official U.N. vehicles were unable to carry them all.

The France-wide general strike was set to begin at 3 p.m. Communists and non - Communists union chiefs called the walkout as a warning to Premier Henri ueuille's government that they want higher wages and lower living costs.

Despite the dramatic aspect of the labor protest, the French cabinet began the day with a new and at least temporary lease on life.

BAG FROM PLANE MAY CONTAIN $500,000 LOAD

Contents of Sealed Parcel Known Only to U. S. Air Force Officials

Edmonton, Sept. 24. (CP)— A sealed mail bag— removed from the wreck of a plane in Northern British Columbia several days ago by a United States hunter and an Indian guide and turned over to U.S. Air Force officials—still gave rise to speculation today.

The officers who took over the bag—still sealed—are the only ones who know that it contained. It may have been mail. Or it may have been a portion of half a million dollars in gold and currency.

The huntnig party that stumbled on the five-year-old wreck of the American Air Force C-47 transporqt which went down with 11men aboard Feb. 5, 1943, were certain there was treasure aboard. Air Force headquarters in Washington said they knew of no such shipment aboard the plane.

In Edmonton, Lt.-Col. F. T. Brady, liaison officer for the United States military transport service, awaited a report from the party of officers investigating the crash. U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were also reported to be on the scene, a rugged stretch of bushland about 450 miles northwest of Edmonton.

Stories Start Spreading

Meanwhile stories spread about the supposed contents of the mysterious mail bag. The two men who found the plane, C. L. Fallart of Portland, Ore., and George Bahane, an Indian guide, were still in the Lake Tuchodi area, guiding officials in the wreck area.

But other members of their hunting party, who had talked with Fallart and Bahane after the wreck was discovered, had returned from the north with conflicting stories of the significance of the sealed bag.

Harry J. Smith of Portland, telephoned his wife Thursday that "they're still digging out the gold". He said he was "quite sure" the plane carried approximately $1,000,000 in bullion and cash.

But Hal Ellington of North Bend, Ore., who piloted the party's private plane, admitted that none of the party had seen any treasure. He said Fallart and Bahane had refused to discuss what they had seen at the wreck and that none of the others had been at the scene.

Moscow Yarn of Russ Wives' Divorces "Cooked-up" Says Canadian Husband

Moscow, Sept. 24. (CP) — Izvestia said today that eight more Russian wives—one married to a Canadian, the others to Britons and Americans—have sent letters saying they do not want to leave Russia.

A regular divorce announcement also appeared in the government paper concerning Mrs. Eleanora Power, wife of George Power, now Canadian Vice-Consul in Detroit.

Power formerly a Canadian Embassy official in Moscow, said in Detroit that the former ballerina Eleanor Kuznetsova divorced him some time ago and that she already has remarried. He termed as a "wonderfully cooked-up story" the letter appearing in Izvestia which said that Mrs. Power, along with seven other Russian women who married Americans or Britons, had protested against the "slanderous anti-Soviet campaign in the Anglo-American press about the Soviet wives' question".

Power said his wife divorced him after she was refused a visa to leave Moscow .The visa was refused "for any one of a hundred reasons." They were married in 1945.

"In their letters," Izvestia said, the wives have informed us that "they, at a previous date, have submitted declarations of their intentions not to leave the Soviet Union and have instigated suits for divorce against their husbands."

Last Friday a Russian woman Maria Aish, said in a letter to Izvestia she did not want to rejoin her husband in Scotland.

Alfred Hall, who has been leading a fight for British government action to get Russian wives of Britons out of Russia, said the letter was "obviously phoney".

He said Charles Aish, the woman's husband, received two affectionate letters from Maria this year saying she would "never give up her marriage".

Foreign Secretary Bevin said today Britain will support a Chilean motion at the United Nations Assembly for release of Russian wives of foreign husbands.

Bevin, now in Paris, made the statement to Hall, whose organization started agitation months ago for the release of the wives.

Of the eight Russian women, four are married to Americans and three to Britons.

S. Africa Charges Great Powers Broke Faith

Paris, Sept. 24 — (CP) — South Africa charged today the great powers broke faith with the smaller countries and threatened to reconsider her membership in the U.N. if there is not a change.

R. E. Leslie, South African Minister of Economic Affairs, told the Economic and Financial Body of the organization of the United Nations continues on the road it followed during the last two years, "and the question will later have to be faced whether consideration for our own national interests is compatible with continued membership in the organization."

He charged the General Assembly is being used for "dialectical propaganda and for poisoning relations between European and non-European races of the world."

He asserted that small powers which accepted the U. N. charter in San Francisco had shown an "act of faith" in the five great powers.

"Failure to carry out these obligations in the spirit in which they were conferred and accepted," he said, "would amount to a breach of faith — the breach of faith which the smaller nations showed in the great powers in agreeing to accept the charter."

The allegiance which the small powers had expressed when they accepted the veto privilege of the Security Council has weakened, South Africa herself has flouted two U. N. resolutions in failing to compose her differences with India over the treatment of Indian nationals in the Union and her refusal to comply with a U. N. request to turn over the contested Southwest Africa to U. N. trusteeship.

Louw referred indirectly to these differences when he expressed "serious misgivings" over "attempts which have, and are still being made with the main councils of the organization and in the Assembly, to intervene in the domestic affairs of member states . . ."

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 24 (CP) — Prices were irregularly mixed in dull trading today on the Toronto stock exchange. Industrials showed a slightly firmer tone and a few golds were higher. Base metals and western oils were quiet and steady.

Most golds strengthened in industrials but gains remained in narrow limits as trading extended. Canadian Vickers pfd, touching a high for the third successive day, was up 3 1-2 at 102 1-2. Westeel also reached a high for the year at 34 3-4 up 3-4.

Foods, papers, liquors and steels were also better galores.

Junior golds showed a little brightness on dollar ranging up to 10 cents. San Antonio, Preston, Pickle Crow Macassa, Kirkland Lake, Bordulac and Giant Yellowknife were among gainers. Hollinger fell 10 cents in the seniors.

Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, Gulf Lead, Osisko, Waite Amulet, Steep Rock and Sherritt were among losers in a dull base metals list.

Grain by Millions Of Bushels Flowing To the Lakehead

Fort William, Sept. 24. (CP) —From Western Canada's rich Prairies, grain by the millions of bushels is flowing to the lakehead and spilling into waiting elevators.

More than 40,000,000 bushels of wheat, oats and barley already have poured into the storage bins, and the peak of the movement will not be reached until next month.

Railway officials here report that so far this fall shipments from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta exceed those of the corresponding period of 1947.

Since the beginning of September, the railways have carried approximately 42,000,000 bushels of grain to the lakehead's 26 terminal elevators—21,000 by freight car loads. At the corresponding period of 1947, shipments aggregated 19,819 acrboats.

Crops from the three western provinces mingled in shipments to lakehead elevators. But so far Manitoba has sent the largest quantity.

Exceptionally fine weather in Manitoba during the last month added to the harvest there. Dominion Bureau of Statistics said in its last crop report:

The central regions of Saskatchewan and Alberta crops "spotty".

An elevator attendant said grain was arriving rapidly. But its grading was high in moisture, slower; lake vessels had been busy transporting iron ore, pulp and other cargoes.

Elevators at the lakehead have a total storage capacity of 200,000 000 bushels. Only a comparatively small quantity is held in the bins during the Winter.

Most Canadians will gain an extra hour this weekend as clocks go back an hour with the end of daylight time across the country.

The Canadian Press survey shows that clock hands will move back Saturday midnight or early Sunday morning in most centres. In Belleville no change will be made Sunday morning.

Noticeable exception is Alberta where daylight saving time was banned for the whole province. Albertans will continue to get up at the same time they have all summer.

So will residents of Renfrew, but there it was decided to continue daylight saving time until Feb. 26, to conserve electric power. Continuation of "fast" time is also expected in Fredericton where Hon. Ray T. Forbes predicted little opposition when council discusses the question tonight.

Commonwealth Must Give U.K. Aid in Crisis

Shavinigan Falls Que., Sept. 24 (CP)—An Australian diplomat said today it was the duty of all Commonwealth countries "to give maximum assistance to the United Kingdom during the present financial and industrial crisis".

Rt. Hon. Francis M. Forde, Australian High Commissioner to Canada, said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Canadian Club.

"It is perhaps not generally realized that Britain's dramatic most single-handed struggle against German ... caused her to lose more than $30,000,000,000 in financing the early stages of the war.

"We believe therefore, that it is the duty of Australia and the other countries of the Commonwealth to give maximum assistance ...

He said that for the year ending June 30, Australia exported to Britain 178,000 tons of frozen meat, 125,000 pounds of butter, 51,000,000 pounds of cheese and 106,000,000 pounds of milk and cream.

Besides this Australia in 1947 has paid Britain $81,000,000 to-wards the cost of the war expenditure in the Pacific, while a recent provision in the Australian budget will give the U.K. a further free gift of $32,000,000.

As to Australia's defence with Canada, Mr. Forde said: "Canada, in its proximity to nationhood, has usually been one step ahead of Australia. We have always taken a deep interest in Canada and her older brother who has been out longer in the world.

"In the economic field, it is perhaps not well enough known that Australia is Canada's best customer after the United Kingdom and the United States," said Mr. Forde.

PROTEST AGAINST

Queville quelled a political revolt in the National Assembly Thursday by pushing through a postponement of local elections from October until next March. The assembly voted 302 to 276 to postpone the elections.

That opposed Communists in the council of the Republican-Socialist coalition. All are the sons of veterans and preference was given to youths whose fathers were killed or incapacitated during the war.

Navy: John D. Crickmore, Clarkson, Ont., at R.M.C.

R.C.A.F.: Benjamin Bowen, Trenton, at Royal Roads.

New Legal Plea May be Made For Condemned Dog

Preston, Suffolk, England, Sept 24 (CP)—A new legal plea may be made for Bruce, the condemned black-and-brindle dog, by the wife of his owner, Rev. Henry Mayne-Young.

For chicken-killing and trouser-chewing, a magistrate ordered the 18-month-old Alsatian destroyed. Ian was to have been killed Wednesday but his master said he could not carry out the sentence.

Mrs. Mayne-Young said a lawyer was investigating what may prove to be a special clause in Bruce's upkeep for the rest of his life and a titled woman offered him a home on her country estate.

186,000,000 Bus. Grain Harvest In Ontario

Toronto, Sept. 24 (CP)—Total yield of Ontario grains for 1948 will approximate 186,000,000 bushels, the Ontario Agriculture Department estimated Thursday. This would compare with 106,000,000 bushels for 1947 and a five-year annual average of 165,000,000 bushels.

The department said recent unfavorable weather would set back growth of fruit and the development of late crops, as well as parching pastures.

Toronto, Sept. 24 — (CP) — Michael Korobka Thursday won his appeal against a conviction at Sault Ste. Marie, last June 4, on a charge of carnal knowledge. At that time he was sentenced to a year's imprisonment plus $250 fine or an additional six months. Court of Appeal quashed the conviction.

Truman Turns East in Campaign For Election

—Washington Sept. 24 (AP) — President Truman turned eastward from California today with a challenge to Governor Dewey to "stick to the facts" and show no "running away from the record on the 80th Congress."

Thus far, Truman said, he has had nothing but "double talk" and "big sounding words" from his Republican opponent for the presidency in the November 2 race.

Dewey prepared to turn loose a counter-punch tonight in an all-out attack on the administration's handling of the Communist-in-government issue.

Truman leased his challenge Thursday night at Los Angeles, where he spoke in partly filled Gilmore Stadium. At the same time he made a direct bid for support from Liberal voters leaning toward Henry A. Wallace's Progressive Party.

Don't waste votes, he said, on a third party which he declared is powerless to obtain peace in the world and improve conditions in the United States itself.

"Think again," Truman said. "This is the hour for the liberal forces of America to unite. We have begun to fulfill and goals to attain. Together we can oust the forces of reaction once again."

Wallace attacked the Truman administration in which he once served, as he opened his final vote drive in Toledo, Ohio.

The former cabinet minister accused the officials of the United States of "defrauding" the government of $2,000,000,000 in hauling freight charges. He said the administration is hiding this from the public by postponing hearings on the matter.

Dewey, meanwhile, in Pittsburgh, Pa. Arts reply Thursday night that the United States must go on producing the atomic weapons until world peace is secure.

But he said that eventually "we may be determined that this great new force" shall be turned into the instrument of peace on not war."

RADIOGRAPHERS' SHOW

Toronto, Sept. 24 — (CP) — An unusual photography contest is under way in a downtown Toronto hotel where the Ontario Society of Radiographers is holding its 12th annual convention. A picture of an intoxicated man drawn murmurs of "beautiful," pictures of broken shoulders, cracked ribs and tuberculosis bring gasps of "ooh," and "ah."

Prime Minister Feels Miserable With Heavy Cold

Paris, Sept. 24 — (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King, here to head the Canadian delegation to the United Nations General Assembly, has a slight cold in the chest and a "rather miserable," it was learned today.

Aides said the prime minister's indisposition was no cause for concern. He chose to occasionally suffers from colds but recovers quickly.

The Canadian leader kept on working on his speech which he will likely deliver to the General Assembly next Monday. However, one engagement, an informal meeting with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, has been cancelled temporarily at least.

Tonight he is expected to attend a dinner at the Palais D'Elysees given for the third's of the United States by President Auriol of France.

Studying Fire Losses

With the coming of autumn, that season when fires have to be lighted to maintain warmth in homes, shops and factories, it is timely to draw attention to the need for preparation by getting the heating equipment in order, furnaces, and stoves, so that no chance may be given for an outbreak of fire. Canada's fire loss is a heavy one, destroying great amounts of wealth in buildings and all too sadly claiming the lives of a great number of persons, men, women and so many children. The monetary loss is great and that of life is tragic in the extreme. To prepare for the coming months when heat is required is a protection against many forms of fire. Figures of losses are themselves eloquent sermons of the importance of taking every care necessary to safeguard life and property.

A little later, in fact on October 3rd, will begin Fire Prevention Week, which every municipality is asked to observe. The first touches of autumn are now being felt and it is not amiss to cite figures from the annual report of the Dominion Fire Commissioner for 1947, which tells a story, all too familiar of economic and financial losses and deaths.

52,931 fires occurred last year in Canada in which the loss was $57,050,461. While the number of fires was less than in 1946 the loss increased 15.5 per cent. There is also the loss in properties of the Department of National Defence and other Crown properties, this amounting to $1,- 645,461, somewhat less than in 1946.

Tragically enough the figures for deaths by fire remained high, 390 in 1947 compared with 408 in 1946. 149 were children, 149 men and 92 women. Where lives were lost is indicated in the following classification: apartments, hotels, tenements, 15 deaths; barns and stables, 3; boats and ships, except tank ships, 6; rural dwellings, 121; urban dwellings, 130; trailers, 2; forest and bush fires, 1; garages and filling stations, 3; hospitals and institutions, 6; manufacturing occupancies, 7; mercantile occupancies, 3; motor vehicles, except tank trucks, 13; tank trucks, 2; out of doors fires, 6; railroad rolling stock, 36; restaurants, 2; schools and colleges, 7; other known buildings, 7.

The report shows asphyxiation claimed 14 lives. Six John Thatch and Acting Chief Arthur Harman are working on the case. Chief Kidd is on vacation. It is thought that the job was the work of amateurs otherwise a general clean-up would have been made.

Flammable liquids and vapors took 17 lives, 12 being caused by the use of gasoline and similar liquids to kindle fires. Railroad rolling stock fires took 35 lives.

No fewer than 51 persons of whom 25 were children, were fatally trapped in buildings.

Smokers' carelessness was found in 18,202 fires and responsible for property loss of $5,244,747. Next heaviest loss was in electrical wiring and appliances.

Stoves, furnaces, boilers and smoke pipes were blamed in 5,086 cases of fire. Defective and overheated chimneys and flues caused 2,780 and matches 2,626.

Fire strikes where events conspire to cause a blaze and damage into the most impressive total range imaginable, loss in communities ranging from as low as one per cent per capita in Tisdale, Sask., to $419.25 per capita in Port Alberni, B.C.

Not the Easy Way

Count Folke Bernadotte will be numbered among the world's heroic figures who had a philosophy of life which should impress everyone. "I have a feeling deep inside me that it is uncourageous to attempt only the easy jobs," he recently said.

So many people make the error of trying to reach the goal by the way of ease, failing to realize that the harder goal by way of struggle and sacrifice. Few people will be called to tread the path of danger and death as the UN mediator did, but all can develop the best that is in them by attempting the difficult duty which tries their mettle.

"Some of my friends told me I was a fool to attempt to solve it," (the Palestine question). Those words of his show that he realized he was not avoiding the hard job and that his undertaking had an element of danger in it.

He has finished his task, whatever the United Nations Assembly does with his report.

As a vessel is known by the sound, whether it be cracked or not, so men are proved by their speeches whether they be wise or foolish.—Demosthenes.

PROFITS OR DREAMS

Fish are important to men of the trade,
By the size of their catches their profits are made.
But fishin' for profit is one thing, it seems,
And another, as I do, is fishing for dreams.

My wages go on, be my luck good or ill,
Let the tide bite or not, I shall still eat my fill.
So little this matters to fellows like me,
Was fishing as good as we hoped it would be.

There are miracles many with me to behold,
Not half of the secrets of nature are told.
And the greatest of lakes and the smallest of streams
Can furnish a fellow with food for his dreams.

The men of the market need fish for their pans,
For each one must live on the profit he gets.
But many like me have a source of delight
That spreads out on days when we don't get a bite.

Mackenzie's Column:

Call on Moscow For a Showdown May Clarify Issue

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The shirt-sleeve diplomacy employed by Mr. Byrnes, the United States and France in calling on Molotov for showdown in the Berlin controversy is calculated to serve several purposes:

1. To make it plain that appeasement is not the window.

2. To serve notice that the three democracies won't be bulled into abandoning their position.

3. To put the Russians on the spot before world opinion as making even in the cause of peace and rehabilitation if they fail to co-operate.

If these purposes are truly served, the thing in itself will be a notable achievement by the western powers. However, we should not kid ourselves that we necessarily bring us any nearer a settlement of the issues with the communists. In fact it will be mighty surprising if it does.

We may be wrong, but I believe that even though the Reds may make some concessions here and there as to the Berlin situation they won't abandon their world revolution for the present. Communism until it either succeeds or blows up in their faces. Perhaps some of us who believe it will blow up — but that remains to be demonstrated.

Democracies Insist

The democracies are insisting on a clean-cut "yes" or "no" answer to the question of the all Berlin settlement is possible along lines indicated in the talks at the recent Moscow and Berlin conferences.

Any settlement would involve a lifting of the brutal Russian food and fuel blockade of the German capital. The trio on their part are willing to lift the counter-blockade accepting the Soviet mark as sole currency for Berlin, providing the currency be under four-power authority.

This is not an ultimatum to Moscow, and no time limit is set for an answer. However, Secretary Bevin has said that the three powers will "take whatever agreement" on a policy of "defending themselves in Berlin" and are agreed that if the Soviet still fails to give the blockaded capital the supplies needed.

Tighten Defences.

...Meantime Britain and the United States are openly tightening up their defences against contingencies. The United States has been putting its Berlin air lift over on a considerable period. Britain now is moving swiftly and within the next few days will have a huge mobilization, launched an intensive recruiting campaign and begun a revival of her wartime civilian defence system.

Don't get any mistaken ideas from these developments. Britain and America want peace and are not invitations to war. Warnings, yes, but not invitations.

BOWL STARTS FIRE

Alleges Yak Plane Shot Down Arab Airliner

London, Sept. 24 — (Reuters)— A Syrian Government spokesman alleged today that a fighter aircraft which Thursday shot down an airliner was flown by Russian pilots. The airliner was a "Yak" plane, a type normally used by the Soviet air force.

The spokesman said that this was confirmed by Foreign Office dispatches from Amman, the Trans-Jordan capital.

The Yak was believed to be under direct Soviet control, he added. Provisional reports showed that the airliner was on a scheduled flight from Beirut to Amman and crashed about 10 miles inside the Trans-Jordan frontier.

British correspondents tried after jumping from the burning plane and two other survivors of the pilot were injured.

The spokesman said that interference by the Yak fighter was understood to have been over the Syrian side of the Lake of Galilee.

Hydro Electric Plant Opposed

Washington, Sept. 24 (CP) — The National St. Lawrence project conference Thursday protested an application by the New York power authority to build a hydro-electric plant in the St. Lawrence River in co-operation with Ontario Hydro.

The project conference, an organization of nearly 100 United States and United States Chambers of Commerce and similar bodies, said the application was any part of the seaway development.

The conference filed an intervention with the federal power commission opposing an application for a licence for development of power by the New York power authority and Ontario Hydro.

Carroll B. Huntress, chairman of the conference, said in a statement:

"The application is an attempt to get authority to construct part of the long-debated St. Lawrence project through the federal agency which lacks authority to issue the licence because it is solely awarding congressional control of the matter."

The United States and Canadian governments agreed on a joint project for power development by the International Rapids of the St. Lawrence soon after the United States Congress rejected last spring a Canada-United States agreement for the development of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario Thursday signed a compact establishing a joint commission to "draw" the poison from arrow poisoning. The compact, now, boys let's try and keep this cranberry business on a sober foundation. If we let such cracks pass un-

In Eskimo Doctor (W. W. These are precisely the things which the Eskimo regards as the greater delicacies and which he always eats raw. So you people who like cranberries are not much queerer than you probably think I am.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

No Feeling

When you mentioned places with such names as Hornbeck and Hornbeck and Horsheads I laughed to myself, as I never thought that I would meet anybody over some books recently I found in an old trunk in the attached pool card. (E. L.)

Answer—Thank you, sir. The name of L. L. sends was written in 1836 from a Penn Yan, merchant (Hollister & Co.) that is a Canadiagua fence firm. Old Penn Yanks will recall that it is w store—remember—diagonally opposite Brady's store to the Penn Corners Fum.y thing, but when I was in Penn Yan this summer I didn't know whether there is still a hardware store on the corner there. Sterile Mail

If you receive mail from a person who has tuberculosis is there danger of contracting the disease by handling the mail? (E. M.)

Answer—Why doesn't somebody warn me about those things? Here I have received mail from persons who have tuberculosis, syphilis, cancer, and I don't know what all, for years, and I have never given it a thought. No, there is no such danger — provided the letter, paper, magazine, etc., is not enclosed in a parcel or other object is not visibly soiled.

Correction

Quite a serious error in your statement that rattlesnake, copperhead and cottonmouth are the only venomous snakes (pit vipers) commonly found in North America. One needs to add to that one of the four venomous snakes of the coral snakes. (H. L. P.)

Answer—Thank you. You are right. I omitted the coral snake. Apologies unconscious. First aid management of snakebite is found in the Family Health Cupboard—for copy send twenty-five cents in self stamped self addressed envelope.

Analysis of Yesterday and Today Supports View War Not Imminent

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Sept. 24 (CP) — Just as in 1938 and 1939 when the word "Czechoslovakia" and "Danzig" haunted the minds of peace-lovers, the word "Berlin" now arouses a disturbing fear in war.

But from a number of sources there is to be found some basis that Russia—the one country that is not engaged in preparations for war and war itself—is not looking for a change in the status quo actual rather than force another world conflict.

The United Nations World, a monthly magazine now published in America by a group of students of the world body and analyzer and report international affairs, has to say about Berlin:

Trained Observers Confused

"If the people in the average man, the trained observer is confused and disturbed. For it has become the focal point for stage-managed crises as well as a symbol of friction among the great powers."

A specialist correspondent on leave home after years in Moscow reported that Russia is preparing for peace and convinced him that there will be no war for at least five years, barring an out peaceful commodities. There are few military uniforms or activities visible and the minds of the people are set on peace.

"Western military experts fail to see signs of any immediate war. The whole Soviet zone of Germany and neighboring Poland are honeycombed with spies most of them reporting directly to Marshal Sokolovsky's headquarters.

"These spies report that political warfare, not military maneuvers continues to predominate in Marshal Sokolovsky's (Russian military governor in Germany) Karlshorst, near Berlin; that roundabout preparations for the Marshall Sokolovsky's advance headquarters in Liegnitz, 80 miles east of Berlin, that no large-scale troop movements are evident; that no concentrations of troops are observed.

"Current Soviet manoeuvres in the Baltic region, though the cause of alarm in Denmark, are considered by western observers before the outbreak of the Berlin crisis."

Not United Front

Finally, the United Nations World survey comments on the apparent lack of harmony of reports and Yugoslavia's Premier-Marshal Tito and rumors of nationalistic tendencies in other satellite states. It says:

"On the basis of the known views of Europe's most important Communist leaders, it is safe to say that the United Front of eastern Europe, once a major goal of Soviet policy, no longer exists in a firm, unyielding form. Communist leaders, beset by practical problems of the utmost possible nationalistic instinct of their people, have told Moscow that they would be most reluctant to follow any one to war.

STRENGTH for The Day

By Dr. Earl L. Douglass

WE NEED CERTAINTY.

There are a few things which produce greater inconvenience than the necessity of being without a watch. When the strap of the wrist watch is broken, or the crystal broken on the open-face and one has to go for several days without a timepiece on his person, he finds himself subjected to an unbelievable handicap. The worst of it is that the mariner should leave port without a compass.

To tell us just where we stand with reference to time and direction, we need precision instruments. We are not sufficiently neglected if we look past the sun and still guess the time of day. Neither is the mariner fortunate in the position if he has nothing to guide him but the appearance of the water a few feet ahead of his bow.

All of which, when transferred over into the realm of everyday living, and especially into the realm of religious belief, means that a man must have some definite philosophy of life and a pretty deep conviction about spiritual things if he is going to get through life with a good degree of satisfaction. We live in an age which scoffs at dogma. But what, pray? If he asked, is the man with dogma? There is plenty of dogma in science, in business, in matters of social etiquette. Why not cast conviction and every whelming compulsions in things religious?

By GORDON TAIT

For 50 years he has been the most colorful figure in Australian politics. Up and down the country he is known as Billy.

Hughes has lost little of the vigor that made him a world figure as Australian Prime Minister in the First World War, and Australia's champion at the Versailles Peace Conference.

A little over five feet tall, he walks with a slight stoop. He is stone deaf without a hearing aid. For many years, the House of Representatives in Canberra has been wired so he can hear debates.

Billy came to Australia when he was 20, Welsh migrant from Llandudno, willing to do any odd job.

Worked at Everything.

He worked at everything from the stage to the shearing shed. In 1894 he won a Labor seat in the New South Wales Parliament. He has been in Parliament ever since. Between times, he studied and became a barrister and was appointed King's Counsel.

Hughes now is a member of the Liberal party. He broke with Labor in 1916 over the conscription issue.

Now Billy is looking to the day when he will set an empire record for the longest continuous term in parliament. Hughes is in his 55th year in parliament.

"David Lloyd George served a few months longer than I have," he said in an interview. "But I'll overtake him before the next election."

The prospect of another election campaign doesn't frighten Billy.

"I have always contrived" to hold my own, and put my enemies to confusion," he said. "I feel quite able to continue adding those lines."

Thinks War Unlikely He Says

Hughes believes that a third world war is unlikely. He says that if Britain and the United States stand firm in Germany, war will be averted.

"As I see it," he says, "the safeguard of the world depends on the unity of action, and in the main of policy, of America and the British Empire. There is only one foe. That is communism. Other troubles of the world are just bubbles on the surface."

Richard Rivers' Account of Events To be Given Court

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 24. (CP) — Richard Rivers' own account of the events of the night of July 23 when he allegedd to have strangled his 21-year-old sister-in-law in a hotel bedroom, was scheduled to be read to a murder trial jury today.

The six-page statement said to have been given to provincial police by Rivers, son of Ojibway Indian after his arrest in the Mi Mi Massaga forest last July 27 was ruled admissible as evidence late Thursday. The Algoma District Assize Court adjourned before its contents were revealed.

Mr. Justice G. A. Gale, presiding, said it was unlikely that the murder trial would be concluded this week. But he rejected a jury request for night sittings with the exception:

"A day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. is all a man can take."

Crown Witness Roland Durant of Welland, said Thursday that Rivers' sister, Mary, walk up the stairs of a hotel in Blind River, 15 miles east of there, the night of July 22 with a small dark woman clad in slacks and a sweater. The next morning the battered body of Rivers' sister-in-law, May, naked except for a sweater rolled up to the neck, was found on the bed in Rivers' hotel room.

Gerald Lapine, who slep directly across the hall from the death room, said he heard a woman weeping in Rivers' room and heard a man shout:

"If you don't shut up, I'll make you shut up."

Mrs. Mary Pine, mother of the murder victim, identified clothing found in the room as that worn by her daughter the night of July 23 when she left the Pine home. Shown a pink sweater, Mrs. Pine stated:

"That's it. Take it away. That's all I want to see of it."

Inspector Leonard Nell of the Ontario Provincial Police said he took Rivers into custody in the rugged bushland along the Mississagi River, six miles west of Blind River and about two miles from Rivers' home. He said the youth's mother, Millie Rivers, had been supplying Rivers with groceries while police hunted him through the timberland.

Winnipeg Shoe Shines Will Cost 25 Cents Monday

Winnipeg, Sept. 24. (CP) — The professional, staccato snap of polishing cloths may lag here Monday, but a dynamic little Ukrainian-Canadian, Michael Senko, hopes it will sound in shoe shine shops without letup.

Come Monday, the price of shoe shines in Winnipeg will jump by 10 cents to 25 cents—and Mike, the big push behind it all, isn't alarmed.

He conducted a whirlwind, 10-day campaign which brought into being the "City of Winnipeg Shoe Shiners".

The group held its first meeting this week. It voted unanimously to increase the price of a shine, now 15 cents.

Senko, slim, 22 years old and tousle-haired, rallied his fellows with the battle cry, "are we going to let a few chiselers in at us and our prices, and call us dogs?"

"No," they said—and the 25-cent shine was born.

"First week the price will cut down on tips somewhat at first. But, said Mike, "they'll get used to it—then tips will be the same as ever.

"Tips come mostly from ordinary workmen and the middle class. Their shoes require the most work and they appreciate a good job. The shoes of the wealthy usually need only a brush over and tips are not so plentiful from them."

No Controversial Polish Treasures In Consignment

Ottawa, Sept. 24 (CP) — None of the controversial Polish "art treasures" was included in a consignment of Polish property shipped to Poland from Halifax Sunday, a government spokesman said today.

He said there has been no change in the status of the national treasures, brought to Canada for safekeeping during the war and sought by Communist-dominated Polish government for the last two years.

The weekend shipment from Halifax, the government informant said, consisted of four chests of Polish "property" which for a time had been kept by the Canadian government but which had been in the possession of the [illegible] since 1946.

The spokesman did not describe the "property," which he said has been in sealed boxes, but he said definitely they were not part of the goods involved in the controversy over possession.

At the Polish legation, first secretary Dr. E. Bielski said today there would be no comment from the legation on the new information, which differed from a Sunday report that two chests of treasures were included in the Poland-bound shipment.

FALL RAINS COULD HEAD OFF MORE ELECTRICITY CUTS

Toronto, Sept. 24. (CP)—Fall rains, if they bestow anything as usual, could keep Ontario power cuts from becoming more severe. But continuation of the present dry spell would mean further curtailment.

Hydro Chairman Robert Saunders gave that information to the Foremen's Club of West Toronto Thursday night. And he told them that individual users were to blame for the electricity shortage.

The people of Ontario were warned last April that they faced the prospect of a second power shortage this Fall and Winter, he said. But apparently they made no effort to prevent it by economizing on power use, so consumption increased steadily until it now is 23 per cent higher than in 1944.

Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto said he would seek to have Toronto stores close all day Wednesdays instead of on usual Saturdays as a power-saving measure. He said Toronto is over its power allotment and hoped to reduce the consumption of electricity by other more than Wednesday.

Hamilton, Kingston, Cornwall and London also went over their quotas Thursday. Windsor, which started cutoffs earlier in the week continued them.

Ontario's 30,000 Girl Guides pledged themselves to enlist the co-operation of families, relatives and friends in a campaign that there is no waste of power in their homes, schools, churches and recreation centres. London's 15,000 school children launched a similar Conservation drive.

Many industrial plants put fin-ishing touches on their co-operation Saturday and Sunday to take advantage of the New York State 3 Power available at night and during the week-end. Some plants operated last Saturday and Sunday on the first week-end work since the war.

Marriage Based On Love Alone Is Doomed

Toronto, Sept. 24 (CP)—Rev. Daniel A. Lord, Roman Catholic educator and editor from St. Louis, Mo., said marriage based on love alone is "doomed."

CURE DECLARED UNSOUND

Victoria, Sept. 24 — (CP) — The "green arthritis cure," on which many arthritic victims pinned hope for relief, Thursday was declared "unsound" in a report of a British Columbia government - appointed committee. Champion Baker Doffs His Hat To Canuck Pies

London (CP) — Charles Lawton, 62-year-old London baker, has his hat off to Canada's pie brand-maker of England and Wales but he insists that only Canadian wives make pastry ability than his own prowess.

After Lawton's loaf was proclaimed best at a baker's exhibition—he also used to be a champion cyclist — he would say little about it. But he was eager to tell of his 48-year old wife's lemon and pumpkin pies which she learned to bake in Tweedstock, Ont., as a girl.

As for bread, he considered the perfect loaf should have a good appearance with crisp crust. It must cut well and the crumb must not break or tear; it must be easy to butter and when a wife runs her finger over it, it must give the same velvety feeling she would get from the feet of a good silk stocking.

The Lawtons have been operating their bakeshop in the Blackfriars area of London since before the war. They kept operating through the blitz and thousands of Canadian and United States service men came to know Mrs. Lawton's pies on invitations to their home. They still correspond with many.

The couple still have a Canadian connection through two daughters, Mrs. R. Yaeger, of Aylmer, Ont., wife of a Canadian airman, and Mrs. Lawton's daughter of Mrs. Lawton's by a former marriage.

Lawton, who won the gold medal for cycling at Shorne Hill in 1906 took time off from his baking during the Olympic Games to act as starter in all the Olympic cycle races.

Stylish, Comfortable Shoes

A comfortable, yet flattering shoe, is this wedge sandal with long vamp and open toe

By HELEN FOLLETT

ONLY a woman who uses her head for the purpose for which it was created will think first about finding comfortable, well-fitting shoes rather than decorative ones. The truth is, of course, that it is possible to get both comfort and style. But foot health should be the first thought. With sure feet the body is thrown out of balance, frowns furrow the area between the eyes, the disposition is likely to curdle.

If the last is right for you, the shoe will be satisfactory whether it be high or low, open or closed—a sandal, moccasin, pump, ghillie, spectator or oxford. See what a wide choice of styles you have these days! You must be sure that the shoe is made of high grade materials, that it has a flexible leather sole that adjusts itself to movements. Poorly made shoes are a poor investment. They lose shape in no time, fail to give proper support to the waist of the foot.

The shell shoe continues to be popular. It is closed all around, offering the freest possible support, but somehow leaving the foot as free as a bird on the wing. The upper part barely rims the foot. The shell is held together strongly and comfortable by a flexible leather sole.

In shoes for Autumn the application of the slender line reflects the fashion in clothes. A trim effect is achieved by tapered toes, less clutter details, longer vamps and seamless construction. All this is feminine, but not frilly. It is a mistake to wear shoes that are too striking, too conspicuous. The woman who does that calls attention to her trotters instead of her face and her figure.

Teen agers are tired of the slouchy shoes that they have been wearing for a number of years. They are considering leather casings that will keep their feet in form. Offerings for youth show plenty of color, imagination, fine lines, good workmanship.

Attractive Autumn Suit

Smart and Wearable

By VERA WINSTON

DOESKIN IN a dull taupe shade is the medium used for this attractive three-piece suit-dress, the sort of outfit that is always ready for duty, always wearable and smart. It has a rolled collar that is the round shoulder yoke, and the seaming of the jacket terminates in a seamed waistband that goes all around the back. The large patch pockets at the hips are buttoned down. The skirt is slim and straight.

Do You Qualify as a Good Neighbor?

"It was the custom with the four of us" said Mrs. X, "to meet every morning at 11 o'clock in Betty's house for coffee. The last time I went over, the girls just kept on chatting about scandal and acted as though I hadn't even come in. I was humiliated. I can't imagine why they should act that way."

This housewife worried a great deal over the strained relationship which had suddenly developed almost overnight with her friends. Then one day she found out the reason.

She had just recently come home from the hospital with a new baby and upon receiving a visit from an acquaintance made the remark, that she had been disappointed that one of her neighbors hadn't offered to look after her little boy while she was away.

This remark was passed on to her three friends, who resented Mrs. X taking for granted their looking after her child. Hence the bad feeling between the four women and the subsequent rudeness experienced by Mrs. X.

This is a small happening which took place between four women who were supposed to be good neighbors. Each one had been as free as a bird to enter the other's house and many pleasant hours had been spent chatting together, but real friendship was not there, because when one of the group, urgently needed help, the help was not given and bad feeling arose.

Many women hate to move out of a certain neighborhood because they have such good neighbors and know how rare a "good neighbor is. To be a good neighbor obligates one more than a little, so it would be wise before entering your new home to ask yourself whether you really want to be her friend. Should this woman take ill and need shelter in your home, are you prepared to give it? Will this woman's children be welcome in your home?

These questions are important as relationships between neighbors affect more people than many imagine. For instance, should these women quarrel, the children must immediately suffer, as they are not allowed to play at Jackie's house for a reason he is told he is too young to understand. The child is miserable.

The husbands of these quarreling neighbors are probably great pals; play bridge together and attend the same lodges. The wife expects her husband to be unfriendly, which is ridiculous. The circle widens and a small issue becomes a large one.

So it would seem that a good neighbor is more than a friend or acquaintance, it is a person intimately acquainted with the trials and troubles and joys of a family; a person who is trusted and counted upon at all times by whom a whispered confidence is a sacred trust.

If you can't take this obligation and do not wish to assume such an office of trust, take your hand down from your friend's knocker and go home.

"Nature Hates Me Club" Has Many Involuntary Members

By R.L.

Are you one of those unfortunates against whom nature seems to have raised a damp and cold handed? The chances are that you are, and this little article will fall on sympathetic ears.

Membership is expanding by "Nature Hates Me Club" must be raised out of several picnics and comes near drowning in a flash flood on a day that the weatherman predicts drought. Or you must be yearning for rain in the middle of the worst drought in a century. Those qualifying for this honor number millions.

Another branch of this universal club is composed of those who are stuck in snow banks on the night of the big party, or get stalled on a back woods highway that is forty or fifty miles from the nearest mechanic. This branch of the club is necessarily open only to motorists but there is an annex for pedestrians comprising that group that is splashed by passing traffic at least three times a month during slushy springs.

Farmers Suffer Also

The cruel blows that the weather deals to farmers all year round makes them honorary members cum laude. Those who have to let the hay remain in the fields three or four days to let it dry out are the party leaders, but those who have to wade that dry out and creeks that just quit run a close second. Sandstorms and grasshopper plagues, though not common around here, give western farmers an edge that is almost insurmountable. (Several radical elements in the local organization have been heard to be hatching for a minor plague of some sort so that they might be on a fighting basis with their unfortunate brethren.)

Nature, of course, is cruel to the fellow who spends half the day washing and polishing the car, only to have a thunderstorm, or starlings, ruin his masterpiece. Those lovely summer garden-parties, so much looked forward to by foster-fathers for successive generations of tomato worms, potato bugs, cucumber beetles and cut worm, are to be "pities in the autumn."

Hunters and anglers are in a class by themselves. The man who generally arises shortly after 9 a. m. takes his better judgement firmly in hand when the open season arrives, and rises shortly after 4 a. m. to get in the worst fog in a century covers the swamp within the ducks are supposed to be as thick as mosquitoes. The fellow who spends several days during October in tearful contemplations for a little snow to treat Aces' is bribed under a blanket that is reluctant to leave in late April.

The fisherman who is convinced that the world's largest fish is about to come to gaff, finds himself holding a cut line when matchmaking Fate places a particularly sharp stone right under his boat. And the number of anglers who have slipped on mossy stones as the best trout in the stream was all but in the net are legion.

Another species of woe-begone victims include those who have been caught at the border trying to smug ... er rather, import forbidden goods.

If you find that your little distresses are listed above, you are a social member of the "Nature Hates Me Club." Remember the buttons this year bear a picture of a bedraggled lonely lumpkin on a field of wet hay, surmounted by a replica of leaky rubber boots and a soggy old felt hat.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Reducing the Bust

One strange act of fate is to give a woman a slender, youthful body and a bust measurement that is beyond all reason. While other girls and women are resorting to "falsies", she wishes that she were numbered among those who lack the anatomical facade. Her lines are out of proportion. She is not at all happy about it.

Bust reducing is not a good looks task that can be accomplished in a hurry. It is being done all the time by those women who, after where figure remodelling goes on under the trained hands of specialists. If home treatment is attempted, one must have the patience of Job, persistance that never flags, great hope and faith. If one is able to delete an inch in six months one is doing well.

Massage, except by a trained operator, is not to be considered. To dissolve fat cells by means of manipulations the flesh must be kneaded or roiled between finger and thumb. These movements are likely to injure the delicate glands of the breast. It won't do to take a chance.

Before starting on this campaign, take a careful measurement with the chest fully expanded. Every few weeks check up. If you nip off even a quarter of an inch you can feel encouraged.

You are going in for exercises in a big way. Don't miss a day.

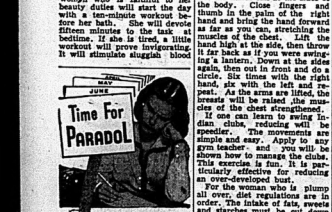
It is important to have a regular time for calisthenics; otherwise you won't do them. The woman who is faithful to her beauty duties will start the day with a ten-minute workout before her bath. She will devote fifteen minutes to the task at bedtime. If she is tired, a little workout will prove invigorating. It will stimulate sluggish blood

Learn to swing Indian clubs and reducing will be speedier

...ms, make sleep more restful.

...ere are directions: stand tall and draw the abdominal muscles in and upward. Lift the chest. Let the hands fall at the sides of the body. Close fingers and thumb. Lift the rim of the right hand and bring the hand forward as far as you can, stretching the muscles of the chest. Lift the hand high at the side, then throw it far back as if you were swinging a tambrin. Down at the sides again, then out in front and do a circle. Six times with the right hand, six with the left and repeat. As the arms are lifted, the breasts will be raised ,the muscles of the chest strengthened.

If one can learn to swing Indian clubs, reducing will be speedier. The movements are simple and easy. Apply to any gym teacher and you will be shown how to manage the clubs. This exercise is fun. It is particularly effective for reducing an over-developed bust.



For the woman who is plump all over, diet regulations are in order. The intake of fats, sweets and starches must be cut down to the limit.

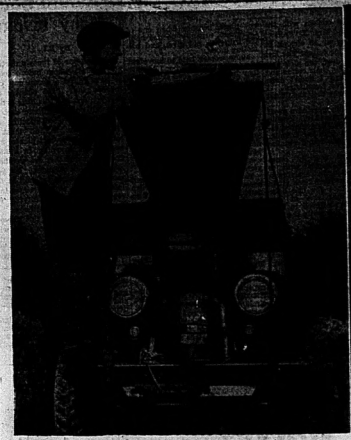
Phosphate Mining Forces Islanders to Abandon Homes

By J. G. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Suva, Fiji (CP) — The mass migrations of Europe and India being matched on a smaller scale by the moving of whole populations from tiny islands in the Pacific.

Man-made forces moved one community — the people of Banaba, Natural forces compelled another to leave Nanumea, or Ellice Island, because their villages were being overwhelmed by repeated, violent eruptions of the island's volcanoes.

The very richness of their home has been responsible for the departure of 1,500 Banabans natives from Ocean Island, just south of the equator. Ocean Island and nearby Nauru Island were some of the world's richest phosphate deposits and their output is of vital importance to the farmers of Australia and New Zealand.



The encroachment of the phosphate workings finally made it necessary to find a new home for the native inhabitants. The huge, fertile island of Nambi, in the Fiji group further to the south, was selected and the Ocean Island natives were established there with 40 picked Fijians to teach them new habits and ways of life.

Clung to Old Ways.

The bewildered Banabans have clung doggedly to their old ways. On Ocean Island they had lived on coconuts, fish and purchases from the general store and knew little about crop cultivation. They had to be taught to grow crops. They continued to build their own style houses although Rambi is in the hurricane zone and the first blow would have reduced their constructions to debris.

The Banabans are still one of the wealthiest communities in the Pacific, as they draw rich royalties from the Ocean Island phosphate workings. They have a further source of revenue in their new home as it included 2,500 acres of cocoanut palms formerly owned by an international industrial firm.

If they can be taught to work the plantations they should continue to prosper but all the post-war migrations in the Pacific have shown that even transfer from one tropical island to another means a great change in ways of life to the local people and the adjustment takes time.

Science Used In Interests Of Fishermen

St. Andrews, N.B. (CP) —The Fisheries Research Board of Canada maintains biological stations at St. Andrews, Winnipeg and Nanaimo, B.C., and in the station here some of Canada's outstanding scientists are working to improve conditions for fishermen in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and Newfoundland.

In a general sense, the station's main function is to ascertain how fisheries resources may be conserved and increased, and to devise more efficient fishing methods. The scientists, for example, keep a close check on the lobster population to aid in the fixing of lobster fishing seasons.

Dates of the seasons vary according to the people in the different districts. Strict regulations prevent the lobster resource from being wiped out. One staff here annually tags 10,000 to 15,000 lobsters and released them in the various commercial areas. The percentage of jagged crustaceans subsequently recaptured by fishermen indicates amount of depletion. Recoveries have ranged up to 80 per cent in a season.

With some fish, including cod, the problem is how more can be caught in a shorter time, so new ways of fishing are being tried. These include long-lining, in which a trawl line carrying thousands of baited hooks is let out and retrieved mechanically.

Another method is Danish seining, with ropes run out in a circular pattern and designed to frighten fish into a seine net as the ropes are drawn together. The station also is experimenting with mid-water trawls, purse seines, and new types of bottom trawls.

The biological researchers cooperate closely with the Atlantic Herring Investigation Committee, supported by New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Quebec, Newfoundland, and the federal government. The committee, trying to learn where and why herring vanish after spawning inshore, have two vessels — really floating laboratories — on the job.

The station is looking for the shrimp, another elusive creature, and is trying to develop an inshore flounder industry. It has from 35 to 40 employees, as well as university students in summer. The Fisheries Board of Canada, under which the three biological stations in the Maritimes function, comprises representatives of Canadian universities, the fishing industry and the department of fisheries, with the department financing its operations. It also has experimental stations at Halifax, Gaspe and Vancouver concerned with the handling and processing of fish.

When oyster disease hit Prince Edward Island's Malpeque Bay, the lobster experts used disease-resistant oysters to breed a hardier strain. A sub-station for oyster work is maintained at Malpeque.

Many D.P.'s from Germany Head for New Life in Venezuela

By MARTIN DIER
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Hamilton, Bermuda (CP) — Thousands of refugees from ravaged Europe are passing through Kindley Field here on their way to start a new life in the New World.

Each hopes that in a new country he can once more become an individual, instead of just a displaced person.

Two airlines carry the immigrants at an average rate of 75 a day to Caracas, Venezuela, from D.P. camps in the United States and Germany.

They stop at Kindley Field for about an hour and rest thankfully. Nearly every woman carries a baby in her arms — a baby that has been a dead weight for most of the 30 hours' travel.

Carefully, they rest their precious bundles on chairs in the lounge of the customs building and try to comfort the small ones, fretting after the long journey.

The men wear strong, heavy shoes and coarse but warm suits; the women have coarse skirts and coats with heavy flats or rayon stockings.

Forced to Fight, Work.

Most of them had searing experiences.

Emil Molnar was a metallurgical engineer in his native Hungary before the war. Then he became a captain in the Hungarian army and had to fight the Russians. In 1945 when the Russians occupied Hungary he fled to Germany and was in D.P. camps until he boarded the plane for Venezuela.

Zuzana Leonards was a Latvian student in 1943 but when he went to Germany to complete his studies he was forced into a labor battalion. In 1944 he was drafted into the German army. He was captured early the right year and was released soon afterwards. He hopes to be an electrican in Venezuela.

Watching the refugees slowly straggling to the plane in brilliant moonlight, the mothers carrying the babies and the fathers shepherding the older children, this reporter was reminded of all the pictures of Europe's homeless struggling along barren highways.

But this time their destination was the huge silver plane which would carry them to a new life.

Finest Quality—

"SALADA"
TEA BAGS

Saucer Shortage Real Calamity In Britain Today

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

That thoroughly English institution, a nice cup of tea," is in danger.

It isn't that the tea is rationed and hard to get, or that thin milk has replaced real cream. A shortage of saucers is the real calamity.

You can drink tea without saucers, all right, but it isn't the same. As the London Evening Standard lamented in an editorial, the "dull savor of the rite, its refreshing quality, is weakened if the scay rattle of the cup and saucer is removed."

Some lucky people manage to get export rejects, but the majority struggle along with the cracked, chipped relics of a peacetime set.

The saucer scarcity stems from a shortage of colored pottery, long restricted to export markets. But there is another reason why saucers are less abundant than, say, cups or plates.

They have no "snob appeal." The pottery workers regard saucer-making as beneath the dignity. Anyway, they'd rather make cups. Nigel Blanchin, 39-year-old scientist and author of "Mine Own Executioner," brought the subject up at a meeting in Brighton.

"We can't buy saucers," he said, "because saucers makers are considered the lowest form of life in potteries."

Saucerless or not, it is hardly likely anyone will go back to the primitive method of consumption reported used by Mlodbothharma, the Indian Ascetic credited with introducing tea to China in A. D. 543.

Pledged to contemplate Buddha's virtues through three sleepless years, Mothithkarma sliced off his eyelids in anger when he fell asleep after three years. Drowsy again after eight years, he plucked some leaves from a nearby bush to revive himself, and thus the tea plant.

And the poor, unsuspecting Englishman has one consolation today. Jam, real strawberry jam, is back. In shops across the sizzling fire and the blazing urn at teatime, families on the home front do with the honey of marmalade to accompany the steaming beverages.

Yanks Open Important Series With Red Sox in Three-Way Fight for American Loop Flag

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

The three-way fight for the American League pennant enters the showdown stage today.

Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians, tied for the lead and the third-place New York Yankees, who came only a game behind the co-leaders, open crucial three-game series.

The Red Sox take on the Yankees in the Yankee Stadium. The Indians grapple with the tough Detroit Tigers in Detroit.

The Yankees flubbed an opportunity to pull into a three-way tie for the top Thursday when they were beaten 4-3 by the last-place White Sox in Chicago.

All of the contenders have eight games to play but the schedule favors the Indians. The Yanks and Red Sox clash five times and thus the possibility exists that they will knock each other off. The Indians meet the Tigers six times and the White Sox twice.

Fratch, who had won only one game against eight losses, prior to the game, outpitched Lefty Ed. Lopat allowing the Yankees only six hits. The White Sox pounced on Lopat for three runs in the fourth inling to map a 1-1 tie.

The Tigers came from behind and beat Philadelphia Athletics, 9-7, when rookie George Vico slammed a two-run ninth inning triple.

Washington turned back the Browns, 5-3, in a night game at St. Louis, clinching the game with a five-run fifth-inning rally. The Indians and Red Sox were idle.

Only two games were played in the National League. The second place Brooklyn Dodgers trounced New York Giants 7-1 and Cincinnati Reds edged the Phils 3-2, in a night game at Philadelphia.

The Braves need to win only one more to eliminate the Dodgers and two to knock out the Cards.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Eddie Lee, former middleweight who fought both of the biggest names in that division several years ago, comes to his own defence against the "ribbing" given him by boxing fans at the Memorial Arena rhyme on Wednesday night following his efforts as third man in the ring.

Eddie explains why he did not "break" the fighters from several clinches, and here's his version of it—

The referee must make certain at the start of a boxing contest that both boxers understand the rules. He must call them up over the belt line, no hitting with open gloves, no back handing, no rabbit-punch on (the back of the neck), no kidney punches, no thumbing (jabbing with the thumb); into the eye, nose, mouth or stomach.

To break clean, to go to a neutral corner in case of a knockdown and to stay there until the referee waves him back to fight or till the opponent is counted out. No butting with head, shoulders or the use of elbowl is permitted. To the ankle or to step on his toes.

No crease of any kind on either of the boxers, (this is hard to detect if it is rubbed well in and the surplus is taken off the skin, when a boxer starts to sweat the grease comes out to the surface of the skin and helps him ward off blows, they they will slide off and lose their sting, the grease also might get in the opponent's eyes and cause injury.)

If any of the above rules are broken by the fighters, the referee can stop the contest.

When the fighters tie in either or so that neither one can hit, it is then a clinch. Where both fighters grab one another with a hand each it is not a clinch so long as one arm is free. One can step away for the first free round. Where one fighter grabs the other and he keeps on punching, this is also not a clinch.

Some fighters like to fight in very close and use short punches whereas the other is a stand-off fighter. It often confuses the spectators and they think they should be broken up, but as long as one is punching, the referee cannot do anything about it.

When a boxer hits an opponent low, it is the duty of the referee to warn the offending fighter. If he repeats the offence after being warned it is the duty o the referee to score the round against him. If he faults an hitting low the referee therefore can take the fight from him.

If a fighter hits another when he is down on his knees the referee can take the round away from the offending boxer and can go as far as to take the fight away from him.

If a fighter gets knocked into the ropes and is tied up there but is still on his feet, his opponent can keep on hitting, but in a spirit of good sportsmanship, the other usually steps back.

If the fighter is tangled up in the ropes like sitting on them with his feet off the floor, it is then a foul to hit him. A referee can take the round or the fight away from a fighter who continues to keep on hooking, slugging, using rabbit-punching kidney punching, thumbing, butting, using his shoulders and kicking after he has been warned by the referee.

If a fighter does not fight but keeps covering up and going down without being hit or going down from a punch which wouldn't floor him the referee can put him out of the ring and call it no contest.

If a fighter gets knocked down and doesn't get up at the count of ten but a split second later the referee can call it a knockout or if he sees fit that the fighter is alright and missed the count he can at his own discretion let it go on (this rarely happens but did last night). If a fighter is cut or a bone is broken or is very groggy, the referee can stop the fight.

All in all a referee has a busy time once he climbs through the ropes, he has to watch both fighters to see that they stay to the rules, keep out of their way and not get hit himself.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 24. (AP)—It looks very much like a world series between Boston Braves, who haven't won a pennant since 1914, and Cleveland Indians, whose only victory came in 1920 . . . it ought to be a hum-dinger for the fans of the two cities.

. . .Looking way back, the 1914 Braves, driven by Manager George Stallings—the direct antithesis of burly Southworth—beat the Athletics in four games because Dick Rudolph and Bill James each got two pieces. The 1920 Indians whipped Brooklyn because Stan Coveleskie was able to pitch three five-hit games in one series. Those are a few reasons that Bob Feller, Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn will have a tough time following.

Big Little Item

As an example of the important of little things, Ed Moss, former Associated Press Sports Editor who died Thursday, used to tell how a single paragraph in a small town paper led to the famous episode of Jim Thorpe's Olympic victories being wiped off the books . . . Moss, then working for the New York Sun, was perusing some out-of-town papers one day when he noted an obscure reference to Thorpe playing professional baseball . . . He checked up and wrote the story and the upshot was that Thorpe was ruled a professional and his Olympic feats were declared null and void.

Long Johnny Gee, who dropped out of organized baseball when the Giants wanted to send him to Jersey City, pitched a 22-inning scoreless tie for the Homer, N.Y., semi-pro club against 39-year-old Duke Erickson of Groton, last Sunday. For nine innings Johnny didn't let a Groton runner past first base.

Williams Retains Boxing Title Flattening Flores

By FRED KERNER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Sept. 24 (CP)—Ike Williams flattened Jesse Flores 5 times Thursday night to retain his world's lightweight boxing championship, for the third successive time this year.

Flores, a Mexican from Stockton, Calif., had the dubious honor 10 rounds despite being rocked to the canvas twice in the fifth round and twice again in the eighth round. The end came at 2:04 of the 10th after a flurry of rock-hard blows that left the challenger semi-conscious for several minutes. Both weighed 134 lbs.

What took the champion so long was Flores' constant change of style and the fact that the California fighter had an amazing ability to come back after absorbing punishment. After being dumped for counts of eight and nine in the eighth round, Flores actually came back to whack the champion around the ring before the bell.

Williams had to do much chasing as the challenger used the bicycle for a better part of the go, slated for 15 rounds.

The Canadian Press scorecard gave Williams six of the first nine rounds, including the even and gave the other to Flores.

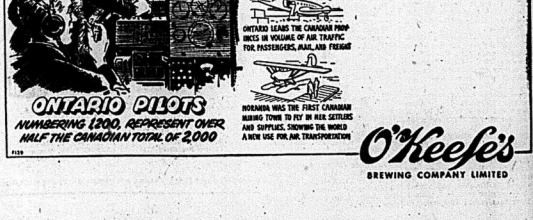
The 20th Century Sporting Club said the attendance was 15,413 with the gate $83,150.

The heavyweight, a 10-round battle between Sugar Ray Robinson, welterweight champion, and Kid Gavilan, welterweight of Cuba, are the Sugar boy score a wide point victory. The non-title fight decision, however, was not popular with the Latin - American fans in the Stadium and the boxing fans followed the announcement held up the main bout for almost five minutes.

The gallery fans, a long way from the ring let in the middle of Yankee Stadium, apparently were fooled by Gavilan's swarming style of attack and could not detect that most of his blows either whistled harmlessly past Robinson's head or were picked off by the champion's gloves.

Robinson weighed 150½, Gavilan 148½.

B.C. All-Stars Defeat St. Kitts Juniors 10 to 4



Vancouver, Sept. 24 — (CP) — British Columbia All-stars Thursday night evened the best - of - five Canadian junior lacrosse series when they defeated St. Catharines 10-4 in a speedy tilt. The third game will be played here Saturday.

It was the first defeat of the season for the eastern team. In 20 games they have scored 19 impressive victories and settled for one tie.

The St. Kitts squad, who showed spectacular speed in the opening contest here Tuesday, failed to click on their usually classy passing plays. They were too closely checked by the Pacific Coast crew which had more power and smoother unit than in the first game.

Bill Sampson, the little goalie who has carried as a spare, replaced Gene Campbell in the nets and was sensational on 13 first half shots.

Jim McNulty, leading scorer of the eastern crew, tricked Sampson for St. Catharines' first goal with only five second remaining in the second quarter. McNulty scored another goal in the third and two more in the final quarter to account for the entire St. Kitts' scoring.

In the north the Canadian pilot is carving new trails to a wealth-packed wonderland. In the south he gives wings to the plans of men. For his ever-increasing services to Ontario—and to Canada—the pilot is a moulder of "Canada Unlimited".

BANDIT KILLERS

He said two alighted from a car, walked leisurely up to the bank door, donned dark glasses and handkerchiefs, and entered the bank with drawn guns. The third bandit remained behind the wheel of the automobile.

Outside the bank, Lefebvre flagged down constables Durrenleau and Paquin who happened to be cruising by in a patrol car.

As the constables alighted from the car, Lefebvre said one of the gunmen inside spotted them and started firing from inside the front door, his companion right behind.

Hit Four Times

Durenleau, hit four t imes, slumped to the sidewalk. Paquin, drawing his service forward, his gun blazing, but fell on the bank steps, wounded in the leg, as he made his route to hospital.

Police said there was a possibility one of the bandits was wounded in the exchange of gunfire.

Meanwhile, the third gunman waiting in the getaway car, sped away just as the firing began.

After shootin gdown the policemen, the other two ran from the bank, and a block away jumped into a parked car, ejecting a man, his wife and child, and drove off.

Police reinforcements arrived and they chased the bandits' car for five blocks, when the gunmen abandoned the automobile and fled on foot.

The two ran into a private home, police said, and one was captured in a laneway as he emerged from the back door. The other made good his escape.

Question Whether Leafs Can Make 'C' Form Stick

Toronto, Sept. 24 — (CP) — Efforts of the Quebec Senior Hockey League to control Ontario Hockey Association senior players from under the noses of officials of Toronto Maple Leafs appear to depend on whether the wanted players signed Leafs' "C" form or whether the Leafs can make the forms stick.

"C" form is an agreement to sign a contract. It contains all the terms of the contract which is to follow. A player is paid $100 for signing the form.

First indication that hockey cruisers were over the border came Wednesday when George Imlach of Quebec Aces showed up in the vicinity of Pittsburgh's training camp at Welland. It was reported that he was bidding for the services of Dean McBride and Ray Hannigan, two of this Aces' rookies.

Imlach offered them $3,500, a job and a house if they'd come. If they would join his Quebecers. Leaf Manager Conn Smythe warned Imlach that he was dealing with players who had signed "C" forms and who must play where the Leafs sent them.

Failed Up Stairs

McBride pulled up stakes for his home in St. Catharines. He said there Thursday night that he told Smythe that if he could not make the Leafs, he did not want to turn pro with Los Angeles — the berth for which the former defenceman apparently had been tickled.

"Punch Imlach has made me an attractive offer and I can do better in Quebec than out West," he said. "I am going to stay here in St. Catharines and like having as if do not want to be suspended."

Hannigan refused to sign for the Quebec offer. He appears certain to make the Pittsburgh Hornets team.

Meanwhile, Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, was quoted as saying in Montreal that if Leafs failed to sign a "C" form, he will play hockey only where the Leafs let him play. He said that if a player-cruiting war is brewing between the O.S.H.L. and the Maple Leafs, he is interested from the angle of seeing that some agreements which may have been made are enforced.

Montreal Royals Defeat Wings In Final Game

(By The Associated Press)

Jimmy Bloodworth, second baseman for Montreal Royals, picked an opportune moment to live up to his reputation as most valuable player in the International League.

The former Major League batted the Royals into the final round of the loop's Shaughnessy playoffs Thursday night. He clouted a three-run ninth-inning homer to give the Royals a 5-0 victory over Rochester Red Wings in the seventh and deciding game of their semi-final series.

Bloodworth who sparked the Royals to the pennant by batting .304, driving in 85 runs and socking 24 homers, was shackled effectively by Rochester pitchers in the playoffs until Thursday night.

In the first six games Bloodworth collected only four hits in 19 trips to the plate and batted in three runs. His homer was his only hit of the game in four trips giving him a puney .172 mark for the series.

The blast broke up a brilliant mound duel between Don Newcombe and Rochester's Johnny Mikan. Both pitchers allowed four hits apiece.

The Royals now take on Syracuse Chiefs in the league championship and the right to meet the American Association's playoff winner in the Little World Series.

First two games of the final round are scheduled in Montreal, Saturday night and Sunday. The series then shifts to Syracuse for the next three games.

Staffords Beat Peterborough In Second Game

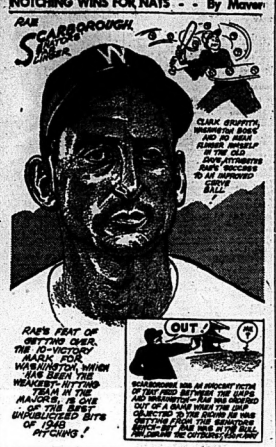
Toronto, Sept. 24 — (CP) — Toronto Staffords defeated Peterborough Petes 2-1 Thursday night in the second game of the Ontario Baseball Association Senior A best-of-five semi-finals.

Toronto won the opener at Peterborough and another win in the third game today at Peterborough would put Staffords into the Provincial Senior A finals against either London or Niagara Falls.

The losers outhit Staffords 8 to 6 and almost won the contest in the final inning.

Petes scored first in the second inning on two singles and a walk. They threatened again in the third and ninth.

Ogdensburg Loses Protested Game



Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 24 — (AP) — Ogdensburg Maples have won their protest against Watertown Athletics in their best-of-seven series, but still they haven't won the Border League Baseball League playoffs.

The decision, who dropped an 8-2 decision to the Maples at Watertown Thursday night, here another chance as a result of ruling by directors of minor leagues cancelling Ogdensburg's second victory.

The league announced that a protest by James F. Doyle, Watertown club owner, that the pitcher's slab was too close to home plate in the second game at Ogdensburg, was upheld by Geo. M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues. The Maples won the protested game 5-0.

Case said Trautman ordered the second game replayed tonight at Ogdensburg and also directed the Ogdensburg club to turn over the receipts from the protested game to charities here.

Chicago Hawks Need Capable Goal Tender

(By The Canadian Press)

Coach Charlie Conacher said Thursday the Chicago Black Hawks' goal-tending position is "wide open." The Hawks just haven't found a capable net-minder.

President Bill Tobin was reported to have offered $20,000 for Montreal Canadiens' Bill Durnan, but the Canucks wouldn't part with him.

Hawks' authorities say Tobin has lost interest in Bas Bastien, American Hockey League All-Star goal tender with Pittsburgh Hornets.

Currently trying out for the nets are Emile Francis of last year's squad, and Al Rollins, who played last season with the Allen cup-winning Edmonton Flyers.

Sneak thieves Thursday robbed four players' dressing out at St. Catharines with the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League. The thieves entered the team's dressing room while players were out on ice. Amateurs George Armstrong from Stratford lost $38, Lee Costello, Harry Watson and Vic Lynn, all professionals, were the other victims.

Heads of national sports-governing bodies have been invited shortly by the National Council of Physical Fitness to meet together under a "neutral atmosphere" to review Canadian sport conditions generally. This was decided in Ottawa at Thursday session of the council.

Arthur King, lightweight boxing champion of Canada, arrived in London, Ont., by air from Montreal for his Empire title fight with Billy Thompson, the British-European champ. The bout is scheduled for Manchester, Oct. 1.

Two players yesterday were knocked out of action by minor injuries at the Toronto Maple Leafs' training camp at St. Catharines. Left winger Vic Lynn will be off ice for at least a week with a pulled shoulder muscle. Amateur Laurie Regan, former Ottawa Senator, also suffered a possible wrist fracture.

At Lake Placid, N. Y., manager Frank Boucher of the New York Rangers disclosed Thursday that forward Eddie Slowinski of Winnipeg will be out of action for a week or more with a bad knee injury. Another of the injuries which have been plaguing the Rangers camp. Slowinski crashed into the boards during a scrimmage Wednesday.

Two more players were cut loose from the Detroit Red Wings' Training Camp at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Thursday as manager Jack Adams sent the National League team through its preseso spaces. Andy Manthe, with Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Indians last winter, and Anthime Mosco of Renfrew, headed back to their respective homes. Wings will play their final exhibition game at the American Soo Sunday against Farm Club Indianapolis Capitols.

Montreal Royals' victory over Rochester in the International Baseball League semi-finals Thursday night made it definite that there will be no Big Four Football League game at Montreal, Saturday or Sunday. Montreal Wildcats were slated to met Montreal Alouettes in Montreal, Saturday, but with the baseball Royals against Syracuse Chiefs, the Ball Park, also used by Alouettes, will be taken up by baseball.

Canadians Chase Leader Metz In Canadian Open

Vancouver Sept. 24 (CP) It is generally conceded today that there will be no record for the Canadian Open Golf championship this year, but another shark the 34 straight years that Canadians had a chance to do it.

Metz Thursday dropped a perfect nine-iron shot into the cup on the 564 yard opening hole for an eagle three. The two strokes he sliced off the par 5 hole regarded by which he beat the field.

The Virginian's one-round total 71 gave him a 36 hole total of 138. He gathered in his four-under-par score with a 67 Wed-day battering by wind and rain which seems to have spared all chances of anyone topping the record 268 which South Africa's Bobby Locke put together at Toronto's Scarboro last year.

But Metz still has a couple of competent Canadian capable of blasting his lead out from under him. Jimmy Todd and pro Freddy Wood and Stan Leonard of Vancouver Marine Drive.

They are in a four way tie with Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago as U.S. representative for cash and Chuck Congdon of Tacoma, Wash., with all five strokes off the pace.

Both at one time Thursday looked as if they might overtake the U.S. leaders. Smooth-stroking Wood was under at the turn and then ran into a gusty wind-storm—which caused thousands to Shanghai-ing—at the 15th corner. He ended up with a one-over 72.

Trail by Stroke

Ahead of Wood and Leonard were the tourney's runners-up Johnny Palmer of Badin, N.C., and Herman Keiser of Springfield No, who trailed Metz by only two strokes with 140s. Palmer earned his with one of the days low 69s while Keiser rose to a 73 from his 67 Wednesday.

In a four-way tie with 141 were Henry Ransom of St. Andrew's Ill.; Ellsworth Vines of Johnny Palmer of Mary of Phoenix, Arizona, and young Dale Anderson of Glenview, Ill. The days second 69 was earned by Dave Douglas of Wilmington, De. Virtually unknown Douglas. Douglas played in a threesome without a single spectator to put per 145. Among the two best cards of the day and go into a three way tie at 142 with gallery favorite Vic Ghezzi of Englewood, N.J. and George Schneiter of Ogden, Utah.

Walt McElroy of Vancouver, semi - finalist at the Canadian Amateur in Hamilton, Ont., this year, is the low amateur with a two-over par 145. Also behind him is former U.S. Amateur champion Marvin (Bud) Ward with 146. McElroy is playing over his home course.

Toronto, Sept. 24 —(CP)— What's wrong with the boxing business in Toronto?

It's a question that has been bandied about the Ontario capital for years. Some critics and fans feel that it's the lack of top drawers Canadian boxers. Others say it's the lack of fight-loving fans, and still others insist it's nothing a couple of good mandown boxers wouldn't cure.

Trentonian (Toronto Globe and Mail). Munns blames Promoter Frank Tunney and matchmaker Jack Allen for letting Toronto become a one-fighter town as far as main bouts are concerned.

That one fighter is Li'l Arthur King, Canadian lightweight champion who last Monday successfully defended his crown against Sudbury's hard hitting Harvey Mathe.

The one sensible course is left open to Tunney and Allen if they are going to rely on the sleek Negro's talents, writes Munns. And that is to bring in some name fighters as opponents.

"Probably there are half a dozen lightweights never heard of by Toronto fans who are good enough to beat King," Munns writes. "Once he'd won't do it a main bout would primarily is designed to attract cash customer. The requirement is a boxer of international reputation whose record indicates that he has no chance of beating the Toronto."

Try Pep or Jack . . . . . .

Munns suggests that world featherweight titlist Willie Pep probably could be inducted to meet King in an over-weight bout at 135 pounds. Beter Jack is another and although a bit past his peak, was good enough to fight Ike Williams for the world title a few weeks ago, Jack probably would make 126 pounds although the lightweight limit of 135 has become weakening to him.

A professional promoter must spend money, to make money, says Munns.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You may be able to keep a secret. But it is no virtue in bridge. Tell your partner all you can about your hand. There do you have the best chance of reaching your most definable contract.

An opening bidder has easy ways of showing the kind of a hand he holds. If it is better than average he uses a bid of one. If it has enough for a game try he starts with a bid of two in a suit.

Each sound bidding system has a few signals for giving special information. Also for advising partner when his response is optional. Also for telling partner when he must bid regardless.

For an opening of two in a suit, do not wait until you have a game in your own hand. If you do, you may not live long enough to open many hands with such a bid. Its use would be too infrequent.

Nine tricks are enough. Assume that partner has at least one. He may not have it. And if he does have it you may still not make game. But it happens to be favorable enough times for a rule.

♠ None
♥ A K J 6 5 4
♦ A K 9 4 3
♣ A 2

Count your tricks; one for each high card (each ace or king or queen) and one for each short card. A short card is each card short of your expected average of three in any suit.

Open with a bid of two hearts. It says to partner: "My hand has at least nine tricks with a heart suit that is at least biddable. Keep the bidding alive until we reach at least a game in something."

It makes no difference what partner thinks. He must keep bidding to at least a game. It makes no difference how weak his hand may be. Partner must keep the bidding open to game. He may not like it. He may feel sorry for himself. He may feel sorry for what is going to happen to them. But he must keep the bids open. Even if it is his last moment on earth.

Since playing "Mother Was a Freshman," his first film away from the home base of M-G-M, the carrot-topped actor is dropping hints that he'd like to perform in a few more of "A Man's Castle," which Columbia owns. "Of course, it would be hard to top Spencer Tracy," he adds cautiously.

Van has been dieting and he looks great. "I've stopped worrying," he grins. "I let the guys in the front office get the ulcers; they're paid for it."

Capsule Review

"Let's Live a Little," (Eagle-Lion) is one of the better comedies in the new bumper crop. Thanks to the comic talent of Robert Cummings and some fine bits of business, it provides many merry moments. The plot: a frantic ad executive encounters a lady doctor, author of a "restful living" book. Hedy Lamarr is the lady doctor, and she contributes her two expressions. Which, of course, are not bad.

Canadian-Born Wins Nomination For Lieut.-Gov.

Milwaukee, Sept. 24 — (CP) — George M. Smith, 56-year-old Canadian-born textile salesman, puffed contentedly at a cigar today and disclosed that his successful campaign for the Republican nomination for lieutenant-governor of Wisconsin had cost $53.94.

It was the Montreal-born man's first try for office. He became naturalized American in 1943. Winning the nomination did not greatly surprise him, he said.

But it surprised party leaders who said they had never heard of him until they saw his name on the ballot. Even then, they did not bother to inquire because they saw no chance for him to win.

"Of course, I am pleased to have won the nomination," Smith said. But I am not so surprised as you might think. I have campaigned quietly all over the southern part of the state.

"I do not agree that my nomination was an accident, even though my campaign was conducted at very low cost. The fact is I spent only $53.94, which included my nomination papers and my blotters."

The latter were actually the only advertising I did. I had one radio speech in my behalf; it was made in Madison by a lawyer friend of mine, Martin W. Morrissey. I thought it was an excellent talk."

Smith, dark-haired and of medium height, went to Winnipeg when only four years old. He was educated there.

After spending some time in Hamilton as a salesman he moved to Hammond, Ind., in 1941 and later to New York, coming to Milwaukee in 1943.

In the November elections he will oppose the Democratic party candidate for the office of lieutenant-governor.

Campaign to Win Youth of Britain More Vigorous

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 23 — (CP) — The politicians' campaign to win the youth of Britain grows more vigorous.

Conservatives, away to a strong start with more than 153,000 young Conservatives helping their work, now are challenged by the revived Labor League of Youth.

In three months since the Scarborough, Yorkshire, annual Labor party conference, League of Youth branches have increased by more than 100 to 417. The party reported that Deal, Kent, had the highest league membership in the South with 700 enrolled. This would indicate that as other branches will have fewer members, the Labor Youth enrollment is far below that of the Conservatives.

The Scarborough conference was frankly worried about Labor's inability to attract more young people into its organization. Delegates said they had noted with concern the vigor of the young Conservatives, who have been front-line workers in by-elections and who staged a national rally in London last June.

Labor's youth movement was disrupted just before the war when party leaders came to the conclusion its leaders were too far left in their opinions. The organization was allowed to fade.

The Scarborough conference agreed that youth organization must receive more attention. An initial step was to raise the age limit for members from 21 to 25 and invigorate the assistance given from party headquarters in London.

First meeting of the league's National Consultative Committee will be held in London next week. Then — perhaps taking a leaf from the Young Conservative book — arrangements for a national rally will be discussed.

The Labor newspaper, Daily Herald, said "a special effort should be made to get all party organization, including the League of Youth, into fighting reading." The general election is due in 1950, but the municipal elections, in which Labor received a severe pounding last year, will be held in the spring of 1949 and will "provide a hardly less critical test."

Pop and ma were waiting for Mr. and Mrs. Hews to come and play bridge, and pop said, Maybe they got mixed up in their dates and wont show up. Maybe they've forgotten altogether, he said.

Now William, dont raise your high hopes, ma said. Yewstace Hews is a proverbial encyclopedia when it comes to dates, and besides, there's no reason you cant really injoy bridge if you really try, she said, and pop said, That's what I tell myself, but I always forget to try.

And for land sakes stop yawning before the Hewses get here ma said. There's no greater mark of disrespect than yawning in your guests' faces all evening, she said, and pop said, I agree with you, my dear, but please dont call them up and say I'm sleepy and break the ingagement at this eleventh hour. It simply wouldn't do, he said.

Well I should say it wouldn't sutch an idea, ma said, and pop said, That's what I say, it's out of the question. Oh well, we can cook up some story. Tell them I've suddinly been inflicted with yawns, the same as some people start hickupping and cant stop. Tell them it's no reflexion on the company, but I just simply cant stop yawning, that's all, he said.

Which just then the telefone rang and it was Mrs. Hews saying they couldn't come on account of Mr. Hew's cold being werse instead of better, and pop said to ma, That's fine, now I can yawn in peace in the bosom of my own family.

You'll yawn at the movies or you'll yawn alone, ma said. Meening she would go without him if he didn't go with her. The result being he did.

Communism Called Christian Heresy, Pagan Philosophy

Vancouver, Sept. 24 — (CP) — The United Church of Canada today discussed its relationship to international affairs and tabled a report labelling Communism as both a "Christian heresy and a pagan philosophy."

The report culminated a two-year study on Communism by both United Church clerics and laymen in Canada and Newfoundland. Its presentation to the 19th general council here follows close on Thursday night's attack on Communism by Very Rev. Jesse Arnup, Toronto.

The former United Church Moderator declared he could not attempt the religious fundamentalism of Karl Marx in place of the liberty of Jesus Christ.

And, he added emphatically, "I refuse to exchange Jesus Christ for Joseph Stalin as the savior of the world."

Rev. Arnup charged that Communism is endeavoring to dominate every Christian mission field abroad. He said Communism was destroying human morality and violating "the Christian conception of the dignity of man."

The younger churches are getting together in the Orient, fields he said. "Nothing can stop the new church movement abroad."

He said their predominant place in the recent world council of churches at Amsterdam was "a living demonstration God is able to reproduce his character irrespective of race, color, language, or anything."

Concurring with the Toronto cleric, Dr. William Service, a medical missionary now on leave from west China urged the 470 church delegates to speak boldly to propound a positive faith.

"A negative answer is not enough," the former Toronto medical man said, "to carry the Christian message into the Communist areas of China."

"The door is open and the difficulties are legion: ignorance, disease, superstition, poverty and misgovernment."

ON NEW ROUTE—Once she sailed the waters around the Antarctic. Today she sails the waters of the Gulf of St. Lawrence as a common cargo vessel. That is the career to date of "The City of New York" once the four-masted schooner "Sanson" of Admiral Richard E. Byrd's exploration expeditions to the area of the south pole. Shown here at the wharf at Brindstone in the Magdalen Islands, the "New York" is loading a cargo of salt mackerel. On her return trip she will carry a cargo of salt.—(CP Photo).

Drug Addicts Cause Country Economic Losses

Vancouver, Sept. 24 — (CP) — Canada's 3,000 to 4,000 known drug addicts cause the country economic losses running into "many millions of dollars yearly," K. C. Hosick, chief of the national health department's narcotic control division, declared here Thursday.

In an address to the Chief Constables Association of Canada, Mr. Hosick said he reached his estimate through examination of existing figures.

"This loss is borne in large part by business generally through robbery, shop-lifting, as well as other forms of fraudulent activity," he declared.

"To the indirect loss . . . must be added the cost of enforcement, including detection, conviction and imprisonment, of narcotic offenders" he continued.

Mr. Hosick said responsible police officers had reported that it might cost an addict from $20 to $30 a day to obtain his drugs and that, to obtain this money, he would "have to steal goods to about three times this value."

On the basis of the cost of illegal drugs, daily doses of addicts and the amount obtained by an addict disposing of stolen goods through a fence, 2,000 addicts using a grain a day would be responsible for an economic loss of about $42,000,000 a year, Mr. Hosick said.

"There are, however, many factors involved in this aspect of the drug addiction problem and most of these are of unknown magnitude or may be only very inaccurately estimated," he continued, "In view, therefore, of these circumstances, many figures of economic loss computed by the method I mentioned, must be accepted with some reserve.

"Even if they were drastically reduced, they still add up to very considerable figures, particularly when considered in relation to costs of any proposed treatment facilities."

Business Spotlight

By FORBES RHUDE

(Canadian Press Business Editor)

Credit-buying is increasing in Canada, but so far there seems no evidence that it is getting out of hand.

It is increasing for a very good reason — higher prices ordinarily bought that way, cars, stoves, electrical appliances and the general run of more expensive consumer goods, were in limited supply in war years.

It was normal, therefore, that as they came on the market, credit-buying should jump.

The United States, where "instalment terms were more liberal, even in wartime, recently restored some of the wartime restrictions. There is little immediate expectation of this in Canada because most Canadian businesses relaxed restrictions only to a limited degree.

Naturally, when most everyone is inflation-conscious, such things as increases in credit-buying and decreases in the rate of savings are watched with some apprehension, and people are advised to spend carefully and add as little as possible to the upward drive of prices. It is difficult in many of these things to specify the point where they become acute dangers.

Uncertainty is the nature of the times. Rising prices devalue the saved dollar, while falling prices make it worth more; rising prices make today's purchase of more value tomorrow, but falling prices make it worth less.

While there is some ground for expecting a levelling off of prices, no drastic drop is expected for some time; and there are stresses in the world that could send them higher.

A Harvard professor, Summer H. Slichter, says he doesn't expect a downward trend during the next decade. Treasury Secretary Snyder of the United States even thinks prosperity may be here to stay.

Prices on the New York stock exchange dropped slightly in light trading. Montreal was mixed and in Toronto industrials lost slightly in the index but base metals gained nearly a point. Grains tended weaker in Chicago but were up in Winnipeg. New York cotton was 30 cents to 60 cents a bale lower.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"Oh yes, I'll go home, dear, I'll go home," she answered quickly, and she came down with me obediently, and I opened the big front door. The great dark night burst upon us in a whirl of stars. The trees stood black against them, and the scent of the sea rushed and receded, rushed and receded tirelessly as we came down on the strand.

"The ocean," said her frail shadow of a voice.

"Isn't it beautiful?"

"Love ... love it," she managed to enunciate.

"Are you afraid to go home alone?"

This had to be repeated several times, little Mrs. McMurdock meanwhile standing with her face and me peering up into my face curiously.

"No, dear," she answered me finally. "Once you're — you're terribly afraid, so that your bones — you know your bones, dear — so that they're like water and melt all through you and your throat closes — you know that," she finished triumphantly, to my amazement having managed all these three phrases, "then you never frightened again."

"You never frightened!"

"Not I. But she was."

"Then she had walked down to the cliff gate and we could see the ocean now, quietly brimming in the gentle night.

"Silas."

"Oh-h-h!" Eliza was — let's think a minute. Miss Eliza. Yes. Lily's mother, Lily's grandmother. Lily's aunt Eliza and Calhoun's wife.

"What frightened her? You knew her, then?"

"Sh-sh-sh!" she breathed, frightened again now, and laying upon my hand a little claw as cold as a monkey's paw. And in another second she was hurrying along the little path that ran to McMurdock's cabin, with her old shawl bonnet tightly around her thin little bent shoulders.

It seemed to me that someone must know of this, and I chose Mrs. Grizell. She managed the kitchen staff and was given to occasional long garden — path talks with McMurdock and frequent visits, with baskets of provender, to his mansion. In that household old Mrs. McMurdock was the only woman anywhere near Mrs. Grizell's generation, and I used to imagine that the two found sort of odd companionship in that circumstance.

"You say she was walking about on the second floor?" Mrs. Grizell said thoughtfully when I told her.

"Yes, outside Clay's room."

"Not the upper floor?"

"Where Louise and old Mr. Hillyard are? No."

"Scare you?"

"Terribly, for a minute. Then I saw that she was frightened and that steadied me. After all, she couldn't hurt anyone with those baby wrists."

"Come here a minute, Liberty." We were out in the garden, where I had been going on with my clipping, and clearing. Mrs. Grizell drew me into a little glade and looked about for eavesdroppers.

"Munro has gone over to the farm," I reasoned her, "and Virginia and Bill are down on the cliff."

"You know who she is?" she asked in a low tone.

"Virginia. Yes, I do," I said unguardedly. "Clay told me."

Mrs. Grizell gave me a look that was at once suspicious and bewildered.

"Told you what?" she said sharply. "Told you what, Liberty, exactly. "Something about Virginia?"

"Well — he — I thought you meant—

"I was talking about McMurdock's mother, but what's this about Virginia? You mean she likes young Brent?"

Mrs. Grizell was escape from the more dangerous subject, and relief too. A dam in my heart was breaking with a great rush of waters. "You see, Bill was my friend, and he came up here to get me. Now he's in love with Virginia," I said.

"I know that and I don't think any the better of him for it," Mrs. Grizell said with a brief nod.

"I suppose a man can't help how he feels."

"A real man don't count a girl's fortune in with the girl," Mrs. Grizell said grimly.

"You don't think he is?" I asked anxiously.

"You can see for yourself. Liberty. His one for her and the rest of the place. Well, that wouldn't make old Mr. Hillyard any," her companion mused. "He'd want whoever had the money to love it, but Brent is just the kind of a feller to lure along the rest of his life, keeping a string of horses and raising a good crop of children. But she's only eighteen," she added. "She's as like as not to get tired of all that."

"But that's just it — I have to tell you!" I burst out. "Virginia loves Brent as she never loved Lee."

Mrs. Grizell looked at me temperately and steadily at this, as if waiting for a further demonstration of my complete loss of sense.

"You see, Virginia is in love with — she's married to!—Walter Burton, the chauffeur," I explained desperately. "Clay thought old Mr. Calhoun Hillyard was dying — he wrote that he was dying — and they thought he wouldn't matter to anyone and nobody would know."

"It wouldn't matter to who and nobody would know what?" Mrs. Grizell asked stonily as I paused in confusion.

"If they changed places. If when they get here Billee Hornleigh pretended to be Virginia and Virginia pretended to be Billee."

"And you told them it was nonsense?"

"I didn't have a chance. They arranged all this before they got here."

"You mean—" There was a pause of pure stupefaction on her part. "I see," she said slowly. "They were going to fool him until he died. But when they got here they found her grandfather much better — that was it?"

"Yes, not dying at all. And you see, Virginia thinks she may be going to have a baby, and she didn't dare tell old Mr. Hillyard."

"No, I suppose not. Not after Mrs. Her mother did the same thing. Well — I've been surprised in my life before—" Mrs. Grizell said slowly.

"I know. That was it, that her mother had eloped too."

"And you tell me," said Mrs. Grizell slowly, "that Virginia Carolan had the nerve to change names with her friend and come here calling herself Billee Hornleigh!"

"That's what I think."

"They didn't tell you this, then? "Oh, no."

"You guessed it?"

"Clay suspected it. He told me. And he told me," I added in sudden panic, "not to tell anyone."

"I'm not," said Mrs. Grizell. "It sees more without eyes than most folks would if they were made like seed potatoes." She brooded for a minute. "Then she was the one that scraped the picture," she stated rather than asked suddenly.

"Could she have gotten at the key?"

"Oh, I suppose she could, I suppose she could," my companion said irritably. "They're hanging right out there in Tom Wing's pantry. I've always thought it might be the old lady — I don't know why, but you see for yourself that she gets into the house and wanders around here."

"This was incomprehensible to me; I stared at her expectantly.

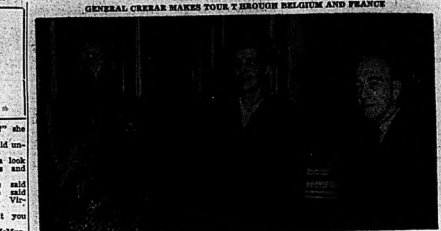
"I don't know why; don't ask me why," she said impatiently.

"But old Mrs. McMurdock — she wouldn't be interested — why should she care?"

"I tell you I have no idea." She paused. "Well, you might as well know," she said. "How please don't look too surprised. Liberty, for my nerves have stood about all they can take. But of course you know she's not any more McMurdock's mother than I am."

"Old Mrs. McMurdock — I began, completely dazed.

"Is old Mrs. Hillyard, and that's that, and for pity's sake act as if the sky wasn't falling," said Mrs. Grizell.



"Well — I don't think the sky is falling," I stammered after a full minute's stupefied staring. "But — but nobody seems to know what's why in this place."

"That's who she is, anyway."

"Old Mr. Hillyard's mother?"

"And Virginia's grandmother."

GENERAL CRERAR MAKES TOUR THROUGH BELGIUM AND FRANCE

Yes, Poor little thing — poor little thing! Her mind went, and they sent her away. She didn't know why she had to be sent away from home; she fretted like a child."

"She's happy enough now," I said, still in bewilderment.

"Ah, she's happy now. She doesn't remember much, but she knows she's home. She loves this place," Mrs. Grizell said. "She is domestic, and heartbroken to away from it. I think she still feels like one of the family. Old Hudson Hillyard here, with everyone admiring her, and her pretty companion mused. Autograph Hobby Brings Clergyman Imposing Returns

By JEAN MEEGAN

Rev. Cornelius Greenway receives letters from kings, generals, Nobel prize winners, cabinet ministers, industrialists, literary lions and all manner of great folk.

The Universalist clergyman has portraits signed by the last five presidents, the last five premiers, every dictator (except Stalin) since 1919, Chief Two Gun White Calf, whose face is on the buffalo nickel, and a wedding picture of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor signed by everybody present. He values his autograph collection at $85,000.

Mr. Greenway stalks his prospects with 23-cent registered letters from the moment they are born to the birthday in his collection. It took 11 years before he bagged Herbert Hoover.

"The most beautiful thing we can witness is the mysterious. He to whom this emotions is a stranger, who can no longer pause to wonder and stand rapt in awe, is as good as dead: his eyes are closed."

Such an item in the hand of the relativity theorist makes an autograph hound drool. Mr. Greenway also has a Herbert Hoover longhand rarity. The ex-president wrote out a 1,200-word speech he made in Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1932 for the minister's collection. That was to reciprocate for a hobby the clergyman did for him.

Great Variety

Greenway has such divergent items as the original manuscript of Edwin Markham's "The Man With the Hoe" and the picture of General MacArthur returning to the Philippines bearing in MacArthur's hand the famous "I have returned" statement.

It took a year and a half for him to get the picture of the Japanese surrender aboard the battleship Missouri with the signatures of MacArthur, Sir Arthur E. Percival and Gen. Jonathan Wainwright.

The Duchess of Windsor was unresponsive until Greenway sent her some laudatory stories from United States papers about her marriage to Edward VIII. There are very few signed portraits of Edward VIII during his short reign, but Greenway has one. His collection of signed portraits of the British Royal Family, going direct in existence.

"I wrote many times for it," the minister said. "One day in 1933 I got a letter from Neurath, Nazi Foreign Minister, saying that Hitler was busy and couldn't write to me, but he would send me a signed picture of himself. I was pleased and sent him a picture postcard of Hitler which he said he had been directed to give me if what I said was true."

A sporty looking eight-by-10 picture of Mussolini as a mountain fighter disturbed the Greenway's feeling of fitness. Benzenberg got Hitler to send his favorite portrait.

There are 43 volumes in his collection — 2,500 pictures and 3,000 manuscripts, but not one actor or athlete. Only a handful of Greenway's treasures are kept at home. The originals are in bank vaults.

Tablets Fatten Poultry Quickly

London (CP) — British veterinary surgeons are seeking to increase food production by giving tablets to animals to speed their growth. Preliminary results show that poultry are ready for the table four to six weeks earlier than otherwise. Feedstuffs are also saved.

The tablets are put under the skin of the bird. They affect glands which concentrate food consumption on producing flesh. Stilboestrol, a chemical of the synthetic hormones group, is contained in the tablets.

Quebec Zoo Has Exceptional Display Canadian Wild Life

Written for The Canadian Press By PERCY GHENT

Quebec Zoological Gardens are a credit to the city and an educational feature with a value beyond the reckoning.

A cascading river runs through the wardens, and greenery and flowers reveal seaside cares. There are no circus cages of exotic animals, but enclosures lofty enough to house full-grown trees. They are alive with the color and music of Canadian birds.

Living specimens of scores of species seem to fly right out of the pages of Taverner or Audubon to study onlookers with the same curiosity as they are studied. Big-eyed owls, monkey-faced barn owls, immaculate snowy owls, great-horned, long-eared, short-eared, saw-whet and screech owls blink from their perches.

Cardinals and bluebirds, seaside finches and hawks, white-crowned, song and chipping sparrows are there, with many another species, all in enclosures that make the observation of each possible while giving the birds ample scope for flight.

On the ponds are Canada Geese and pelicans; crested cormorants stand upon rockpiles, and dozens of varied kinds abound. Does and their fawns have free access to gambol in; timber wolves and coyotes run slyly through great enclosures of woodland. A bilingual parrot swinging on his perch makes saucy remarks to visitors in their own language. A Kinsmith; two sons, A. Y. and E. J. McLean, Seaforth, and two daughters, Mrs. G. C. Harvey, Stratford and Mrs. J. H. Grant, Kingston.

Russia Proposes Five Major Powers Cut Armed Forces

Accuses Big Three of Trying To Isolate Soviet by Alliances

Paris, Sept. 25. (AP)—Russia proposed today that the five major powers reduce their armed forces by a third inside of one year.

Accusing the United States, British and France of trying to isolate Russia by means of military alliances, Andrei Vishinski, Soviet deputy foreign minister, asked the United Nations General Assembly to set up an international control body to supervise reductions of armaments of armed forces and prohibition of atomic weapons.

Vishinsky said he proposed this resolution to strengthen the cause of peace and eliminate "the threat of a new war fomented by aggressive circles of the capitalist ruling elements." The expansionists, he contended, all are west of the Iron Curtain.

This was disclosed in a statement issued Thursday by Acting Prime Minister St. Laurent and Sir Stafford Cripps, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, at the end of three days of talks on economic and financial relations.

The statement said the establishment of two committees, which will be recommended to the two governments, would "facilitate the free and prompt exchange of the fullest information on commercial and economic matters of mutual concern."

Its members, representing both countries, would "review progress and consult together with a view to submitting recommendations for the adjustments of imports and exports between the two countries in the light of changing circumstances."

The statement also stressed that the two governments will do everything they can do to avoid "any sudden change" in the pattern of Anglo-Canadian trade, though it conceded that some adjustments in British import programs of recent years will "no doubt be necessary."

The statement was the only official report of the three-day meeting between a British delegation headed by Sir Stafford and a Canadian cabinet committee.

Sir Stafford now is taking a brief holiday here before his departure tomorrow for Washington to attend international financial decisions. He will be accompanied by Finance Minister Abbott, who goes to the talks as Canada's representative.

The statement made no mention of the $240,000,000 blocked portion of the Canadian loan to Britain. It had been expected Sir Stafford would scout out the Canadians on the possibility of the money being freed for British purchases in Canada.

5,000 BERLINERS KIDNAPPED BY REDS SINCE '45

15 of "Illegal Group" Are Apprehended

Berlin, Sept. 25 (Reuters)

More than 5,000 Berliners have been kidnapped by the Russians since August, 1945, a memorandum issued today by the Social Democratic Party indicated.

The memorandum is based on information which the party received from refugees in the Soviet Occupation zone.

"Soviet-licensed newspapers recently described these sources as "a social democratic network of espionage," and reported that 15 persons of this "illegal group" had been arrested in Thuringia in the Soviet zone.

The Social democratic memorandum said:

"Our only weapon against the police terror, imposed by the occupying power in the Soviet zone, is our right to speak and solemnly proclaimed by all victorious powers.

"We shall never stop demanding the fulfillment of this promise. We shall never cease to do so.

"There are two reasons for the kidnapping of Social Democrats in Berlin and the Soviet Zone:

"1. The political opponents of the (Communist) Socialist Unity Party and the Soviet regime must be eliminated.

"2. The kidnapped persons are to serve as objects of terror to frighten those who are put to work in the forced labor camps in Soviet Russia or in the eastern zone.

Eight Communists, who fled to Berlin in early 1945, the Russians tried to recruit German intelligence agents from Berlin but they did not know what to do with the imprisoned Germans as hostages.

"Since only a few German workers and engineers accepted the Russian offer, the Russians began to export several big German industrial works together with the forced labor entailed, including the leading engineers."

Eight large concentration camps exist now in the Soviet zone and there are many other camps are forced labor camps spread all over the eastern zone of Germany, the memorandum said.

"All these camps are used as transit camps for the deportations of Communist political opponents who are being deported in autumn, 1947, about 30,000 to 40,000 Germans were imprisoned for political reasons, and one-third of them were deported to Russia or Poland. . . ."

Strong Anti-U.S. Campaign Started Over Reported Plot To Assassinate the Perons

Buenos Aires, Sept. 25 (AP)—A two day demonstration over police reports of a plot to kill president Juan Peron and his wife has turned into the strongest anti-United States campaign in Argentina in more than two years.

The alleged plot, which Peron himself blamed on a former cafe tenantess had been implicated, was uncovered by police, it was ended at midnight Friday night, freed workers to march, chant and shout slogans. Peron and his wife, Eva Duarte Peron, delivered fiery addresses to a throng of workers in the Plaza in front of Casa Rosada, the government house.

The president blamed the alleged plot not only on the former attache, John Griffith, now living in Uruguay, but also on Foreign correspondents, some newspapers and Peron's political opponents within the country.

Exuberant supporters of the president, on leaving the plaza stormed the nearby offices of La Presa, Buenos Aires largest newspaper and the chief opposition critic of Peron's policies. A small fire was started against the steel front door before police arrived and cleared the street. A stream of water from a fire hose kept the crowd from entering the building until police dispersed the demonstration.

The crowd then moved a block away to the United States embassy, occupying several floors. In the First National Bank of Boston's building, the offices of which been closed several hours, but a crowd of several hundred shouted anti-American slogans. Police chased them.

Peron's speech set the pace for the demonstrations, but he personally asked his supporters to let the law take its course in punishing the accused plotters. He directed that the guilty "must be" been used to finance the plot.

He directed his strongest denunciation against Griffith, who was expelled from Argentina last April.

(Across the Rio Plata in Montevideo, Griffith said the charges against him appeared to be "political persecution." He termed the Argentine accusations "just a detective story without a serious basis." Griffith said he did not know most of those recently arrested as plotters and that those he did know he had not seen for two years.)

The demonstration in support of Peron and his wife took the form of political talks and Peron himself extended the celebration by declaring today a national holiday. Crowds filled the downtown streets, shouting the slogan: "Our life Peron!"

Marchers carried replicas of gallows and some were nooses. This was a mute reference to a hanging by Peron first. S in Santa Fe in which he said he would not hesitate to order the hanging of political opponents he said had threatened to hang him and his supporters.

Paraguayan informants say a plot against President Natalicio Gonzalez that country has been nipped and some arrests made. Paraguay was reported calm.

Argentine police have assumed government official had scheduled the revolt for this week and tried to get police and military support.

Compulsory Blackouts May Follow if Quotas Exceeded And Local Switches Not Pulled

Toronto, Sept. 25 — (CP) — Ontario communities which exceed electric power consumption quotas set by the Provincial Hydro Commission may be blacked out by compulsory power shut-offs.

Commission Chairman Robert Saunders issued that warning Friday. He said that if local communities do not voluntarily pull switches when they go beyond their quotas, hourly cut-offs will be made by the commission.

Net Losses Total 5,000 Jobless

These compulsory blackouts would not be longer than 10 minutes and would come in each hour from daylight to dark.

Regional managers will get their orders by Monday and they will give municipalities seven days to cut down power consumption. If this is unsuccessful, then the provincial authorities will pull the switches themselves.

At a conference with seven representatives of Ontario Federation of Labor (C.I.O.) here Thursday Friday night, Mr. Saunders said he didn't think the power shortage would be eased before 1951. By then the huge Beck-Joachima, Que., generating plant on the Ottawa River, would be completed.

He urged industrial unions to switch to working weekends when "the power is there." Unless there is abnormal summer snow or rainfall in the next few months the hydro shortage will remain acute until spring.

Windsor Defiant

Earlier Friday, Warren P. Bolton, chairman of the Windsor Utilities Commission, told a provincial hydro meeting in Windsor he had telegraphed Mr. Saunders that the city is not cutting off its power until further notice. Mr. Bolton said Windsor wouldn't go without electricity "as long as Toronto and Hamilton more than quota power is being used and switches are not being pulled."

At Hamilton, Hydro-Electric Power Commissioner A. W. Reed said city consumers to go easy. He said Hamilton used 277,000 kilowatt hours Friday over its power allotment. Quota was the second consecutive day the quota was exceeded.

In Other Cities

Hot rate water heaters were switched off in Kingston and gas gun using steam electricity generators in Toronto and Hamilton tried to stay within their 585,000 kilowatt hour quota.

Even though 32,000 kilowatt hours less power was used Friday than a week ago, Peterborough still was 32,000 kilowatt hours over its 140,000 kilowatt-hour budget. Oshawa, too, was using more power and the Public Utilities Commission decided Friday to call a meeting next week to discuss power conservation with 30 manufacturers.

Total cheese production so far this year is 1,880,092 pounds. In August this year 434,169 pounds of cheese were produced against 532,517 pounds in August, 1947.

August butter production totalled 20,403 pounds — 7,288 pounds over August, 1947.

WESTERN POWERS DEFENCE HEADS TO MEET IN PARIS

Will Discuss Common Military Problems

Paris, Sept. 25 (AP) — An official British source said today the five defence ministers of the western (Brussels) alliance will meet in Paris Monday to discuss common military problems.

The report immediately after Andrei Vishinsky, Russian deputy foreign minister, in a United Nations Assembly speech denounced the five-power alliance as one directed against Russia and eastern Europe.

The alliance is made up of Britain, France and the Benelux countries — Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Apparently the decision to meet was made hurriedly.

A session of the permanent military committee of the western alliance in Paris had been scheduled some time ago, but it had been put off during the period when France was without a government.

Vishinsky, addressing the U.N. Assembly, asserted that the United States, Britain and France organized the five-power alliance "in direct contradiction with the interests of strengthening the peace and security of the nations."

"The whole British, French and United States press openly writes of the 'military alliance of the five western powers is directed against the U.S.S.R. and the new democracies." ("New democracies" is the Russian term for the communist states in the Soviet orbit.)

Church Continues To Allow Women In the Ministry

Vancouver, Sept. 25 (CP) — The United Church Friday agreed to continue to allow women to enter its ministry but ruled they must resign at the first sign of interest in marriage.

"Women are the bearers of children and all the eloquence of Greek Senate cannot change this to the end of time," said Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, of Toronto, head of the committee on ministry.

There is a difference, he said, between "equality of status and function." Since union in 1925 there have been 18 women ordained in the United Church.

In a report on the question of women, the church approved in principle their entry on an equal status with men. It decided:

1. They be approved by a church court including on its membership other women.

2. That they have had by committee medical men to assure fit for research into the earth's core. A R.C.A.F. group, sighted by the Lancaster, piloted by Flt.-Lieut. Bruce Mitzr of Vancouver's No. 12 R.C.A.F. group, sighted the grounded plane. A huge white arrow, pointing seaward showed the direction the survivors had taken.

3,000 Tons of Bombs in New Guinea Dump to be Blown by the Aussies

Sydney, Australia, Sept. 25 — (Reuters) — One of the greatest single explosions of bombs, explosives and ammunition will take place at a Royal Australian Air Force dump in New Guinea early in 1949.

The actual date of the explosion is known locally as "Operation Little Bikini," has not yet been fixed.

Although guarded by the Royal Navy's explosion of 8,500 tons of bombs on Heligoland island in the North Sea, the explosion of almost 3,000 tons of bombs at the New Guinea dump is expected to cause less damage about the earth's crust in the Pacific zone.

Wave impulses from the explosion are expected to penetrate between 30 and 40 miles into the earth and 25 to 30 miles into the upper atmosphere.

Both the bombings, geophysicists expected to obtain data on the type and thickness of the strata, the presence of any formations containing oil.

Five in Party Survive 12 Days In Hinterlands

RCAF Carries Out Greatest Search in Canada's History

By JACK AVESON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg Sept. 25 (CP) —Five fliers who survived 12 days in Northern Canada's bleak hinterlands were safe today after one of the greatest aerial searches in Canada's history.

The crashed United States Navy plane and the tiny group, which included two high British and United States naval officers, was sighted by an R.C.A.F. Lancaster Friday in the vast wilderness southwest of Hudson Bay.

The search plane dropped supplies and a map to the five survivors who, despairing of rescue, had set out to beat their way out of the bush. In the map, directed them to a rendezvous with an amphibious Canso on a lake four miles away.

There, encased in warm sleeping bags for the first time since Sept. 12, they waited daybreak for the Canso to take off on the two hour flight back to The Pas.

The rescue climaxed a heroic flight for survival, aided by emergency hunting and trapping equipment in the grounded plane, and a huge aerial search in which a fleet of some 40 R.C.A.F. and United States aircraft swept hundreds of thousands of miles.

The search was spurred by rumors abroad in Ottawa, that data vital to North America's Arctic defence was carried by the lost plane. Naval officers — Capt. Sir Robert W. Stirling-Hamilton, naval adviser at the British High Commissioner's office in Ottawa and Capt. R. S. Custer, naval attache at the U.S. embassy, Ottawa.

The airmen were returning from a trip to Churchill, Man., where they travelled aboard the grounded Navy plane to load skis. It marked the first time a Canadian territory visited the Russian Bay port.

The fliers were on the plane were pilot Jack M. Kastner, U.S. Navy Chief Petty Officer; Lieut. Cmdr. Hamilton and Capt. Custer and Master Sergeant J. Hoffman of the U.S. Army, returning from Churchill for his discharge.

Bad weather and compasses upset by the North Magnetic Pole forced the plane to set the ship off course on its 450 mile flight from Churchill to The Pas. It crash landed near Highspeed Lake in northeastern Saskatchewan, about 225 miles northwest of The Pas and about 30 degrees off course. The Lancaster; piloted by Flt.-Lieut. Bruce Mitzr of Vancouver's No. 12 R.C.A.F. group, sighted the grounded plane. A huge white arrow, pointing seaward showed the direction the survivors had taken.

22 FAMILIES LEFT HOMELESS IN QUEBEC FIRE

27 Frame Buildings and Tinder Dry Destroyed, Damage Estimated at $250,000

St. Mathieu, Que., Sept. 25 — (CP) — Smoke and the acrid smell of burned ruins still hovered today over what remains of this once picturesque valley village, laid waste Friday night in a $250,000 fire which destroyed 27 buildings.

The blaze of undetermined origin left 22 families homeless, levelled St. Mathieu's little shopping district and its pretty frame church. Ninety per cent of the buildings were frame structures —and tinder dry.

Hampered by a lack of water, poor equipment, few fire-fighters, belittling alongside brigades from Shawinigan Falls and Grand-'mere were unable to cope with the fast-travelling flames which leaped from building to building.

Fifty Attend Safety Meeting At Hotel Quinte

The opening meeting of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association Incorporated was held in the Rotary room of the Hotel Quinte Friday evening. More than fifty persons, representative of local industries as well as industries in Napanee, Peterborough, Bulpidde and Point Anne, were present.

The meeting was presided over by J.W. Thompson, vice-chairman for the Belleville Section in the absence of the regular chairman. He welcomed those present. Mr. Thompson told them that their presence at the meeting was evidence of the interest they show in IAPA work. He quoted figures which showed that the total sum of money of lost in time lost accidents in Canada for 1947 was $48,000,000 or which $16,000,000 was lost in Ontario alone. He concluded by remarks expressing the hope that in the coming year there would be an even greater improvement in the work of the IAPA.

Following the dinner, L. H. Ingram, president of the IAPA, of Peterborough gave a brief account of his extensive travelling in the interests of the association, and mentioned briefly some of the activities of other sections that he had visited. Accompanying Mr. Ingram for the meeting was R.A. Bapte, chairman of the Toronto Metropolitan section, who was also called upon to say a few words.

First Meeting Of Fall Session Held in Trenton

Members of the Quinte Life Underwriters Association held their first luncheon meeting of the fall season on Tuesday noon at the Quinte Hotel, Trenton. Harold Al. Sleeman, the newly elected president was in the chair.

Under the auspices of the Provincial Life Insurance Company, a very interesting address by Hugh Worrall, Bryce Lamoth, Coach of Trenton. He chose as his subject "The Key of Quinte Life Underwriters Association," dividing his address into three parts.

Speaking first on the Bay of Quinte Mayor Couch painted a glowing picture of the Quinte district, noting that one of the main attractions for visitors were the Sunday boating parties. Also it was one of the best farming districts in Canada. Many industries, fine schools and churches were a tribute to the enterprising communities.

Mr. Couch then spoke on "Life" which he termed a period of life between birth and death. The vast store of world knowledge was opened during school years and between 20 and 25 came the "settling down" period and the selection of a career. At 30 people started looking ahead to 40 with the realization that 50 was soon catch up to life.

The life insurance underwriter was described as the man who writes his name to the policies, his profession being a very worthy one and second only to the doctor or minister in opportunity to serve fellowman.

The speaker was introduced by Henry Sager. Others at the meeting included Harry Curtis, Kingston, manager of Empire Life, who spoke regarding the coming sales congress to be held in that city on Oct. 11th. Other visitors were Kenneth Kennedy, C.L.U. Mutual Life Assurance Co. C.L.U. Canada Life; and P. H. Kilvert, C.L.U. Manager Great West Life, all of Kingston.

INDUSTRIAL PLANT TO WORK SATURDAYS

Following the lead of several other industrial plants in the city which have switched hours of production as a means of assisting to reduce the daily power load, Belleville Sargent will work all day Saturday. It was announced yesterday.

The Plainfield Street lock factory will work Tuesday through Saturday with the plant to be closed on Monday.

Board Increases Hospital Costs Dollar Per Day

At a meeting of the Board of Governors of Belleville General Hospital on Friday afternoon, reports were received concerning the finance of the coming hospital costing costs. Items of food have up-to-declared in the past year, and the cost of the replacement of kitchen equipment has been a marked effect upon hospital costs. Modern surgical equipment is still rising, and besides the cost of oxygen tents, sterilizers, resuscitators, baby incubators, etc., was cited as some of the essentials the price of which is becoming almost out of reach. These influences added to the rising cost of wages, prompted the Board to authorize an increase in the cost of hospital accommodation a average of $1 per day.

The superintendent, H. W. Wakefield, reported a painting and general rehabilitation program now in progress, and estimated that in a week or so all the rooms will be available for patient care.

Speaking concern was voiced upon the possibility of a power breakdown due to wear, conditioning and the superintendent reported that emergency lighting and operating room were being manufactured by the hospital staff in the the hospital workshop. Some of these is now ready for emergencies, and parts operating room will be completed very shortly.

The Ed Kingston plan, which has caused so much concern, is to be replaced with a new boiler plant to be built in the hospital buildings. It is hoped that this new heating plant will be in use and in operation, for the arrival of the cold weather.

Committee on Proposed Four-Lane Road North of City Will Submit Motion for Councils' Approval

A resolution asking for early completion of the proposed four-lane road north of Trenton and Belleville as a means of relieving traffic congestion in the two cities will be submitted for approval to municipal councils of this city, the town of Trenton, Hastings County, and Sidney and Thurlow Townships.

This was decided at a joint meeting of representatives of the above bodies with a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce which was held in the City Council Chambers Friday evening.

All the various municipalities approve of the resolution they will ask the province to send members to a delegation to submit the request to the Department of Highways.

In calling the meeting to order, D. A. Arnold, chairman of the special committee of Chamber of Commerce, stated that his committee had been formed to deal with traffic congestion in the city and to see if something could not be done to expedite the proposed four-lane road north of the city.

Build North of City.

Chamber of Commerce secretary Freeman Burrows, added that according to highway surveys it was proposed to build the new four-lane highway north of the city. All merchants in Belleville were agreeable to this, they feeling that local merchants were losing business as result of traffic congestion in the city.

It was also the traffic congestion in the city Mr. Burrows noted the city surveys showed over 1,000 vehicles per hour passing down town during the 5 p.m. eight-hour period over 10,000 vehicles had been counted.

Trenton representatives, Claude Graham, and Mr. Bradshaw, stated they would have to take the proposal to council and to merchants in their town as they were not certain there would be approval to having the town by-passed.

MacLean Kelly, however, pointed out that local merchants felt that because of traffic congestion marginal business was being driven to other shopping centres.

On the outside market there was a wealth of farm produce displayed. Wealthy and McIntosh apples brought 50 cents the basket while St. Lawrence were quoted at 65 cents. Tomatoes were 40 cents the six quart basket; cucumbers were 10 cents; cabbage $1 the basket and Blue Damsons 50 cents. Grapes were 65 cents and pears $1 to $1.10 per basket.

People Who Are Only Names

By ROY L. SMITH

The three people in this scripture, with the exception of the women mentioned, are remembered only as names. We know that the apostle was specially set the task of pastoring some churches, and that to have received such a commission he must have been a person of outstanding character. But concerning his mother and his grandmother we know nothing either good or bad. It is strange to say, not one word or act of Timothy's has ever been recorded.

Yet this devout and faithful family represents the force that has preserved the Christian faith down through his centuries—the transmission of Christian ideology from one generation to another. Twenty-eight Generations

In the city of Canton, Cause some years before the war, a young Chinese student stood with an American tourist before a great display of ideographs. They were arranged straight down one upon another, stretching up from the lower level to heighth that varied from ten to twenty-five feet.

"This," said the student, as he took his place at the foot of one of the longest columns, "is my family genealogical record." Pointing to a brilliantly lacquered place on the lowest level, he went on: "And this is my father's name. And this is my name. Above that is my great-grandfather's." Then identifying another by one he ascended for each one of the twenty-eight tablets and a tone of pride in his voice he concluded: "It is a very serious responsibility to stand at the end of a line of twenty-eight generations. One cannot live to suit himself in such a situation."

Anonymous Heroes

From this narrative we have a right to believe that the Apostle Paul found much of the exclamation of the young man's life and character in the quality of his ancestry. Timothy's mother and his grandmother before him had been noble and faithful.

Neither of them had done anything spectacular, had perhaps achieved fame, held office, or indulged in politics. But they had been faithful under fire, they had kept the faith when it had been dangerous to be known as a Christian, they had refused to compromise, and when the odor on the day's duty as each day had dawned, they are to be listed among the anonymous heroes of the faith—Godly people who did their work considerately, stood in the fires burning, and were content to go on restfully even when they did not get their names into the newspapers.

Gratitude Is Co-operative

We are very apt to pay high tribute to the great ones who composed Magna Charta or the Constitution of the United States as though they were somehow beings from another world. They were not of another world. They were only men who were thrust out in front of a great crisis plain people who had been thinking-men who had developed convictions, but lacked someone to speak for them.

The Sunday School lesson for September 26: "Eunice Lois, and Timothy. A Religious Family." Acts 16:1-5; 17:13-15; 1 Corinthians 4: 14-21; 16:10-11; Philippians 2:19; 1 Thessalonians 3:1-10; II Timothy 1:3-14; 3:14-15.

None but a literate people with sensitive consciences and a passion for justice, can ever make democracy work. In a land where every man is a king in his own right, every man must live like a king. A democratic form of government succeeds only among people who are capable of bearing the burdens of a democracy.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WINIFRED E. WILKINS

BLACK-CROWNED NIGHT HERON

Of all the Heron family, the Black-crowned Night Heron is the most interesting. Its name is because although it occasionally is discovered hunting in daylight, it is practically nocturnal. (On the Lower St. Lawrence where fisheries are a great attraction, its time for action depends on the tide.) At dusk small flocks, "quawking" harshly, may be seen flying on a marketing expedition to some shallow creek, pond, or swamp.

Unlike most birds, (even when nestlings are waiting to be fed they are quiet) the Night Heron and several miles from their homes in the woods. With necks curved and heads lowered, they move quickly, picking up frogs and small fish. That they throw out light from their breasts to attract prey is a theory that has not been proved by scientists.

Night Herons resemble Bitterns in size and build, having heavier bills, and necks, legs and bodies shorter and stouter than other Herons. The Black-crowned Night has a white and grey body, black head and back. One or two fine, long plumes help finish the head. The bill is black, legs and the bare space in front of each eye pale yellowish-green, eyes red. Juveniles look so different from their parents, dark with greyish-brown stripes on a whitish background. Yellow eyes they are in danger of being mistaken for Bitterns.

Like all Herons, these birds live in colonies, building platforms, consisting of 1,000 or more nests sometimes, built of sticks, usually in coniferous trees. Although breeding in the same district for years, they often change their existing there as are Great Blue Herons. The nestlings in a nursery is a common occurrence in Birdland; but,for parents to be feeding two and at a time is rare. This is done by the Black-crowned Night Heron, who disgorges a bolus of clambering around in the branches while the younger are in the nest. On the approach of strangers, the adults flap about squawking, but while children make a strange, ticking noise.

Black-crowned Night Herons have one habit shared by only a very few other species. About now, immature birds leave home and, very often hundreds of miles from their birthplace, yet not in the direction of their winter quarters. This greatly interests certain watchers. Since 1902 many have been banded in an effort to learn more on this subject. One individual was recaptured 2,300 miles away.

Search for Lost Indian Culture

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

Points of Plage, Artz. (AP) — Scientists from the University of Arizona are trying here to solve one of the top mysteries of the southwest — the sudden disappearance of thousands of its early citizens.

Their civilization built by the toil of centuries existed here. In the city were apartment houses with 500 rooms. Ceremonial kivas stood 60 feet across. It was a land of plenty. They had game, fish, water and farms. Why did the people abandon it?

This is the third year of work at Point of Plage.

In 1945 Dr. Emil Haury, head of the department of anthropology at the university, and E. B. Sayles, curator of the Arizona state museum explored the area. They found devidence of what they believed to be the first impounding of water for irrigation in all the southwest.

During the summer of 1946 a rich field for research was found. The scientists dug up Mrs. Anasazi, a typical Indian who had been dead 600 years.

Mad "River Runs"

This early American housewife lived in Pueblo Bonito, according to deductions. She used rouge, gave herself the new look with turquoise and jewelry and would occasionally do a thorough paint job on her home. And she was boss of the house.

Last year tons of earth and rock were removed from the Indian's homes which caved in after abandonment. Dr. Haury concentrated on completing the excavation of a small apartment house and cutting a hole through into the great 800-room building. Rooms had been added as late as 1200@@.

The field school found evidences that the large villages began to break up into smaller communities around the 14th century. Pottery also showed signs of deterioration. Styles of adding attractive designs as had been done for hundreds of years, the Indians had forgotten how.

The people became careless about homes, building, and other things.

"But," said Dr. Haury, "at the end of the season's work we were no nearer a solution of the cause for their downfall. Point of Pines than we had been the year before."

The work has continued thru' out this summer. Actually this is only the beginning. Dr. Haury feels it may take 20 years or more to complete this investigation.

ONE-TIME OFFICE BOY LEAVES $100,000 ESTATE

Rochdale, England (CP)—Fredrick Lye, who started as an office boy in the cotton mill of John Bright and Brothers, rose to be chief cashier and when he died left 451,000 pounds ($1,804,000). During his 50 years' service he witnessed the will of John Bright, the statesman, in 1876.

EXPENSIVE EDUCATION

Saint John, N.B. (CP)—Only a few elementary children are on Partridge Island, in Saint John harbor, this year. If accommodation on the mainland can be found for them the city will save $2,000 otherwise necessary to maintain a teacher on the island.

Some Animals Have Beauty Parlors

(By Beulah Williams, in "Our Dumb Animals" Magazine)

Certain animals are so fastidious that they have community beauty parlors. Goats, deer, gir-affes and antelopes are known to assist each other in making toilettes.

The reason animals suffer so much in captivity, especially when alone, is that they have no one to help them "dress."

It especially true of the giraffe, as it cannot reach all parts of its body.

Water-loving animals, like the beavers, take great pride in their appearance. They inspect and show more human traits than any other animal.

Seals wear, attached to their front flipper, a hardware combi-like protuberance. When they rest on the rocks, they use this little tomb to brush the fur on their faces. The northern fur seals, when in water, use it warm, use their flippers as fans.

Lions, panthers and pumas wash themselves very much as the domestic cat does with her toilette. They dip their feet in water and use them as wash cloths. They use their tongues as combs and brushes. Horses also use their feet to wash their faces. Dogs enjoy wiping their coats against green grass and leaves.

We think that animals are careless when, in the early part of the morning, that there is nothing for them to do but sleep and think about. This is a mistaken belief, for they have to "dress" themselves. This means a bath and a smoothing out of their fur and feathers, which takes any day and seek dark places to bathe.

Many animals show a kinship-edge of medicine and-sanitation, and their instinct for cleanliness have taught men many things. They use clay, dust, mud, and water to keep their fur and health. Each animal is his own veterinarian. He knows when he is too ill to doctor himself he is too ill to live.

Animals know better than man what kind of food they need. They restrict their diet when ill, keep quiet, seek restful places where they can be alone. They also seek clean water. If a dog loses his appetite he eats "dog grass." A sick cat delights in catnip. When deer or cattle have rheumatism they find a sulphur spring and drink the healing mineral waters. They also lie in the warm sun.

Cats have various home remedies. When they have a feverish foot they dip it in cold water, when they have a cold they lie before a warm hearth. Rats and mais know how to treat a sore eye. They lie in the dark, lick the eye carefully and cover over the eye. A rheumatic wolf bathes in the warm water of a sulphur spring. A feverish deer will eat the fresh leaves of a tree. A wounded hog or bear will seek a red clay bath to heal the wounds. Even porcupines, who have no doctor themselves, but some of them, do have the right herbal food to make artificial heat by rubbing noses with a foul-cabin trawler and hired a six-man crew. They plan a leisurely voyage to wherever their fancy takes them.

Bronx Zoo Menus Use Many Foods

(By Mart Weisinger, in The Saturday Evening Post)

Sometimes Lee S. Crandall, curator of the Bronx Zoo, in New York, finds himself wondering how ever he got into the menagerie which accompanied him on the Ark.

Wild animals are very finicky about their bill of fare, and it is up to Crandall to keep 2,446 of them happy. He does it by whipping up a daily menu of 252 different foods, ranging from fresh sheep's blood for the vampire bats to ant-eggs for the apes; and his chores include such side issues as asking a keeper's wife to bottle-feed the lion cubs at her home when Mamma Lion tires of the job. Crandall is glad that Walter the Walrus is no longer on exhibit. Wall used to eat forty pounds of clams a day, but would not touch one unless it was personally shucked by his keeper.

* * *

The zoo's fussiest epicures are the duck-billed platypuses, which live earthworms but refused to eat frozen ones while being flown to New York from Australia last year. This hunger strike was broken by flying 10,000 active worms from the zoo's earthworm farm at Panama, where a dock strikers en route. Now the platypuses eat only frogs and crayfish flown up from New Orleans.

Some years ago when beef got too costly, Crandall directed the zoo's carnivorous animals be switched to horse meat. For three days the lions, tigers and cougars haughtily passed up the cheaper fare, but on the fourth day they swallowed their pride — and the horse meat. Later, when the big cats were offered a meal of beef, they spurned it and roared irascibly for their equine steaks and chops.

* * *

In the Bronx Park storage barns timothy, clover and alfalfa are packed in hundred-ton lots to meet the tastes of the elephants, hippos and deer. Peter the Great, a 3,200-pound Nile hippopotamus, daily puts away eighty-five pounds of hay, six loaves of bread, a gallon of mash and a bushel of vegetables. The birdhouse menu requires a wider variety of foodstuffs than the Waldorf serves. Not only must the birds be fed special diets — like flamingos, for example, require odd ingredients to bring out the richness of their plumage — but the appetites of some have to be satisfied at five-minute intervals. Hummingbirds must have food in their cages at all times.

* * *

Chow time at the zoo is a study in contrasts. The babirusa, a kind of wild hog, wolfs his food down in ten minutes, while the kangaroo picks over his daily dinner for hours. The kinkajou, when given a ripe banana, peels over on his back and holds the fruit on that every drop of juice will trickle into his gullet.

The tiny African antelopes known as duikers are so ravenous that if they miss one meal they are liable to gorge and choke on the next.

Five Time Zones Prove Headache To Network Boss

By JACK McNEIL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Einstein excepted, no one in North America gives more thought to the bamboozling relationships between space and time than the boss of CBC network management.

Herbert (Bud) Walker, manager of the CBC's Dominion network, is haunted by the specter of a listener in Victoria munching high tea while his counterpart in Halifax heads wearily for the haystack. When Walker has to time a Dominion-wide program for convenient listening from one end of the country to the other this spectre becomes a nightmare. When it's 9 p.m. in Toronto, an hour for symphony listening, it's 6 p.m. in Vancouver—and who wants Mozart with Martinis?

Walker uses two different programming methods to beat this problem:

1. The "recorded delay". This is simply recording the program as it comes in over the network and rebroadcasting it at an appropriate time. Most delayed by groups may meet at a convenient hour in Canada's five different time zones.

Many big-name programs in the United States—the Jack Benny show, for one—are often repeated when the original show is staged in its entirety three times. A wire, is haunted by the specter of a listener in Victoria munching high tea while his counterpart in Halifax heads wearily for the haystack. When Walker has to time a Dominion-wide program for convenient listening from one end of the country to the other this spectre becomes a nightmare. When it's 9 p.m. in Toronto, an hour for symphony listening, it's broadcasts at a time convenient for farmers. 6

On Berlin Problem

Western Powers' firmness with Russia has been shown by Foreign Secretary Bevin who told the British Commons this week that Britain, France and the United States are in "absolute agreement on the policy to be pursued by these nations together, if the talks over Berlin fail to bring a solution.

Mr. Bevin was firm and in his statement on the situation he affirmed that the Powers would be able to carry on the Berlin lift through the winter if "this senseless blockade continues." The combination of two air forces, he assured, would make this possible.

The three nations have sent identical notes to the Kremlin asking Premier Stalin if the Russian government is willing to solve these issues which have been under discussion for two months, and to end the present situation, the Russian blockade of Berlin. These reports were agreed upon at meetings of the Foreign Ministers in Paris after they had consulted the military governors in Germany.

There has been a complete deadlock and the opinion has been growing that Russia has been avoiding any agreement in the hope that the Western Powers might be forced to leave the German capital through the rigor of winter.

Mr. Bevin declared regarding the policy in event of failure to find a solution or reach an agreement, that "I am not saying by that, that we are committed to war." There is a feeling said to be felt in France that the presentation of the united stand of the Powers in asking for a decision might lead Russia to "execute on of its sudden shifts of policy," comments the New York Times. It has been pointed out that the notes are not directed to Foreign Miinister Molotov, but rather to the Kremlin with the implication that they are intended for Mr. Stalin.

The British Foreign Secretary in his address to the British Commons made it clear that the lifting of the blockade is a condition on which any settlement should be based.

British Agriculture Expands

British agriculture is becoming highly mechanized, a development which might not have been seen a few years ago. Today there are 40,000 more tractors and 68,000 more tractor trailers than there had been.

The horse which for so many centuries along with man labor carried on British farming is rapidly being supplanted by the internal combustion engine as might be expected from the figures of the increase in tractors and tractor trailers.

Britain in fact has advanced so far in mechanization that she is said to be as highly mechanized in agriculture as any country in the world.

The extreme pressure of food requirements of these latter years has increased the British acreage under tillage. During the past twelve months according to the Ministry of Agriculture 263,000 acres have been added to the area devoted to food production.

Britain ingenuity is revealed in the fact that hundreds of acres of valuable fertile land are now being reclaimed from the sea.

All along the line there are increases in farming in the Old Country, there are 15,000 more farm workers than there were and there are heavy increases in the livestock.

The Human Atom

Prof. Roger J. Williams, Texas University biochemist, told the American Association for the Advancement of Science last week that while scientists have learned a great deal about the atom of matter, they are still abysmally ignorant about the atom of society — the human individual, a much more explosive entity than the atomic bomb. He declared:

"What we lack most of all today is an adequate knowledge of what people are like — ourselves — the real human beings who inhabit our favorite planet. Civilization is not threatened by atomic bombs and biological warfare today —it is threatened by ourselves. . . . If civilization goes down, man will be his own undoing; the instruments and tools that he uses will not be the source of the trouble."

He pointed out some of the ways in which he thought human beings were being misdirected. The tendency to force everyone into the same mold is an important causative factor in insanity, he said. Individuality must be taken into account.—Woodstock Sentinel Review.

JUST FOLKS

THE BARBER FROM BAD AXE

I've been told that whenever he has a day off
The barber from Bad Axe
goes out to play golf;
And whenever I'd challenge
him, true to his trade,
His skill with the clippers he proudly displayed.
So the tables I turned, and I asked him if he
In a four-ball engagement my partner would be.

He put down his scissors and dangled his comb,
Saying: "Rather than that
I'd prefer to stay home.
But if that's how you want it,
since business is slack,
Tough a load you will be, just get up on my back
And I'll carry you round till the struggle is done."
Which he did, and, because of his playing, we won!

I peeked and my putts were both weird and absurd,
But the barber from Bad Axe said never a word.
He drove like a pro and his
irons were true;
He was two over par when the scoring was through.
And I hope when those comrades again challenge me,
That the Barber from Bad Axe
my partner will be.

WATCH OUT FOR THE BARBARIAN

Anthropoligists and psychologists are constantly warning us that there is only a thin crust separating civilization from barbarism. In fact it takes only a race riot or the breaking of a picket line or the opportunity to practice cruelty unrebuked to turn vast hordes of people into barbarians.

Barbarism seemed fifty years ago to have been effectively wiped out of existence the world over. But a terrible thing happened. Defeated at our frontiers, barbarism re-emerged in our midst in the form of Nazism or Fascism. With all their claims of a supporting philosophy, these systems were nothing more than ancient barbarism descended upon the modern world with scientific weapons.

And let us never forget that in every country there is plenty of latent barbarism ready to spring up and destroy us. Dean Inge has written: "Ancient civilizations were destroyed by imported barbarians; we breed our own." Much so-called "progress" is a frantic attempt to evade the disciplines involved in true progress and to choose instead the easy-going indulgences of barbarism.

Watch out for the Barbarian. He isn't dead yet by a long shot. He lives in American cities as well as in African jungles.

Yvonne Brouillette Given 10 Years For Manslaughter

Toronto, Sept. 25 (CP)—Convicted of manslaughter in the hatchet-slaying of John Farrell last July, Yvonne Brouillette Friday was sentenced to 10 years in prison by Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay.

The shapely brunette, who was tried for murder earlier this week but who was convicted of the lesser charge, accepted the sentence ithout rtace of emotion.

Miss Brouillette, 38, formerly of Narcisse, Que., had pleaded self-defence, claiming she struck Farrell, a short-order cook, when he beat her in a drunken quarrel in the couple's roominghouse bedroom. She said he had threatened to take her life.

Evidence showed she had found the scout-type hatchet, with which she struck Farrell, in the basement of the house. She had wielded it about his head 35 times.

SWEDISH POLITICAL ROUND-TABLE

—Central Press Canadian

On the eve of the Swedish national election, the first since the war's end, the heads of Sweden's five big parties met at a political radio-discussion at Stockholm, which was broadcast over the entire nation. They are, from left to right—around the table—Sven Linderot, Communist party; Gunnar Hedlund, Peasant's party; Fritiof Domo, the Conservatives; Bertil Ohlin, Liberals; Ernst Wigfross, finance minister, member of the Social Democrats; Prime Minister Tage Erlander, head of the Social Democrat party and (back to the camera) Governor Conrad Jonsson, chairman of the discussion. In the election the Social Democrats again won a majority in the lower house of parliament, maintaining their position as the nation's leading party. More than three million Swedes cast their ballots.

Lester Pearson Nominated In Algoma East

Espanola, Sept. 25 (CP) —Lester B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister, Friday was formally nominated Liberal candidate for Algoma East in the Oct. 25 Feredal by-election.

He told a nominating convention he is ready to fight anyone who contests the seat he decided to seek upon his appointment recently as Acting Prime Minister St. Laurent's successor in the External Affairs post.

No one else has been nominated to date for the seat vacated by Senator Thomas Farquhar when he was named to the Upper House.

In the first political speech of his career, he said that in the C.C.F. chose to oppose him in the riding there would be no complain on his par. He called on the 150 delegates at the convention to help him put up a worthy fight that would do honor to the Liberal party.

Turning to world affairs, he said International Communism harnessed to Imperialism posed a threat to peace. But there was "nothing in the present situation to get jittery about," he said.

"I don't think any government wants war or any people wants war. To that extent we are immeasurably better off than in 1939 because the Nazis, then in their madness, deliberately provoked war."

He pledged his future as minister of the establishment, at the earliest possible moment, of a collective group of Democratic and freedom loving states "that will have more power to set in opposition than our enemies can get together."

Canada could take care of the Communist threat within her borders by keeping the nation's economy healthy. But when domestic Communism became allied with Imperialism abroad, it could only be offset by collective security.

Mackenzie's Column: Many Thinking Russians Staging Enormous Bluff

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

A crude sign was found the other day pinned on the garden door of 10 Downing Street, residence of many generations or British Prime Ministers and now occupied by Clement Attlee. The notice advised him:

"Moscow is bluffing."

The seer who made that sign wasn't the only one who has a notion the Russians are staging an enormous bluff. You hear the remark frequently, generally by folk who hold that the "bluff" should be called by a display of force.

That is a terribly foolish and dangerous assumption. True there undoubtedly are times when the Russians do bluff, and I dare say the same is true of the western democracies. Diplomatic strategy has worked that way on occasions.

However, the world revolution for the spread of Communism is no bluff. It is the greatest menace mankind has faced.

There was no bluff in the rape of Czechoslovakia, or in the conquest of the rest of Eastern Europe. The United States has just called the turn in blunt terms on Bolshevist operations in Bulgaria.

American Minister Donald R. Heath has delivered to the Bulgarian Foreign Ministry a note which accuses the Communist government of Bulgaria with ruthlessly smashing democratic freedom in that country. The communication charges that the Communists there have resorted to the use of "involuntary servitude, banishment, concentration camps, imprisonment, torture and execution."

Blames U.S.

The occasion for this note was a speech by Foreign Minister Kolarov in aPrliament, blaming the United States for Bulgaria's failure to gain membership in the United Nations.

He declared Bulgaria had met its peace treaty obligations scrupulously. The American note said it simply isn't true that Bulgaria has met its treaty obligations.

Rearmament Under Way.

If Britain and the United States thought Moscow was bluffing they wouldn't be engaged in such sweeping rearmament programs. Defence Minister A. V. Alexander startled the Commons in London a couple of days ago with the statement that Britain's rearmament program was moving so fast he had no figures on its cost. Simultaneously the navy, marines and air force announced urgent campaigns to build up strong reserves in readiness for any war emergency. All men and women who served in Britain's wartime armies are subject to recall.

These preparations don't mean that Britain and the United States think war is just around the corner.

But the democracies aren't treating the Communist threat as a bluff which can be handled by appeasement.

BEWARE THIS MORBID SUGGESTION

In the sucker bait distributed by the proprietors of a string of colon filling stations the prospect reads this:

"Putrefaction germs produce highly poisonous toxins, many of which closely resemble the venom of snakes and minute quantities are capable of producing the most alarming and listressing symptoms . . . The ultimate effects are colitis, billiousness . . . hardening of the arteries . . . even insanity . . ."

Have you diabetes, sucker? Just read on:

"Autointoxication, toxic poisons, must be corrected first before the diabetes itself will respond . . . The disease results in an effort of the body to eliminate waste, mucus and toxemias."

I had to read that last sentence three times before I began to understand that it would take a Philadelphia lawyer to know what in Sam Hill the promoter means to say. Is it that the body makes no effort to eliminate "waste, mucus and toxemias" unless the individual first gets diabetes, If not, then push over, knuckleheads, I'm as dumb and credulous as you are.

If you take any of that sophomoronic sales talk seriously you'll probably be appalled to learn that most wild and dometic animals and most wild and civilized human beings constantly cultivate lockjaw germs (tetanus) in the intestinal tract, and if such germs get into a cut, puncture, powder burn, dog bite, cat scratch or other wound inflicted by wild or domestic animal or bird, they manufacture the toxin that causes lockjaw or tetanus. But it is just plumb silly to imagine that this or any other known toxin or "toxi poison" is ever absorbed into the blood or the body from the elimentary tract, evn though the intestinal function be kept constantly deranged by the use of laxatives, cathartics, enemas and whatnot.

In the large intestine protein putrefaction is a constant and normal occurrence. This is a fact of physiology. It is not only normal and harmless but probably beneficial as a part of digestion, for the bacteria of putrefaction acting on whatever protein many have escaped digestion in stomach and small intestine, splitting up the protein molecule into aminco-acids. The theory that putrefaction in the large intestine produces "toxins" which are absorbed and bring about premature aging, so successfully advanced by Metchnikoff fifty years ago, is now almost forgotten. In scientific experiments young animals, say chickens, kept from birth on sterilized (germ-free) food fail to gain weight or lose steadily in weight, and only when natural germ - containing food is restored do they begin to grow normally. This is what we should expect, in view of the importance of the amino-acids as building bricks.

Remember, we are speaking of the physiology of the healthy individual. This is not to imply that excessive bacterial action in the large bowel or in the small bowel, or a diet excessively nitrogenous (protein) or excessively carbohydrate (sugar, starch) may not lead to intestinal trouble. The ideal diet is one that is kept balanced in this respect, namely, that it includes reasonable proportions of nitrogenous or high protein foods such as meat, eggs, milk, cheese and fish on the one hand, and carbohydrate foods, such as vegetables, cereals and fruit on the other — with no particular kind of food either overemphasized or excluded without specific medical advice.

The Packsack of Gregory Clark

The sea serpent myth has had several thorough expositions this past summer. From the port hole of a Great Lakes steamer, a cabin maid saw a monster that made the front pages all across Canada. It was at least forty, maybe a hundred feet long. Its head stood up from the water and had long horns or ears that flapped horribly.

It was a ghastly brownish color, suitable to something dug up from the nether depths. It writhed and twisted across the surface, kicking up a spray as it travelled.

I saw several of these monsters, this past summer. They were flocks of young mergansers or fish ducks. A family of mergansers will number twelve or fifteen. As soon as the nestlings can travel, the mother duck leads them to join up with neighboring families. It is not at all uncommon to see fifty to seventy-five mergansers in one flock, with half a dozen adult females among them and the rest "flappers," which is the correct name for young ducks not yet able to fly.

When they are still too young to have been taught to dive after fish, the young mergensers form a procession, a long line of forty or more of them. I have seen 120 in one flock. At the head of the snake of birds, head to tail, rides a female who regularly rises on her end and flaps her wings vigorously. At intervals in the single-file procession, other adult females are stationed, and occasionally they too rise and give their wings a few beats. On an oily evening sea of the Great Lakes, it requires little imagination to convert this procession of hustling fish ducks into a sea monster with horns at its head, ears flapping and waving its fins now and then down its long and grisly length.

The most petrifying sea serpent I ever saw, apart from a German submarine, was a driftwood pine tree. Its bark was worn all away, until it appeared slimy and greasy as it wallowed i nthe slow waves. Its roots stuck up, gray and horrible, like horns. I fired five shots into it, from a high velocity rifle!

TROUNCE KITCHENER

Toronto, Sept. 25 (CP)—Toronto St. Michael's College seniors Friday night trounced a squad from St. Jerome's College, Kitchener, 16-10, in an exhibition football game here.

A quarterback sneak by Al McGillivray from four yards out, gave St. Mike's a 5-0 lead in the first quarter. By halftime, Toronto had doubled its lead to 10-0.

EDUCATION BEST MEANS

Toronto, Sept. 25 (CP)—Dr. H. J. Cody, former 0resident of the University of Toronto, said Friday that education is the best means of safeguarding democracy. In a Rotary Club address, he said also that education 'is one of the main instruments we possess to combat juvenile delinquency and the moral decline in the community due to the war.'

P.C. Convention Not "Rigged" For Any Candidate

Ottawa, Sept. 22. (CP)—Claims that next week's Progressive Conservative Convention is being "rigged" in favor of any leadership candidate are "unadulterated bunk", R. A. Bell, the party's national director, said, Friday.

"There has been no 'rigging' or 'packing'. All I am prepared to give the lie to anyone who so asserts," Mr. Bell declared at a press conference.

Mr. Bell was replying particularly to "rigging" reports growing out of the claim of E. L. R. Williams of Ottawa that he had been rejected as an Ontario delegate-at-large because he supports John Diefenbaker, Lake Centre member of the Commons. He is prominent on the Ottawa Diefenbaker-Leader Committee.

Mr. Bell said the 1,311 delegates had been chosen under a system laid down at the last party convention in 1942.

All delegates representing specific ridings were picked at meetings of party supporters in those ridings, he said, and none were chosen by the High Command of the organization.

Delegates-at-large—seventeen each provinces as a while rather than individual ridings—were chosen by the provincial executives or by committees named by the executives.

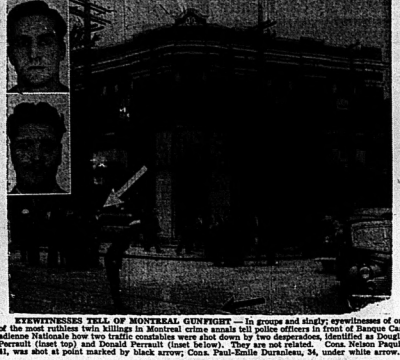
It is around the selection of the delegates at large from some provinces—notably Ontario and Quebec—that there have been suggestions of rigging.

No Intention of Packing

But Mr. Bell said that in Quebec the delegates at large were picked by a group of 20 persons.

"It is inconceivable," he added, "that 50 leading citizens would come to a meeting with the intention of packing a convention."

In Ontario, he said, it had been a question of selecting 32 delegates at large from more than 500 names submitted. It was inevitable many had to be left off.



The number of places left open, Mr. Bell said, was further narrowed down by the fact that the bulk of the Ontario list was made up of persons who had to be included such as those holding or having held official positions in the party or in former Progressive Conservative governments.

Referring specifically to Mr. Williamson, Mr. Bell said he was a comparative newcomer to the party.

In selecting the delegates representing ridings, the national director said, these were chosen either at meetings of the local associations or, where there were no associations, at meetings of local party supporters. This procedure had been followed out in every riding in the country.

Ogdensburg Wins Border Loop In Five Straight

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 25 — (AP) — Ogdensburg Maples Friday night won the Border Baseball League playoff title, but they had to win five straight games to take the best-of-seven series.

They ended the playoffs Friday night with an 8-7, ninth-inning victory over Watertown Athletics. The game was a replay.

A protest was entered by James F. Doyle, Watertown club owner, after the Maples won the second encounter of the final series, 8-6, Tuesday.

Doyle claimed that the pitcher's slab at the Ogdensburg park was two feet short of the required 60-foot distance from home plate. His protest was upheld by George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Trautman ordered the game replayed and directed the Ogdensburg club to turn over the proceeds of the disputed contest to local charities.

Ottawa Nationals, who won the league pennant, fell in the semi-finals.

American League Turns Up Three-Way Tie for Top as Yanks Trip Red Sox and Indians Bow

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Two's company and three's a crowd, the old saying goes and that's exactly how Boston Red Sox, Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees feel today.

All three of the American League teams are in a flatfooted tie for the circuit leadership but by nightfall there will be some elbow room.

The Yanks and Detroit Tigers are responsible for this thrilling situation. The Yanks slaughtered the Red Sox 9-2 Friday and the Tigers upset the Indians 4-3.

Boston and Cleveland began the day's activities tied for the top but now all three of the contenders boast the same won lost record—91156. .619 and all have just seven games left to play.

The Red Sox and Yanks go at each other again today while the Indians take on the fifth place Tigers in Detroit. Thus at the most only two teams can share the lead come Sunday morning and should the Indians bow, only one will be in the catbird seat.

Billy Johnson, Bobby Brown and Joe Page were the Yanks who darned the Sox before a disappointing turnout of 33,000 paid customers.

Johnson, who gave way to Brown in the starting line-up got into the game as a pinch hitter for Yogi Berra in the fifth inning and belted a three run homer. The blow, off relief and losing pitcher Earl Johnson, highlighted a four run rally that enabled the Yanks to overcome a 5-3 deficit.

Brown whaled two triples and a double, drove in two runs and scored three. His two bagger in the fifth set up Johnson's game wrecking blast. With Page relieved starter Vic Raschi, who was gunning for his 20th victory in the two run Red Sox fourth and pitched brilliant clutch ball the rest of the way. He allowed eight hits but fanned six in picking up his seventh victory.

Outpitches Bob Lemon

The shining lights in the Tiger triumph were pitcher Fred Hutchison and outfielders Dick Wakefield and Vic Wertz.

Hutchison, although rocked for homers by Larry Doby. Ken Keltner and Joe Gordon, stopped the Indians on seven hits in outpitching Lemon in the 20-game winner, Bob Lemon.

Wakefield drove in the first Tiger run and scored the second while Wertz broke up the game with a two run seventh inning double to snap a 2-2 stalemate. The defeat ended a seven game Cleveland winning streak.

In the only other game played in the American League Chicago White Sox shaded St. Louis Browns 4-3 in a night game at St. Louis.

The second place St. Louis Cardinals behind the brilliant five hit pitching of Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, stopped Chicago Cubs 4-1 in the National League's top game. The victory was Brecheen's 19th, best production of his major League career.

In the remaining National League game Cincinnati Reds edged the Pirates 4-3 in a night game.

Crown's Case In Murder Trial Nearly Completed

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 25 (CP)—The crown's case against Richard Rivers, 19, on trial for murder in the hotelroom strangle-slaying July 23 of his 21-year-old sister-in-law, may be completed today. But the hearing, now in its sixth day, is expected to extend into next week.

The victim's husband, Leonard Rivers, 18, testified late Friday that a narrow leather belt found tightly drawn around the neck of the girl's beaten body belonged to his brother, the powerfully-built young Ojibway in the prisoner's box.

Leonard Rivers said he saw the belt two days before the slaying. He said he helped Richards pack when he and his brother left a firefighting job at Rawhide Lake, northwest of Blind River, July 21st.

"I rolled the belt up and put it in his duffel bag as we were packing."

Leonard Rivers said he married the girl in May, 1947. A child was born six weeks later. Three weeks after the marriage, he left his wife—"she was jealous and suspicious" — and after that he saw her only occasionally.

He identified as his wife's several articles of clothing found in the death room.

In a statement admitted as evidence at the start of Friday's hearing, Richard Rivers said he took his sister-in-law to bed but he did not remember killing her.

He said he "passed out" after drinking beer and whisky with the girl in the bedroom. When he came to, he was walking on the lumber town's main street about 4.30 a.m. the next day. He returned to the hotel room and saw the body on the bed.

He said in the statement that he had sexual relations with the girl. Regarding the killing he said:

"Maybe I done it and maybe I didn't. It was all a blank to me."

Hospital Employees Unwittingly Helped Two Clever Forgers

Toronto, Sept. 25. (CP)—Police said Friday night that 14 employees of Sunnybrook Veterans hospital here unwittingly helped two clever forgers to obtain Veterans Affairs Department cheques worth approximately $600 which were later raised to $14,000 and honored by banks in Toronto, Barrie, Bradford, Orillia, London and Oshawa.

Detectives said one of the forgers posing as an obliging insurance salesman, gave lifts in his automobile to Sunnybrook employees and then offered to cash their cheques for them "to save them the trouble of going away down town to the bank".

Police last week arrested Hugh McIntosh, 30, of Brandon, Man., and charged him with forgeries amounting to $12,000 in five Western Canadian cities. Since then they have questioned McIntosh and a companion, Raymond Jackson, 24, from Eastern Canada, in connection with the Toronto forgeries.

Bank-Robber Killers Elude Police Dragnet

Montreal, Sept. 25. (CP)—Latest reports from police here today indicated that two men wanted for the murder of two police constables here have joined forces again after being separated when chased by police Thursday.

The two bandits were reported seen in the South St. Lawrence River shore town of Varennes, Que., by a garage attendant who told police that Donald Perrault, with Douglas Perrault in the car, had stopped at his garage for gasoline and to have their automobile greased a few whours after the Banque Canadienne Nationale in Montreal's east end was held up and two constables killed.

He said that he knows the men by sight, but did not at the time know they were wanted by Montreal police.

This lead proved the best of hundreds that citizens have been flooding headquarters with as police, determined to avenge the killings of constables Paul-Emile Duranleau and Nelson Paquin by two bank bandits Thursday afternoon, blocked bridges and roads and searched underground haunts.

A reward of $1,000 each for the Perrault was offered Friday by city yeffichals. A civic funeral will eb held Monday for the two constables.

An accomplice, Noel Cloutier, 24, who was captured shortly after the shooting in an 80-mile-an-hour chase along Notre Dame Street, and from which Douglas Perrault escaped, told police Friday that the three men met in a tavern and decided on the spur of the moment to "pull the job".

TO HYDRO USERS

THE HYDRO ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO has issued instructions, under the Power Commission Act and the Public Utilities Act, which gives the Commission power to allocate and distribute electrical power and the use of electrical power, that a cut of at least 10% in consumption must be made immediately.

THE MANUFACTURERS of Belleville, at a meeting held September 20, reduced their consumption by at least 10%. Some may possibly shift part of their working hours to Saturday.

ALL DOMESTIC CONSUMERS are requested to cut down electrical power to a minimum and unless this is done more severe restrictions will be placed on the manufacturers and this will impose a further cut in the take-home pay envelopes.

EACH AND EVERY CITIZEN is called upon to help in this emergency. We have issued instructions to cut down street lighting and the stores will co-operate in black-outs of windows and a general decrease in store lighting.

UNLESS IMMEDIATE ACTION is taken by all concerned, more drastic measures will have to be put into force to solve the problem of electrical conservation.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Should Young People Marry Afraid Before Marriage?

Typical of many letters which come to me from teen-agers is the following:

"My boy friend and I have been going together for over a year. He has asked me to be his fair with him and has told me there would be no hanging it. He says I wouldn't get into any trouble. Please advise me on this matter.

I am glad that this girl has the good sense to ask somebody's advice. Unfortunately, a great many other girls bar any write their letters after they have yielded to the persuasion of their boy friends and have either gotten into definite trouble or become panic-stricken that they may do so.

While it is not difficult to understand that when two young people feel a very strong attachment for each other the temptation to let go of all inhibitions is hard to withstand. In spite of this, however, it is not easy to see how, if a girl goes to bed with confidently to write a letter about the matter, she can really have there is more than one answer to the question, the very fact that there is doubt enough in a girl's mind so that she delays her own decision about whether or not to enter into an affair until she has taken time to consider what the person is evidence that she strongly suspects it would be a very foolish, if not very dangerous, thing to do.

There is, of course, only one answer to the question and that is an unqualified no, for any girl who allows herself to be persuaded to give way to her sensitive and desires has far more to lose than she can ever hope to gain. In the vast majority of such affairs one person or the other wearies of the relationship, and then someone is apt to be badly hurt and disillusioned, usually the girl, for an affair not this sort means more to the girl than it does to the boy who, in nine cases out of ten, has no thought of eventual marriage. Any girl most invariably believes that an eventual marriage will condone the affair.

Another reason for avoiding the pre-marital affair is because of the great chance of pregnancy, disease or both. And still another is that a girl is very likely to find that she's given a dead and buried cow, may rise up to haunt her some way or another when a man who really wants to marry her comes along.

These are only a few of the many reasons that might be enumerated for warning girls that the person away from sexual relationships before marriage. I trust that all the girls who have been writing to me recently about this matter will take warning of them serious consideration.

Women's Activities

MADOC W.I.

Madoc—Mrs. Will Parks was hostess to the W.I. for their Sept. meeting. The attendance was good considering the number of demands of canning, pickling and threshing at this season.

The secretary reported that the Tag day realized for the W.I. in aid of the Belleville Hospital Auxiliary netted a return of $60.60 and a contribution for the work of the Committee and the girls who acted as taggers was appreciated.

Arrangements were made for the W.I. booth at Madoc Fair and other matters pertaining to the fair were discussed.

The possibility of forming a girls' W.I. was discussed and Miss Jan Johnson undertook to make a canvass of the teen age girls and see if sufficient were interested to help organize a club.

A short report of the North Hastings W.I. Rally was given. Seven from the Madoc Branch attended and enjoyed the hospitality of the Ivanhoe W.I. at a delightful luncheon. The highlight of the afternoon program was the address by Mrs. Braine, a visitor from England, who during the past three months has addressed many institutes in Ontario. She reported a remarkable growth in W.I. in England. From the first one organized in 1915 to 7,000 branches. They look with respect to the Ontario Federation as the mother of Institutes. Current events were given by Mrs. A. Bailey.

A pleasant social hour was spent at the close of the business program. Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Wallbridge assisting the hostess in serving refreshments.

Graduation Party Held in Q.A. School Hall

On Monday evening, approximately sixty graduates and their parents were guests of the Young Alexandra Home and School Club at a graduation party held in the school auditorium. The girls were presented with corsages and the boys with boutonnieres.

The president, Mrs. R. Buchanan, welcomed the guests and the meeting was officially opened with "O Canada."

The graduates were assembled on the stage with Mr. Anderson and Mr. Wallace, their teachers, and Mr. A. Allen, in a very acceptable manner presented individual diplomas certificates.

Mr. Harold Seldon, Chairman of the Board of Education, presented the Queen Alexandra Home and School Club's annual award for general proficiency, to Deportment and co-operation to Edward Richardson.

Dr. Bert Howard, Principal of Albert College, guest speaker, in the evening was introduced by School Administrator L. A. Kells. The theme of Dr. Howard's address to the graduating class was "The Five Steps to Worthwhile Living."

Graduating student, Buddy Batchelor, very capably thanked the speaker for his fine address and words of encouragement.

Those participating in the program included Dorothy Lewis, who gave a splendid reading; piano duet by Jean Tonkin and Bill Campbell, and a piano solo by Donna Cameron. Mr. N. F. Tonkin took pictures of the graduates.

Lately following the presentation of certificates the hostess in serving refreshments.

Neck Needs Nightly Massage

A pretty neck needs just as much care as a pretty face, says Screen Star Martha Hyer, who gives here a nightly massage.

By HELEN FOLLETT

HAS the summer been tough on your neck? Constant exposure of sunburn can be most persistent, stay right there for months. It would be well for you to consider this matter. Take a small mirror, look in a large one, get a backward view. You may spot a colony of freckles that have flown. Freckles don't care where they land.

When applying cream at night to your neck complexion, start far down on your chest and work upward. Give your shoulders a little attention, too. Smooth up and down on your throat, up and down under your ears, up and down at the back. Muscles and tissues of these parts are what need not be gentle. The stronger the friction, the more discolored the scales you will remove.

In the morning wash face and neck with a mild bleach and sponge with a mild bleach made by combining equal parts of peroxide and strained lemon juice. See that the peroxide is from a fresh bottle; it will be more effective than if it has been standing in the medicine cabinet for some time. Let it dry on. It will help remove the damage done by strong sunlight.

The thin, scrawny neck is benefited by massage with a heavy cream.

Exercises for Neck

Neck exercises are normalizing, just as good for the thin ones as the plumpies. Sit tall, hands on hips. Take a deep breath, heaving the chest high and, while holding your breath, turn the head as far to the side as possible. . Exhale, back to facing position and repeat.

Be fussy about necklines of frocks. The wide V's cut for plump necks, the round for thin ones. The woman who is blessed with a beautiful neck will find the square cut flattering.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BRECKMAN

Threw Away the Inferiority Complex "Excuse . . . and Please "Excuse . . . and Thank You Is Dance Well

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am shy and self-conscious and am finding it very difficult to become a graceful dancer. The other day I read that an orchestra leader says that the reason why poor dancers are poor dancers is because they have an inferiority complex. I am sure I have just that . . but does that mean that I can never become a good dancer?

Betty R.

No! But as long as you hug to yourself the superficial excuse that you are shy and "self-conscious" and have an inferiority complex, you won't make real progress in learning to dance. You must forget that you are desperately and ridiculously concerned with how you look and how you are doing that your thoughts will be taken up with this rather than in lightheartedly (and light-footedly) concentrating on the rhythm and following the lead of your partner. Perhaps . . and I hope so . . you have a devoted cousin or boy-friend who will give you some practice . . also it would be a good idea to save your pennies and take as many dancing lessons as your purse will permit. Becoming a good dancer is probably just what you need to bring you out of your own shell (how awful to be shy as I am) mood, to change your ingrowing personality to a more outgoing personality. Make up your mind to abandon all that inferiority nonsense. Learn to dance . . . learn to dance well . . and have fun!

Wedding Anniversary Invitations Can be very Inexpensive

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would it be a social breach of etiquette to invite guests by telephone to my silver wedding anniversary? And also would it be proper to request an acceptance or regret of the invitation at that time? I am concerned about making this occasion as inexpensive as possible.

P. R.

If (as I judge) this wedding anniversary celebration is to be an informal one, whether large or small, it would be entirely proper to invite the guests by telephone or by personal call. But the party is to be an informal gathering of relatives and friends. In the majority of cases it would not be necessary to "request" an answer to your invitation, for quite naturally the guests would know whether or not they can accept. A few may explain that they "will let you know later" (and these usually and naturally explain the reason for the delay for whatever it is) but also quite sure that we will be in town on that date").

However, I like much better the written invitations for such an important occasion as a Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary . . and at a very slight cost you can buy plain white folded-over cards (informals) write your names . . Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ray . . on the front page, the date-anniversary in the lower right corner, and your informal invitations inside. Like this:

Dear Edna:

Phil and I are celebrating our Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary on Saturday, the first of November, from four to seven o'clock . . . and it would make us so happy if you and Tom will drop in at any time during those hours. Please tell us we can expect you.

Cordially,

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Demountable Eyelashes

When you have seen a close up of the lovely heroine on the silver screen and observed that her eyelashes appear to be inches long, are you filled with envy? You needn't be. They are not home grown. Nature never produced them of such length. The natural growth is supplemented by additional lashes that are attached with an adhesive agent.

You can go and do it if you like. Some of the larger beauty shops have special operators who do the work. They have to be artists, in a way. The silky, hair-like strands must be carefully trimmed to a becoming length and in a manner to suit the wearer's features. With proper care, they need only be replaced for a fortnight or longer. The charge for this treatment is not excessive, as charges in beauty shops go these days.

Here is the method, in case you are interested. The operator places a small dab of the lashes on the back of her left hand. In a porcelain bowl she has a liquid adhesive in transparent, colorless solution that will do no injury to the eye. With a pointed-tipped tweezers the operator lifts a single shaft from the hand, dips the lower end in the adhesive, applies it to the under side of the person's own lashes.

These extras art applied to the upper lid only. When the newcomer's lashes are thin and scant, two spares are applied to each shaft of her own.

With a small pair of scissors the artificial lashes are trimmed to the most becoming length. Specialists in the trade have worked out a system that is interesting.

They find that close-set eyes will appear wider if the lashes are cut at the same length. Eyes are shorter at the inner corner of the eye, fairly long at the outer terminal. When the eyes are set far apart, the method is reserved. Lashes here are narrow, and an appearance of roundness would them look better. For a more beguiling, the extra shafts

The artificial lashes may be trimmed to the most becoming length are left fairly long in the center, not so long at the sides.

If customers have tweezed their eyebrows to the under side until they are lifted far beyond the normal line, the lashes can be long and heavy. If the eye brow is set low, lashes must not be the same length.

Also, these smart ones say that curly lashes are not becoming to all types, though all types favor them. Incidently, we wish to add that the trade term for this treatment is "eye styling."

What won't they think of next?

Fashion Flashes

SIMPLE, with a well-chosen touch of trimming, is the formula for a one-piece dress, and this is distinguished from afternoon-into-evening things. Sheer gray wool is used for a frock that uses cut steel beads to make a wide scalloped border, stand-up collar and shaped shoulders. It is assembled with a barrel muff. Same models are in beaver or sable-dyed squirrel.

RISING in popularity is gray fur, with the emphasis, of course, on gray Persian lamb. Steel gray Persian lamb makes a handsome three-quarter-length coat, with a very full six-flared back, slim front and sides. Shawl collar and cuffs turn that end in peaked points.

DRESSING UP plain suits and coats this winter will be through the use of fur pieces. Here's a piece, a nice idea for the budget-minded. An American broadtail is used for a Victorian collar with a deep scalloped border, stand-up collar and shaped shoulders. It is assembled with a barrel muff. Same models are in beaver or sable-dyed squirrel.

AVAILABLE in every type of fabric is the useful, easy-to-slip-into coat dress. Here's one fairly lined suits, good for afternoon, for restaurant and theatre wear. The majority use simple lines and a trim yet unobtrusive.

A REAL FRIEND for the limited wardrobe is the simply-handled, full-length slip of soft, 'n taffeta, brocade or satin. While there is some frills, this fabric seems to have got the course for a while except in the low brackets. Attractively priced, and worth searching for are these

Danny Lewicki Severely Cut While Training

St. Catharines, Sept. 25 — (CP) —The injury jinx has walked into Toronto Maple Leafs' training camp here and several aspirants to the National Hockey League champions have strolled — or rather, limped — to the sidelines.

Seventeen-year-old Danny Lewicki, junior star with the Memorial Cup champion Port Arthur Bruins last year, suffered a badly-cut left instep Friday. The cut took 16 stitches to close and a small tendon was severed. The brilliant young wingman, for whom more than $30,000 was reported to have been paid, probably will be out for about a week.

Vic Lynn became another casualty when he pulled a back muscle during P.T. drill. He also will be out a week. The big winger took part in Friday's practice, however, and along with Stratford's Howie Meeker and Ted Kennedy, showed up well.

Laurie Regan, an amateur invited to stay over from last week, also will be out a week with a fractured wrist. He suffered the injury in Tuesday's scrimmage.

Shifty Lewicki, believed by many to be the brightest star on Leafs' hockey horizon, feels he needs another year as an amateur after the rugged bumps and thumps he has received in training. He is too young for pro play and will have to play junior this coming season.

If he can get his release from Fort William he can pick up about $2,000 playing in the East. However, if the club refuses to grant him the release, he says he must return home and play for less than $1,000.

The classy speedster would like to play for either Stratford or Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association this year.

Hockey Season For Scotch Loop Opens on Monday

Dunfermline, Fifeshire, Scotland, Sept. 25 — (CP) — Scotland's hockey season opens Monday, and for the first time local boys will be competing on a large scale with Canadian imports for places in league teams.

A heavy schedule runs without a break until May with each team playing twice weekly.

A new Scottish Ice Hockey Association rule limits the number of Canadian imports to 10 for each team and stipulates that at least two Scottish-born players must be dressed by each team for every game and must play part of each game.

The move is designed to speed up production of home talent but pessimists believe it will be at least 25 years before Scotland ceases to depend on Canada for hockey players.

A number of Canadian players now are in their third season here and like it so well that they have married and have settled down permanently in Scotland. An example is Bill Melville, 180-pound Dunfermline defenceman who hails from Oshawa.

"The crowds, rinks and people are great here," says Bill. "I'd advise any youngster who wants to gain a season's experience in one of the world's fastest leagues to visit Scotland — if he can make the grade at the Toronto tryouts."

Last year's champions, Dundee Tigers, have most of the same squad back again and are once more favored to take the major honors.

Fife Flyers have signed up the much-sought-after goalie, Adrian Belanger, who played with Kitchener Greenshirts two seasons ago. The Flyers are given an outside chance of dethroning the Tigers.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

News Item: Rotarians defeat Y's Men 10-6 to win service club softball championship)

The shades of night were falling fast, when through the darkening streets there passed a group of men with saddened mien, who were not what they should have been.

With tear-dimmed eyes, and lagging gait, grief-burdened shoulders drooped with weight of chagrin, pity, numbing shame, defeat, remorse, they'd lost the game to aging, crippled, venerable geezers, who starred in sports when Roman Caesars quaffed ancient Britain's spicy beer while flirting with Boadicea.

"Alack, alas, we had no luck," moaned Barton, Lovelace, Williams, Buck. "A win tonight would make us famous, but we had no Andy for our Amos."

"Heals Beals, it would at that, forsooth," mourned Wilcox, Gilbert, Leslie Booth, "Ah, what a blow to Y's Men pride," wept Thompson, Wagar, Trill and Hyde.

But Rotary's thumping, bumping crew, with spirits high and hats askew, made welkins ring with victory chants, they'd bet their coats and shirts and pants that Y's Men proud would bite the dust, their slogan, 'Victory or Bust'.

Their win transcended other things, they shed their crutches, casts and slings; with borrowed time they did, forsooth, in one short hour regain their youth.

Proud Y's Men, let not bitter tears, regret and sorrow spoil the years to come, cheer up, be gallant men, and in twenty years, we'll try again.

Comes a letter postmarked New Yawk City from that well-travelled boxing enthusiast, Harry Robinson. Harry, who would rather miss a Christmas dinner than a championship fight, eye-witnessed the Zale-Cerdan brawl in New Jersey the other night and stayed over for the Ike Williams-Flores and Robinson-Gallivan bouts.

• • •

Says Harry in part: "I was surprised to see two fighters in hte preliminary bouts of the Cerdan-Zale fight, who have fought in the Belleville Arena. They were Ernie Majury who lost a close decision by a knockdown in the third round, and Jackie Dugan, of Peterborough, now a professional who won his bout by a decision. Cerdan fought a good fight and was well ahead on points. Zale appears to have a date with Old Man Time and he was not the Zale whom I saw fight in Chicago."

The powerful left arm of Tommy Pointer that was the terror of Bay of Quinte Baseball League batters two decades ago and which hurled the Napanee Gibbards to more than one provincial title, has apparently lost but little of its former potency. Tall Tom hurled his Port Hope Intermediate "B" baseball team to a sparkling victory over the Trenton RCAF Flyers the other day to even their two of three playdown series at one-all.

Napanee Lions Intermediate "C" squad takes on the Bloomfield entry in a playdown game this afternoon in the canning factory village while the Gibbardville "A's" entertain Shallow Lake at Napanee in their first of their two-of-three semifinals series. A coin tossing ceremony was held yesterday in the office of Will Harridge, president of the American Baseball League, Chicago, to determine play-offs in event of a tie in the American League race.

If Boston ties Cleveland the play-off will be in Boston Oct. 4th.

If the three teams tie, New York will meet the winner of the Oct. 4 Boston - Cleveland game on the home grounds of the winning team Oct. 5.

Laga Will Pitch Opening Game For the Royals

Montreal, Sept. 25 (CP)—Frank Laga, Montreal submarine artist who beat Syracuse six times during the regular schedule, is expected to be Manager Clay Hopper's choice to face the Chiefs here tonight in the first game of their best-of-seven International Baseball League final playoff series.

"They don't seem to be able to do much with him," said Hopper Friday night.

Both clubs have just come through a tough, seven-game semi-final series. Royals, who won the pennant by 13 1-2 games, eliminated Rochester Red Wings 4-3 in games, while Syracuse also had to go the limit in polishing off Newark Bears.

Syracuse pilot Jewel Ens hasn't decided on his pitching selection but Royals expect to face Lefty Frank Fanovich who has had a good rest. Ed Hetki or Eddie Erautt, probably will pitch for the Chiefs in the second fixture here Sunday afternoon.

Jack Banta, Royals top moundsman who won 19 games during the season, was the logical choice to draw the starting assignment in the opener, but apparently Laga's impressive record against the Chiefs changed Hopper's mind.

Montreal won 13 of the 22 games played between the clubs duirng the season, but Royals fans remembering last year's playoffs have ample reason to fear the Chiefs. The Chiefs knocked the Royals off four straight in the semi-finals last year.

The teams move to Syracuse Monday night for the next three games, and will return to Montreal for any remaining contests if necessary.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Batting Bill Johnson, Yankees —Slammed a pinch hit three run homer to spark the Yankees to a 9-6 victory over Boston Red Sox and put them into three-way tie for the American League lead.

Pitching, Harry Brecheen, Cardinals—Pitched St. Louis to a 4-1 five hit triumph over Chicago for his 19th victory.

60 Golfers Enter Canadian Open's Final Round

Vancouver, Sept. 25 (CP)—Dick Metz, the only golfer in to shade par each round, today holds the best chance of chipping out the winner's share of the $10,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship.

The consistent shotmaker from Virginia Beach, Va., went into the final 18 holes today still clinging to the two-stroke lead he built up in the second day.

With the 6,590-yard Shaughnessy Heights course bathed in sunshine yesterday after two days of chilly wet weather, the change made little difference to methodical Metz. He slashed one stroke off par with a 71 for a seven-under par 209 for 54 holes.

Runner-up at 211 was Chuck Congdon of Tacoma, Wash., a brilliant Pacific northwest golfer practically unknown in the east, who shot a 68 for the day's hottest round.

One stroke back at 212 were veteran Herman Keiser of Spring-field, Mo., and Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, top U. S. money winner.

On their heels in a four-way deadlock with 213 were Bill Nary of Phoenix, Ariz., former tennis star Ellsworth Vines of Iowa City Ia.; John Palmer of Badin, N.C. and Ky Laffoon of St. Andrew's Ill.

Only 11 amateurs remain in the field, now trimmed to 60, and making a one-man show of the contest for the low amateur is Walt McElroy of Vancouver.

Sliced Two off Par

Semi-finalist earlier this year in the Canadian Amateur Championship at Hamilton, McElroy, playing on his home course yesterday sliced two off par for a 215 three-round total. Former U.S. amateur champion Bud Ward of Spokane, Wash., is second among the non-pros with 222.

Tied with McElroy are Fred Wood, home pro and top Canadian profesisonal, and Dave Douglas of Wilmnigton, Del.

Wood completed the third round in par, two strokes better than Stan Leonard of Vancouver second-ranking Canadian pro with 217.

Golfers from eastern Canada continued to find the course tough despite the improved weather. Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield, with a one-under 71 for a 226, and Pete Olynyk of Edmonton Mayfair, par 72 for 228, were exceptions.

Stan Horne of Montreal Islemere just sneaked under the wire to continue in the final round with his 78 for 233 while Bob Gray of Toronto Scarboro posted a 76 for 232.

Nearly 3,000 spectators at the 18th hole saw Mangrum miss a three-foot putt which would have given him a 68 and a tie with Congdon in second spot.

"Whipper" Watson Extended To Limit to Defeat Atkins In British Empire Title Bout

There were strange goings-on at Memorial Arena last night. First, one of the largest crowds to throng the place for a wrestling event was strangely silent at times. At others it gave out with cheers not for anyone in particular but for a spot of good wrestling or a bit of sportsmanship.

For the fans who were draped over and about the rafters, not to mention the sawdustroughs and the roof which is more or less not there were on the horns so to speak, of a wrestling dilemma. It had two of the handsomest pieces of masculine beauty in captivity to thrill over in the persons of British Empire champion Whipper Billy Watson of Toronto and other points, and handsome Dory Atkins, "the rugged digger" from Australia and other spots "down under".

It was one of those "rassle" affairs that had just about everybody stood up on their chairs looking sent from the Antipodes. As a matter of fact, lest we forget, the Whipper was born in and the Empah crown, sir, still rests, if somewhat shakily on his handsome noggin. The Adonis of East York, however, retained the mythical bauble in the land way, and on several occasions it looked as though the British ring would rest in Canberra, Melbourne Sydney, or wherever the Atkins hang their hats.

Yep. the Whip came through as was more or less expected but he had to go the limit to hang on to his title. The lads wrestled for a full forty minutes in the first bout before the Whip finally pinned the Aussie and after that they battled to the time limit with Referee Bert Marvell naturally awarding the fight to the champion by virtue of his first fall victory.

Fast Action Featured

The large crowd was content to sit back by way of a change and watch two topnotch grapplers in action. It was not a case, as is the common occurrence of a "villain" pitting his mighty mite of the innocent hero of the piece, and two fast, clever scientific wrestlers who gave out with a grand display.

Strangely missing, in the main bout at least were the badman tactics. The crowd, slowly evenly divided as far as support goes, had nothing to rant and rave about from a villainy point of view. There were no "dirty tactics" by half nelson, headlocking, or strings used and the Whipper and Atkins went about the business of battling in a strictly scientific manner with both breaking even when forced by referee Maxwell and giving the large crowd present one of the best exhibitions of wrestling seen here in many a grapple moon.

It was a refreshing departure from the mill-run of main bouts albeit some of the color that goes with the bad men of the mat was missing. But this was more than accounted for by the lightning like action that featured the bout at times. The main attraction will rematch the Whip and Atkins any time the boys get the money. It was good clean wrestling entertainment and even the most rabid fan was left nothing with the night's show.

Two fast preliminary bouts added to the general entertainment with Ralph Martin a newcomer from Montreal impressing the fans with his first appearance here. He won Referee Fyfe's decision after battling the villainous Ace Golch over thirty minutes in the first.

Popular Pat Flanagan and villainous Jack Moore staged the other of their rapid fire match

Stan Mauldin, Chicago Tackle, Dies After Game

Chicago, Sept. 25. (AP)—Stan Mauldin, 27-year-old star tackle for Chicago Cardinals of the National Professional Football League, died early today of an apparent heart attack in the club's dressing room at Comiskey Park after the club's game with Philadelphia Eagles.

Mauldin had played part of the game against the Eagles, which Chicago won 21-14.

During the last half the former Texas University athlete signalled that he wanted to be relieved.

He returned to the bench and "sweated out" the closely-fought contest with many of his teammates.

After the Cardinals made their winning touchdown in the last four minutes on a pass, Mauldin told his coaches, Jimmy Conzelman and Phil Handler: "I want to get back in there. . . . let me go."

Those were the last words the coaches heard him speak.

Mauldin, father of a five-year-old son, played the last two minutes of the game.

As he undressed in the Cards' dressing room, he complained of a headache. After he showered and dressed, he said he felt was a pretty nice game we won, fellows." Then he collapsed.

Dr. Robert Stolz, club physician was summoned. They placed an oxygen mask over his face and worked over him for one hour and 20 minutes as his team-mates grouped solemnly in the dressing room. He was pronounced dead at 3:05 a.m., C.S.T. by Dr. Sidney Portis, a heart specialist, who had been called in.

Mauldin's wife, Helen, was with him when he died.

Dr. Portis said Mauldin died of "either a hemorrhage at the base of the skull or a massive coronary attack." It was the first such fatality to pro football history in Chicago.

Cornwall Flyers Defeat Quebec

Cornwall, Sept. 25 (CP)—Flyers, led by George Sinfield and Gabe Wheeler who scored three goals each, defeated Quebec All-Stars 11-8 here Friday night to take a 3-0 lad in games in their best-of-seven eastern Canada semi-final senior lacrosse series.

The pattern of play was much in the first two games which Cornwall won 17-7 and 13-11. The All-Stars had an equal share of the play and made it close all the way, but lacked scoring punch around the nets.

The fourth game will be played here Sunday night. The winner will advance to the eastern final against either Minnico Mountaineers or Hamilton.

Solunar Tables: Few Real Expert Fishermen

BY JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted sportsman, author and creator of Solunar Tables.)

There is an old, old wheeze which has the answer to the question, "What is an Expert?" An expert, it runs, is a plain, ordinary guy a long way from home.

While intended to be funny, there is a great deal of sad truth in the wheeze. In this day and age we are breaking out into a regular rash of experts. Every golf or community tea one or more of them. True, they are self-appointed to their exalted positions, but the more gullible fish have a mind point to them with pride. "There goes our number-one fisherman," yoir informant whispers. "He's an expert".

All right, let's face it. My occupation is that of being an outdoor writer. In other words I make a business of fishing and shooting. There are few well-known anglers with whom I do not and I have fished with most of the greatest. Yet in all the thousands upon thousands of fishermen whom I have seen in operation, I have yet to see what might fairly be called an expert fisherman.

Cities Experience

In our journeys about the country, my son and I inevitably meet a great many local experts. Usually these are the fellows who take us out and show us the fishing waters. After we get this expert business settled—not through words, but the hard way, through fishing—they stop looking down their noses and turn out to be pretty good fellows. Now and then they try to put us on the spot. Consider this one.

While visiting a Canadian city, I received a cordial invitation to fish the waters of a certain trout club. Her a trout stream, the stream, I inquired about club regulations and was told that guests could catch all the trout to eatch trout, I can't be wasted so fishing is done by boat; "pout" they call it. My two hosts went with me, not fishing but content to sit quietly and watch me suffer. When evening fell I had taken seventy-nine trout from that cold northern river, beautiful fish that ranged from one to two and one-half pounds. Three of these I took back to my hotel. The rest went back into the river.

That evening, over a late dinner, I inquired about the number rule for guests. Then they broke down and confessed. No guest had ever caught a trout from those waters, so why bother about limits. Unfortunately those gen hadn't learned how to use streamer flies for native trout. Streamers were new then. By using a Mickey Finn and fishing it near to the bottom, I could take all the trout I wanted, as the stream was alive with them. But that's not "expert" fishing—simply a case of keeping posted on tackle and methods and using a little common sense.

Much to Learn

Mankind has been fishing for many thousands of years. In that time, human ingenuity has been strictly limited to the sum total of knowledge to its present incomplete state. There is still a great deal to learn about fishing. Moreover, it is such a complex sport that no one man can know it all, Rarely does a day pass when I am not taken or stream that I don't learn something new. And the really good fishermen that I know are the first to admit that their knowledge is inadequate. Thus, when I encounter one of these fellows who knows all the answers I can't help but label him mentally as being either somewhat stupid or woefully inexperienced. Let me repeat, I have yet to see an expert in action.

Just as our common knowledge of tackle and methods is far from being complete, so is our information on the habits and lives of the fish themselves. We know that they do certain things at certain times but mostly we don't know why. We have learned that they move in a fairly rhythmic cycle of alternate activity periods and rest periods. The Solunar Tables are based on this cycle and you and let you know in advance when to expect the best bite and that each day has to offer.

However, like everything else in angling, the Solunar Tables have not yet reached the "expert" stage. They are, I believe, the we certainly will let you know. Until then, the best word for it when we tell you that it pays to keep track of the Solunar Periods.

(Released by The Register and Tribune Syndicate, 1948).

Solunar Periods

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables for your sign so that you will be fishing in good territory on hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

HOUSE TORN DOWN

Brantford, Sept. 25 — (CP) — Lloyd Coddington — whose partially-completed home was torn down by Brantford township workmen — was remanded for sentence Friday after he pleaded guilty to building without a building permit.

Township Building Inspector Gerald E. Rowe testified Coddington told him he intended to put but wouldn't wait until township council had approved his application.

Coddington started to erect his house and the township ordered it torn down, Rowe said. Then he started building again — still without a permit.

Rowe added that township workmen were careful and didn't damage Coddington's building materials when they tore down his house.

Al Rollins Named As Goal Tender For Black Hawks

(By The Canadian Press)

President Bill Tobin and coach Charlie Conacher have named Al Rollins of the Edmonton Flyers, Allan Cup Champions, to start in goal for Chicago Black Hawks Saturday night in their first preseason exhibition game against their farm club, Kansas City Pla-Mors.

This may be the tipoff that the Hawks, who have failed in their efforts to purchase a netminder of proven N.H.L. calibre, will gamble with Rollins as their goalie this season. "His work impressed me very much," said Tobin in Hawks' North Bay training- camp.

Last year's goalie, Emile Francis, also is with the team.

Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Wildcats will play their postponed Big Four football league game at Montreal Tuesday night if arrangements can be made, Winnipeg and Montreal early next month, were announced in Forth Arthur Friday. Matched in a series extending from Oct. 11-Oct. 18, will be Fort Arthur Bruins, last year's Dominion Cup champion Fort William Columbus Club, Winnipeg Canadiens and Montreal Nationals.

The St. Thomas Gun Club and the Elgin Fish and Game Protective Association have protested against the open season on pheasants Nov. 5-6. Some 2,400 pheasant pairs have been released within the last three months in St. Thomas district. Officials of the two clubs said Friday shooting pheasants this early would not be any more sporting than shooting domestic fowl in a barn yard.

Victory Ry, owned by Stan Bilewett of Peterborough, Friday ran its season's record to 15 wins in 16 starts by sweeping the 2:24 class at the Lindsay Central Exhibition. In the 2:18 class, Ben Gratton took straight heat victories over Jean Dale, Dazzle Hersley and Nancy Budlong.

Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League defeated their farm club, Indianapolis Capitals, 9-4 last night in an exhibition game at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., training camp.

New Westminster Adanacs Friday night retained their inter-city hockey championship by defeating Vancouver Burrards 15-13 in overtime play. Vancouver won the Adanacs, taking the best-of-seven series 4-2, but lost the right to defend their Canadian senior lacrosse title against the eastern champions in Toronto next month.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York Sept. 25 (AP) — Hold your hats, folks, that's a storm a-comin'...reason for all this talk is a report that baseball magnate is thinking of putting the chain operators who are threatening to drop out... incidentally, the bonus rule doesn't help minor league gate receipts when kids are kept behind the crowd pleasers in the minors who have to pay to become major league bench warmers.

Sports Before Your Eyes

Before the 10th round of the ike Williams-Jesse Flores fight the other night, one of Flores' seconds told him: "You're not doing anything. How do you expect to win the lightweight championship if you don't go out and punch, punch?" . . . You know what happened . . . up to that point he was just a standoff Mexican — but-he didn't stand off for long.

As for Ray Robinson, he proved he's a great artist by winning against Jake La Motta but doing it in such a way that it must have looked like a big fat target to the folks in the upper stands.

Weight and Wait

Last spring a 275 pound kid named John Papa turned out for football practice at Boston University . . . seeing that he couldn't move fast enough coach Buddy Donelli told him, "If you intend to play for us, come back weighing not less than 200." Papa now turned up this fall weighing a near 218, Donelli was delighted with such determination . . .

PRELUDE TO ASSASSINATION

—Central Press Canadian

The assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden, United Nations mediator in Israeli-Arab affairs, recalls to accusations that the so-called Stern gang was responsible for his death. Though proof of this charge was lacking, the report was based on (above) strations which had been staged against Count Bernadotte when he was attempting to settle the Holy Land conflict. This picture, made August 14 in Jerusalem, shows a delegation from the Stern gang as they picketed a building in which Bernadotte was holding a press conference. The Stern group is against mediation of any kind with the Arabs, contending that anything Israeli wants, it can obtain through force of arms. It is the most nationalistic of the several factions united in the Israeli state. Reports from the Holy Land indicate that the count was shot by men in Jewish army uniforms on the Jewish side of Jerusalem.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Unbend some of your kinks regarding an opening bid of two in a suit. Get straightened out on the responses thereto. You need not depend on which expert is right. Common sense reasoning tells you.

An opening of two in a suit says: "Partner, my hand has enough for a game try. Whether or not we can make a game, my hand is such that we should attempt to play at no less than a game."

It goes on to imply: "So, what am I immediately interested in? Not a game. Because I have already said we have a game. It must be whether or not we have a chance to make a slam."

When would opener have a chance to make a slam? When partner has a sure trick in the hand of partner will usually help make slam.

So, the first reply from partner must be in the nature of some signal: A signal for what? A signal that will deny or admit a sure trick in the responding hand.

Here are the signals popularly used: Immediate response of two no-trump denies a sure trick; immediate response of anything else is an admission of a sure trick of some kind.

South opened with two hearts when south held this hand:

♠Q J 9 6 5
♥ None
♦ Q J 7
♣K Q 10 8 3

The first response from north was two spades. Since he did not reply at once with two no-trump it was an admission that he held a sure trick. Not necessarily an ace. It may be a K Q combination.

The fact that his bid spades shows that he has a biddable spade suit. But it does not promise a sure trick in that particular suit. The sure trick may be in any suit.

His immediate response says: "Since you will be a sure trick if you decide to go slamming. And if we can find a satisfactory trump suit between us, we can make beautiful music together."

TheMovieColumn

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 24 (AP)—John Crawford, who has worked long and successfully enough in Hollywood to talk back to anyone, has this to say about movie producers:

They're afraid to take chances.

"This is the most competitive business in the world. But when producers follow each other and are afraid to do something different, that's bad for the industry. I'm afraid that people will start staying away from the movies and will go out and buy television sets or some other form of entertainment."

The cause of this outburst is Joan's pet project, "Miss O'Brien." She's mighty hepped up on the story. She tells how it came about:

It happened to see some schoolteacher statistics that were being prepared for a magazine article. I was appalled. I mentioned to a radio writer that something should be done to tell the public about it. He told a friend who wrote up a synopsis of a story about a schoolteacher.

Producer Jerry Wald was enthused, but Warner Bros. bigwigs turned thumbs down. Too big a risk, they said; message pictures don't make money.

John Wheedled the studio into taking an option on the story, but the option was soon dropped. So the actress took over Miss O'Brien."

"I've had many letters from schoolteachers begging me to make the film," she said. "Some of them would break your heart with the shocking conditions they describe. The low pay, the social restriction and the discrimination against teachers is a national disgrace."

Joan put a writer to work on the script and engaged Curt Bernhardt as director. She'll do the film right after "Flamingo Road" and right now she is talking to four studios about sale of the package—star, script and director.

Tighten Regulations On the Re-marriage Of Divorced Persons

Vancouver, Sept. 24, (CP)—The United Church of Canada, Friday night tightened its regulations on the re-marriage of divorced persons.

A report presented by Ontario Chief Justice J. C. McRuer recommended that ministers do not remarry the divorcee responsible for the first break-up.

It also asked that the right to perform re-married ceremonies be allowed only to the church's active ordained ministers. Thus, it left open the clergyman's own decision as to whether he would or would not conduct the marriage.

Rev. C. A. Gowans of Toronto cautioned the council to remember that divorced persons are not to be regarded as degenerates. The church must try to bring them to higher things.

"There are cases," he said, "where divorce seems essential." He spoke particularly of divorces brought about by "drunken bestial husbands."

LOSES APPEAL

Toronto, Sept. 24 — (CP) — Ontario Court of Appeals Thursday dismissed an appeal by William Serhenluk against his conviction at nearby Whitby on a charge of indecent assault. Serhenluk was sentenced last month to two years' imprisonment and three strappings, but the appeal court reduced the sentence to six months and a $200 fine with an additional six months if the fine is not paid.

TWO MOUNTED POLICEMEN KILLED BY BANDITS

Twenty police cruisers armed with machine-guns turned darkened Montreal city streets into almost daylight as 200 detectives combed the city for the two gunmen responsible for the slaying of two constables. Detectives were issued orders to shoot to kill and to ask no questions as Montreal's greatest manhunt got under way. One of the trio of gunmen, identified by police as Noel Cloutier, is under arrest, and a city-wide dragnet is out for the two others who made their escape. Facing capture while trying to hold up a branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale, the trio shot it out with two radio cruiser constables, killing one instantly, the other dying before reaching hospital. Above the body of Constable Paul Duranleau lies outside the bank.

New Musical Production Graced With Excellent Singing and Dancing

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Sept. 25 — (CP) — "Magdalena," a magnificently-staged, colorful production graced with excellent music, singing and dancing, has only one shortcoming.— a ponderous and poorly-integrated book.

Against the lush jungle background of Columbia's Magdalena river valley, gloriously costumed singers and dancers perform to the impressive music of Heitor Villa-Lobos, distinguished Brazilian composer.

The story deals with Indians employed in emerald mines controlled by a paunchy general. Most of them are Christian converts. The core of the tale is a romance between Christian Maria and her pagan lover Pedro, who ends by conforming to the faith. A lighter touch is introduced by the general, a gourmet, and his mistress, Teresa, a Parisian of unexcelled culinary ability.

Feast for the Eyes

Despite its slow-moving book, Magdalena' is a feast for the eyes with magnificent costumes and exotic settings. Jules Dassin directed the lavish production, said to have cost $300,000.

Irra Petina, a mezzo-soprano who has made concert appearances in Canada, sings and plays the role of Teresa, the French cook, with admirable gusto. Hugo Haas is excellent as the food-loving Gen. Carabana while Dorothy Sarnoff as Maria and John Raitt as Pedro give fine singing and acting performances.

Canada-Bound Artists

Jose Torres, celebrated Spanish dancer who has been a sensation in Paris, is to appear in Ontario and Quebec cities this autumn. He will be at Toronto Oct. 12, Hamilton, Oct. 13, Montreal Nov. 1, Quebec Nov. 3 and Chicoutimi, Sept. Nov. 10.

Modern novels, soap operas and magazine advertisements are targets of gentle satire in "Small Wonder," the season's first revue which hopened at the Barbizon. "Small Wonder" is a well-produced, bright show, loosely held together by the amiable comments of Tom Ewell, billed as "The Normal Neurotic."

Out of This World

Despite almost unanimous panning by the critic, "Heaven on Earth," a musical which fell flat on its fantasy, is continuing its run at the Century Theatre, Starring Peter Lind Hayes, night club comedian, "Heaven on Earth" is anything but that.

Hayes is called on to go into his night club turns every time the book bogs down — and that is often.

Jurist Claims Sunday Laws Are Outmoded

Vancouver, Sept. 25 — (CP) — Canada's statutes on Sunday observance, bookmaking and lotteries were termed "outmoded" Thursday by Vancouver Judge R. A. Sargent.

Strict enforcement of the Lord's Day Act today, he said, would close a city "so tight that life would be unbearable."

The jurist asked delegates to the 43rd convention of Canada's Chief Constables' Association to bring public opinion on these laws before Attorneys-general and legislators in their continuencies.

The Lord's Day Act, he said, was enacted in 1906 only to guarantee labor a six-day week.

"It would appear that the general public would welcome a change in lottery legislation," he said.

He cited a Vancouver case in which police prosecuted a prominent service club for conducting a lottery.

"Even the jury, which as after all the keeper of the public conscience, declared the activity legal."

The jurist also attacked betting laws as they affected horse-racing and bookmaking.

"It is hard to estimate how much money is wagered with book-makers," he said. "Bookmakers definitely flourish, but they cannot be taxed, as are parimutuels, because they are not legal."

Legalized bookmaking would be a source of revenue to the government, and would reduce loss of efficiency in police operations. Departmental police shake - ups would be eliminated.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"Is Billee anything like her mother, like Miss Lily?"

"Not one bit."

"I don't think either of them either Billee or Virginia — would thank that picture," I ventured doubtfully.

"No, I don't know. But I know Clay wouldn't," she said, musing.

"What possible motive could he have? He never really saw either of the girls."

"It may have been destroyed years ago, of course," I knew better than that; I kept still. "That stupid Chinese boy never would have noticed it was spoiled," said Mrs. Grizell.

"Then Wing!" I said, getting off the thin ice. "He's one of the smartest youngsters I ever saw. He see everything. He found Virginia's pink earring down in the upholstery of her chair. But I can't for the life of me see any possible motive he could have for not telling you it was ruined. Munro, no, I, no, I'd never been in there."

Mrs. Grizell considered, her thoughts following some tangent.

"If it's the place he's after, and the money, he's going to be fooled when all this comes out," she said.

"Bill-Brent, you mean?"

She nodded.

"Possibly Virginia's told him that she's really Virginia Horn-ba."

"Oh, she's a Virginia, too, is she?"

"I think so. And I think they always called Virginia Carolan Billee, so that made it much simpler. And I suppose," I went on, thinking aloud, "they may have given us a thousand hints, they may have betrayed themselves over and over, only we never saw it."

"They may have. Who'd be looking for a thing like that? For one thing, Billee was always much more crazy about the place than Virginia was interested in the ranch end of it and in what the prunes brought in, and the Brents never would have occurred to me, but I see that now."

"Old Mrs. McMordock is really Mrs. Calhoun Hillyard," I said, "and Virginia Carolan is not Virginia Carolan at all."

"I don't know what to do," Mrs. Grizell said.

There was an old iron bench in the little glade where we talked, a bench made in the shape of twisted vines and grapes. Now we were sitting on it, and she suddenly stirred me by laying her hand, heavy hand on my knee.

"Liberty, what on earth ought I to do?" she said.

I could only stare at her and shake my head; I didn't know.

"We can't let this go on," she said slowly.

"Would he care so much — old Mr. Hillyard? Isn't he pretty old?"

"Would he care?" Mrs. Grizell said quietly. It was like that the situation would be beyond speech.

"It's too much for me," she said. Weakness in her, who was so strong, somehow frightened me.

"What could happen?"

"That's," she said, "what I don't know."

"Get Billee back, maybe and keep it out!"

She shook her head. Facing it out wasn't the answer.

"Soon things you can't laugh off," she said.

"It's a great family — the Hillyards."

"Oh, ——" She gave a sort of hopeless cry and turned both hands upward and outwards. — "No," said Mrs. Grizell after a moment, "it's not a perfect solution. But I'll have to talk to Virginia."

"What good will that do?"

"I don't know. But it's like lots of other things, Liberty, you do something — and the next step comes of itself."

"Yes." I confessed shamelessly, "being in these family scraps!"

"I believe you do. Well, I've had too many of 'em".

"After this I'll never go back to the public library," I said suddenly.

"Feel you never will?"

"I know I never will."

"Bill Brent may turn away from Virginia as fast as he turned toward her," she said speculatively.

"He won't." She turned the knife, the sharp thin edge of the knife, in my heart. "No, but if he and Virginia marry and she goes away and the old man dies and the real Virginia comes home," I said, casting a line far into the future, "I'll go somewhere."

"Liberty." she said suddenly, only half hearing me, "could you — I suppose you couldn't, loving this other man?"

"Could I what?"

"Could you like Clay, Libby? He's an awfully lonely man."

"Clay's in love with someone else too."

"There's no happiness for him there," Mrs. Grizell said.

"With Mrs. Grizell said.

"No. You'll see her next week. You'll see for yourself. She's — you'll see for yourself."

"And blind," I said slowly, reluctantly.

"Clay! Yes, of course. But you don't know that he'll always be blind."

"He gave me the chance," I said suddenly.

"Gave you what chance?"

"Asked me — or at least said — or wort of inspired that he and I might — I didn't take it seriously."

"Clay Hillyard asked you to marry him?"

"Well, yes. Sort of."

"But he's never seen you. He's never paid the slightest attention to you."

"I know."

"Well," said Mrs. Grizell in a sort of desperate calm, "there seems to be a great deal going on around this place that I don't know anything about!"

She considered the situation for a full minute, while I sat looking at her with a very red face.

"I wonder what other indiscretions I could crowd into this morning's conversation.

"I'll tell you what it is," she said at length. "Clay Hillyard is afraid of that woman, Fannie Greer. Her husband's a very sick man; he's not long for this world and Fannie knows it. Clay feels that he might have to marry her if Finley Greer dies."

"But good gracious, doesn't he want to?"

"Clay wants more than anything else to live along here at Hillyard House," Mrs. Grizell said, "I think that if ever a child of his was born here he would feel himself — well, he would do for him what none of us have been able to do. It would build back his self-confidence; he'd be like he was again."

"Couldn't Mrs. Greer have children?"

"Not likely. But it isn't that. It's that she wouldn't stay here five weeks a year. She's not the kind that would sit reading to a blind man, running upstairs to look at a baby."

"She's a big woman, strong?"

"Fannie Greer? She'd weigh about ninety pounds in hunting boots."

"Oh!. Tiny. But fascinating."

"They were Fannie Ashford."

It meant nothing to me; I stared at her, expectant.

"Well, you wouldn't know. She went down to Hollywood as a kindergarten teacher, was a star overnight. She was in two pictures then Finley Greer snapped her up."

"Is he rich?"

"He was tremendously rich. She had her seasons at Palm Beach and Antibes and she had a house in Paris. Then he lost most of it. They've got a little — a six-apartment on Nob Hill— they're not suffering. But Clay's smitten as a coal, and opens-box stuff is over. Clay met her in her native state, fell head over heels in love, lost track of her for years, and now here she is here, and he's — he's never loved anyone else!"

"Oh yes, he has. Clay was all but married to a lovely girl named Gurney — Kate Gurney. I've met, invitations out. all that. She flew with her mother to New York for her trousseau, and that was that.

"Broke it off?"

"Plane crash."

"Oh." We were silent a minute. "He seems to fall in love rather easily," I observed.

"I wouldn't say that."

"Well," I had to add hastily, in a spasm of that absurd pride that makes girls afraid they will be too easily impressed by a lover, "not that he's in love with me."

"You couldn't like him." The strong, work-hardened hand was beating her pendulous nose back and forth.

"I do like him. But when you are in love with someone else — I felt a wild rush of shamed and hopeless tears choke me, and I got up and walked away. Red-faced and tearful; I must of course meet Bill and Virginia coming up from the shore, they had locked and their eyes dreamy. Virginia's dark hair was blown carelessly about her head; she looked unusually pretty, and I thought that perhaps Bill might do a lot worse, fortune or no fortune, than honestly follow up his flirtation when he came back from the sea. Virginia's family, the Hornleighs, were far from impoverished, after all, and had no such sinister history behind them as darkened these old ways in Hillyard House.

THREE MAJESTIES OF REDONDA

King Juan I, of Redonda, the world's smallest monarchy, poses with his queen, the former Estelle Gilardeau of France, after their marriage in London. His majesty is better known as Poet John Gawsworth. He succeeded Irish Novelist M. P. Shiel as ruler of the half-mile square island in the British West Indies when the latter died last February at the age of 82. Shiel was the son of a trader who landed on the isle and claimed it in 1880. He gave it to his son as a birthday gift. Gawsworth, or King Juan, was in the R.A.F. during the war.

Council Opposes Opening of Crown Game Preserve

Peterborough, Sept. 24 — (CP) —Peterborough county council Thursday went on record as opposing the opening of the Peterborough County Crown Game Preserve for hunters. Opening of the preserve had been suggested as a possible means of killing off deer who were overbrowsing the area.

According to a report submitted to the Department of Game and Fisheries last May by A. H. Lewrie, Secretary-Treasurer of the Peterborough County Crown Game Preserve for hunters. Opening of the preserve had been suggested as a possible means of killing off deer who were overbrowsing the area.

According to a report submitted to the Department of Game and Fisheries last May by A. H. Lewrie, Secretary-Treasurer of the Peterborough County Crown Game Preserve for hunters. Opening of the preserve had been suggested as a possible means of killing off deer who were overbrowsing the area.

"There is strongly in favor of some organized method of feeding the deer rather than an organized hunt," said Reeve Norman Wilson of Burleigh Asnstruther. "If it weren't for that park there would be no deer there today."

Had No Licences In Algonquin Park, Plane is Seized

Algonquin Park, Ont., Sept. 24 (CP)—A single-engined plane owned by the Lake of Bays flying service has been seized by parks authorities here who claim the pilot failed to obey regulations regarding clearance.

The aircraft, piloted by E. A. (Smokey) Beebe, was impounded. Beebe was transporting two fishermen and a guide to one of the lakes in the park.

Provincial Constable George Phillips said neither Beebe nor his passengers had fishing licences or travel permits. Phillips also said the pilot failed to clear his machine in regulation manner and had failed to tell authorities his destination.

The plane will be held until the forestry department decides what action to take against Pilot Beebe and his company.

TAKE DOOR TO WELDING SHOP

Goderich, Sept. 24 — (CP) — They say that has been used for 94 years to unlock the vault in the county clerk's office in Huron county court house broke in two Thursday when clerk Margaret Tudor tried to use it. The caretaker and the county clerk were summoned and finally the door was taken to a welding shop to see what could be done about it.

Man Represents 2 Accused Persons In Oakville Court

Oakville, Sept. 24 (CP)—Oakville court was stumped Thursday. For the first time I had seen a "representative" for the accused step forward to face the charges — and it happened twice.

When G. Brown was called on a charge of driving without an operator's permit a young man stepped forward.

"Are you G. M. Brown?" queried Magistrate M. Langdon.

"No, sir," he said. "He asked me to represent him." His Worship asked him if he was willing to go to jail for Brown, to which the representative grinned sheepishly. The case resulted in a $10 and fine.

The next case was called—and up jumped the same young man.

"Who are you this time," Magistrate Langdon wanted to know.

"This time I'm Frederick Lewis," was the answer. Lewis was convicted of having liquor in an unlawful place and fined $10 and costs.

The "representative" paid both fines.

BEVIN BITTERLY ATTACKS SOVIET UNION

Prefer Shut-Offs, If Necessary, In Late Afternoon

Belleville Industrialists Discuss Power Situation

Power interruptions throughout the city of one hour daily, preferably in the late afternoon, were recommended by local industrialists this morning as a measure to keep local power consumption within the allocation and thus prevent unannounced power cut-offs by the Hydro Commission.

Meeting at the Deacon Shirt factory industrialists were told that despite voluntary savings of up to 20 per cent already made by factories, power consumption was still considerably in excess of the 104,000 kilowatt hours per day allocated.

Practically all of the local factories have switched to Saturday operation in an effort to spread power consumption, while some are working short hours throughout the week and at least two are operating on Mondays.

Domestic Use Blamed

The general thought of the meeting was that industry has shown co-operation in voluntarily reducing power consumption, and that is not been true of many of the commercial users and domestic users have shown little if any reduction in power usage.

However, power interruptions will not be put into effect locally until the matter has been considered by the local public utilities commission. In any event requisite notice will be given before interruptions are put into effect.

Industrialist were unanimous in their feeling that the 15 minute cut offs each hour as was suggested by the Ontario - Hydro Commission. If local commissions did not stay within their power allocations, would be impossible for industry. "We might just as well close down under those conditions," was the opinion of many.

Industrial heads complained that commercial users in general had shown little co-operation in saving power with many still burning all their lights during hours when stores were open. Pool-rooms and bowling alleys came in for criticism, while government offices such as the post office and Registry office and local Armouries were also reported to be offenders.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Sept. 27 — (CP) — Synopsis: Skies are generally clear throughout the province this morning. This spell of fine autumn weather is due to an extensive high pressure area centred in northern Wisconsin and covering southern Canada, central and eastern United States. The high is still moving slowly and indications are for continued good weather over Ontario for the next two or three days. Tonight it will be cool again with a slight risk of local frost in central and northern Ontario. Tuesday's morning skies should allow the air to warm up rapidly so that afternoon temperatures will reach the 75 mark.

TWO TUGS FIND MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF SALVAGE

Problem is How To Get Freighter to Port

Halifax, Sept. 27 (CP) — Two Halifax tugs—Foundation Lillian and Foundation Josephine—found $1,000,000 worth of salvage 900 miles southeast of here today and they were standing by the abandoned British freighter Leicester trying to figure how to get her to Bermuda.

Seven men were lost overboard and 38 men saved by rescue ships when the Leicester was caught in the Sept. 16 hurricane. The ship developed a bad list and seemed destined to founder in the gale but washed over her and she sprang back.

The ship is worth $1,000,000 in salvage and the Halifax tugs because of their size, are not from the ship reported she was still afloat.

The stricken ship was first sighted today by the Lillian after a 10-day search by the Josephine using by.

An official of the Foundation Company said any attempt to tow the Leicester would be an "extremely difficult" operation and will require great skill and seamanship."

The Leicester is in ballast.

Declares Canada May Reconsider Airlift Stand

Ottawa, Sept. 27 — (CP) — Breakdown of Western-Russian negotiations over Berlin means reconsideration of Canada's stand against participation in the Berlin airlift, a government source said today.

There was speculation in informed quarters that Canada will shortly follow other Dimilions in announcing she will send transport planes or air crews or both to take part in the three-months-old airlift effort to buck the Soviet land blockade.

A government source said last Thursday the feeling was that whether Canada's entry would be reconsidered depended on the outcome of the Berlin negotiations. They are now breaking down, it is said.

Canada's absence from the international air teams supplying Berlin by air has been noted. Her officials contend she has never been particularly asked.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said last week the tonnage the Berlin crisis would end soon. Canada also felt she had no voice in the Berlin policy and therefore she had no particular desire to help out in such a situation that could quite easily explode into war.

At the same time, there was also the feeling that Canada's policy did not entirely parallel the general Canadian policy of calling for co-operation between the Western Powers. Nobody has been making a fuss in emphasizing this feelfag then L. B. Pearson, the new external affairs minister,

U.S. Air Force is Solving Problem Of Bomber Escaping Attacking Jets

Washington, Sept. 27. (AP)— The United States Air Force is making progress toward overcoming one of its gravest problems — the problem of most general use by the U.S.A.F.

Officials, the indications are that Symington was talking about the XB-47 and XB-48 "Stratojet" B-30 jets.

The XB-47 has six J-47 jet engines, developing a total thrust of about 36,000 pounds. Because of the jet engines, the bomber has the "slats" rocket units which produce an additional 18,000 pounds of forward push when fired simultaneously.

It was learned, however, that in "running away" from the jet fighters, the XB-47 did not take advantage of this auxiliary rocket power, named for its other use as a more powerful "jet assisted take-off."

which the Air Force has been experimenting most extensively is the XB-47 Stratojet medium bomber. The Lockheed F-80 is the jet fighter in most general use by the U.S.A.F.

Berlin Crisis Which Reached Climax During the Weekend No Spontaneous Development

(By The Canadian Press)

The Berlin crisis, which reached a climax during the weekend when the western powers referred the dispute to the United Nations, was no spontaneous development.

Its roots stretched back to December, 1947. But the east - west struggle over the city did not approach dangerous ground until June.

Last Dec. 15, in London, the Big Four Foreign Ministers' conference on a German peace treaty broke up in utter failure. The disagreements there turned basically on the set-up of the future German state.

The western powers wanted a thoroughly decentralized administration — a Germa "federation" along the lines of Canada's Confederation, with as much power as possible concentrated in the provinces or states, as little as possible in the central government.

Russia on the other hand, insisted that the central govern ment should have many fields obviously hoping in that way to increase the Soviet Union's influence control in the new Germany.

Announced New Plan

Jdne 7 the western powers formally announced plans for a new government in western Germany. It provided for a federal system by early next year, under three - power supervision. The Ruhr — heart of Germany's steel industries — would be under an international authority. Russia excluded, and its output would be channelled into the European recovery program which Russia has consistently opposed. Eleven days later a new currency system was set up in the west, to curb inflation and control black-marketeers.

That started the wheels of crisis rolling on Berlin.

Russia cut off all water routes into the city from the west, imposing economic blockade of Berlin sectors which are under joint occupation of Britain, America and France.

Airline to Continue

Gen. Lucius Clay, United States military governor of Germany, stated bluntly that the Russians "cannot drive us out of Berlin by blockade alone." Foreign Secretary Bevin told the Commons at Westminster that the airlift would continue despite the fact it drew trouble with the Soviet Union.

Then, from Warsaw, came hints of what Russia really wanted. The Foreign Ministers of Russia and the Soviet - dominated satellites issued a communique calling for a four-power agreement on the German problem as a whole. The Soviet-licenced Warsaw said the situation in Berlin will be automatically clarified if successful talks on Germany were held.

For the west there were three courses of action: (1) to leave Berlin; (2) to try to break the blockade by force; (3) to try to reach a compromise with Russia by talks over the whole German question.

The third course was adopted. As the supply situation in Berlin tightened, a gas and power line was extended to save coal for Winter, as east-west tangles of diplomacy piled up. The city government, Britain, the United States and France decided on a new approach to Moscow.

Juror's Illness Delays Trial Of Rivers

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 27 (CP) — The illness of a juryman has forced a 24-hour delay in the murder trial of Richard Rivers, 21-year-old Indian charged with the strangulation last July of his sister-in-law.

Mr. Justice G. A. Gale, announcing the postponement today, said Harvey Collins of Sault Ste. Marie, who went to bed with a heavy cold, was in no condition to attend court tomorrow morning.

It was believed earlier the Crown would wind up its case this morning and the defence would begin.

Defence Counsel Ian Munro said he planned to call Rivers to the witness stand as the last of four defence witnesses.

Since the start of the trial last Monday, Crown witnesses have told of the discovery of the nearly naked body of the slain girl in a bush near Bilind River 30 miles east of here, of the arrest of Richard Rivers four days later in the Missanabie district and of the taking of a statement he is said to have made to police.

The statement, admitted as evidence, quoted Rivers as saying he had sexual intercourse with the girl in the hotel room and declaring of her death:

"Maybe I done it maybe I didn't. It all is a blank to me."

Rivers said in the statement that he "passed out" after drinking beer and whisky in the hotel room with the girl and a married couple.

Unconfirmed Rumor Says Attempt Made On Israeli Premier

Tel Aviv, Sept. 27 — (AP) — A rumor circulated in Tel Aviv today that an unsuccessful attempt had been made against the life of Premier David Ben-Gurion of Israel.

The Israeli general staff said it had no confirmation of the report.

WESTERN POWERS SEND BERLIN ISSUE TO UNITED NATIONS

Say Russians Threaten Peace of the World

By JOSEPH DYNAN

Paris, Sept. 27 — (AP) — Britain, the United States and France Sunday night accused Russia of threatening world peace by her action in Berlin and sent the issue to the United Nations Security Council.

Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain, State Secretary Marshall of the United States and Foreign Minister Schuman of France met twice at the French Foreign Ministry and then announced their decision to break off direct negotiations with the Soviets.

The Russians earlier had declared a complete ban on passenger traffic and a single Russian-controlled currency in the area at their price for lifting the 100-day-old Berlin blockade.

The Russian proposal was termed "unsatisfactory," and the western powers emphasized their determination to maintain their position "of the black duty to the incalculable disaster of atomic war should fall upon us, if we can say it, that one power . . . will alone have control over the devil which may be visited upon mankind."

When he had finished talking Bevin left the three foreign ministers and their satellites jumped to their feet to cheer and applaud the British delegate. Crics of "Bravo" echoed from Bevin's words should be heard outside the Assembly Hall.

Vishinsky strods from the hall, his face set in a gflin mask. Immediately after he had left, Bevin spoke.

As he did in a speech before the British House of Commons last Wednesday, Bevin again referred gravely to the possibility of a third world war in this generation.

Hints End of U. N.

He added a new gloomy note in a hint Britain already envisages the end of the United Nations unless the east-west conflict can be solved.

"If we cannot proceed on a world basis as we had hoped, we must proceed on a regional basis" he said.

Bevin replied directly by name to Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Vishinsky's speech Saturday in that speech the Russian called on the "Big Five" Britain, Russia, China, France and the United States) to reduce their armaments by one-third and accept the Soviet proposed formation of an international control body in the Security Council to ban atomic weapons.

"How on earth are we to regard the latest proposals put forward by M. Vishinsky?" he said "not forgiven if we are surpicious. As for myself, as his country is a sealed book . . ."

Sir R. Stirling-Hamilton and Family Vanish to Forget 'Nightmare'

Ottawa, Sept. 27 (CP) — Capt. Sir Robert Stirling-Hamilton, his wife, three children and a 12 year old family friend vanished today for four days of rest and to forget an incident described by Sir Robert as a "nightmare."

The naval adviser to the United Kingdom High Commissioner and h's family left at dawn for an unt sclosed location, hoping to find peace and quiet after a hectic 12 days of wandering in the wilds of northern Ontario.

His companions, Capt. Ben Cecil Custer, United States Naval Attache to Canada, Charles Wilcox of Oskaloosa, Iowa, and U.S. Army Sergeant Pasquale Scalise of Cambridge, Mass., are still in Ottawa recuperating from the experience which has left them meant their death.

They were still waiting and still apprehensive is Mrs. Jack Kastner, wife of Chief Petty Officer Kastner of Tucson, Ariz. pilot of a beached U.S. naval aircraft. The veteran U.S. pilot returned 355 miles north of The Pas, Man., to help salvage the plane he piloted in a perfect crash landing into knee-deep muskeg.

Mrs. Kastner hopes he'll come home safely and soon. She and a six-week-old baby boy are waiting.

On Saturday night when the R.C.A.F. search party reached the four men home, soiled and weary and in need of sleep and a bath.

Capt. Custer unfold the story of bad flying weather, failure of their radio and then the crash landing on a 450 mile trip from Churchill to The Pas.

"But for God and the R.C.A.F.," he said, "we wouldn't be here."

Then for a period of days of hunting and hoping and living on rabbits, squirrels, porcupine and blueberries, of climbing over endless fallen timbers and of falling on their knees in one final act of reverence when a Canadian plane at last came down and wagged its wings above them.

It was the end of one of the biggest air searches ever launched in Canadian history, a search in which the R.C.A.F. and civilian planes swept the entire region from Churchill, Man. to The Pas for a 400 mile stretch of the mining men.

Scalise improvised Shelters out of parachutes and branches, turned his steel helmet into a stewpot and shot and barbecued a porcupine.

Both he and Kastner will be recommended to the Secretary of the navy, said Capt. Custer, "for their qualities as woodsmen and riflemen."

Speedboat Drivers Entertain Large Crowd off Govt. Dock

A brilliant sun and "perfect water," reminiscent of midsummer regattas greeted Belleville and district speedboat drivers at their annual affair, held on the bay off the Government Dock on Sunday afternoon.

Approximately thirty boats ranging from the powerful 225 horse Indy racing craft to the diminutive "sea-flea" outboard types competed in the events which were run off under the auspices of the Quinte Outboard Association.

Officials came from Tweed, Picton, Peterborough, Kingston and Belleville to take care of the finest nautical racing shows seen in this district, in fact it has been a long time since race-goers thrilled to their favorite sport in this particular spot.

A crowd estimated at between three and four thousand saw the races from such vantage points as the Government Dock and the eastern shoreline. The bay bridge was lined solidly with parked cars, while the shorelines east of Rossmore had large quotas of enthusiasts.

The meet, held following the lighty postponement on fact it has Stoco Lake, Tweed, last Sunday was organized by the Belleville Seville Community Swimming Pool Fund and at the conclusion of the meet will go to the coffers of the fund. A silver collection was taken by Commissioner Jim Kinnmon Clubs and their assistants.

Bay Spotted With Craft

The bay off the dock was spotted with craft of all kinds, dotted with occupants viewing the races from rowboats, sail boats, boats moored on the Government Dock which itself was packed with automobiles.

Handsome prizes, the gifts of Belleville merchants and business men were located on a table near the judges stand. The prizes were presented to the various winners by Mr. Harry Wallbridge, chairman of the Swimming Pool and members of the Kinsmen Club. A public address system was supplied by Mr. Jack Bailey. Mr. Bailey was assisted by other Kinsmen. Gas and oil were supplied free to contestants by Quinte Outboards.

Exciting Races

Some exciting races were run during the afternoon especially in the inboard events. Thrilling was the large crowd were the boats in the 225 and 135 class. Jack Bailey with Ed. Pine's well-known "Miss Trail" taking the senior division and the Bay of Quinte Free-for-All.

Frank Smith's speedy "Nitwit" from Kingston took the 135 Class with Charles Abbott's "Meteor" winning the D. Class Racing Runabout division. An error in awarding the Class D Service Runabout trophy was made at the conclusion of the afternoon's racing to race officials. Del. Latchford, Belleville, new owner of the "Miss Red Cap," won the race and it is presented with the trophy later.

Wins Outboard Class

Cliff Lowry, Belleville, won the 10 cubic inch outboard class with Doc Dales' romping home ahead in the 16 H.P. class.

Charles Abbott's "Meteor" staged one of the most thrilling races of the afternoon with Jack Bailey roaring over the two and one quarter miles course neck-and-neck. They ripped around the lower end of the course in a cloud of spray and sped down the home stretch with "Nitwit" winning the finish line by a scant two-third length ahead of "Meteor."

The .225 Division Class II also staged thrilling heats but "Maple Leaf" was the winner. "Meteor" was the runner-up. Mr. Picton boat driven by Nick Sargent, Belleville, plenty of speed but lacked the power at the finish.

Police Blotter

Roy Polmanter, Hillcrest, and Sydney Scott, Cannifton, were apprehended by police early this morning and charged with the theft of iron from the discussed local gas plant.

Police officers were checking dozens in the vicinity when they heard the rattle of iron and upon investigation saw two young men running toward a parked truck. The two were taken to the to the police station and formally charged with theft by city police.

Reg. Donnelley, Automotive Spring Supply, reported the place of business had been broken into during the weekend, pails had been battered in, the wall was a small amount of change was missing from the office. Police stated it was evidently the work of children.

Two hounds being expressed from Sarnia to Belleville escaped from the baggage car of a C.P.R. train as it stopped on Saturday morning. The dogs, which had apparently broken their crates were picked into Victoria Park where they were recovered by local police.

A Corbyville resident reported the theft of his auto early Sunday morning. Police recovered the theft of his auto early Sunday morning. Police recovered the car on Front Street a short time later.

Following reports from the West Hill district police investigated a suspicious occupational meeting was in progress on the Queen Mary School grounds. It was revealed that the meeting was being held on the grounds without the knowledge of the local Board of Education.

Tennis Courts Will be Ready For Next Spring

Now enclosed in a brand new ten-foot wire fence, the tennis courts of Holloway Street United Church located on Dundas Street will be ready for use next spring The courts, shorto have not been used to any great extent by tennis-playing members of the congregation but a fund-raising committee have now put things into shape and are looking forward to a banner season next year.

Other plans include the installation of new lights and a shelter which will probably by completed next year.

The courts are the only asphalt type in the city which with the new fence will contribute in no small extent to the recreation enjoyment of the congregation.

The renovation of the courts will greatly increase interest in tennis and members of the committee anticipate a larger club membership next year.

Says Appeal Falls on Deaf Ears

Appeals for savings in power consumption made to domestic users had fallen on deaf ears, according to Mr. O. H. Scott, manager of the public utilities, while industrialists considered that power interruptions would be the only thing to shock domestic users into the realization that power must be saved.

Mayor D. L. Storey warned that the power shortage conditions could be expected to last for another three years until new generating equipment now in the course of construction came into operation.

To offset this he recommended that separate circuits be run in the city for local industries so that domestic users could be cut off without effecting power used by industry.

The meeting moved that Mr. Scott investigate the cost of separate circuits to industries and to report as to how soon these could be constructed.

Leadership Race Will be Closest In Party's History

Ottawa, Sept. 27 — (CP) — The leadership contest at the forthcoming national convention of the Pregressive Conservative party may prove to be the closest fought in the party's history.

At the party's three previous conventions, new leaders were selected after two ballots were taken. This time, some observers are predicting that as many as three and possibly four ballots will be necessary.

Their observations are based on reports from various parts of the country which indicate support is split for those candidates who have placed themselves in the running.

For instance, the support of Quebec's 322 delegates to the convention Sept. 30, Oct. 1-2 appears to be split three ways. Ivan Sabourin, leader of the party in Quebec, has said he will support Premier Drew of Ontario for the leadership which John Bracken, 65, is giving up because of age and ill-health.

But John Diefenbaker, 53-year-old member of the Commons for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan, told a recent press conference he found considerable support in Quebec.

Then Donald Fleming, 43-year-old member for Toronto Eglinton, told another conference he would win 250 of the votes from Quebec.

Garfield Case, 49-year-old member for Grey North in Ontario and the fourth leadership candidate, has not made any predictions as to the support which he will draw.

Quebec All-Important

Quebec's support is all-important because the leadership winner must have a clear majority over all other contestants. The 322 Quebec delegates, some observers believe, may hold the ballots which will break a deadlock.

Ontario will be entitled to 465 delegates, Prince Edward Island to 31, Nova Scotia 63, New Brunswick 59, Manitoba 94, Saskatchewan 194, Alberta 76, British Columbia 103, and Yukon six.

Voting for the leadership will start at 1:45 p.m. EST Saturday, Oct. 2. The previous evening the leadership candidates, their movers and seconders will address the convention. Each candidate will be allowed to speak for 20 minutes, the mover for 10 minutes and the seconder for five minutes.

Nominations for the leadership will close at 6 p.m. EST Friday, Oct. 1.

Can Withdraw Anytime

And candidate may withdraw at any time. If no choice is made on the third ballot, the candidate receiving the lowest number in the fourth and succeeding ballots will be eliminated.

The secret ballot will be used in the leadership election, but votes on resolutions and other matters will be by a show of hand or by a standing vote.

The main speeches will be broadcast over a National network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Arrangements are being made for broadcasts of the balloting.

RED GUNMEN BLAMED AS SLAYERS

Singapore, Sept. 27 — (AP) — Police said communist gunmen killed a Malay detective and a Chinese constable Sunday at sungei Pelek, a village in Selangor state. Police offered a $5,000 reward and a free trip to China for information leading to the arrest of the slayers.

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

Stock markets have been subjected to somewhat of a beating recently, but just as notable, they have been standing up under it very well.

This presumably is because market prices have been, to put it mildly, the least-inflated items in the economy.

The current issue of 'exchange' published by the New York Stock Exchange, notes that in spite of the ploughing back of profits most companies have maintained "yields" on stocks comparable to former years? And that the "asset value" of their stocks is improved even if the market prices haven't advanced.

The publication says further that although there's a chance that a recession will make some of the new plants unprofitable for a time, for the long haul the expanded equipment promises ever greater earnings."

Prices Review

"Such soft spots in the price structure that have appeared to date do not yet justify the conclusion that the long upward trend of prices has run its full course.

"Steel, other essential materials and capital goods are still short in relation to demand substained by buoyant incomes and the unfilled needs of both domestic and export markets.

"Moreover, with continued tension in world political affairs, the material requirements of defence will probably be large for some time to come.

"But as foodstuffs and other consumer goods appear in more plentiful supply, as specific scarcities become alleviated, as the present high rate of capital expansion assumes more normal proportions, and as consumer buying becomes more selective in terms of price and quality, a situation is created in which the pattern of rices may well show a greater diversity than it has for many months past.

"Sharp price increases occuring since 1946 must, from a monetary standpoint, be regarded mainly as a delayed adjustment to a situation previously established. It cannot yet be suggested with any certainty that this adjustment is complete."

Markets Saturday

Securisty exchanges have had their last long weekend before resuming half-day trading next Saturday. Grain prices retreated under selling pressure.

BERLIN CRISIS

Envoys Met Stalin

Their envoys in Berlin met Stalin who, apparently, was affable. Then they held a series of [illegible]

Molotov, Stalin's top bargaining expert who was far less affable than his chief.

The obvious interpretation, by early August, was that a Big Four conference on Germany would ultimately be called and that when it was, the Berlin blockade wiuld be suspended.

But the crisis continued, with only occasional short respites. Russian police raided the western sectors to make arrests, allegedly of black-marketeers. British and American military police lined up within sight of Russian lines creating the grave risk of armed clashes that might lead to war.

The air-lift continued. Russia tried to snarl it in red tape; but Britain and the United States refused to fall into the net.

By mid-September the Berlin four-power talks were given up and back to Moscow went the diplomatic football.

The documents released in Washington during the weekend showed that at this point in the negotiations the western powers gave Stalin and Molotov a memorandum charging that Marshal Sokolovsky, Russian commander in Berlin, upset agreements reached with Stalin. They said there must be:

Lifting of all restrictions in Berlin imposed after March 30.

2. Four-power control over currency in Berlin.

3. A satisfactory basis for Berlin trade.

Molotov replied defending Sokolovsky and declared he "strictly followed" the agreed directive. Molotov put forward a demand for ... powers' Berlin air-lift to military purposes, declaring this had been agreed to by the four powers Nov 30, 1945. As for the other main points at issue, Molotov gave no ground.

Claims Russians Put Thousands In Buchenwald

Berlin, Sept. 27 (AP) — The Socialist press claimed today Russians are throwing thousands of new victims into concentration camps in eastern Germany's intensified purge of anti-Communists.

The official Sozial Demokrat described what is called "transports of misery" headed for Buchenwald, the former Nazi concentration camp in Thuringia.

The newspaper described one such railroad transport of so heavily - guarded freight cars which it claimed was crowded to suffocation with Germans being sent to confinement. The train was escorted by heavily-armed Russian soldiers and outfitted with searchlights.

"When the cars were opened, a fearful stench gushed forth and the inmates were seen in wretched condition," the social-

Lost Are Found

Among the deep-seated instincts of the human heart is that having to do with the finding of the lost. No story can be more satisfying in fiction or real life than that of the finding of people who having strayed or become lost are found safe, even at great peril to the finders. The interest with which the public followed the search for the missing United States Navy plane lost for twelve days in Canada's hinterlands and the satisfaction felt in the victory which had been won over the wilds by the courage of the crew and the searchers prove that man likes nothing better than to hear of brave men coming through safe and sound.

The joy the sought party felt can only be imagined. They knew the dangers but they also knew that there would be a tireless search for them.

In man's rise up through the earlier stages of civilization he had to undergo perils from nature, from beasts and perils from human enemies. In spite of all obstacles he has striven, today until he has achieved the greatest conquests of the ages. Then he has come to the point of the crash involving two American cars and one car from Toronto.

The city partner in the accident, we are informed, was parked on Dundas Street near the "Silver Elbow." The two American cars, the first driven by Ralph Nichols, Illinois, and the second by Jacques de LaChapelle, also of Illinois, came up behind the truck, the first executing out to pass the truck when it was in collision with an outbound vehicle driven by David Sykes, Euclid Ave., Toronto.

It was stated the car driven by Nichols had stopped with the front over the centre line of the street when it was stuck by the eastbound car, which in turn was bounced off the first American car and then struck the second auto when it started to pass the damaged.

No one was injured in the accident.

Men and Women From Practically All Walks of Life to be Present At Conservative Convention

By HARRY O'BRIENLLE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Sept. 27 (CP) — The fishermen, the farmer and the financier will rub shoulders with politicians, soldiers, sportsmen, newspapermen and others at the forthcoming National Convention of the Progressive Conservative Party.

When delegates from all parts of the country gather in Ottawa's sprawling Coliseum September 30, October 1 and 2 they will find among their number men and women from practically all walks of life.

Among the 20-odd delegates will be three holders of the Victoria Cross — Major-General G. R. Pearkes, member of the Command Council of British Columbia; Lt.-Col. Cecil Merritt, Vancouver, Conservative candidate and Major John Foote, the Port Hope army padre who now is a ministerial aide of the Ontario Legislature.

From the sports world will come Conny Smythe, president of the Toronto Maple Leaf Hockey Club and a personal friend of Premier Drew. Mr. Drew is one of the speakers for the leader's ship which John Bracken, 65, is retiring.

Oldest Delegate

Several newspaper publishers will attend as delegates, but the dean of them all will be P. D. Ross, Ottawa publisher and former Ottawa Journal. An estimated 100 newspaper men, including personnel and cameramen will cover proceedings at the convention.

The farming representation will include A. Moffat Hunter, Howick, Que., a prominent Ayrshire breeder and former president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada. There will be fishermen among delegates from British Columbia and the Maritimes.

The sporting group will include men such as Joseph Harris, Toronto, president of the Argos, who represented the Ontario riding of Dantorth continuously since 1941, George Hees, another premier of Ontario, will be a delegate along with H. E. Stevens of Vancouver, former Conservative cabinet minister and once a candidate for the party's leadership.

It is expected that all pine living previous contenders for the leadership will attend the convention.

Besides Mr. Harris and Mr. Stevens, they include John Diefenbaker, member of the Commons for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan and once again a leadership candidate; Murdock MacPherson, Regina; J. Earl Lawson of Toronto; Howard Green, member for Vancouver - South; Sir Henry Drayton, of Victoria, and Mr. Bracken.

Esoteric Delegates

As might be expected, the organization in seven of a convention this size is expected to attract 2,000 people has not been without numerous incident.

The impossibility for the organization have been able to forget all of their worries by glancing through replies to housing queries sent out to delegates.

The delegates were asked to share rooms and to indicate with whom they would like to share their accommodation. The letter part of the query proved to be the most revealing. Topping the list of comebacks was this: "I don't care, but definitely not anyone who doesn't snore."

Another was from another which ran along this line:

"If he will buy the liquor. I'll share my room."

Mackenzie's Column:

Does Russia Plan To Annex One Or More Satellites

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

There have been widespread and persistent reports that a secret meeting of the powerful Russian cominform has been held in Poland with the Prime Minister Stalin in said to have been "exaction" ing on a event of the utmost importance whatever way you look at it, and especially in these days of international tension.

The cominform is the successor to the comintern, the original general staff for world revolution, which was directed by the outstanding leaders of Bolshevism. These included Ant Stalin, the present foreign minister; Klement Gottwald, president of Czechoslovakia; Georgi Dimitrov, premier of Bulgaria, and Matyas Rakosi, Hungarian communist chief.

Annexation Next?

Naturally there has been intense speculation as to the purpose of the conference revolved about three objectives: (1)—Russian annexation of one or more of the satellite states, and (3) a tightening of military cooperation with Russia in the line of the tension arising from the Berlin deadlock.

Annexation of Czechoslovakia have been named as possible as the first victim.

Their absolute possession would fill Russia's need for a strategical strangle-hold on its entire satellite bloc, and it would vastly strengthen Russia's military position in the event of war with the western powers.

Powerful Bases

Czechoslovakia and Romania are adjoining states, and the Soviet frontiers with both of them. However, Russia is separated from Bulgaria, Hungary and Yugoslavia by the Czechoslovakian - Rumanian corridor. Possession of that corridor would put Russia into direct contact with all her slave-states and, even more important, with Austria and Germany.

The significance of that is clear. It will tie up Moscow would flood that corridor with military forces, thereby not only putting barrier in possible path of invasion, but would bring the satellites but acquiring a powerful ally in the event of war with the west.

CLAIMS REDS

The burly British Labor leader traced the political failure of the United Nations since its beginning.

"Russia's fear I am afraid (for the U. N.) is fundamentally a fear of the U. S. A. and Britain; they often put forward a point or view which cannot be fairly disputed and which should be intelligently discussed, a minority in these matters resolutely refuses to accommodate itself even in the slightest degree to the views and desires of the majority."

Then, growing "with all the solemnity' at my disposal," Bevin declared:

Abuse Vote

"If the black fury, the inscitable disaster of atomic war, should fall upon us, all I can say, and I am sure, by far the majority of co-operation in the control and development of these terrible forces for 'the good of humanity will not be responsible for the evils which such war would upon mankind.

"At the root of the world's troubles, he said, is the "abuse of the veto" in the Security Council. The attitude toward peace "is unobtainable unless a real attempt is made to regard the majority right as something to which the individual views of the three veto powers will be subordinated."

Bevin accused Vishinsky of "pure invention" in many of his charges Saturday against the west and said he was utterly disgusted or edified by Mr. Vishinsky's attack on the United States."

He said control of atomic power to the Berlin question which the western powers announced on Sunday night they will take before the Security Council.

He referred to the German situation as a whole to say he was disgusted that the Russians had turned down an American-proposed 40-year alliance of the four great powers to insure German disarmament.

Asked About Russian Policy

He asked Vishinsky the week's basic question regarding Russian policy —

"Is it true that nothwithstanding everything you say from this platform, it is the Russian fixed conception that there can be no final agreement with non-Communist States? Is it true that being the Soviet Government does not tactically agree to abandon their given purpose whatever they say in the proceedings?

He quoted from Lenin to prove his point and added:

"If Mr. Vishinsky wonder that we are cautious about accepting at face value that statement that the policy of the Soviet Union is one of friendship and strengthening international co-operation?"

He warned the Russians that if, having secured Soviet territory, they can use the territory of other states to prepare attacks on us, then a very difficult situation is created in which we can only look to our own defence."

Bevin said "it is better to have our difficulties now than to live in a fool's paradise."

CALL 'EM ROLLS IF YOU LIKE

No foul like an old fool, I always say as I go by nine morning somersaults. I'm thinking, of course, of the 999 out of every thousand people who never roll somersaults because they are too stiff, too dignified, too timid or too old. I'm sorry for you poor old geezers of fifty or sixty who belong in this category. I'm sorry your education has been so sadly neglected. I have done all I can do to retard your headlong slide down to you know where. Very well — down to degeneration.

I have been preaching for a long time the importance of the seven keys to vite, namely:

1. Save your Teeth.
2. Temperance.
3. Belly Breathing.
4. Deep Breathing or Bathing.
5. Iodin Ration.
6. Daily Exercise.
7. Rejuvenation, protective, basic health diet and supplementing the ordinary diet with adequate rations of minerals and vitamins.

The great trouble with most Yankee Wheezers of fifty is they think the care of health is a matter of curing the right kind of cathartives, pain-killers, laxatives, digestive tablets, stimulants, brandy, rye and Scotch. Then add to the excellent though unpalatable menu of the dentists of the past you really believe that if you use a toothbrush often enough with just the right twist of the wrist and the right brand of glorified soap you'll don't know how and a dash of the latest mysterious ingredient you can keep your teeth without squandering your good money on treatment by the dentist.

Into for refined white sugar.

From these two cheat-foods — white flour and white sugar you get most of your calories. From such real foods as your deficient diet may have, fruits, vegetables, cheese, fresh fruit, fresh vegetables, milk, eggs, meat—you do not get enough minerals and vitamins to prevent malnutritional deficiency disease. You generally get what the very least that you suffer from malnutrition or nutritional deficiency — haven't the gumbo and nostrums you manufacturers have been doing in your ears for so long as you can remember that it is your sensitive nerves, your upset indigestion, your overwrought nerves, your gripes, your domestic cares, your blood pressure, your lazy liver, your poor blood, your need of a tonic, a sedative or a dose of saplin, acetasilidin or homogenized knock-out drops?

In the booklet The 7 Keys to Vite — for copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope — you will find some simple daily calisthenics described and illustrated — especially for people who do no-honest work—such as physicians, dentists, teachers, clergymen, writers, merchants, accountants, stenographers, bankers and the happy housewives who have maids, cooks and laundries to turn on and off the authomatic magnets for them while they sit on their dignity and wonder why they can't be happy. With the booklet you will find plenty fiddling with a half dozen, or dozen drills, but if you don't know how to go about somersaulting send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing (no reply if you use clipping) for invitation to the somersaulting class.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Childbirth Without Fear

A year ago you told about a method of confinement without fear.

(P.E.)

Answer — A fine book, Childbirth Without Fear, for doctor, nurse and expectant mother, is by Grantley Dick Read, M.D., published by Harper, N.Y. — any book dealer can get it for you. Your public library may have it.

Fleas

Seventeen, have yearning to eat flour constantly. Some say I have worms. Also I feel tired all the time.

(L.M.C.)

Answer — You get too much refined white flour in bread, cake and pastry. Better switch flour to oatmeal or plain wheat. Plain wheat bread makes delicious toast and gives you a considerable ration of the vitamin B complex you do not get in your refined everyday food.

7. During discussions at Berlin, Russian authorities tolerated demonstrations against the newly elected city government by violence.

8. On Sept. 14, representatives of the three western powers told Moscow its Berlin blockade was not observing the Moscow accord.

9. On Sept. 15, Moscow confirmed the existence of the East German commander on the Moscow agreement, so far as control of air traffic, trade and powers in the finance commission are concerned.

Asked if She Was Ready

10. On Sept. 22, The western governments asked Russia if she was ready to lift the blockade, emphasizing it would be futile to continue negotiations if the Soviet Union refused to accept the previous accords and showed its intention of stopping and destroying the rights of the three Western Powers in Berlin.

11. The Russian reply of Sept. 22 is not satisfactory. A conditional agreement to plan Berlin commerce under four-power control is illusory since the Russians ask for control of air traffic, including commercial cargo and passengers. Russia also wants to impose on transport communications between Berlin and the west new restrictions which would place the supply of Berlin at the mercy of the Soviet. She would have the possibility of reimposing an even more effective blockade whenever she so desires.

12. The attitude of the Russian commander in Berlin in the negotiations and the encouragement given to attempts to overthrow the city government prove the Russian government refused to execute its agreement and wants to destroy the rights of the Western Powers in Berlin.

13. The Berlin question is not a technical one, but shows that the Soviet Union is seeking illegally and by coercion to get absolute control of the political economic and social life of Berlin and to incorporate the city into the Russian zone.

14. The Russian government thus has taken upon itself alone the entire responsibility for creating a situation in which it is no longer possible, in present circumstances, to take advantage of mutual settlement envisaged in Article 23 of the U. N. charter for a situation which constitutes a threat to international peace and security.

Wrenched Back When Cars Collide On North Front St.

Cecil Sine, 5th concession Oshawa, township farmer suffered a wrenched back and two passengers suffered minor cuts as result of a car-truck collision on North Front Street, just north of the Upper Bridge early this morning.

Mr. Sine was driving his truck loaded with melons to the Bellevville market when driving south on North Front Street his truck was in collision with a northbound car driven by Albert Bishop, 23 Earl Sifbert. It was reported that the Bishop auto was over the centre line of the street when the accident occurred.

Both vehicles were damaged to the extent of approximately $100 while Mr. Sine suffered a wrenched back and was attended by Dr. Crook. Mr. Sine's 13-year-old son, Lorne, sustained a cut ear, ag did Ben Hanann, Foxboro, also a passenger in the Sine truck.

Estimated $800 Damage Caused In Triple Crash

Damage amounting to an estimated $800 resulted to three autos on Wes t Dundas Street this morning as result of a three-car crash involving two Oshawa cars and one car from Toronto.

The city garbage truck, facing west, was parked on Dundas Street near the "Devil's Elbow." Two other cars, the first driven by Ralph Nichols, Illinois, and the second by Jacques de LaChapelle, also of Illinois, came up behind the truck, the first car easing to pass the truck when it was in collision with an eastbound vehicle driven by David Sykes, Euclid Ave., Toronto.

It was stated the car driven by Nichols had stopped with the front over the centre line of the street when it was struck by the eastbound car. The Sykes auto bounced off the first American car and then struck the second auto when its path of gear was damaged.

No one was injured in the accident.

United Church Delegates Approve Heavy Agenda

Vancouver, Sept. 27 —(CP)—A report that negotiations for union with the Church of England in Canada are progressing "encouragingly" was left with the United Church's 13th general council today as the 470 delegates adjourned for the week-end.

Rev. Gordon A. Sisco of Toronto told the council Friday night that after four years of "conversations" with Church of England officials "there is good reason and ground for encouragement."

The general secretary said a detailed report on progress towards union was prepared at the recent Lambeth Conference of Anglican Bishops. It will be considered by the United Church, he said.

This report will edgage the attention of representatives of the two churches, at least on executive levels and possibly on committee levels," he said in a carefully - worded statement upon which there was no comment.

Delegates approved a hea.y agenda Friday which:

1. Tightened the church's regulations on marriage of divorced persons.

2. Re-affirmed the right of women to enter the ministry.

3. Approved financial plans to guarantee married ordained ministers a $2,480 minimum salary by 1957.

4. Urged upon various factors in Canada the necessity of establishing a self-disciplined, cooperative economy.

"If anything is sacred in the state it is the Christian home" Rev J. T. Mutchmor, Secretary of the Church's Evangelism and Social Service Department, told the council.

"The home cannot be built in a nation with a rising divorce rate. Marriage is our business," he said. Stirring a quick, unanimous vote on ministerial salary increases the council undertook to,"guarantee" a minimum $2,100 for married ministers beginning in 1949 by getting an $1,800 minimum the plan hoped to extend the increase to $2,300 in 1950 and $2,400 in 1951. Single men were to receive $300 less in each case.

Dr. Mutchmor's Board of Evangelism also suggested the church "urge upon business, industry, agriculture and government the utmost necessity of establishing a self-disciplined and co-operative economy in our nation."

F. R. Scargrigard, a Hamilton lawyer, objected to the contenplour wording of the recommendation. He said "the function of the church was to sell God, not to talk about economic matters."

Dr. Mutchmor said his proposal did not deal with any system of economics but with the matter of self-discipline and co-operation," which, he said, was a business of the church.

WEDDINGS

LEDGER—SKELCHER

A wedding of local interes: took place on Saturday, September 18, at 11 a.m., in Trinity Anglican Church, Simcoe, Ontario, when the Rev. G. C. W. Anglin united in marriage Marianne Jacqueline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Skelcher, Simcoe, formerly of Belleville, and Ralph Smith Ledger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ledger, Hamilton. The church was attractively decorated with white gladiolus. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a floor length gown of ivory brocaded nylon, fashioned with bouffant skirt and a short train. She wore matching mittens and carried a white prayer-book bouquet adorned with white ribbon streamers and red and white roses. Her floor length veil was caught with a headdress of gardenias and forget-me-nots.

Mrs. Lorna Kendall, Hamilton, friend of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a floor-length gown of ice blue brocaded taffeta with matching mittens, and matching fingertip veil caught with a headdress of blue forget-me-nots. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Norma Skelcher, Simcoe, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing a floor-length gown of lime green taffeta with matching mittens and matching fingertip veil caught with a band of green flowers. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. Richard Kendall, Hamilton, friend of the bridegroom, performed the duties of best man and Mr. Arthur Fort, Belleville, brother-in-law of the bride, was the usher.

The traditional wedding music was played by Mr. W. V. Marshall, A.T.C.M., organist and Miss Joan Sobler, Simcoe, was soloist, singing "The Dedication", during the signing of the register was followed with a Nuptial celebration of the Holy Communion.

Afterwards, a wedding luncheon was served to about two guests in the Parish Hall. Mrs. Skelcher, mother of the bride, received, wearing a street length dress of grey crepe with matching accessories, assisted by Mrs. Ledger, mother of the bridegroom, who wore a street length dress of grey faille with blue accessories. Both wore corsages of pink roses.

Following the reception, the happy couple left on a motor trip to the Muskoka district; the bride donning a grey suit with black accessories.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital School for Nurses and prior to her marriage was honored with showers given by her classmates and also by Miss Doris Kelsall, Simcoe.

Upon their return from their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Ledger will take up residence in Hamilton.

"Whenever you turn the baby over," said the V.O.N. bathing the "brand new" baby, "be sure to hold and keep your hands to firmly on his little body. This gives him a feeling of security."

"Why does that make any difference?" asked his mother. "He's only four days old. Surely he doesn't sense such things as that."

Surprisingly enough, they find he does. The little chap arrives with two fears, the minute he comes into the world. They are a sudden noise and a sensation of falling. Both of these fears were non-existent before birth, while he was safely developing, but he never even thought of that.

THE JUMPER leaps into first place for college promotions judging by store reports. And no wonder, for a good jumper dress is a most useful wardrobe friend, permitting an easy change of costume by varying the blouse. The separate draped sash is buttoned in back . . . the open front reveals the blouse, which is of pink featherweight flannel nicely monogrammed.

Neighbors Honor Newly-Weds, Departing Couple

Mountain View—About sixty friends and neighbors met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson of Mountain View, on Friday evening. The occasion was the presentation of a miscellaneous shower to Mr. and Mrs. Herb. Mcnab, (nee Barbara Wilson), a daughter of the former. There was also a note of sadness as the people of Mountain View were also saying farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, who are leaving soon to make a new home in Toronto.

About ten p.m., while Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Macnab, were seated around the dining table, Mrs. Ben Anderson read an address to the former couple. Mrs. Stanley Barber presented them with a lovely silver tea service from the people of Mountain View community as a farewell present.

Mr. Macnab very graciously replied for Mr. and Mrs. Wilson thanking the people for their lovely gift.

Mrs. Willett Barber then read an address to Mr. and Mrs. Macnab, who were presented with a miscellaneous shower of numerous lovely gifts. Both Barbara and Herb replied very graciously. Everyone sang "For They are Jolly Good Fellows". Refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. MacNab are leaving on Tuesday for their new home in Brandon, Man.

"You will notice that he does that. But it is not because he is nervous. There is no such thing as a nervous baby, though some babies are more tense than others. Each baby must have careful consideration as he becomes more and more adjusted to life. Therefore it is necessary to see that he is handled smoothly, carefully and firmly."

Harvest Festival Observed At Christ Church

Christ Church was filled to its capacity, with worshippers for both services of its annual Harvest Festival, celebrated on Sunday. The abundance of the harvest was depicted by the decorations of fruit, grain and garden produce in the church, creating an atmosphere for Autumnal thanksgiving.

Music befitting the festive occasion was made in the morning by the return of the organ, re-built during the summer, and re-dedicated at the services Sunday. Music was under the direction of choir leader, A. W. Simpson and organist, K. Martin. The male choir sang "Bach choral, "Thine Alone the Glory".

Rural Dean the Rev. J. Grant Sparling was assisted in the morning service by the Rev. E. Smith and in the evening service by Mr. G. Meadus. The topic of the morning sermon was "Canada's Responsibility in its Abundance", and in the evening, "A Christian Answer to the Pessimism of Gen. Brock Chisholm", and author of the controversial book, "Road to Survival".

Supplies Already Sent to Europe Totally Inadequate, Missionary Convener Tells Young People

"We were startled to learn that all supplies which have been sent to Belgium during the past year over in two years can be given each refugee," Miss Leitch told an audience of young people at Bridge Street United Church on Saturday evening. Miss Leitch has just returned from Amsterdam, Holland, where she represented the Canada People's Unions of Canada at the World's Council of Christian Life Work. "It is all the help we have been able to send it is totally inadequate. However in many sections of Europe the people have gained new spirit and places are being rebuilt with neat new buildings. That is not true of Germany, however, which still has many cities reduced to rubble. The children of Holland look healthy, but living on a Dutch diet you realize there is a great shortage of fats."

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Young People's Union of the Presbyterian and was presided over by the president, Miss Vivian Henderson of Selby. Community singing was led by Miss McDougall with Mrs. Dan Cooke at the piano. Miss Margaret Hillis gave a reading "Lord's Supper, and Miss Roslyn Robertson read a passage from the scripture. A vocal solo was rendered by Miss Norma Aikins.

Mr. Ray Gonsolus introduced the speaker of the evening and explained that Miss Geake was the Mission Convener of the National Council of the Y.P. Unions-Theme of Convention

The theme of the World's Council was 'Man's Disorder and God's Design' and leading churches of over a hundred and forty denominations were present to discuss church differences and the need for unity among Christians. It was emphasized that the purpose was not to set up a super church, but to discuss preparatory work on faith and order. The meeting was held in Amsterdam and "many felt a deep sense, of shame that they could not meet around a common table to observe the Lord's Supper. However the Dutch Orthodox church invited all to partake in communion and then a ceremony which took over three hours to serve the sacraments to the fourteen hundred delegates.

The council has been in the making for over 50 years, started by men who felt the need for unity among Christians. The opening ceremonies were held in the Dutch Kirk, a Cathedral which is actually over five hundred years old. It was enlarged to make a seating capacity of three thousand and this was now Juliana was inaugurated in September as Queen. The opening ceremonies were most impressive with color, full with people of all races and color marching in their costumes along with high ranking church dignitaries wearing full ecclesiastical robes. The opening hymn "All people that on earth do dwell" was sung in forty languages.

The young people have had a great deal to do with the Council of Churches. Their student groups have been doing preparatory work for years. They held confessional group meetings which showed how much can be gained by being united, and it was a fruitful experience for them. They discussed social and political problems, and one of the criticisms was that while the Church preaches love of our fellow man many Christians do not practice it. This was the first time that the Church as a whole had combined their study on political problems which face the world today.

Miss Geake stated that there was a challenge to the young people of the world. World Council will mean nothing if the people at home do not sincerely believe we are united in Christ, and take a firmer and greater stand as Christians. We must seriously confront the world with Christ and speak boldly in Christ's Name.

Rev. Mr. Perkins closed the meeting with prayer.

NEW HYDRO PROJECT — With Ontario undergoing its most acute power shortage in history, every possible source is being combed for power to relieve the conditions. Opening today at Stewartville, eight miles from Arnprior, Ont., on the Madawaska River, is this new hydro project of the Ontario Electric Power Commission. It will add 60,000 kilowatts of power to the province's power supply. The dam spanning the river is 1,300 feet long and 190 feet high. (CP Photo).

Canadian Harvest Yield Greater Than Normal Despite Late Planting

(By The Canadian Press)

Canadian farmers have just about finished the harvest of a bumper crop.

A Canadian Press survey showed today that all provinces except British Columbia and Nova Scotia expect more valuable yields than in 1947. Despite late planting, due to a rainy spring and an exceptionally dry period in late summer, most crops are above average.

The farm labor supply remains scarce in all provinces. National Employment offices reported light in most districts. They were unable to provide enough harvest workers through transfers from one province to another. Displaced persons have helped to alleviate shortages.

Farm Wages Up.

Wages to farm laborers have increased all across the Dominion. On the Prairies workers get $6-$8 daily. In New Brunswick a fast potato-picker can earn $20 a day. Wages in Ontario have gone up about 10 per cent.

The Nova Scotia apple crop, estimated at 1,000,000 barrels, is about half normal. Other crops grew well after a slow start.

In Prince Edward Island, blight will reduce the volume of the potato crop, but the acreage was 15 per cent higher than last year.

New Brunswick agriculture officials say the province may have one of the best crop years in history. Potatoes, the biggest cash crop, are expected to equal or surpass the 1947 yield of more than $16,000,000.

Quebec farmers will harvest one of their best yields. Estimates place the value at more than last years $162,000,000. A bumper vegetable crop and increases in oats, barley and spring wheat and rye are in prospect.

An excellent field crop yield is reported in Ontario, but the drought conditions in the Niagara Peninsula and Central Ontario had a serious affect on tomatoes and some late root vegetables.

The estimated value of Ontario field crops is $386,881,000 compared with $280,340,000 last year. The fruit and vegetable yield is down from $56,415,000 in 1947 to about $55,443,000. Fall pasture conditions are estimated at only 85 per cent of normal, causing a rapid decline in milk production. The drought also has delayed sowing of fall wheat and may bring a smaller acreage than last year.

70 P.C. Harvested.

Harvesting in Manitoba is more than 70 per cent complete with a "better than average" crop predicted. Saskatchewan crops are better in both yield and quality. Wheat is averaging 13 bushels to the acre, compared with 12.3 last year.

In Alberta, about 117,000,000 bushels of wheat will be harvested at an average yield of 16.5 bushels to the acre — better than expected after a wet spring and late planting.

Gardiner Announces Floor Price for N.S. Apples Sold Fresh

Ottawa Sept. 27 (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced Sunday floor prices of $2.90 a barrel for Nova Scotia apples sold fresh and of $2.50 a barrel for those sold for processing.

"The Agriculture prices support board undertakes to appoint the Nova Scotia apple marketing board its agent to buy the Nova Scotia crop on a basis of $3.90 per barrel if the apples are sold by the board as fresh apples," Mr. Gardiner said in an interview.

"The basis will be $2.50 a barrel if the apples are processed by the board as dried apples or apple juice."

There is no provision in this year's arrangements for processing part of the Nova Scotia crop as canned apples.

Mr. Gardiner said he expected that the apple marketing board would have to handle about 700,000 barrels from a total Nova Scotia crop estimated at 1,000,000.

He said it was likely that the board would handle about 300,000 barrels as fresh apples and about 400,000 barrels partially as fresh and partially as processed apples.

Great Water Pressure Will Seal 10-Ton Globe in Ocean Depths

By ERIC KENNEDY

Brussels, (AP) — Probably the most comprehensive and compact laboratory ever built is the six-foot metal sphere in which 43-year-old Prof. Auguste Piccard and his Belgian assistant, Prof. Max Cosyns, hope shortly to make a 3½ mile dive into the Gulf of Guinea.

They aboard the motor vessel Scaldis — which sailed September 15 for Dakar where trial descents are to be made — the ten-ton steel sphere was built at Brussels by engineers who worked day and night in an unobtrusive dockside workshop.

The 4,000-ton Scaldis was placed at Prof. Piccard's disposal by the Belgian government. On her bridge is a battery of radar and supersonic devices loaned by the British Admiralty, with which the surface team will be able to follow the underwater movements of the six-foot "bathyscaphe."

A huge winch with a 30-ton lift, installed over the after hold of the Scaldis, will be used to launch and retrieve the strange craft.

The walls of this spherical cabin, constructed from a special steel alloy, are 3½ inches thick and have been designed to withstand an underwater pressure of more than 50,000 tons.

The bathyscaphe actually consists of two separate hemispheres placed one upon the other. There is no joint between the halves. They are held in position by several tiny hasps, but the external pressure of the water will ensure that the cabin remains perfectly watertight.

For observation purposes, two plastic portholes have been fitted into the sides. Quartz electric floodlamps, each producing 3,000 candles power, will light up the water as the craft descends.

The cabin will be hooked by a substantial metal framework to a buoyant chamber — seven huge aluminum containers filled with 2,000 gallons of gas. Concrete blocks, each weighing 4,000 pounds, will be attached to the chamber by a series of electro-magnets. Amount of gas in the containers and the weight of ballast have been so balanced that the buoyant chamber, at the time for launching, will float on the water with the bathyscaphe suspended just below the surface.

To descend, the gas will be blown off in small quantities. A huge guide rope weighted with a block of concrete will tell the scientists their position below the surface. They will stop their descent just above the ocean bed and begin moving horizontally, driven by two electrically turned propellers. To bring the craft to the surface, the concrete and ballast will be jettisoned slowly.

With only eight hours under the water, taking of copious notes will be out of the question. Scientific aids of every description have been packed into the tiny cabin to enable the scientists to make a permanent record of every characteristic of life in this unplumbed depth.

To ensure that no gap occurs in the record of the exploration, speed is essential in the operation of the instruments and, as far as possible, each of them will be operated by remote control from a central point in the vessel.

New Horse Barn Ready

The new aluminum horse and cattle barns will be used for the first time. The front part of the grandstand has been rebuilt. In the rear of the grandstand, seats have been numbered. Half of the floor beneath the stand has been laid with concrete.

So great has been the demand for space by agents and merchants and for general exhibits in the Crystal Palace, that the former poultry building has been taken over to house the thousand or more entries in the School Fair classes. The poultry pens are moved up beneath the grandstand.

J. K. Welsh reports a large entry expected for the horse races both Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons. The Clinde starting gate will be used and Jack Clinde, Tillsonburg, is starter.

The Green Amusement Co., of Montreal, is supplying the new midway.

Night Shows

The night show, "Steele's Cavalcade of Stars" features 25 trained horses, trained mules and ponies, trained dog acts, Agabache, famed South American fighting horse.

All the exhibits of a truly agricultural Fall fair will be shown in newly decorated surroundings.

Picton Fair is the largest Fair in this part of Ontario, held outside cities. Given good weather, a record crowd is expected.

Boston Braves Clinch N.L. Flag and Cleveland Reaches Top in A.L. as Feller Shines

By RALPH RUDEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Boston Braves are "in" and Cleveland Indians are brushing their feet on the welcome mat spread for the American League entry in the 1948 World Series.

Billy Southworth's Braves gained admittance to the World Series Sunday when they clinched their first National League pennant since 1914.

The Indians moved a game in front of the runner-up Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees in the tension-jammed American League race.

Cleveland, behind the brilliant five-hit pitching of Bobby Feller fiowered the Detroit Tigers 4-1 while the Yanks dumped the Red Sox 8-3 in the third game of their tut-thrust series.

If the Indians win three of their remaining five games, the Sox or the Yankees would have to win all of their five to beat out Cleveland.

The Red Sox, although they have lost three out of their last four games, are in better position to overhand the Indians than the defending world champion Yankees who finish out on the road. Boston and Cleveland play at home for the rest of the season.

Bud "Peter" Pipher, starry Oshawa miltman who is appearing in the main bout of Wednesday boxing card at Memorial Arena. He meets the classy Hal Whitney of Hamilton, a boy with a reputation for hard-hitting etc. Jerry Downs is slated for the second main bout while Belleville and Hamilton boxers as well as those from Trenton round out a fine card.

Feller Supreme

Feller was supreme. The big right-hander, in bagging his 19th straight victory and 18th of the year, fanned nine and didn't walk a batter.

Joe Gordon gave Feller a working margin when he hammered Hal Newhouser for his 31st homer with a mate on in—the third inning. Newhouser, seeking his 20th win, was tagged with his 12th loss.

A capacity crowd of 69,755 fans watched the Yankees make it two out of three over the floundering Sox in the Yankee stadium. Tommy Henrich sent the Yankees off to a good start when he socked his 25th homer with Phil Rizzuto on base in the first inning off Lefty Mel Parnell. The Yankees sewed it up in the third with two more runs.

Southpaw Tommy Byrne stymied the Sox on five hits in recording his eighth victory and eighth of the year.

Boston Toasting Braves

Meanwhile, Boston is toasting the Braves, particularly Manager Billy Southworth's Braves who have gained the American League pennant and the right to meet the winner of the National League flag in the 1948 World Series.

The Braves assured themselves of the National League flag by 3-2 nosing out New York Giants 3-2 on Elliott's three-run first-inning homer off Larry Jansen. Bickford blanked the Giants until the eighth when he faltered and gave up two runs. Potter stepped in the breach, snuffed out the rally and safeguarded the slender margin the remaining distance.

Boston is six games ahead of the runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers. The Braves have six games to play and the Dodgers five.

Dodgers New Second

The Dodgers turned back Philadelphia 7-1 to seize second on their half-game lead over the third-place St. Louis Cardinals. Gene Hermanski's two-run triple and a homer by Roy Campanella was all the batting support Ralph Branca needed in posting his 14th win.

St. Louis, behind, the four-hit pitching of Lefty Al Brazle, stopped Chicago Cubs, 5-0.

Pittsburgh Pirates banged their way to within a half-game of the Cards by taking a twin bill from Cincinnati Reds 5-4 and 8-5. Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner blasted his 40th homer to highlight the nightcap victory.

In the remaining American League game, Sandy Gumbert pitched the last-place Chicago White Sox to a six-hit 3-0 triumph over St. Louis Browns.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Shades of 1933! It was reminiscent of those hectic days of Warpy Phillips, Tommy Painter et al, who battled tooth and nail for Picton and Napanee respectively aboard the hill-top, to see a shooting, clubbing, back-slapping mix of baseball fans pour onto the playing field at Gilbbard Park on Saturday to shoulder their heroes in a wild outburst of enthusiasm.

Joe Jocko was the hero of the piece, in a thirteen innings thriller that gave the pallied Shallow Lake village team engaged from victory by one run after a thrilling diamond battle. Yep, the squads found themselves starting all over again at the end of the ninth after the Lakers pushed the tieing run to tie the count at five-all. Came the overtime and with Ed. Hooper and Garver, rarey rightbowers, blanking down with every pitch, it looked as though the game would continue over the weekend. Three and one-half innings went scoreless with the crowd tense and excited. Batters came up and went down in order, and the packed stands waited for the break.

• • •

It came in the last half of the thrirteenth when Napanee got a runner aboard and as far around as second base. Two were out and Jocko strode to the plate. The Napanee Crew looked at two pitches, then got hold of the third and the ball whistled over the third baseman's head for a clean hit into the left field. The runner tore for the plate, and the excited crowd spilling onto the field from the stands and bleachers, bolsted the runner shoulder high. Another mob waited for Ed. Hooper and the big hurler was "chaired" off the field while the crowd went hysterical.

• • •

Not since 1932 when Ernie Gibbard who was playing second base held down a cornerpost bunt with the bases loaded in edge Picton by a one run margin, has a Napanee crowd let down in collective hair to the extent of rushing on the diamond to get within touch distance. The second game of the semi - final intermediate "A" series will be played in Shallow Lake, a village of some 341 souls on Wednesday next. The Lake is located in Grey County in the neighborhood of Owen Sound.

What appears to be another excellent boxing card is scheduled for Memorial Arena here on Wednesday night when the popular, hard-hitting Bud "Peter" Pipher, Oshawa middleweight, meets a topnotch Hamilton fighter in the person of Hal. Whitney. The Ambitious City lad comes with an enviable reputation as a fighter-of-the-future and Pipher will have his hands full if he wants to cop the nod in the main bout.

• • •

"Jumping" Jerry Downs who made a fine ring comeback on last Wednesday night's card will battle with Bud Henry in a special ringside match in the second bout. Henry is one of the boys staged a hard-hitting slugging bout last week that met the popular fancy Ron. Mansfield will make his 1948 Belleville debut when he tangles with Tony Bisci, classy Hamilton slugger. Ray Lucas has been rematched with Walter Bixby of Trenton while Bill Cassidy-Napper will again see action against George Swenor, of Trenton. Other colorful bouts round out an entertaining card.

Perfect regatta weather favored the meet of city and district speedboat owners and drivers on the bay off the Government Dock yesterday and a large crowd thrilled to the sight of several exciting races. The sun was warm and the water just right for speedboat activities. The large crowd crammed the dock while cars were lined up along the bay bridge road at an early hour.

• • •

Ed. Fine, Charlie Abbott, Earl Harrow, and other Belleville drivers pins a strong representation from Tweed combined with members of the Kinmen Club to make the meet a success. Picton boats were here as well and in all some twenty - five craft from the powerful 225 cubic inches to the diminutive "ten-cliner" provided an afternoon of fine entertainment.

• • •

Handsome prizes were awarded the winners and the Kinsmen Club and speedboat men were highly appreciative of the generosity of city merchants in presenting the trophies and prizes.

Lou Boudreau Thinks Indians Will Win Race

Cleveland, Sept. 27 — (AP) Lou Boudreau flatly predicts his Cleveland Indians will win the American League pennant.

"I sincerely believes we're in now," the happy pilot said Sunday.

More relaxed than at any time this season, Boudreau beamed all over as he talked about Bob Feller's 4-1 victory over Hal Newhouser and the Tigers in Detroit.

"That was the big one," he emphasized. "The game meant the pennant for us. It was more important than our 'must' victory over the Boston Red Sox last Wednesday. They've got to catch us now."

"We had to best Boston Wednesday to remain in the race. A defeat then would have dropped us two full games behind the Red Sox. That might have been a terrific blow to our morale. Yesterday's triumph, however, coupled with Boston's defeat by the Yankees in New York, I firmly believe, decided the race."

Charles Congdon Wins Canadian Open Tourney

Vancouver, Sept. 27 — (CP) — A golfer, known as one of the best unknown players in the Northwest, today is th e 1948 Canadian Open champion.

Charles (Chuck) Congdon of Tacoma, Wash., won the $2,000 top money Saturday with a scintillating display of "the-pickup-are-down" shooting.

Playing in his first Canadian Open, the taciturn, 36-year-old pro-maker, practically unknown to Easterners, captured the Seagram Gold Cup with an eight-under-par 276 for the 5-hole contest at Shaughnessy heights golf course.

Dapper Dick Metz of Virginia Beach, Va., who led the field for the first three days, dropped five strokes to Congdon on the final 18 holes to go into a three-way tie for second place and $1,050 apiece with Vic Ghezzi and Englewood, N.J., and Ky Laffoon of Chicago. They all had 283.

Going into the final 18 holes, Metz led Congdon by two strokes. Playing in the same foursome Congdon Saturday shot a 69 against 74 for Metz. They were all square on the ninth, and Congdon went up one stroke each on the three last holes.

Low amateur and low Canadian honors fell to 21-year-old Walt McIlroy of Vancouver. Playing over his home course McIlroy played the 72 holes in par 288 to shade second-place amateur Skee Riegel of Upper Derby, Pa., by 10 strokes.

Host Pro Fred Wood won the Birrestead Trophy for low Canadian professional with 290.

Robbie topped Fort Wayne hitters with three hits in four times at bat. Russ Evon was best for London with two-for-four.

Once again winter is just around the corner—now is the time to prepare for it. Weather-strip the doors and windows . . . caulk your house —wherever cold air can get in and heat can get out. Your economy, multiplied by that of your fellow Canadians, will help make it certain that no one runs short. Vancouver Youth Smart Golfer Says Fred Haas

Vancouver, Sept. 27 — (CP) — Young Walt McIlroy of Vancouver may be led all winners and all the Dominion's shoemakers in the Canadian Open, may be the golfer they call Fred Haas of the title back to Canada.

That's the opinion of a top-notch United States pro, Fred Haas of New Orleans, after watching the 21-year-old McIlroy in the Open won Saturday by Charlie Congdon of Tacoma, Wash., he had this to say:

"He's a beautiful player, and he'll be the champ some day."

Haas was in the stone threesome as Walt in the third round of the Open when McIlroy banged out a two-under-par 70. It gave McIlroy a big jump on the rest of the amateur field and the final round of the tourney was little more than a formality for new amateur honors.

In the last 18 holes Saturday, McIlroy hung on with a 73 to also carry off the low Canadian score, shading Fred Holmes, pro at Shaughnessy Heights, by two strokes. Walt's 72-hole total as an even par 288.

Whether the amateur golf medal, he led the second-place amateur Skee Riegel, former U. S. amateur champion from Upper Darby, Pa. — by 10 strokes. Seven down, under U.S. amateur titlist, Bud Ward of Spokane, Wash., picked up after the third round.

New York Sept. 27 (AP) When Philadelphia Phillies of the National League first offered Stan Hollmig, who starred for their Wilmington Del., farm club this summer, a $10,000 bonus to sign a baseball contract he turned it down — it seems that, unknown to college authorities, a couple of Ag. and M. alumni slipped Stan $1,000 to take his athletic talents to that school. With two years of eligibility left, Hollmig figured he owed it to the alumni to stay there .... the Phils, figuring it was just a case of more dough, upped their offer to $15,000 and another ball club then made it $20,000 .... when the Phillies made it $25,000, Stan couldn't resist, so he signed and parted — with the blessing of assorted coaches and professors who wished they could get that kind of dough.

At most tables the bidding went like this:

South	North
2 H	3 S
3 D	5 D
4 H	Pass
6 D

The opening two bid signalled north that the bidding must not stop short of game. When immediate response was not forthcoming, trump, it was a return signal that north had a nice trick of some kind.

When an opening two bidder learns that partner has a sure trick, he expects a slam in his pair. Usually it depends only on finding out what trump suit should be used.

It is also advisable to discover how many aces and kings are in the pair. These may be enough for a grand slam. But for a small slam, enough aces and kings are usually there if responder has a sure trick.

Most important for the small slam bidder is to discover the trump suit that is most satisfactory. Even if necessary to give up ace and king discovery, make sure of the trump suit.

When north wanted diamonds, the trump suit has a home. By that time it is too late to use the four no-trump convention for the showing of aces and kings. So, north made for small slam.

At a couple of tables the south was over-eager or none. They shot into a grand slam of seven diamonds and got a cold look, upon being confronted with the need of taking 13 tricks, they did.

You could too.

Hollywood, Sept. 27 (AP) — Mickey Mouse will make yet another comeback.

Walt Disney's animal haven announces that the famed Mick will be starred in two new short subjects and six of his old starrers will be re-released. Except for his appearance in a feature, the Mick has been absent from the screen for five years. Here's the studio's reason for his retreat:

"Mickey's decline was due to his heroic nature. He grew into such a legend that we couldn't gag around with him. He acquired as many taboos as a western hero—no smoking, no drinking, no vice. When Mickey started, we could do anything with him, but now we have a character set and is inflexible because of hero worship."

Johnson Wants Musical

Van Johnson is eager to do a musical, but this time he wants to jump right into the thing. He claims he has been more or less a straight man in the musicals he has done, leaving the dirty work to sing and dance. Van started his career as a hoofer.

Dan Dureyea is back to heavies now that he has left Universal-International (except for one film a year.) He plays a weasle with Lizi Scott in "Late For Dinner" and another with Dorothy Lamour in "The Man Who Stole a Dream."

Edmond O'Brien had to pass up a deal for a year's work in Europe in a radio series. Warners said it would interfere with his film work.

Ulcer Cure

John Wayne got rid of his ulcer and he thinks drinking tea did it. The test turned out favorable, reports. However, see your doctor before abandoning that cure.

Capsule review: Olympic Games of 1948" (Pathe) is a fine educational job. If not an inspired one. The events are well photographed and edited, but the feature film suffers by been put together in a hurry fashion. There is excitement and beauty, and the musical score is fine, but the lack of any plot setting, the marathon climax. Disappointment: Omission of the 10,000 meter, 200-metre dash, springboard diving.

Three Big Hydro Generators Roar Into Operation

Stewartville, Ont., Sept. 27 — (CP) — Another 80,000 horsepower was added to Ontario's critical power shortage today when a 10-year-old Toronto boy sent three huge hydro generators here roaring into service.

Several hundred officials, including Premier George Robert Saunders, watched Edward Drew, son of Premier George Drew, press an ordinary button switch and then saw the third post - war power project in Ontario. Stewartville is 30 miles west of Ottawa.

Provincial Treasurer Leslie Frost, at the official opening address said: "Instead of being depressed by the power shortage, we ought to be glad, because of the industrial development it indicates."

Electric power, said Mr. Frost, was "the life blood of the nation and should not be wasted. Every light turned off provides that much more power for industry."

Mr. Frost said that Canada now was the second largest manufacturing country in the empire—and Ontario was "an empire in itself."

The provincial treasurer noted that Stewartville was one of eight new projects. The next will be the Agusbon development to serve the Thunder Bay region.

Stewartville itself is the third project of its kind since the war. Three years in the making, it will ship 60-cycle power over 161 miles of transmission wire into southeastern Ontario centres, as far west as Oshawa.

Costing an estimated $13,900,000, the big concrete Stewartville dam rises to a maximum of 206 feet above the Madawaska River bed and bridges the 1,300 - foot gap between the cliffs at its banks.

Above the dam, the flooded area covers about 1,100 acres and extends nearly 12 miles upstream. Six thousand cubic feet of water is discharged by the big turbines every second.

The development is part of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission's plan to add another 750,000 kilowatts to its overall system by 1952.

Other post-war projects are at Decew Falls near St. Catharines and Ear Falls on the English River in northern Ontario.

BERRIES OUT OF SEASON

High River, Alta. — (AP) — Saskatoons or June berries, generally found in June or early July, turned up near this southern Alberta town three months late. A group of berry-pickers found a well-laden patch of Saskatoons and returned with 20 gallons of fruit.

DRY SOIL CAUSES BREAKS

Winnipeg — (CP) — Twenty-two breaks occurred in city water mains during August, and for three days in September mains cracked at the rate of three a day. Dry weather, causing drying and shifting of the clay soil, was responsible, officials of the city engineer's department said.

Promise is No Light Thing To Geo. Ponsford

Toronto, Sept. 27 (CP)—A promise is no light thing to Geo. Ponsford, M.B.E., M.M.

Ponsford—whose fierce mustache, 8 1-2 inches from tip to tip, was the glory of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in Canada, England, Sicily, Italy and northwest Europe—said he'd be at the regimental reunion at Belleville this year, Oct. 2 and 3.

Saturday, on his way to keep a promise made at the regiment's first reunion in Picton in 1946, he breached Toronto, completing a 2,900-mile jaunt from Durban, South Africa, via England and Holland. The 33-year-old Ponsford went to South Africa to take a job as manager of a Durban hotel little less than two years ago. The four-times-wounded "fighting Sergeant-Major" of C Company tarried in England long enough to have a spot of tea with two former commanding officers Lord Tweedsmuir and Maj.-Gen Howard D. Graham of the Canadian army.

In Holland, Ponsford photographed the graves of the 17 "Hasty Pees" killed in action in the final days of the war. The graves, says Ponsford, are "in immaculate condition," thanks to the meticulous care given them by "those wonderful Dutch people."

Born in London, England, and raised in New Foundland, Ponsford who became the most fabulous "one man army" in the regiment" has also lived in Australia, the United States and Canada. He has worked as a gold miner, farmer, lumberman, carpenter and policeman.

Ponsford will be at the reunion this year—but the legendary moustache won't. He shaved it off the day he left the army with the comment: "It's no use in civilian life."

He says that when the reunion is over he'll have to find the wherewithal for the long trip back home. On his way over he worked his passage from South Africa to England, visited the continent—and then paid his passage from England to Canada.

Many Albanians Reported Fleeing Into Yugoslavia

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Sept. 27—(AP)—Resistance to the Albanian government's split with Premier Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia has caused a reign of terror in Albania, according to press reports here.

The reports said Albanian authorities have issued orders for their militia to shoot on the spot anyone showing pro-Yugoslav sympathies.

The Montegenegrin Peoples Front newspaper Fobeda, published in Titograd, capital of Montenegro, near the Albanian border, was the source of the dispatches printed in Belgrade.

The newspaper said many Albanians were fleeing into Yugoslavia, including army officers and militia men. It was one of these militia who said he had received orders to shoot anyone showing sympathy for Tito.

Albania has aligned herself with the cominform (communist international information bureau) in its denunciation of Tito. The split has cut the tiny country off from land communication with the other Soviet satellites, since Albania's only neighbors are Yugoslavia and Greece.

The newspaper quoted an Albanian militiaman as saying "Most of the people don't believe in the slanders against Yugoslavia." The newspaper said hundreds of persons, including heads of local governments and other officials, have been arrested. Still greater numbers are said to have fled into the mountains.

In addition to reports that 7 members of the Albanian parliament were shot for defying Premier Col. Gen. Enver Hoxha's pro-cominform stand, Belgrade newspapers said that 13 Yugoslav sympathizers were shot Sept. 12 in the village of Lisah without investigation of trial.

One report said the Albanians had jailed 105 members of families of men who fled to Yugoslavia.

Attempt to Have Tractors Ranked With Other Cars

Vancouver, Sept. 27 — (CP) — An attempt to have tractors ranked with other motor vehicles under the Ontario Motor Vehicles Act has been launched by Chief H. M. Hall of Woodstock.

Addressing the convention of the Chief Constables' Association of Canada Saturday, Chief Hall said tractors were classed as "field husbandry implements" and exempted from licensing regulations.

He said tractors driven by boys under 16 had caused three deaths in the last year. Police could take no action because no operator's licence was required.

"There is no provision which prevents children under 16 from driving them," he said.

POWER CUT-OFFS SURE FOR ALL EXCEEDING QUOTA

Toronto, Sept. 27 (CP)—Ontario municipalities were warned today to cut down their consumption of electricity—or else.

The alternative—and the word came from Hydro Chairman Robert H. Saunders—was power blackouts such as industrial sections of southern Ontario underwent last spring.

In blunt statement, the toughest since the power scarcity became acute, Saunders told 400 municipalities still over their power quotas by the end of this week will have to order cutoffs or provincial authorities will pull the switches for them.

Toronto, for example, will be told today that the power quotas is being exceeded and voluntary conservation measures must be found by the end of the week.

"If the quota is still being exceeded at the end of the week then the city will have to pull switches for as many minutes in each hour as they may decide.

"If they don't do this, then we will cut the power off for them because the power is just not there."

Mr. Saunders said some municipalities may have to cut power for as long as 15 minutes in every hour.

Domestic users in southwestern Ontario were reported showing little co-operation in meeting the power shortage, brought on by low water at generating sources combined with growing industrial demand for electricity.

J. M. Lumley, regional manager at London, Ont., said many municipalities "have failed to save any appreciable amounts."

One which tried to help was Wingham. It decided that all stores would close daily at 5:30 p.m. as well as all day Wednesday.

Co-operation also came from Ontario industries which operated Saturday and Sunday to make up for coal shortages from New York State the weekend.

Answer to Saturday's Puzzle

Lower-Paid Civil Servant to Get Say in Council

Ottawa, Sept. 25 (CP) — The resources department has started today what may prove a boon to all civil servants in Canada.

It is the introduction of a departmental joint council which gives the lower paid civil servant a chance to butt in and have his say on any part of the official work which affects his welfare.

Formation of this council— the first of its kind in the public service—was announced today.

What the resources department expects to accomplish is outlined by Deputy Minister Keenleyside:

"The purpose of the council," he said in a statement, "is to give all members of the staff the opportunity for direct representation in the discussion of matters affecting their welfare and conditions of work.

"It is expected that the work of the council will make available to this department the ideas and experiences of all members of the staff ..."

Because of the structure of the department with its widespread field staff, smaller councils will be formed in each of the four branches: mines, forests and scientific services, lands and development, and immigration and In-

Ships Ride Out Hurricane Over Atlantic Ocean

Halifax, Sept. 25 — (CP) — A peril-laden hurricane roared across the sea lanes here today and headed northward for Newfoundland, missing Nova Scotia by about 100 miles.

No shipwrecks or casualties were reported made by the storm that killed four persons in Florida and caused $25,000,000 damage.

The General Sturgis, a United States transport vessel carrying 644 displaced persons from Germany, received the full blast of the storm's edge but continued unperturbed on her voyage to Halifax.

At least six other ocean-going ships and an unknown number of fishing boats were battered by 75-mile-an-hour winds as they dashed for shelter.

The transport office here issued a stern warning to all shipping and fishing interests. The danger in the North Atlantic will continue throughout most of today.

This is the fourth tropical hurricane to sweep by Nova Scotia in as many weeks. The industrial area of Cape Breton and Newfoundland were mauled in the earlier storms but there was no loss of life.

Two vessels — the British freighter Leicester and the Portuguese trawler Gaspar — were abandoned by their crews more storm hit.

Seven men got their lives before the Leicester was abandoned and the derelict still is being sought by salvage tugs. It would be a $1,000,000 prize for the tug that found it.

The Gaspar was sunk by gunfire as a menace to navigation.

Toronto Argos Defeated Second Time by Ottawa

(By The Canadian Press)

For the second consecutive Saturday, the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts had their faces rubbed in the mud by their arch foes, the upstart Ottawa Rough Riders.

The 12-5 defeat wasn't as decisive as the 33-13 pasting of the week before. But it was decisive enough to put Ottawa in first place in the Big Four race, two points ahead of Argos.

Canada's college teams took the field in exhibition games for the first time this season in football Saturday that was marked by story-book endings.

In the far west, Calgary's classy imported quarterback, Keith Cpaith, pitched the Stampeders to their sixth straight win when, leading the cowtown crew far ahead in the western conference.

Two fourth-quarter passes by Snaith clicked for touchdowns as Stamps came from behind to a 13-12 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders, leaving the Buffins further into the conference cellar.

Sarnia Imperials tollected their first win of the season, a 6-2 victory over the winless Windsor Rockets and took over third place in the Ontario Rugby Football Union. University of Alberta Golden Bears mastered University of Saskatchewan Huskies 21-5 in the first of a four-game series for the Hardy trophy and the western college title.

In college exhibition games Toronto Beaches Indians of the O.R.F.U. beat University of Toronto 7-7 in the final seconds of play on a 115-yard touchdown sprint by Doug Pyzer. Queen's swamped McMaster 31-0; McGill blanked Ottawa U 27-0 and Western defeated Ontario Agricultural College 25-3.

A second quarter touchdown by Fred Brown had built up a 5-1 lead for Argos, playing without starry Royal Coogland who was injured against Ottawa last week. But in the third, a Bob Paffrath-to-Brian Lynch forward paid off for a 25-yard unconverted touchdown.

Used Reverse Sweep

In the final quarter a reverse sweep shook Paffrath loose and after going 30 yards he laterlaled to Pete Karpuk who went solo other for a major that Howie Turner converted.

Imperials were another team that came from behind. First quarter singles sent Windsor ahead, 2-0, but Hank Galloway and Dutch Davey each booted field goals for Sarnia in the third quarter.

The picture play of the day was Pyzer's field-long race against time for the winning touchdown. Leading 7-1 with 45 seconds left Varsity had the ball on Beaches Indians 31-yard line. Pyzer caught the kick five yards behind his own goal, spurned through Varsity tackling, reversed his field and zipped down the touchline.

Ross McKelvey scored two touchdowns and Al Lenard scored one converted two and pitched a touchdown pass to lead Queen's over McMaster. O.A.C. never got within 10 yards of Western's goal as Bob McFarlane scored a touchdown and three converts and brother Doug scored another major.

Only in the third quarter did Ottawa show any scoring threat against McGill. Murray Hayes Johnny Newman, Rocky Robillard, Justin Kisellus and Johnny Meagher all went over for touchdowns for the Redmen.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 27 (CP) — English soccer's strangest transfer involved Albert Page, Leyton Orient centre forward. While dressing in Layton's colors for a game against Manchester United, Page was summoned to the front office and told of his proposed transfer to Manchester.

Terms were arranged, certificates signed, league headquarters informed and 5 dazed Page led off to Manchester's dressing room.

The crowd, unaware of behind-the-scenes negotiations stared in disbelief when Page came on the field in United colors. But they soon started cheering — Page promptly scored a goal against his former team.

Story of the transfer is told in a book by Leslie Knighton just published, "Behind the Scenes in Big Football." Knighton is a veteran of 35 years in management with such clubs as Arsenal, Chelsea, Manchester City, Huddersfield, Birmingham and Bournemouth.

Sixth Sense: A blind man who learned boxing by using a bunch of spring onions as a punching bag runs what he claims is London's oldest school of boxing.

Andrew Newton, gassed in the First World War, calls home to learn that his sight would soon be gone. To prepare for blindness, he practised nightly in his father's gymnasium with all the lightsout.

When his father died in 1940, Newton carried on the boxing school alone. He says a combination of instinct and practice enables him to keep track of his opponents in the ring.

Newton learned to box at the age of six after he unveiled punching bags for practice.

Winner Wanted: An anonymous Lincolnshire farmer has set a search in motion for a Briton "who can win an Olympic event in 1952."

Apparently depressed by the "Yankee Blanket" thrown over British athletics at Wembley, the farmer says he will foot the bill for training and equipping one outstanding candidate for Helsinki.

Selection of the athlete will rest with Jim Littlecove, a track judge at the games. Search is already under way.

Whipper, Atkins Rematched For Empire Title

Just about the hardest-fought wrestling match ever seen around these parts is promised for Friday night in the Arena when Whipper Billy Watson defended his British Empire wrestling crown against Fred Atkins. Manager Walt Gerow today announced that he has signed up both men for a rematch to take place this Friday. Fred's record with Billy in last week's furibus battle were almost evenly divided between the merits of both men. A goodly number favored Atkins the referee although when the big fellow from Australia got overanxious he turned a little too rough for many of the regular fans.

When they meet again Friday night it is expected that both men will know a good deal more about each other than they did when they entered in the first bout. Watson admitted he found the Australian champion's style very difficult for him to puzzle out. The Canadian star also admitted that he was lucky that big Fred didn't get that Kangaroo Klamp of his on properly towards the end of the bout. "It's a very formidable hold," said Watson "and I don't aim to let him get it on any matter than he had that time he got it near the ropes." Its unusual for Whipper Watson to back up from any opponent but Atkins seems to carry such power that Billy may be well advised to cut and run once in a while in the more dangerous spots. Either that or he seems destined to lose his Empire crown.

Pat Flanagan who has been on a spectacular winning streak here of late has been matched with this toughest foe to date in Dangerous Dan O'Connor. In the first bout the pleasing new-comer, Ralph Martin, of Montreal, meet an experienced wrestler in Dr. Ed. Meske.

Mrs. Emily McInerney arrived from Greenock, Scotland, Saturday and planned to visit her 25-year-old daughter, Mrs. Jean McAlister in jail at Lindsay, Ont.

Mrs. McAllister, accused of murdering her husband, John faces a preliminary hearing Wednesday.

FIVE FROM LOST PLANE FOUND IN BUSH IN SASKATCHEWAN — NONE HURT

Fighting their way through miles of muskeg and bush in northern Saskatchewan, five survivors of a wrecked U. S. navy Beechcraft are "alive, in good shape" after 12 days of isolation. The survivors, whose plane crash-landed at High Rock Lake, 275 miles northwest of The Pas, Sept. 12, on a flight from Churchill to The Pas, were sighted Sept. 24 by crews of an R.C.A.F. Lancaster and a Casino flying boat. The craft was practically undamaged and apparently none aboard were hurt. Above R.C.M.P. and R.C.A.F. officials are shown at Skowman where they met John Whitteford, who told them of seeing the plane in trouble Sept. 12. He gave the rescuers the most promising clue in the dramatic search, telling them of Indian messages asking for aid. — Central Press Canadian.

ed that it was then that she made up her mind as to what she would do. At the time she merely said she wished she never had met Billee Carolan, that she was always doing the craziest things for her friends, that it was the limit. With these observations she left me to my book, but I could not read that night.

My thoughts were moving around in circles, some complacent, some hurt and humiliated. I looked about the shadowy dimness of the elegant, ugly old room and felt the smugness of being between smooth cool sheets and outside of the Hillyard complications, whatever they would prove to be. "All right, Bill," I said half aloud. "But maybe there's a shock ahead for you."

It didn't help. Suddenly my spirit was writhing with the thought of his talks with Virginia; the bent handsome head, the low voice with the half laugh in it, the remembered quick glance of his dark eyes, and the grip of his hand.

I opened my book, forced my eyes to the printed lines, made myself begin to read. Things would go on this way, I thought grimly.

Bill would continue to be all the devoted lover, Virginia would continue to flaunt her triumph before my eyes, and Clay and I, sometime during that day and the next and the next, would look at each other and ask what was to be done.

But what happened was all different. As I went into Virginia's room the next morning it was empty. The bed was untouched. Utter order and quiet reigned. Outside the high windows the fog pressed softly, far away I could hear the foghorn at Chinaman's Light.

The note was there on the dresser, propped up against the old-fashioned pin cushion. The dress was unnaturally tidy, no powder spilled, no bobby pins lying about. The drawers neatly closed and the ruffles drawn over them. In the enormous wardrobes Virginia's dresses were neatly spaced; some were missing. Some of the bureau drawers were empty. The note said that she couldn't stand it and please to send her clothes after her when she sent on an address.

Mrs. Grinell was coming down from the upper floor when I stepped bewildered into the hall; we went back into Virginia's room together.

"Suppose Munro drove her to the train?" she asked briefly.

"Probably she went back with Willie Phillimore when he brought the milk over."

We looked about the empty room in a moment of silence.

THE SECRETS of HILLYARD HOUSE

BY: KATHLEEN NORRIS

That night Virginia came into my room as she usually did before going to bed. Since Billy's arrival she and Bill had got into the habit of staying downstairs longer than the rest of us at night, perhaps for only ten minutes, perhaps for an hour or even longer. Sometimes, I know, they walked out onto the terrace, for if I went to my window, first putting out all the room's lights, I could see them there. Then she would come in with chilled cheeks and blown hair and starry eyes; pale, but in a dream of happiness. Sometimes they sat before the library fire until it died, and Virginia would come upstairs drowsy.

No matter how late she was she always found me reading. I might have managed only three pages since going to bed, but I was always reading when she came in.

On this night she was in particularly complacent spirits; she was the popular girl who had won away another girl's beau. She was sorry, but she couldn't help the way a man's affections went; it was just too bad to be irresistible. All this with great charm of manner, winning smiles, engaging little tips of her head and nannywing of her eyes.

"It's simply divine out!"

"Warm tonight."

"Oh, and the ocean — we walked out on the cliffs. Liberty—" She sat down on the edge of my bed. "Does it make you feel badly to have me talk about Bill?"

"Not particularly." I tried for the voice of a person stifling a yawn, then glanced at my book. "No, not particularly," I said untruthfully.

"Because, look. He feels badly about it. He was talking about it tonight."

"About what? You look tired, Va, you ought to turn in."

"Tired? I feel simply floating. No, but look, Billy feels kind of cheap; he said so."

"I'm sorry," I said levelly, "he feels cheap."

"Because it just bowled us both over," Virginia said apologetically, prettily. "And Bill said — and of course I knew — that before it had always been yours."

"And others," I said dryly, not believing it.

"But we want you to know that you've always going to be our dearest friend," said Virginia. She was only eighteen, after all, and Bill, at thirty-one, was naturally important on a mere question of age, as well as in every other way. This was tiresome, but she was only eighteen.

"We'll go back to Hollywood when he comes home," I assumed.

"They want him. They're holding his place for him. But Bill would rather get on a newspaper again."

"You'll live in San Francisco, then?"

"I suppose so. But of course he might get bids from the radio or movies any time. Then I go wherever he goes."

She shrugged her shoulders; ready to be martyred to Bill. All the devoted wife, already. Anger rose in me suddenly, and I felt it was time to strike.

"I suppose you and Bill will be visiting here off and on?"

"Well, of course," she said unsuspectingly. Then she looked at me quickly, and her voice had a wary note in it. "Why not?" she asked, watching me.

"I don't mean immediately, of course," I said agreeably, "but when old Mr. Hillyard dies and Billee has this place."

"I haven't the slightest idea what you're talking about," she said slowly. The words were right, but the tone wasn't. She was frightened almost out of her senses.

Immediately she came swiftly from the mirror, where she had been fussing with her hair, to the bed, and sat down against my feet.

"Who told you?" she asked in a whisper.

"I knew," I said, glancing at my book.

"You— Liberty," she exclaimed, grasping my hand, "how long have you known? Who told you? Who else knows?"

"I don't think that matters." It occurred to me suddenly, and with some concern, that Clay had exacted secrecy from me and that I had discussed the matter not only with Mrs. Grinell but now was ready to talk to Va about it, too.

"Oh, Liberty," she said, "what shall we do? We thought he was dying. He said he was. Billee thought—"

"You've always called her Billee!"

"We—What? Oh yes. And we thought that would make it easier and that it would be fun. You see, brother, who was Lily Hillyard, ran away, too, and with a chauffeur, or coachman—"

"I know all that."

"Of course you do. And we never dreamed that that horrible old man upstairs wouldn't be dying. He wrote her that he was. And Billee thought that if he did die, why, then she'd come back and it would all be explained and she'd have all the money anyway, Liberty," Virginia ended in fresh panic, "say something. What's going to happen now? What can we do?"

"She's married to Walter Burton?"

"Well, not exactly married. At least they were sort of married, but he got his divorce in Mexico, see? And of course she had lied about her age, see? And so we don't know whether they're married or not. She thought they were married.

"And you said there might be a baby?"

Virginia's face was a picture of woe.

"She thinks so. She was going to see a doctor."

"How were they married?"

"By a justice of the peace in Chicago."

"They said they lived in Chicago?"

"Yes. We all had lunch and we looked in a telephone book and got street numbers. We were all roaring," Va said with a reminiscent smile.

"How can they find out about his divorce?"

"Well, they're going to see my aunt in Reno, see? And then they're going to drive down to Mexico and make sure."

"And meanwhile you go on here?" If my voice sounded half as dry and doubtful to her as I did to me she was justified in the uncomfortable and resentful look she gave me.

"I can't stay here now that you know."

"So the whole thing blows up. And then will Billee come back?"

"She doesn't know what to do! I don't know either. She doesn't answer my letters," Virginia said inconsequentially.

"If you left we'd have to make some explanation," I said, thinking it out.

"I would not; it's none of my business," she muttered. "I wish we'd never started it."

"Are she and Walt very much in love?"

"Well, you saw them. They were. But now they're scrapping all the time."

"On the trip?"

"Not so much then." An impish look came into Virginia's eyes. "Not until she met Munro Wainwright," she said.

"She liked Munro?"

"You're telling me. Crazy about him."

"So that if she hadn't married Walt—"

"Oh, then everything would be fine."

"Well, I think what you ought to do—" I began.

Virginia moved toward me impulsively. "Oh, Liberty, tell me! What on earth can we do?"

"I think you ought to go up and tell your grandfather — I mean old Mr. Hillyard — everything tomorrow. He can't kill you, you couldn't do that!" I asked, for she had shut her lips tightly and was shaking her head.

"Not in ten thousand billion years. You go."

"I? I've never been up there. I've never met him."

Virginia reflected with a darkened brow. Afterward I decided that it would be best if I went alone.

"Suppose Munro drove her to the train?" she asked briefly.

"Probably she went back with Willie Phillimore when he brought the milk over."

We looked about the empty room in a moment of silence.

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

Stock markets suffered a setback this week that knocked prices back to April levels.

Rash selling on the opening day sent prices reeling downward and volume upward. The market showed signs of firming as the week progressed but couldn't attract enough interest for a general advance as selected issues moved in a narrow rut.

Brokers attributed part of the setback to increased foreign selling, especially from London, but became optimistic as they watched the market absorb most of the offerings.

New York declined Monday to the level of five months ago as volume passed the 1,000,000 mark and the number of issues traded broadened. The market recovered nearly half of Monday's losses the following day, and then dipped Wednesday in selective trading. A slight demand for railroad shares swung the market slightly higher Thursday and The Associated Press 60-stock average advanced .2 Friday at 67.5 down .3 from last Friday.

Increasing volume on the downs demand decreasing volume when prices firmed during the week seemed to confirm the opinion of bearish minded traders.

Canadian markets followed the same pattern as New York. In Toronto, industrials dropped almost two points Monday on the exchange's index and continued to ease the rest of the week to close down 3.66. Golds weakened slowly for four days and then jumped more than a point Friday to close up .29. Base metals and western oils partly recovered early-week losses Friday to close down .47 and .80 respectively.

Weekly turnover at 2,486,000 shares, was down from last week's 3,824,000 shares.

Papers suffered the worst setback in Montreal, dipping 8.44 on the exchange's averages. Industrials also were down, off 2.1.

Both Toronto and Montreal announced that Saturday morning sessions would resume October 2 the same day as New York.

Grain markets were generally firm from last Friday. In Chicago, prices moved narrowly in December wheat, corn, oats and rye. Winnipeg held steady with October barley showing a slight gain.

FIREMEN COMBINE WITH RAILROAD TO SAVE VILLAGE

Engineer Races Eight Miles With 30,000 Gallons of Water

Ridgeway, Sept. 28 — (CP) — A railway engineer raced eight miles with 30,000 gallons of water for Monday night and arrived in time to save this village of 1,000 people from destruction.

Engineer Charles Brown shunted two tenders full of water into the heart of Ridgeway's burning business section as firemen from seven nearby municipalities stood by, helpless from lack of water.

"Without that water all of Ridgeway would have been lost," said Fire Commissioner Joseph D. Masterson of Buffalo, N.Y., who led the Buffalo fire companies 10 miles across the international border to the village.

"We could have done very little except stand around and watch the fire."

Two 500-gallon pumpers hooked up to the tenders and beat down the fire within 30 minutes, left four families homeless and caused damage estimated at between $250,000 and $500,000, it listed three hours. No one was injured.

Fire companies came from Fort Erie, Welland, Port Colborne, Buffalo, Stevensville, Crystal Beach and Bridgeburg.

The Canadian National Railways locomotive and tenders were dispatched from Fort Erie by yardmaster George Bradford at the height of the blaze. Two pumps promptly hooked on and firemen from all sides handled the hose lines.

The fire started in an apartment above McMorran's clothing store, after an explosion of unknown origin which shattered windows. It spread to the Scobie Tish Store, the Bell Telephone's electric shop, Morningstar's plumbing shop, several apartments and Roberts auto service, destroyed one block. There was also scorched and the stock damaged by smoke and water.

Three fire companies from Buffalo were on the scene 15 minutes after the call for help. Later speculation streamed to the city as huge vehicles depended on artesian wells for its water supply and has no fire hydrants.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Sept. 28 (CP)—Synopsis: Ontario's skies are clear this morning and another sunny afternoon will be experienced over the mid-76s. However the end of the chain weakens and appears to be in sight for Southwestern Ontario. A disturbance which has been brewing over Florida is now a slow moving storm area headed Northward. This will cause increasing cloudiness over Southwestern Ontario Wednesday with rain beginning in the Lake Erie region by Wednesday evening. Elsewhere eastern winds over the lower lakes will likely bring the maximum temperatures for Wednesday below the 70's mark. In Central and Northern Ontario it will be clear and cool tonight and be sunny and warm again Wednesday.

CERTAIN BAKERS WILL BE GRANTED PRICE INCREASE

Given Cent a Loaf If No Price Rise Since Nov.

Ottawa, Sept. 28 (CP) — An increase of a cent a loaf in the controlled price of bread may be granted bakers who have established their prices since Nov. 1, the Prices Board announced today.

The announcement said the board now is prepared to authorize an increase of not more than a cent a loaf to those bakers and who have increased prices and who can demonstrate financial need.

The action will remove an inequality, the board said.

When the subsidy on flour was discontinued a year ago, many bakers increased prices immediately. Others put up prices later.

However, many bakers did not establish their prices at that time they found themselves with the same prices after subsidies on bread and flour were reimposed in August.

By August of this year, the board added, "bakers' costs were increased by reason of the removal of the remaining subsidies on shortening, and those bakers who had not established their prices since Nov. 1 were placed in a disadvantageous position."

Believed War Minister Hauled "Over the Coals"

London, Sept. 28. (AP)—Two Conservative newspapers speculate today that Prime Minister Attlee has hauled his war minister over the coals for adopting what they term a friendly attitude toward Russia's Unite1 Nations Disarmament proposal.

The Minister Emanuel Shinwell was closeted with Attlee for about Monday. Details of their conversation were announced and Attlee's office refuse? comment.

The Daily Express headlines it, "Report Shinwell on the Carpet Again" The Daily Mail says Shinwell was "summoned" but the war minister "got a wigging."

Both newspapers point out that Shinwell's speech at Salford, Sunday night, in which he said he commended Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, was ignored by Foreign Secretary Bevin's speech Monday.

Shinwell, generally recognized as being farther to the left than either Attlee or Bevin, expressed regret that Vishinsky's speech had been "received with derision and contempt."

TREND UPWARD IN COST OF FUNERALS

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 28 (CP) — Rising costs of funerals were discussed by Ernest Kent, president of the Ontario Funeral Service Association, Monday, when its annual convention here that there is an upward trend in funeral expenses in Ontario because of the increased cost of materials turing caskets and other equipment. He said "new Association district had been set up in Belleville and that membership had been increased to 400.

Tugs Busy Towing Freighter, Listing Fifty Degrees

Halifax, Sept. 28 (CP)—Two foundering vessels, the tugs, Josephine and Lillian, today were battling heavy seas to aid the British freighter Leicester to Berth. Both vessels had been reported listing 50 degrees.

The tugs gave their position as 200 miles east of Bermuda. The Josephine messaged she had a line aboard the 7,000-ton salvage prize and was towing her slowly to port. The Lillian is standing by.

The Leicester was sighted after a 10-day search by the two tugs. The derelict was abandoned Sept. 17 after she was severely battered by a roaring Atlantic storm in which two members were lost.

Salvage authorities said it would "require expert seamanship and special skill" for the tugs to bring the vessel to safety.

Prime Minister Stalin Has Not Lost Control Of His Government

Washington Sept. 28 (AP) — Prime Minister Stalin probably was, and is, a victim of misinformation and bad advice, but he was not overruled on the Berlin agreement, nor has he lost control of his government.

On the contrary, all intelligence reports available in Washington indicate that he is still the whip-handed czar.

It appears in the light of this information that Stalin himself shorted the Berlin agreement, although he had expressed a desire to directly the deadlock there, had helped to formulate the terms and presumably had approved them.

The fact — the failure to carry out a bargain that bore Stalin's own seal—caused a good deal of speculation when the United States white paper was released Sunday. Three probabilities were posed in an effort to explain this apparent contradiction:

1. Was Stalin over-ruled, after having made the agreement?

2. Did the statements of the other members of the politburo cause him to change his mind after the solution was formulated by himself but not into effect?

3. Or, acting on mistaken information, did he mis-gauge the effect of the agreement and therefore reverse his his first position?

Washington experts, sifting and re-studying reports — not only from Moscow and Berlin, but from all over Europe — believe the third hypothesis is the correct one, they believe the answer to Stalin's baffling tactics lies elsewhere than in Berlin.

Wanted Plane Cancelled

In the Berlin talks, Stalin's main objective was to bring a cancellation of the plan to set up a government in western Germany. Throughout the talks, Stalin virtually made this a condition for his agreement to lift the blockade on Berlin.

At the same time, intelligence reports said, a message was broadcast to the satellite governments of Eastern Europe, to the communform headquarters and to the leaders of Communist parties in the world.

Must Seek Security on Basis "Less Than Universal" Prime Minister King Tells Assembly

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Paris, Sept. 28 — (CP) — Individual nations must seek security on a basis "less than universal" when the United Nations is unable to provide that security, Prime Minister Mackenzie King, head of the Canadian delegation, told the United Nations General Assembly today.

In what was probably his last major address as head of the Canadian government, the retiring Prime Minister told the new world — wide community sense" that countries of the world must and suggested that the British Commonwealth might serve as an example in building it.

In his valedictory address, the man whose goal of office outranks that of the head of any other freely-elected and representative government, made these points:

1. Canada will have the Economic Energy Commission in international control of atomic energy as the only method whereby "these new dread forces may be brought under effective control."

2. "Certain nations" had misrepresented and misunderstood the aims of others in aiding Europe's reconstruction.

3. On this point, the Canadian leader said: "It will come as a painful surprise and shock to my fellow - countrymen in Canada to learn that anyone addressing this assembly could have left the impression members of it that any government had ever entertained the interests of the peoples of those countries as less important than those of war . . .

But that was the impression left with him by Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky, speaking to the assembly last Saturday, in reply. Mackenzie King spoke of the train implements, motor trucks, locomotives, food supplies and medical aid sent by Canada, United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration and Yugoslavia since the war.

Eleven Fires Reported Burning In North Ontario

Toronto, Sept. 27. (CP) — Eleven fires were reported burning in Northern Ontario today as the fire hazard continued high in clear, dry weather. There was no sign of cessation in the fire danger areas.

There were three main fires in the tinder-dry Sault Ste. Marie-Blind River area, one in the Grasset Township, 40 miles east of the Sault—one covering 2,000 acres and the other 25 acres, both burning in second growth timber for the last few days. The other main blaze covers 100 acres in Montgomery Township in the Blind River area, about half-way between Sudbury and the Sault.

Three other small fires in the Blind River region are reported being held.

In the Sudbury area, one small new fire was reported in Longman township and crews were en route to two others in Nickel and Lumsden townships. There also was a new outbreak in the Timagami area. Ontario Provincial reported near Sudbury now are being held or controlled.

A fire covering 100 acres in MacPherson township and similar at 50 acres were the main danger spots in the North Bay area. Ontario Provincial Service are under control now or being watched.

T. E. Mackey, chief of the Ontario Forest Protection Service, said today that all burning permits have been cancelled in the danger areas. Many of the fires now burning were believed to have been started by settlers burning their land or by careless campers.

Railways Reply To Claim Of Seven Provinces

Ottawa, Sept. 28. (CP) — Before the Cabinet, the railways today presented their case against seven provinces they were not entitled to the 15-per-cent freight-rate increase they gained last March.

They laid their case before the Cabinet sitting as a Board of Council to hear the appeal of the seven provinces, except Ontario and Quebec—against the Board of Transport Commissioners award of the $70,000,000-a-year rate hoist.

After hearing Monday's provincial submission attacking the increase, the Cabinet will hear the railroads' rebuttal today before the balance of the railway case today.

Today, the ministers were asked by the provinces to adopt one of three courses of action:

1. Throw out the 21-per-cent freight-rate increase.

2. Revise it along a provincial formula that would leave the railways with an increase of between one and two per cent.

3. Send the case back to the board with directions to examine the provincial formula in its evidence.

With four of their premiers on hand personally, the seven provinces contended the Board erred in its decision in principle and on several specific points.

25 ARRESTS IN PRAGUE

Prague, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Communist regime arrested 25 persons Monday on charges of activity against the (Communist) regime.

P.C. LEADERSHIP CONTENDERS NOW IN THE CAPITAL

Few Believe Case Will Withdraw Before Ballot

Ottawa, Sept. 28 — (CP) — Three of the four candidates for leadership of the Progressive Conservative party arrived here today to prepare for the party's national convention, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Last to arrive was Premier Drew of Ontario, who came by plane from Toronto. He arrived after John Diefenbaker, member of the Commons for Lake Centre, Saskatchewan and Garfield Case, member for Grey North in the Commons, Donald Fleming, member for Toronto Eglinton and the fourth candidate, Hugh Quinn, Ottawa since last week.

Mr. Drew said in an interview on his arrival that he did not wish to discuss matters of policy or to predict the outcome of the leadership voting Saturday.

He said he did not know how much support he might draw from Quebec delegates. Leader of not one Premier Duplessis of Quebec on any matters pertaining to the leadership.

No Comment to Make

"I have no comment on the speculation that there is an alliance between Premier Drew and the Union Nationale party of Mr. Duplessis," he said.

Asked if he planned to regard as premier of Ontario after the convention, Mr. Drew said the matter was one which would be discussed in due course.

Mr. Diefenbaker was scheduled to hold a press conference shortly after his arrival, but the pressure of pre-convention work caused him to cancel the engagement. Mr. Fleming was due to hold a conference later in the day.

Mr. Case said he is conducting a one-man campaign. People say I can't win but I am still in there, am meeting friends and observing.

"I feel I represent the views of the common man. If the party wants a democratic leadership, perhaps I can be excused, but if the party wants a leader from the common man, then I will be in there until the last minute."

Mr. Case is a former one-time Saskatchewan criminal lawyer and one of the successful sharpest critics in the Commons, announced his work in the House gained he a leadership candidate. He placed third at the 1942 convention when John Bracken was elected.

Mr. Fleming, a 43-year-old Toronto lawyer, has been a member of the Commons in 1945, announced last week that he would be a candidate. One of the party's few bilingual members, he is counting on heavy support in Quebec.

Mr. Case, 49-year-old former Mayor of Grey County, was a comparative unknown in the political field until 1940 when he defeated Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, then Defence Minister, in a Grey North by-election. The by-election was fought on the government's policy of conscription for re-inforcements for troops overseas and drew international attention.

Some of the delegates said Mr. Case has a chance to win. Others were equally confident of Mr. Diefenbaker's success. Still others were inclined to describe Mr. Drew as a dark horse. Whether support could not be judged in advance. A few believed Mr. Case will withdraw before the second balloting Oct. 2.

Howard Green, member of the Commons for Vancouver South and a fourth candidate in 1942, said he is not supporting one candidate against another, but he felt Mr. Drew likely would win

Reformatory Term For Bank Robbers

Oshawa, Sept. 28. (CP) - Magistrate F. S. Ebbs today sentenced George V. Lee of Oshawa, to reformatory terms, indefinite and three months indefinite —and to seven strikes of the cat for each offence.

Lee pleaded guilty to the charge Monday when the court was told he was already under suspended sentence for a similar offence.

Crown Attorney Hall, in requesting that a strapping be included in the sentence, commented that he had never seen "such a bruised and battered face" as Mrs. Lee's after the assault.

Every Possibility Direct Agreement Exhausted Claim

King Asks Nations to Move Toward Universal Peace

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Paris, Sept. 28 — (CP) — With the shadow of the Berlin crisis hanging over the United Nations, Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada, in his farewell speech as an international politician, today beseeched the nations of the world to move toward the "light of ordered freedom and universal peace."

Standing on a brightly-lighted rostrum in the U. N. General Assembly hall in the Palais de Chaillot, Canada's 73-year-old elder statesman sounded the theme of moderation in a 30-minute address asking the world not to expect too much from the U. N. in too short a time.

Following his speech, France's foreign minister, Robert Schuman, appealed to the U.N. to end the Soviet blockade of Berlin because the three Western Powers "have exhausted every possibility of direct agreement."

The three Western Powers, meanwhile, prepared their appeals to the Security Council, formally citing the blockade as a threat to international peace and security.

It was against this tense background that Mackenzie King, in an address hailed by some correspondents as the "first moral call" of the world, said that individual countries must seek security on a basis "less than universal" when the U. N. machinery was unable to provide that security.

Given Hearty Ovation

The Canadian leader spoke distinctly and deliberately, occasionally placing his hand heavily on the desk to emphasize a point. He was applauded twice during his speech and was given a long standing ovation at the end which lasted until he regained his seat.

Delegates from countries of the Soviet bloc did not join in the applause.

Schuman told the assembly that the Allies must not repeat their mistakes of the First World War.

He hailed the European reconstruction program which, he said, has joined the countries of Western Europe together in an economic union. The ideal of a European federation is making headway, and "it must . . . be examined and supported by the governments themselves."

BURGLAR SHOT BY DETECTIVE IN WILD CHASE

Man Wounded Described by Police as Former Member of Polka Dot Gang

Toronto, Sept. 28 — (CP) — A wild back-alley chase following an attempted burglary early today resulted in the shooting of a man police described as a former member of Toronto's Polka-dot armed robbery gang.

The man, Robert Simpson, 30, was shot in the hip by Detective-Sergeant William Bolton as he ran from the back of a warehouse on Bathurst Street in the northwest section of the city. Simpson was charged with robbery with violence. Hospital officials said he wasn't seriously injured.

Bolton then escaped.

Bill Thompson, 19, spotted three men after they had broken into the warehouse. He ran to the home of Detective Bolton. Grabbing his revolver, the sergeant followed Thompson into the lane. There they saw four men moving a panel truck out of a ramp leading from the building.

Bolton shouted for them to halt and they began a run. He fired two shots in the air and hit Simpson with the third.

Harold MacMillan, 73-year-old night watchman, told police the men broke into a third - storey window and took their supplies. They made two trips and feet. Then they drove the truck up the ramp and started loading it with telephone products.

Barry, who adopted him last February, is a bundling boy. They know him as "Timothy" a name he answers to. A small cafe in London's Chinatown.

"I feel I may be able to become some sort of 'augty' to him. At least I know my son will never be taught to be a snob."

Mrs. Buller saw the boy by arrangement Monday; she is convinced he is her son.

"The likeness is obvious to anyone," she said. "My boy Barry vanished in March 1945 when a woman I knew slightly asked if he could take him for a walk. We never saw Barry again."

Scotland Yard police reported they are holding a woman in connection with the boy's disappearance who identified herself as Stella Scott. She will be taken to Plymouth for investigation.

Champaign Ill., Sept. 28 (AP)— An old French fort, which scientists believe, is Fort St. Louis, has been unearthed near Starved Rock, Ill., it was announced today by John C. McGregor, associate professor of anthropology at the University of Illinois, said Monday night.

Brigadier Genet Tells of 'Ike', Churchill, Monty

Colorful insights into the more intimate sides of the lives of Great War II generalissimos given the Rotary Club on Monday by Brigadier J. E. Genet (retired) now a gentleman farmer residing near Rossmore. Brigadier Genet served 27 years in the army and during the second world conflict was Chief Signals Officer of the Canadian Army.

Brigadier Genet themed his address around such outstanding men of the war as Montgomery, Churchill and Eisenhower. He deplored the fact that writers "for a few paltry thousands of dollars" came home to write stories about the animosities which they claimed were apparent among these people in high places."

His position as a member of the staff of the Canadian Army Command gave him the opportunity to meet and study these people first hand and he found them "straightforward, entertaining, and friendly."

"When we read books that state the Canadian Army commander quarrelled with General Montgomery, we should put it down as nonsense. I am quite sure that every Canadian soldier will think that their army chief, a man in charge of thousands of lives and millions of dollars worth of equipment, would be a 'yes-man' to anybody."

Controversial Figure

Montgomery "one of the most controversial figures of the war" while he would crime a soldier for having one button of his tunic undone, and fine his commanding officer, usually wore an old pair of corduroy slacks, a fur-lined sweater and an old beret."

"Montgomery," the brigadier said, "never went into any battle unless he was fully prepared. He would talk to his troops not in parade formation, but gathered around his jeep standing in a group or sitting on the grass.

"If any future unpleasantness occurs, and Britain, out, produces men like Monty with all his eccentricity, showmanship and funny ways of doing things, we shall be well served."

"Winston Churchill was a big man who made his presence felt when he entered a room or a mess," the speaker said. He chats freely, answers questions, enjoys jokes, especially those on himself of a mild nature.

"One story he told was about himself when shipwrecked while going to Africa during the Boer War. Churchill floated around in the water and finally saw a canoe approaching him. 'It was a dour, and apparently meant for me,' Churchill smiled. 'It had my bare.

Never Elected to Job

Churchill, former Liberal, now head of the Conservative party rose to a job he was never elected to. "But I wonder if any man has ever done more for his country and the world than Prime Minister who will go down in history with Pitt and Disraeli of Britain."

General Eisenhower was a very great man but was not one of the greatest generals, the Brigadier told the clubmen. Lots of things might have become, I cannot say, but he worked together as a team that did a great job. No one could have done better for he had the faculty of getting the most out of his men. He never forgot a name or a face.

Of a simple nature, Eisenhower always endeavored to get underneath to see what the smaller fellow was thinking and doing. He and Monty thoroughly understood and admired each other. It was the same with Admiral Ivory and Air Force.

"Eisenhower," Brigadier Genet said, "realized that there is no place in a democratic country for a man who has served his country in the army all his life. General Grant was one of the greatest outstanding generals but he was probably the worst president the country ever had."

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Stan. Hagerman with club appreciation expressed by Rotarian Fulton, President Macklem was in the chair.

Working Man's Clothing Cost Studied at Probe

Ottawa's, Sept. 28 (CP) — The Canadian working man has borne a proportionately heavier blow in the cost of his clothing than other citizens, the Prices Commission learned today.

The retail price of men's overalls has more than doubled since 1939, F. H. Leacy, government statistician, testified when the commission resumed its hearings after a week's recess. The index of living index for overalls rose from 100 in August, 1939, to 208.8 at Aug. 2, 1948.

The cost of work shirts, however, rose only a trifle more than the average for men's clothing. The index here stood at 191.4 last August.

Most of the price increases took place during the last two years.

Mr. Leacy explaining the structure of the work-clothes industry, said 72 firms make overalls in Canada and 60 shirts. The value of their production in 1946 at the factory level was $22,000,000.

"The five largest firms accounted for less than one-quarter of the gross value of production of the industry in 1946."

Mr. Leacy referred to the minutes of the Commons Prices Committee, which set out figures to show that the cost of blue denim, major factor in the price of working clothes, rose from 15½ cents a yard in 1942 to 38 cents in 1948. "Work-shirting increased from 17½ cents a yard to 32 cents during the same period."

Mr. Leacy was followed on the witness stand by Peter Bryden, general manager, and William V. Stocks, accountant, for Earl Larned Carter Co. Ltd., of Toronto.

Positive Program On Lord's Day Observance Asked

By ROBERT PHILLIPS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, Sept. 28. (CP)—A more positive program for the Lord's Day Observance will come up for debate today by the United Church's 19th General Council. Action will be taken to prevent "Sunday becoming simply another day for fun" people.

Rev. J. R. Mutchmor, secretary of Evangelism and Social Service, Monday night told the Council that "many church congregations are selling God short" in their fight against the gaining infringement on the Lord's Day observance.

"An increasing infringement, he said, cannot be met with the negative attitude 'you must not.' It must provide a positive program in connection with the Lord's Day observance.

In discussion Monday on anniversary ceremonies to mark the United Church's 25th birthday in 1950, the Council approved a five-year expansion program covering enlargement of its membership and strengthening of its professional ministerial and lay forces.

Rev. Dental C. Rodout, secretary of the Church's ministry and maintenance department in the Maritimes, suggested the council not be used to define the church's progress. It should be content to make advances proposed as objectives of the five-year plan — to be reviewed from time to time as circumstances warrant.

The session of 1948 proceeded officially on June 11, 1950, and each of the church's 11 conferences in Newfoundland and across Canada will plan to hold their district conferences from June 6 to June 10 as possible.

The anniversary meeting of the General Council will be held in Toronto sometime in Sept., 1950 and will meet in the Timothy Eaton Memorial Church there.

The Church Council Monday also reaffirmed the United Church's opposition to the formation of French language radio stations in provinces whose official language is not French."

Dr. Ernest A. Roseille of London, Ont., who urged the reaffirmation of a former church opinion said "they are not the way we are going to unify our citizens."

Squirrels Once Big Problem Of Phone Company

Toronto Sept. 28 (CP) — The generally inoffensive and likeable little squirrel used to be one of the Bell Telephone company's biggest headaches, it was revealed here.

Speaking to the Rotary Club of suburban Leaside R.H. Hall, Bell Telephone Company official Monday said that squirrels with a taste for telephone cables used to be a fair sized problem to the company.

Experiments however, proved that a liberal coating of asphalt and sand on the outer insulation discouraged the rodent's nibbling.

Hall said that telephone cables sometimes were damaged by different ways — some of them "rather baffling." Rifle bullets, shotgun pellets, nails, tacks and other pieces of metal often have been found imbedded in the cable sheathing.

How Saturday and Sunday Operation of Industries Saves Power Explained at Meeting

The mystery of how Saturday and Sunday operation of industrial factories can assist in the current electric power shortage was briefly explained at a meeting of local industrialists on Monday.

Ordinarily it would seem that power used would go to increase the total power consumption whether used on Sunday or on Tuesday or Wednesday. It does just this but apparently Saturday or Sunday operation of factories goes to consume power that otherwise might be wasted. It happens like this:

Apparently Federal Government regulations call for hydro electric power stations to maintain a certain minimum stream flow. At times of low water as is currently the trouble, the entire potential of the stream can be turned through the turbines when the demand for electrical energy is high. When the demand for electric power falls off, the minimum stream flow must still be maintained — but the water goes through the sluiceways instead of through the turbines.

The same is true in the case of flat rate water heaters. During the present power shortage these are being automatically turned off from four in the afternoon until midnight. Then they are turned back on to use electric power at a time when the consumption is relatively low.

Mother of Accused Woman Made Welcome at Lindsay

Lindsay Sept. 28. (CP)—This Victoria County Municipality opened its arm Monday to welcome a bewildered little Scottish woman who ended a 4,000-mile air journey to support her only daughter, charged with murder.

Mrs. Ferdy McAllister, 47, who flew from Scotland Sunday, the first time she had been more than a few miles from her home in Greenock, was driven here from Toronto. She spent an hour Monday with her daughter, Mrs. Jean McAllister, in the cell block of the county jail.

Mrs. McAllister, a war bride, was charged with the shooting of her husband in their lonely cabin home near Kirkfield in this district. Preliminary hearing is expected to start Oct. 4.

Within an hour after Mrs. McInerney arrived, the worried, middle-aged mother had a place to stay and offers of all possible aid from the townspeople. Although short of funds, she was assured by County Sheriff Jasper Forman that she need have no financial worries while she is here. "Here is behind you and we're all pulling for you," he told her.

Taken Full Share

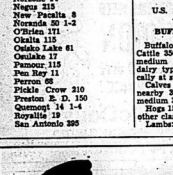
Canada had taken her full share in this relief program through mutual aid, through military relief, through U. N. R. R. A., and through direct governmental credits of more than $500,000,000 to the continent of Europe.

In listing this support, he said he was speaking for the Parliament of Canada which had made the appropriations possible and for the people of Canada who had supported the policy of rehabilitating war-devastated economies. What he said about Canada's effort held doubly true for the United States.

Throughout his 20-minute speech, the Canadian leader stressed three themes — freedom, security and peace. All countries were "members of one another" and the good of each was bound up with "the good of all."

"It is vital to the defence of freedom to maintain a preponderance of normal, economic and military strength on the side of freedom," he said. "All else is wholly secondary."

"Let us not be deceived," he said. "The terrible truth is that nations have yet to decide which is to prevail — the law of blood and force, ever leading to new means of destruction and forcing the nations to be constantly ready for the battle, or the law of peace, work and health, ever evolving new means of delivering man from the scourges which beset him.



"Mankind has still to discover whether violent conquest or the relief of humanity is to triumph in the end."

After the speech, State Minister Hector McNeil of Great Britain said: The Canadian Press, on behalf of the British delegation, that Mackenzie King's "outstanding" once again had been made evident.

Members of the South African delegation described the address as "encouraging."

Attempting Too Much

The Prime Minister said he believes that the United Nations' reach exceeded its grasp.

The Autumn Months

Lovely days of the kind which make Canadian autumn one of the finest seasons in the world are here. There has been some unpleasant weather, a little unusual coolness recently, but that is more than made up by the very pleasant days which have ushered in the fore part of this week. Canadians enjoy their climate. Visitors, too, have always remarked on the peculiar appeal of the Canadian autumn.

But what there has been of autumn so far is not the sign that the rest will be all the same. The year marches on and autumn like everything living in nature develops until it finally disappears merged in winter.

From now on to Hallowe'en we can go a great deal of fine weather and even beyond what festival date the weather can be such as to arouse the envy of any visitors who may happen to be in this country.

Autumn's mood in Canada is the spirit of meditation and reverie. It is decked in its later weeks by the glorious parade of nature in all her colors of scarlet, gold and russet. There is the warmth so praised by those who take to the woodlands as well as by those who tread the city streets. In the glow of that warmth the mind ponders over nature and life, and is enriched by those things on which it meditates.

The seasons in Canada have all a distinctness, even a personality, as every Canadian knows. The panorama of the year from the last of winter to the arrival of the next winter is made up of those three inspiring seasons, spring, summer and autumn. Winter, too, claims the acclamation of the natures for while it is rugged and at times severe, it makes possible another year and the sequence of the seasons.

Few would change the year from what it is, however much some grouch about the cold or rain or what not.

An appealing note on these early autumn days is to be found in the Christian Science Monitor of last week, drawing a picture of the scene and telling of the weighing of gains and losses due to the advancing season. It says, "Where the leaves have fallen a warmly lighted window peeps through, and if there is no like response tonight there will be tomorrow evening, when that maple across the street scatters its gold. Where flowers were, there may be only stalks and dried earth or there may be rosy and purple fruit. If flower vases have been put away, somebody has got out the jelly glasses and filled them with the distillations of summer that will last the winter through.

"Of course at times the Thomas Hood in all of us tries to break out in whispers for what summer has taken and autumn may bring, but the old adage will do at such moments, edited a bit as fall edits the landscape and our plans: Count your compensations."

Heads It Is

Down at Cornell University they are trying to figure out how much of a bump on the head a person can take and still not have a skull fracture.

A lot of heads are flying around — literally. Made out of plastic, with ears, eyes, mouth and nose painted on them, they are bounced at furious speeds against a panel made up of thin aluminum sheet backed up by a sponge-like substance.

It seems that the main conclusion is that an ordinary fall of five feet usually will not cause a skull fracture, but over that it usually will.

Although this is a highly scientific test that hardly calls for laymen's comment, there is just a hint in this head bouncing of over-standardization. We are sure we have known people who could fall five hundred feet and have no more than a mere cranial bruise — after trying to reason with them we could draw no other conclusion.

Skulls must develop a toughness, too. After twenty years of figuring out income tax, the normal skull must grow a gelatinous or rubber cushion, that could accommodate good-sized boulders with little discomfort.

Nothing in the process of evolution could bring us greater heart than the discovery by Cornell that the human head is toughening. If it is going to follow economic prophecies, political promises, weather and war forecasts, then it will have to. — Hamilton Spectator.

There is as much difference between the counsel that a friend giveth, and that a man giveth himself, as there is between the counsel of a friend and a flatterer. — Bacon.

Believe when you are most unhappy, that there is something for you to do in the world. So long as you can sweeten another's pain, life is not in vain. — Helen Keller.

Experience teacheth that resolution is a sole help in need. — Shakespeare.

SUCCESS

Success at any task depends
On either time nor rate of pay,
But always in the way it ends
And of the work what others say.

Success is earned from day to day;
Youth first is given a simple test,
And, that done well, perhaps he may
Again be asked to do his best.

Success is fashioned deed by deed,
Since step by step we all advance,
The lesser tasks to greater lead,
Who fails the first has lost a chance.

Who thinks today his task is one
That doesn't need his utmost skill,
Tomorrow won't be called upon
When there's a greater post to fill.

Mackenzie's Column:

Did Premier Stalin Double-Cross Western Powers?

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Did Premier Stalin double-cross the western powers in the recent agreement over Berlin, or were his orders disobeyed by subordinates?

That is to say, is Stalin still the undisputed dictator of communism, or has he slipped to the point where his lieutenants dare override his commands?

The records of the democracies show that at Stalin's second meeting with the British, United States and French representatives in Moscow Aug. 23 there was a "final agreement in principle" between Russia and the western powers. It provided that the Soviet blockade of Western Berlin should be lifted unconditionally and that the western powers would reciprocate by accepting Soviet control of the eastern sectors of the German capital, although under temporary control and not single Soviet control.

The Soviet premier instructed their military commanders in Germany to put the terms of this solemn agreement.

Double-Cross Starts

Right there the double - cross started. Instead of Marshal Sokolovsky, Soviet military commander, promptly threw a monkey-wrench into the machinery by making conditions for this unconditional agreement. Sokolovsky stipulated that when the Soviet food and fuel blockade was lifted Russians should take control of all Berlin transport, including air transport on which the blockaded city now depends. Naturally the western powers objected because it would enable the Russians to choke off supplies upon which the western allies no longer could hope to overcome by the air lift.

Negotiations went from bad to worse. Finally Britain, the United States and France tried to get Stalin to sign a statement to that effect the terms of the original agreement. Moscow in effect refused to do this, and the three western powers decided to put the whole business into the hands of the United Nations Security Council.

May be Best

It strikes us that this showdown in the U.N. is one of the best things which could happen. We never have had a "United" decision on this, but by the time this situation was ironed out, perhaps Stalin himself was the only one who could be consulted whom.

Diplomatic observers in Washington are puzzled, and speculation is that either Stalin reconsidered, but made his agreement, and ordered Sokolovsky to scuttle the deal; or that Stalin himself was overruled by the communist international information bureau in the recent meeting reported to have taken place in Crimea.

If the communists reserved Stalin we have a new and startling development. Stalin has been undisputed ruler of Soviet Russia for more than 20 years, and his rule has been undisputed up to this crisis.

However, the 69-year-old communist has been reported in bad health. It could be that he felt the need of advice and asked the committee for it, or maybe that the general staff for world revolution" took things into its own hands.

That's a problem which foreign diplomats are trying to solve.

THE KING GAVE UP AT EIGHTY-EIGHT

Young fellow told us here recently that his flabby, friendly build call him a male because at 46 he continues to play two or three sets of singles every Saturday morning in the summer. The young man said he doesn't run after the ones he can't get—a sensible rule for gentlemen at the dangerous age.

Insurance examiners and private physicians who have examined the young man assure him his heart is normal.

According to a recent magazine story King Gustaf of Sweden, now ninety, played his last game of tennis two years ago and now devotes his spare time to embroidery—the sissy.

Now you're a lad of 82 who writes that he is leaving for Boston to play in the National Doubles tournament at Chestnut Hill—eligible to play in the tournament a man must be 45 or older. This tennis player thinks it is "silly" that so many physicians in America accept as sound and reasonable the dictum that a man should not indulge in active exercise after the age of 40.

The 82 years old tournament player casts a dim view of the prominence of the stethoscope and the polygraph machine (gadget for measuring blood pressure) in these "check-up" examinations and the subordinate place of professional judgment in regard to the individual's need for or capacity to take and enjoy physical activity.

By George, I believe the lad has something there. The machinery so freely used today is probably impressive to some customers, but for my heart, health and longevity I'd rather have the opinion and advice of a real doctor than forty dollars' worth of machine records in any circumstance. Mind, you, Wiseacres, this is not to imply that a stethoscope is useless in the examination of heart or lungs or that a real doctor may not consider it worth while to measure the blood pressure in some instances.

The young man further observes that several physicians with whom he has lunched for years have told him tennis is too strenuous for a man past forty, but of those who are still above ground nearly all are too decrepit to take any exercise.

The young man has something there, too. Not only physicians but more business and professional men are flabby and unfit to get recrpit by the time they reach middle age, because they take their recreation or diversion sitting down, vicariously, watching hired professionals play the game. They do no honest work play no active game themselves and take the car, a taxi or other conveyance instead of getting the best all-round exercise any one can take, walking. Believe me, they have more than a few blocks to go.

I have always urged parents to protect growing boys from "training" for football in highschool. This grown man's game is all right for university or senior college students. It is all wrong for growing boys. Physically harmful, I mean. Highschool football distracts attention and interest from the physical education of all the children to the brief hysterical glorification of the handful of children.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

No Objection

Is there any objection to a woman aged 47, with leakage of the heart, having thylene gas for removal of ten teeth. (Mrs. J.M.M.)

Answer—Only her own physician can give an answer to that. Ordinarily it gives against extraction of more than three or three teeth at a time—and I always advise against excision of all teeth when only a few teeth are damaged beyond repair.

Ear Drops

Your drops for chronic running ear cured our son's ear trouble. Now we hope you have some remedy for asthma, from which he has suffered since he was four years old—he is now 15. He has had attacks four or five times a year. (Mrs. C. H.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask by writing for pamphlet on Asthma. Do not use a clipping—ask for what you want. I do not take time out to read clippings.

Avocado Easy to Digest

Please inform me whether avocado is hard to digest. I like them and eat two large ones a week. They seem to agree with me, but as my stomach is weak people tell me they are too hard to digest. (L.C.P.)

Answer—Whether your stomach is "weak" or not, any food you like is easy to digest. Better try to forget the old time notions about this and that being chiefly digestible or difficult to digest.

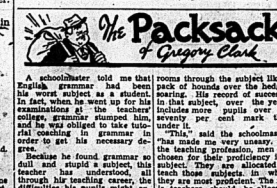
STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

WHAT WILL HISTORY SAY OF US?



"War eats away the margins of ordinary life and, in most cases, it adjusts the temperament to the new environment by its brutal training."

Who wrote these words? Some modern author or columnists? Not at all. They were written by Thucydides, the Greek historian who lived almost 2,500 years ago. He had observed that war does something to individuals and nations which it takes generations and sometimes centuries to eliminate.

We are living today in what historians are in the habit of calling "transitional times." Periods like this occur in world history, and almost always they follow protracted and brutal wars. Those who have visited Europe in recent months, and even those among us who through correspondence with destitute persons in Europe have had some insight into their suffering can realize the profound and awful disillusionment which the past war has involved. The younger child today will die old ago before the evil effects of this awful holocaust have been wiped out.

This all adds up to the imperative necessity of peace if of war. Important as domestic problems are, reform, social progression, scientific research, nor any other employment of the modern mind will have any significance if war is allowed to go on to its destructive conclusion. Thucydides saw it 2,500 years ago, and we are history's worst fools if we do not see it today.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Off.)

A schoolmaster told me that English grammar had been his worst subject as a student. In fact, when he went up for his examination as a teachers' college, grammar stumped him, and he was obliged to take tuto-grammar in order to get his necessary degree.

Because he found grammar so dull and stupid a subject, this teacher has understood, all through his teaching career, the difficulties his pupils might encounter in the subject. The result has been that he has taught grammar with extraordinary success. He takes whole classrooms through the subject like a pack of hounds over the hedges, soaring. His record of success in that subject, over the years, includes more pupils over the seventy per cent level than under it.

"This," said the schoolmaster, "has made me very uneasy. In the teaching profession, men are chosen for their proficiency in a subject. They are allocated to teach those subjects in which they are most proficient. In fact it, teachers are the last allocated to teach the subjects with which they themselves had the most difficulty."

It stands to reason. A teacher with a fair for mathematics or languages cannot humanly help but regard as stupid those pupils who have no such flair. The result is that all over the world, the only people who can understand either mathematics or foreign languages or anything else as well with a flair for them. Surely that is the ambition of education.

In the old days, mankind was troubled by an aristocracy of birth. Today it is troubled by an aristocracy of brains. In the division of labor called politics, those with a flair for it are raising men with the masses of flair, till they become the educational system, which encourages flair. A teacher should know, from his own experience, how hard it is to learn.

alyzed, has been kept from him. Consequently Washington observers believe that Stalin originally embarked on the Moscow ks, expecting that his price— andonment of the plans for stern Germany — would be t. He carried the discussions to a point where the agreement was acvtually drawn. He may have told, during all this time that:

1. The Western Powers could not maintain the air lift much longer, because of the approach of winter, and that they would have no alternative other than to concede to his wishes.

2. Or, that rather than risk a show down on their ability to stay in Berlin they would ditch the Frankfurt project.

Acting on the belief that Stalin is not fully informed, analysts here consider it probable that he does not know about the scope or success of the air lift or about the Western Powers determination to remain in Berlin.

Hence, when the great "propaganda victory" could not be proclaimed, observers believe Stalin simply gave the order to Marshal Sokolovsky, the Russian Military Governor in Berlin, to sabotage the agreement.

Mrs. F. R. Harback Leads Discussion At Women's Guild

"The Church and Literature" was the topic of discussion held by Mrs. F. R. Harback at the Young Women's Guild meeting held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Geo. Staunton. The devotional was taken from "The Story of the Faith" by Wm. A. Milford, Professor of Church History at McGill University.

The history of the church and its divisions, with all the advantages and disadvantages of the Reformation and the enemies of organized religion have been fostered by the failure of professing Christians to fully understand and live what they believe.

In the wag devastated countries of Europe the only open avenue of resistance to Nazism came from the churches. In Holland they protested Mussolini by threatening their own church attendance. No noticeable advantage seemed to be taken place where the heel of the Nazi has not fallen.

Knowledge and wisdom have not advanced at the same rate as increased knowledge in the physical world has been applied to the mechanical world. Man has become the slave of a machine. This will become more and more terrifying unless those who create and direct machines see that their lives lead out the ends made good. This is at present evidenced by the effect the use of the atom bomb has had on the fear of war than any other. The world of religion, which has to do with the totality of life, its meaning and destiny.

Religion as a guide to progress is indispensable. It is unscientific. Men are reluctant to change what is holy, nevertheless addicts to an age of change tends to be outrun.

Progress Shown

Progress is shown in the tendency of the reunion of the churches. The health of nations is dependent on conditions within not among the members of churches. A return to Christ is indicated by events, but the Way is very straight and narrow. It leads forward love for one's enemies, prayers for those who persecute, preference of giving before receiving.

The churches are indispensable, they are fellowships in the pursuit of Jesus Christ, frequent social bargings elevate the tone of society, and the cultivate decency. They solemnize birth, marriage and death, that need to be solemnized in an age impatient with the cheapening of life. They are worth what they cost, often priceless, and at some future time their strength will be restored by individuals, who in every walk of life are gathering spiritual energy and wisdom against the day of change, when all will be not dominational but Christian.

Mrs. Coulter expressed the thanks of the Guild to Mrs. Harback, who had been introduced by Hazel Dempsey. A lively discussion followed which brought out many pertinent facts.

Miss Alice Lawrence presided and conducted the business period, Letters of acknowledgement and thanks were read from the members of the parents of Ernest England. Lunch was served by the members of the executive.

The Case of the Tired Robin

By B.L.

Have robins a right to be tired? The migration of birds is something we have learned to count on come what may the birds fly south in the spring and south in the winter. They are as reliable as . . . I can't thing of anything reliable at the moment, but anyway they always wing their way to Florida with the first chill in the air and leave the rest of us, to mush through the slush.

Of course people, a great many of these winged wonders have taken to migrating into the United State Building and landing with plop, two hundred stories below into the bewildered path of a passer by, but they can't be blamed for that — Mother never told them about buildings that high!

But this is something entirely different a bird of another feather. On Saturday afternoon, a robin sank exhausted to the ground, somewhere north of Toronto, in the vicinity of Newmarket and refused to budge. He squatted on the lawn there in the middle of the field; with his wings hanging untidily at his sides. With true Canadian pluck dropping over his tired eyes, he murmured— "I've had it—I can't go on!"

He was discovered by a couple of children who picked up the limp body into the house and laid him by the kitchen stove to heat. Artificial respiration failed to bring him to and he lay inert. Finally in despair a few drops of whisky was forced with an eyedropper into his tiny unwilling beak. Suddenly as the fiery drops passed into his gullet, he sat up, blinked and smiled! This was more like it. He strutted around the table and threw out his red chest muscles! He lipt, Screwed his eyes with one wing, he gazed skyward to the sun. Then the boys were doing. With a sneer, he shook his feathers into place; he took a few hops and prepared to fly. He was detained just long enough to sign the pledge.

With a belligerent look in his beady eyes, he was last seen mounting higher into the wild blue yonder, challenging, raccously. "Bring on your eagles!"

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Fingernail Troubles

If I'm just one of those things! You're all tagged up in your very best duty goods, waiting for that new beau to come and take you places, and your breast is downcast. Don't get furious and throw the nail polish out of the window. Something else may have caused your claws to become brittle.

Fingernails often reflect the state of the body. Some authorities believe that the nails reward the guess—they don't claim they know—that sub-clarity of the system may evidence the presence by excessive dryness of the nails. It may be responsible for little furrows that sometimes appear. This condition may be due to digestive disturbances, sluggish blood stream or an out of dental attention.

Chronic disorders may be reflected in the appearance of the fingernails. Those who have trouble they lack rosy coloring. Some diseases even change the shape and the size of the nails. Or cause a thinning so pronounced that the ends curl up spoon fashion. A severe injury may leave a mark.

Pressure at the base of the nail will so injure the matrix, where cells are forming, that the new growth is spotted, even deformed.

There is a possibility that nail troubles may be due to a diet deficiency. Everyone should be safe—for the sake of the complexion, the hair, the health generally—by eating foods that supply various elements necessary for well-being.

The calcium group contains Vitamin D, which provides strength and protection to the teeth. Mineral salts are essential. You get them in leafy, green vegetables—spinach, lettuce, water cress, asparagus, and root vegetables such as carrots, cabbage and celery.

Orange or tomato juice should be taken every day, if one is to be in tiptop form. When you've have a better understanding of the effect nutrition has on appearance, as well as health, less money will go into the upkeep of the makeup box.

Care of the fingernails includes an spong up in lukewarm soapy water many times a day, as happens with the busy home hen, the natural oil that keeps the nails in condition is removed. Without this aid, they become brittle.

Use a cuticle cream every night; it will have no ill effect upon polish. Petting the nails vigorously so stir the underlying blood streams that give them coloring.

While the cream is on, push the orangewood stick under the cuticle so as to detach it from your nail. Then never a hangnail will appear to vex you.

Orange or tomato juice should be taken every day

FATS AND SMOKING

London — (CP) — If the food ministry would supply more fats the demand for cigarets might drop to pre-war proportions a doctor believes. "Reduction of fats from 75 grams to under 40 grams per day means that everyone feels hungry now. Smoking often relieves this sensation," he said.

Care of Dry Skin Condition

If you have a dry skin, your choice of powder is important When applying, fluff it on lightly, blend smoothly.

By HELEN FOLLETT

DRY skins are not all alike, but all require the daily use of a soothing cream. The delicate skin of the true blonde—all pink and white—seldom tans, but is susceptible to cold-weather discomforts. Oftimes it rebels against soap; so a cosmetic meal must be employed as a cleansing agent. It must have its full quota of creamy cosmetic food.

There is the skin that is dry, but not extremely so. It accepts soap suds. A foundation cream is a help. Only the scantest amount should be used for drying the face after the washing. If an astringent must be used to tighten fibres, a creamy cosmetic should be applied immediately afterward.

Very Dry Skin

A third type is so dry that dread skin scales form all the time, comfort to chapped lips.

It is impossible to apply powder evenly or without making conditions worse. Such a state may be due to a diet deficiency, not enough fatty foods included in the daily intake of the good things of the table. The victim of this good looks grief must put more butter on her bread and vegetables have bacon breakfast, more oil in the salad dressing. It sometimes happens that one of those milky, semi-liquid hand lotions that are so popular will prove soothing.

Neither extremely hot or extremely cold water should be used on an arid cutaneous surface.

The choice of powder is important. Find one with an oily base. Fluff it on lightly, then tap the flesh with the finger tips.

Cream rouge is to be preferred to the compact and a white lipstick applied at night will give

How to Place Individual Butter Knives

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just acquired the butter spreaders to match my flat silver. Will you please tell me the correct way to place the butter-spreader on the bread-and-butter plate?

ABC

Place the individual butter knife across the edge of the bread-and-butter plate, either parallel with the silverpieces at the sides of the place plate, or parallel with the edge of the table. Either of these right-angle positions is better than placing the knife diagonally on the bread-and-butter plate. The butter knife should rest on the edge of the plate. . . the tip of the knife should not be in the center part of the plate. (And, incidentally itty better to refer to these small knives as "butter knives" or "individual butter knives" rather than by the commercial name "butter spreaders".)

Suitable to Have Simple Farewell Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My cousin, whose mother and father died when he was very young and who has lived with us ever since, is leaving a religious order and is leaving home quite soon. Everyone in our family loves him very much, and he has had a host of devoted friends who live in our city and many who live in quite nearby places. My brother and I (who are near him) have thought it would be a wonderful idea if he and I gave a "farewell party for him. But my mother, who is very conservative, is not sure a party would be fitting in this circumstance. What do you think, Mrs. Beeckman? Irit.

In this circumstance it is entirely proper and fitting, and indeed quite customary, to give a simple farewell party, a gathering-together of relatives and friends. Although informal, this gathering would naturally have a serious feeling, for it marks this occasion. And it gives an excellent opportunity for him to tell relatives and friends before he departs. . . .

A Woman and Her Gloves

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a discussion, will you please answer this question: Is it necessary for a woman to take off her glove to shake hands? If she doesn't take it off, should she excuse herself for not taking it off?

L. S.

A woman need not take off her glove to shake hands . . . and so she needn't excuse herself for not taking it off. (Of course, if her gloves are soiled, as from gardening, she would explain to the one offering to shake hands, "My gloves are very soiled . . . just a second, and I'll take off my glove.")

Telephone Inquiry

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When someone whose voice I don't recognize calls on the telephone and asks for me "May I speak with Miss Smith?" I am not sure whether I should answer, "This is she" or "This is Miss Smith". Which is correct?

Veronica R. S.

Either is correct. However, I think that "This is Miss Smith" is somewhat preferable, since it repeats the name for the assurance of the one calling.

Fashion Flashes

THE ACCENT is on bronze as a major accessory color. It is starting to register as a clothes color as well. Bronze jacquard satin is used for an afternoon dress detailed with plunging neckline, molded midriff and upstanding collar. Buttons formed of bronze beads trim the bodice and form links for the pointed gauntlet cuffs.

STEALING THE SHOW is the stole, used with everything from raincoats to gala ball gowns. A stole of heavy silk is beautifully hand-painted in three wide sections that graduate from green, over-plaided in burnt orange and soft yellow.

SOMETHING NEW in the winter handbag field is a small muff made in Persian lamb, ermine, mink or fox. It hangs by a ring in the centre to reveal a fully fitted handbag.

THE BASKET BAG isn't giving up now that Summer is on the way out. It appears in many materials for back-to-school wear, and for casual or sports use. Corduroy is used for a drawstring-topped basket bag, while a more stuffy model has a base of brown cowhide and drawstring top of bright wool plaid.

EASY GOING for a busy college girl would be in a simple dress of navy and green wool plaid, cut with a slightly flared skirt. Bodice yoke and pointed gauntlet cuffs are of navy blue velvet.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Mother With a Daughter-in-Law Problem

A widow with one son is heartbroken because the girl her son has married refuses to be friends with her. More than that the young wife appears to be making a definite effort to alienate her husband from his mother so that she can keep him, his thoughts and attentions wholly for herself.

This mother writes:

"When my son married I turned over money from his father's insurance so that he could have a lovely home. I am a saintedly person and live with a girl chum who is a nurse.

"Since my son married, I have never been asked to his house for a meal. If he comes to our apartment, his wife telephones and wants and raves and swears at me. She makes fun of me behind my back and if I have anything new she says it is in poor taste.

"I have tried to think this out and I can see she is influencing my son as he is rude. My girl chum says she is jealous of me, I love my son and he is all I have. I must see him. What can I do?"

The letter goes on to say that this widow has had several offers of marriage.

"But up to now," she says, "I still think of my husband. Would it be best to accept one of these offers?"

It is extremely likely that what this woman's friend says is true and her daughter-in-law is one of those selfish women who feel that their affection is so important that all the love and attention of husband and son should be theirs.

My correspondent says that she has affection, but has been unable to make any headway.

That being the case, I think her best plan is to abandon any further efforts in this direction and leave the young people to their own devices, turning all her attention to making an interesting life for herself. This might have more effect upon his son than constant pleading with him to do something about the situation.

Of course a mother, especially a widowed one, feels that an only child is all she has and cannot bear the thought of being estranged from him. But in a case of this kind no amount of arguing and pleading is going to accomplish anything except to make the son feel his mother is a burden, a nuisance and a drag upon his happiness. He will think less and more of her and be much more anxious to see her if she lets him and his wife live their own lives and she go hers.

As for whether or not she should accept one of the offers of marriage she has had, that obviously would entirely depend upon whether or not any one of the men who has made such an offer appeals to her sufficiently so that she would find the prospect of life with him attractive. It would be foolish to marry merely for the sake of being married. To do so would only invite the possibility of more unhappiness than she has now.

I think she should first of all make up her mind to concentrate on developin new interests of her own and making all the new acquaintances she can. When she has developed an interesting, busy life, she is far less likely to care whether or not she is married or whether or not she is being neglected or badly treated by her son and his wife.

Cleveland Indians Appear Cinch for American Loop Flag Due to the Schedule

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The tightest three-team flag fight in the American League in 40 years continues at the boiling point as Cleveland Indians, New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox hitch up their pants and prepare to slug it out to the bitter end.

One game ahead of the Yankees and Red Sox—deadlocked in a second place tie—the Indians are in a strategic spot to grab off the first Cleveland pennant in 28 years.

Not since Detroit Tigers nailed down the championship on the last day of the 1908 season has the loop been such a struggle.

Two afternoon games between the Red Sox and Washington Senators at Boston and the Yankees and Athletics at Philadelphia will set the stage for tonight's encounter between the Indians and Chicago White Sox in Cleveland.

Since Boston Braves are already "in", having wrapped up the National League bunting Sunday, baseball fans have little interest left for anything but the scrap between the three American League contenders.

Everything Favors Indians

Everything favors the Indians. Cleveland could lose twice, and New York or Boston still would have to cop five in a row to win the pennant.

New York has a pair of games Saturday and Sunday with the Sockers in Boston. Cleveland has two games with the White Sox then winds up against the Tigers Friday, Saturday and Sunday. New York plays three against the A's before moving into Boston for the final pair. The Red Sox have three engagements with the Senators.

Manager Lou Boudreau of Cleveland said Gene Bearden (17-7) would be his mound choice in the Sox opener, while Frank Papish (2-8) will toss for Chicago.

The Cleveland pilot said Bob Feller, again the fire-baller of old after a mid-season lapse, would be sent against Chicago Wednesday night. That would leave Bob Lemon to oppose Detroit Friday with Bearden Saturday and Feller, Sunday, if needed to clinch matters.

Joe McCarthy, Boston manager probably will send Joe Dobson against Washington today, opposed by Rae Scarborough of the Senators.

Vic Raschi, with 19 victories for the season, will toil for the Yankees, Manager Bucky Harris said. Either Carl Scheib or Lou Brissie is expected to get the call for the A's.

BUY PAPER PARACHUTES

Stockholm — (CP) — Swedish paper parachutes, used for dropping supplies, have now begun to win a market abroad, it was announced recently. The French army in Indo-China recently bought 3,000 of the parachutes, which are less expensive than silk.

Game Threatened To Develop Into A Free-for-All

(By The Associated Press)

Syracuse Chiefs will send either John Hetki or Frank Fanovich to the mound tonight in an effort to tie up the International League's final playoff series with Montreal Royals.

The Royals, who went ahead two games to one with a 2-1 victory Monday night, probably will counter with Clark Podbielan, who has won 13 and lost 8.

Hetki has eight victories against 12 defeats and Fanovich has a 9-13 record.

The Royals went ahead in the best-of-seven series before 11,-475 at Syracuse in a game that for a while threatened to develop into a freefor-all.

In the ninth inning, the Royals' Don Newcombe scraped Syracuse catcher Dick West with a ball. Earlier the Negro hurler had hit Clyde Vollmer with a pitch.

West charged Newcombe and the players of both teams rushed to the scene as tempers flared. But no damage was done. West was ejected from the game.

Newcombe hurled a four-hitter in shading Eddie Erautt in a tight mound duel.

The only run off him came in the seventh on a walk, a single by west and Eddie Shokes' infield out.

Montreal, limited to six hits by Erautt, got an unearned run in the third. It was set up by Kermit Wahl's error followed by Sam Jethroe's single.

Jethroe also knocked in the second and winning run in the seventh with an infield out after the bases had been loaded by two scratch singles and a walk.

Hugh Casey Will Be Released At Season's End

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—Brooklyn Dodgers plan to give Hugh Casey his unconditional release at the end of the season and the pitching hero of the 1947 World Series says he expects to go to Leo Durocher's New York Giants.

Harold Parrott, road secretary of the Dodgers, confirmed that the 33-year-old right-hander would be released after Casey had broken the news Monday night.

"I've always been a Durocher man all the way through," Casey told a reporter.

The durable right-hander was out of the lineup most of this season because of a back injury.

One of his outstanding performances was in the World Series, won by the New York Yankees in seven games. Casey pitched in six of the seven series games—all but the second—and was credited with winning the third and fourth.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

President Leo Kelly of the Belleville District Hockey League will call a meeting of his executive on or around October 11 for the purpose of discussing activities of the coming season. It is reliably reported that the ice will be installed in Memorial Arena around the first week in November and the hockey league should be completely organized and ready to go by that time.

• • •

Managers of potential entries in the League are asked to forward application for entry to this writer as soon as possible. Pre-meeting talk has it that the loop will discard the weighty too-wieldy twelve-team system of last year and will confine the entries to a minimum of six and a maximum of eight.

• • •

In this corner's opinion (and we had a lot to do with the headaches in a secretarial capacity) a two - section league with winners playing off, is not conducive to good hockey, the sport, nor the fans. As it was, teams sometimes played but once in two weeks and consequently the calibre of the game suffered. With a six- or eight-team set-up, there would be more hockey, better hockey, and a satisfied fandom with playoffs completed before the long OHA grind starts.

• • •

Just what the player system will be this year is a matter for conjecture. Some suggestions call for a wide-open plan, with entries permitted to draw from north, south, east and west and the devil take the hindmost. Others favor the district idea, while yet others want home-brews with all OHA players barred.

• • •

However these wrinkles will be ironed out by the incoming executive. In the meantime, we repeat the request that all managers or communities desiring to enter a team in the league, submit their application in writing to this desk. And please do it as soon as possible. Northern Electric and Belleville Rockets have already signified, verbally, that is, their intention of entering squads.

• • •

Harry Robinson, who is, temporarily, our New York correspondent, takes time out from looking at the Great White Way and boxing bouts to file his comments. Harry, who is a keen observer, was looking at the New York lovelies and other things at the corner of Fifth Avenue and Fiftieth Street the other day when his eyes bulged out of his head. He spotted an automobile bearing an Ontario license and a Belleville number. It was 7 X 7 in case the owner is interested. If his wife is, Harry must have got the wrong numbers.

Robinson saw both the Ike Williams - Flores and the Robinson-Gavilan fights. Incidentally Don Mogard, who is well known in these parts, fought in the third preliminary and lost a close six-round decision to one Roland La Starzy, a 184 - pounder who has won his last 24 fights, 12 of them by the bye-bye route.

• • •

There was nothing wrong with the boxing card served up to the fans in Memorial Arena last Wednesday. Every bout with the exception of one which ended in a technical knockout, was a rip-roaring fight with the contestants for the most part being content to stand toe-to-toe and slug it out over the three and five-round routes. This week's card promises to be a repeat with four starry boxers from Hamilton making their first appearance here. Bud "Peter" Pipher, rugged Oshawa slugger, who has already a large following in Belleville is carded to meet Hal Whitney in the main bout with Jumping Jerry Downes and Bud Henry mixing matters in the second star attraction.

• • •

That should be good enough for almost anybody but as an added taste of excellent ring fare there will be Ray Lucas rematched with Walt. Duby of Trenton. Ron Mansfield, Belleville with Tony Bisci, Hamilton, Carl Clapper back again with George Swenor, Trenton and Gerald Ellis, promising young Trenton fighter matched with Hamilton's Wally Bowie. Another excellent card, worthy of all-out support.

• • •

At least one Canadian hockey official has gone to bat for amateur players who find themselves the cause for unkind words over the size of their pay envelopes, says a CP story.

• • •

In an address before Saturday's final meeting of the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association, George Panter, president of the Ontario Hockey Association (O. H. A.) demanded to know why amateur puck chasers shouldn't get paid for their services.

The only danger in the practice, he maintained, was to amateur sport in general because of highly competitive bidding for players. He warned that the money tide might cease to flow and leave ruined amateurs.

• • •

Mr. Panter pointed out it was John Q. Public who paid the shot and when local fans withdrew their support from a financially wrecked club, it usually when under to stay. In his clubs to keep their heads above water than running on a sound financial basis.

• • •

The O. H. A. head praised the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and amateur sport in general. He said relations between the parent National Hockey League and the C. A. H. A. were "good."

"We get along with the professional circuit," he said, "but our most concern is for our relations with each other. They are definitely not good, because of competitive throat-cutting tactics."

Frankie Mathers And Cal Gardner Sign With Leafs

(By The Canadian Press)

Defenceman Frankie Mathers, who starred for Ottawa Senators last year, and Cal Gardner of Winnipeg have signed contracts with the Stanley Cup champions Toronto Maple Leafs. It was announced at Toronto Monday.

Mathers had a hard job making up his mind whether to accept the professional hockey contract offered by Toronto Maple Leafs or take a dentistry course at the University of Toronto.

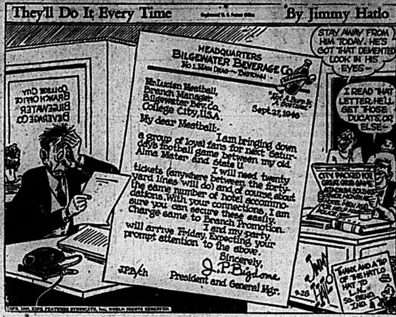
General Manager Conn Smythe estimated that Mathers could earn around $100,000 with the Leafs in salary and playoff money during the 10 years it would take him to complete his course and become an established dentist.

Leafs will practice at St. Catharines today and then embark on an exhibition series before the schedule opens. They play farm clug Pittsburgh Hornets at Waterloo, Ont., Sept. 29, at St. Catharines Oct. 1 and at Welland Oct. 2 and then to Schumacker, Ont., for a tilt with a Northern Ontario all-stars team Oct. 4. Two days later they meet Senators at Ottawa, Pittsburgh again Oct. 8 at Pittsburgh and Kansas City of the United States Hockey League at St. Catharines Oct. 9.

The National Hockey League's Montreal Canadiens shut out the American Hockey League's Buffalo Bisons 8-0 Monday night in an exhibition game at Buffalo.

The Canadiens' attack was led by Maurice (Rocket) Richard. Billy Reay and Norman Dussault who scored two goals each. Elmer Lach and Howie Riopelle added single goals.

It looks as if Stan Musial, Johnny Mize and Ralph Kiner are going to battle right down to the wire for the top slugging honors in the National Baseball League. With only a week of the season to, here's how they stand: Home runs — Kiner. Pirates, 40; Mize, Giants, 39; Musial, Cardinals 37. Runs batted in — Musial 126; Mize 124; Kiner 118. Musial leads hitters with an average of .378.



With five games remaining until the season's end, defending champion Ted Williams of Boston apparently has his fourth American League batting title on ice. His present batting average is .368, 14 percentage points ahead of runner-up Lou Boudreau of Cleveland. Williams last week dropped eight points, thus yielding seven notches to Boudreau, who slipped a lone point to .345.

Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League Monday night defeated a combined Cleveland Barons—Minneapolis lineup 7-3 in an exhibition game at Brandon, Man. Don Morrison led the Wings' scorers with three goals, while other goals went to Couture, McFadden, Howe and McNabb. The Combines' tallies were split evenly among Solinger, Kelly and Leswick.

At Guelph, Philadelphia Rockets Monday night edged Pittsburgh Hornets 7-5 in a rough-and-ready American Hockey League exhibition game that saw 16 penalties — including four majors— dished out. Pat Desbins checked in with three goals for Rockets with Bush, Pidherny, Shewchuk, and Wylie also scoring. Backor, Sloan, Juzda. Smith and Migay scored for Pittsburgh.

Coach Lew Hayman said Monday night his Montreal Alouettes will be at full strength for their important clash with Hamilton Wildcats here tonight, the first game in two weeks for either Big Four club. Passer Steve Nemeth, running half Bob Cunningham, and linemen Steve Chamko and Cas Vidruk, will see action, Hayman announced. They have been sidelined with injuries since the season opened.

The 1950 British Empire games will be held in Auckland, New Zealand, the council of the New Zealand Olympic and British Empire Games Association decided Monday at Wellington N.Z.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Today we Live in a Greater Canada

FROM DESIGN TO Delivery— "ALL-CANADIAN"

TODAY FOR the first time the label "All-Canadian" can be applied to a growing diversity of products — from kitchen and garden chairs to modern aircraft. Increasing use of original Canadian design is one more indication of Canada's continning advance — with ever-widening areas of opportunity awaiting the enterprise of young Canadians. Canada has become one of the world's great manufacturing nations; and not only are we producing more; now our designers are applying new processes and new materials to the development of distinctively Canadian products.

NEW TYPES of upholstered furniture, laminated plywood chairs, kitchen ranges, lighting equipment, canoes, toys . . . are some of the modern products created by the imagination and technical knowledge of Canadian designers.

LOCOMOTIVES and tractors are being designed . . . new features applied to ship construction . . . a distinctive West Coast architecture developed . . . Typical of Canadian achievements in metal design is modern railway coach equipment.

IN FASHION, too, there's a "New Canadian Look", as new patterns and fabrics are developed and Canadian dress designers win increasing recognition in world style centres. Today Canada's fashion industry has become big business.

G. H. WOOD raised sufficient money in 1923 to buy a tiny Toronto soap plant employing two workers. Since then his energy, industry and consistent emphasis on salesmanship have built his company into the biggest sanitation products organization in Canada manufacturing 176 separate items.

MR. WOOD says: "I've always felt that business success comes from a combination of initiative salesmanship and harmony between labour and management; and nowhere is that combination more certain of achieving results than right here at home in our own country now".

Regina Football Team Plagued By Bad Breaks

Regina, Sept. 28. (CP)—Don't they say hell is a Saskatchewan football fan when the going gets tough in 1822. It's been too many of them this year.

And most of them in the West-ern Senior Football League went against his beloved Saskatchewan Roughriders—and followed by many the most threat-ening team they ever encounter-ed in November of the season.

It could have been an omen when Regina opened their sea-son with an exhibition tie against Western Manitoba Indians. The Easterners edged Riders 1-0 by booting the single point on the last play.

Riders bounded back with a scathing 17-6 triumph over the defending Western Champions Winnipeg Blue Bombers, to top the league in style. That was the last game they won. There've since lost six.

One was a discount 13-1 encounter from the burly Calgary Stamps, undefeated this season. But of the other five, two were lost by one-point margins one by a three-point margin and two by converted touchdowns that wiped out Rider leads.

The last is, to the tearful Ruffle fan, the league doormats led in every one of their 11 games at one time—in five of them by a margin which seemed to ensure victory. Most of the games were lost by spectacular opposition fourth-quarter drives.

But the team continues to pack in the fans. Regina Rough Rid-ders may stop losing in the re-maining five games and thrn of the gruelling 12-game western conference, schedule.

WHIPPER WATSON

FRED ATKINS

They staged a thrilling battle here last Friday with the "Whip" winning by a narrow margin, after taking the first fall in 46 minutes. Now the good-looking duo has been rematched for Friday's show and it should be one for the book. Both Whipper Watson and Fred Atkins of Australia, state that the contest is now will see them all out—and that means one of the nittiest bouts seen here in some time. Popular Pat Flanagan has been matched with dangerous Dare o'Connor in the semi-final while Ralph Moore, who created a favorable impression last week is back again to clash with Ed. Masks.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Sept. 28 (CP)—You can put Jimmy Bloodworth of Montreal Royals down as a man who hit a crucial home run and never got a chance to run it. Also he is the man who caused no end of confusion in Montreal after the Royals knocked Rochester Red Wings out of the International Baseball League playoffs.

Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll says the commotion which followed Bloodworth's game-winning ball kept the sports desk telephones ringing constantly with people wanting to know was the score 1-0, 2-0 or 3-0. For the record, the score was 3-0.

The reason for the confusion was that while Bloodworth, voted the most-valuable player in the league this season, hit the ball over the fence he got no farther than second base before the Delmonmer Park mob reached him and carried him off to the dugout.

Dick Whitman and Oscar Grimes who were on base ahead of Bloodworth crossed the plate. That's why some folk argued the score was 2-0 and that Blood-worth's drive was only a two-bagger. That would have made the score only 2-0.

Others said that when fans invaded the diamond it automatically cut the drive down to a double which would bring the ground rule into force. According to the ground rules a runner struck by a batter can only take two bases on a double. On this reasoning Whitman scored, but Grimes, who was on first, could advance only to third, thus a 1-0 game?

No. Dink recounts how Frank (Shag) Shaughnessy, the league president, ruled Bloodworth hit a home run.

"The ball was hit out of the park," said Shaughnessy. "Blood-worth couldn't get any farther than second base because the crowd ran on the diamond. This is official."

FRANCHISE FOR SALE

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 28 (AP)—The Ogdensburg franchise in the Border League will be up for sale today, authorities here indicated Monday.

The club, which won the post-season playoffs, has been transferred to one player, its general manager announced Sunday without explanation. Thirteen men were sold and five released outright.

The franchise is held by three local men—Clarence W. Shelby, Arthur F. McConville and Dr. Leo Fortune. They have a work-ing agreement with New York Giants.

KITES ENDANGER PLANES

Edmonton — (CP) The age of progress is catching up with Ed-monton's kite-fliers. Police warned a number of youngsters near the municipal airport that their sport was endangering the safety of low-flying aircraft.

1,200 MILES IN CANOE

Vermillion, Alta. — (CP) Harold Bushell, 19, and Steve Strocher, 18, both of Vermillion, have completed a 1,200-mile canoe trip down from the North Saskatchewan River. The 15 day trip, from the Elk Point ferry to the Pas, Man., was made in a 16-foot sportsman's type canoe.

Three-Way Tie Seen in P.G.A. Golf Tourney

Vancouver, Sept. 28 — (CP) — All the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association needed today for its 1948 championship tourna-ment was a combination of par-buster and rain-stopper.

The two 18-hole rounds played Monday in the Canada Cup at Point Grey course provided a three-way tie for the leadership. It was a drab anti-climax to the Canadian open championship of last week.

Everybody in the small field of 24 took a solid licking from par for the 36 holes of play. Only Fred Wood, the host club pro for the open at nearby Shaughnessy Heights, could clip par for a full round, and that was by only one stroke.

Wood shot his first 18 holes in 70, and then tossed away a two strokes lead with a miserable ex-hibition on his first nine of the afternoon round.

After that Fred settled down but was caught by Gordie Bryd-son of Toronto Mississaura and Ben Colk of the Vancouver Lang-ara Club.

All hands wound up with 146 for the first day's play with strokes away from par.

Four strokes off the pace came Ernie Vossler of Riverside Fraser View, with 150, all alone. In a four-way deadlock at 151 was a five-time C.O.G.A. champion, Willie Lamb of Toronto Lambton, Stan Horne of Montreal Hesmer-leigh, Ed McInnes of Vancouver Capilano and Jack Archer of La-chute, Que.

Bobbie Nuot, the defending champion from Royal Quebec, will have to make a terrific comeback if he hopes to retain his title. The little shotmaker is 11 strokes back of the leaders with 157.

St. Catharines Juniors Back In Running for Title

Vancouver, Sept. 28 — (CP) — St Catharines Athletics swept to a 15-13 victory over B.C. All Stars Monday night to deadlock their best-of-five Canadian junior la-crosse series at two games apiece. The deciding game will be play-ed tonight.

The Minto Cup contest was rough throughout and at the final whistle players and spectators joined in a near-riot.

Ed Bell of the All Stars and Jim McNulty of St. Catharines started the fracas, for no appar-ent reason, and failed to stop when the National Anthem was played. Lyle Kehoe, All Star forward, then joined the affray by tackling St. Kitts goalie Ralph Spock and a small-scale Donny-brook took place.

Fans, taking sides in the free-for-all, swept over the field and threatened a near-riot. It took nearly five minutes before police and officials could clear the floor.

The battle-royal had its start in the third period when, at one time, the Athletics had only two men on the floor and the All Stars three.

Three major penalties were called — against Bill Swanson, R. C. forward, and Harry Taylor and Kitts' goh, for fighting and against All Star Ben Tiesburst for mis-conduct.

In all, 49 minutes in penalties were called against both teams, 28 for B. C. and 23 against the East-erners.

Tony D'Amico topped the scor-ing parade with three goals for the Athletics, followed by team-mate Jack Lynch with two goals and three assists.

Bill Swanson and Ben Tiesburst tallied twice each for B.C.

NOT "TOO BRIGHT"

Chicago, Sept. 28 — (AP) — Despite peak circulation and ad-vertising volume, the outlook for long-continued newspaper pros-perity is not "too bright," a group of newspaper executives was told Sunday.

Robert U. Brown, editor of Editor & Publisher, said in a talk before the Institute of Newspaper Controllers and Fina-nce Officers that newspaper pro-duction costs are rising faster than revenues.

He said newspaper expenses, for the most part, rarely de-cline and that any payroll econ-omies usually have to be obtained through a cut in manpower.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York Sept. 28 (AP)—Joe Boudreau already has set up his Cleveland pitching plans for the remainder of the season so that Bob Lemon will be ready for a playoff game, if necessary ... when fate presented Andy Se-minick, the Phillies' manager, a watch on his "day" one unkind observer remarked they also should have given him an axe to wear it on. Brooklyn had just clinched the pennant by steal-ing two bases on Andy.

Some Fumble

And did you hear the radio announcer at the Purdue-Notre Dame game who excitedly shout-ed: "The fumble is rolling around in the air!"

Third Guess

In the Baltimore-Brooklyn pro football game Sunday, Dick Bar-wegan the Colts' captain, decid-ed to take a penalty against Brooklyn instead of taking the ball after a poor Dodger punt ... on the bench Coach Cecil Isbell was moaning because Dick had tossed away some yardage ... Brooklyn punted again and Sturvy Groh grabbed the ball and galoped back 92 yards for a touchdown ... Isbell charged out on the field and yelled ... shouted ... "That's the way to call them, Dick!"

Fast a Joe-Her

Ever since 1943 Penn State Coach Bob Higgins has been try-ing to cure Larry Joe, a speedy but fumble fingered halfback, of the habit of fumbling... in prac-tice the eldest day Larry was tackled near the sidelines where his wife Marie, and four months old baby Vic, Jr., were watch-ing ... as usual he dropped the ball ... "Listen Larry," shirped and coach Earle Edwards, "if I were Marie I wouldn't even let you hold the baby."

Hamilton Tigers Capture First Title in 15 Yrs.

Hamilton, Sept. 28 — (CP) — Hamilton Tigers captured their first Ontario Lacrosse Association senior championship in 15 years Monday night when they turned back Minico Mountaineers, 15-10 in overtime, to take the series in four straight games. The teams were tied 9-all at the close of re-gulation time.

The game was tied up on six different occasions. The goal tending duty served up by Mortimore for Minico, and Revelle for Hamilton bordered on the sensational.

Minico went out in front, 2-1, in the first quarter and led 5-4 at halftime. Tigers tied it up at 7-7 soon after the start of the fin-al frame but Kenny Dixon sent right back with a goal to put Minico ahead.

Gale then tied it up once more, Archie Dixon coupled and Tom-my Love scored the final goal of regulation time to make it 9-9.

In Playing overtime Tigers was the biggest individual star of the game as he accounted for four of his club's goals. McKenzie, Love, Gale and Isaacs each picked up 3 goals.

For the Minico team, Kenny Dixon was the best, counting three times.

London Majors Lose Tough One To Fort Wayne

London, Ont., Sept. 28 (CP) — London Majors coasted along for seven innings on a 3-0 lead over Fort Wayne (Ind.) General Electrics Monday night in the fifth game of the best-of-seven series for the annual baseball world championship. Then Gabby Hoh-man came to bat.

The right fielder hammered out a looping home run in the last of the eighth inning that got lost in the centerfield bushes to drive in two runs and win the game 3-2 and take a lead of three games to two.

The sixth game of the series will be played tonight.

For seven innings London pit-cher Cy Bricker had blanking Fort Wayne on four hits. In the eighth Tex Robbi started the Fort Wayne flurry when he tripled. Bob Winters hit a single that scored Robbi and Winters ran home ahead of Hohman on the homer.

The winner Charley Skipp scattered 11 hits and fanned 13 batters.

Bob Winters of Fort Wayne and London's Joe Bechard were top hitters with three for four each.

Elva Tyme thinks the experts use only difficult bridge plays. She gets this impression from what she hears or reads about them. Because their most difficult operations are usually simple.

Far be it from such, however, in actual play. They get just as many ordinary deals as beginners or intermediate players. In fact, the great majority of their hands are reasonably simple.

Skilled players know all the available methods by which hands can be made. They know the plus and other unusual methods if and when it is necessary to use them.

Say then, which is infrequent.

But even in the play of what looks like difficult deal the first look for the easiest types of handling. It is the most routine operations that depend on the most expected division of unseen cards.

An unusual situation may arise from overbidding. In play development, an unexpected split may show off balance. Only then will when an adept player will resort to odd manoeuvres.

A contract of seven diamonds was played by south. The opening lead from west was a club. The plays were based on the simplest principles of ruffing and cashing lashing suit.

What the the unexpected holdings in trumps by opponents? Tripe and two. In the heart suit? Four and three. So, south won the first trick with club ace. A small south heart was ruffed and the dummy.

A diamond spade was ruffed by south. Another small heart ruffed in dummy showed the south hearts were good. So, dummy cashed the trump queen and south ruffed another spade.

Ace and king of trumps were cashed and opponent trumps fell. South hearts and a top dummy club were good for the balance. It looks easy when easy does it.

Don Gallinger Expelled From Hockey League

Montreal, Sept. 28 — (CP) — The National Hockey League announced today the expulsion of Donald Gallinger, Port Colborne, a member of the Boston Bruins who was indefinitely suspended last March 9 pending investigation of charges he associated with gamblers.

Clarence Campbell, league president, announced Gallinger's expulsion and said the hockey player had written two days ago, approving the decision and asking for a hearing before the league's Board of Governors.

Mr. Campbell said:

"In view of his appeal to the Board of Governors of the league against the expulsion order, the grounds upon which the order is based are not being made public but Gallinger is free to do so if he wishes.

"At the time Gallinger was indefinitely suspended his teammate, Billy Taylor from Oshawa, also was suspended and later expelled from further play in the National Hockey League on charges of betting on games sent in connection with N.H.L. games.

Decision Given Gallinger

Mr. Campbell's announcement said the decision had been communicated to Gallinger and came after several hearings in which the hockey player had been given an opportunity to make his answers and his defence.

The N. H. L. president's announcement read:

"On March 9, 1948, Donald C. Gallinger, "a member of Boston Bruins Hockey Club, was indefinitely suspended from playing in the National Hockey League pending further investigation of his association with one, James Tasner, of Detroit.

"The investigations have been completed and upon the information and reports received and the interrogations of many witnesses which were conducted, Gallinger has been expelled from the league.

"The precise grounds of his expulsion have been communicated to Gallinger personally and the written report which the expulsion was based has been presented to him at the several hearings where he has been accorded a full opportunity to make his answer and defence.

London — (CP) — Informed sources here say the War Office is considering introduction of an identity card system in the British Army similar to that used by the Canadian Army during the Second World War.

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

The tense international situation sent stock markets into a slide Monday which carried them back to lows for the last five months.

New York gave the most pronounced reaction, but Canadian exchanges fell in line, though more slowly and to a lesser extent.

On the basis of good earnings, the market for sometime has been in a position which has seemed to warrant an advance, it could get some good news from Europe.

Rather than improving the news has worsened. Accordingly the prospect is not encouraging, to stock markets which are howevers, sustained to a large degree by the fact that their action has been connected to the big movement to the down.

Kinsmen Hear Physical Director Of Collegiate

The story of handicapped athletes, including Olympic champions, their chosen line of sport despite their afflictions, was told to members of the Kinsmen Club at Monday evening.

Stirling Townsend, physical director at the Belleville Collegiate, was guest speaker for the evening meeting, and told members that the will to win, together with constant practice could overcome many physical handicaps. Townsend himself would seem to bar the participant from active sports.

By way of illustration "Stet" pointed to Dave Sheridan, an Ottawa district boy, who ten years ago despite the fact that he had withered arm, tried out for the Canadian Olympic team. Only for his handicap he would have made the Canadian track team.

Another illustration of an athlete overcoming a handicap was Jim Abrams, a Jew, from the Ottawa district, who with only one arm became a star basketball, softball and rugby player.

Records Success of Theory

Townsend concluded mentioned the success of Jim Thorpe, American Indian who is still considered to be the greatest all round athlete of all time athlete. Working as a groundskeeper at Carlisle University, Thorpe had surprised college athletes by clearing the high jump bar at the eight inch mark on three different styles—and doing it in comfort.

Thorpe had gone on to join the 1912 American Olympic team and had won the greatest number of points ever to be taken by one athlete.

Mr. Townsend also spoke briefly of the late Ernie Kinsley, a first baseman with the New York Yankees, who had starred brilliantly even in his inter-collegiate days at Stratford, one of which operates near Duncan, B.C.

Lou fought for years to overcome an infantile paralysis and he eventually became the world's greatest iron man. Despite his broken toes and broken fingers he played 2,130 consecutive baseball games with the Yankees before he was forced to quit when he contracted the disease.

Tribute Paid Club

In closing the speaker paid tribute to the local Kinsmen Club for their financial assistance in sponsoring a Belleville baseball team. In doing so the club was doing something which, indeed, meant much for the boys in later life.

A guest at the meeting was Bob Clark of Kingston, district lieutenant governor. The president Frank Lang presided over the meeting with Graydon Clark as song leader and Stu Martin as Sgt.-at-Arms, and Phil Ruddick, director of publicity.

Arthur Duby, local soloist, favored with several vocal numbers ity.

Hopes to Relax Restrictions On Vegetables

Washington, Sept. 28 (CP) — Finance Minister Douglas Abbott Monday told a press conference he hopes to relax import restrictions on fresh vegetables at Christmas, tomatoes, lettuce and cabbage early available to Canadians during the coming winter.

He said the rate of improvement in Canada's dollar balance justified such a hope.

Abbott said he could make no promises or forecasts on the removal of restrictions on imports of automobiles, textiles and the numerous other items affected by the July 16 austerity program adopted last November.

Before the third annual conference of the governors of the International monetary fund and world bank, Abbott conducted a press conference on the question period with about 50 correspondents at conference headquarters.

Abbott said he told but for the United States European air plan, or something like it, the austerity restrictions in Canada would have had to be much stricter.

Abbott said he could not foresee any decline in the price of newsprint, a major Canadian contribution to the United States economy. Newsprint prices, he opined, is a "fair one."

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

New Approach To Cancer Study May be Possible

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—The New York Times says today that Dr. Otto Warburg, Nobel prize winner, has been conducting experiments on cancer cells which, he believes, "promises to open a new approach to the problem of cancer."

Dr. Warburg, Nobel Prize winner in medicine and physiology, is now at the University of Illinois. A report on his recent experiments in the Times says, appears in a German scientific journal.

The newspaper said Dr. Warburg has probed enzymes, or catalysts, in normal and cancer cells following an earlier discovery of a "fundamental difference" in metabolic functions between the two.

The normal cell, the newspaper adds, "burns up sugar completely in the presence of oxygen", but the cancer cell "merely splits up the sugar by fermentation."

In the normal cell the end of the combustion or sugar is "carbon dioxide, the gas exhaled in the process of respiration."

The cancer cell, however produces as its end product "lactic acid, the substance formed in sour milk."

Dr. Warburg's latest experiments have involved studying the "enzymes, or catalysts, required in the cell to split sugar to lactic acid."

Dr. Warburg's hypothesis, the Times added, is that "the cancer cell, which functions by fermentation, is not capable of making its own fermentation enzymes but parasitically draws upon the muscle tissues for its zymohexase and other fermenting enzymes."

"If that is so, Prof. Warburg reasons, then it should be possible to stop cancer cells from fermenting by depriving them of one of the 11 enzymes they need to carry on their existence."

Little Benny's Note Book

We were eating supper, being liver and onions in pop's honor, and as said, Well Williams, I've taken the bull by the left horn and decided to go and sit for my fotograph, just as you advised me, or at least y uodidn't advise me not to.

"As I remember our little conversation, you decided to have your fotograph taken because Willie Hinkle wrote in his collum that a woman is young as long as she's willing to pose for her fotograph, pop said, and ma said, Quite the contrary and just the opposite. I mean I made up my mind that no Hinkle is going to bully me. If my fotograph makes me look older in a naturely intelligent, filosophical broadminded sort of way, that's best best at my age and I'll be more than satisfied, she said.

So shall I, my dear, I'll order half a duzzen for my office, pop said, and Blank and White's Beauty Studio, that took Maud Revere's picture. You saw taat newfotograph of Maud on the Hewyer page, she said.

Yee gods, do you mean that picture in the silver frame? pop said. I thawt that picture has been taken at least 10 years ago he said, and as said, Well, naturelly, that's the bewty of it. I mean a person's caracter doesn't necesserily change just because 10 short years have rolled by, so that provee they've cawt her caracter, she said.

If they did they cawt it with an eraser, pop said, and ma said, Oh, I suppose if you ha dyour own picture taken, you'd prefer to have the fotographer draw in a lot of extr rinkles just to please P. Willis Hinkle. You men are so inconsistent, she said.

I guess you're right, my dear, pop said. The charm of you woman is, they're as consistent as mystic, wwifully different every day and no 2 alike, he said, and ma said, Well I'm glad to hear you admit it for last sakes. I'll call up Blank and White's for an appoitment, she said.

Being the end of the subject.

Beer on Tap In Halifax After 31 Years

By JOE MacSWEEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Sept. 28 (CP) — The happy Haligonian slapped his foaming mug in a tavern here and ordered beer Monday for the first time in 31 years.

Beer is on tap at Halifax once again after the long, long dry spell—of prohibition and government control. Sharp at 10 a. m. the swinging doors swung at the Sea Horse — first "pub" to open under Nova Scotia's new liquor regulations.

Wine also was on sale but there was little call for it as dockworkers and clerks swelled with obvious enjoyment and stretched their legs still farther under the polished bistro tables.

The alcoholic aroma was untouched by the taint of perfume—there were no women present. The smell of beer and shaving lotion held full sway.

Despite protests, ladies are not allowed in the pubs under the new liquor regulation. The regulations also forbid open sale of whisky, rum and all spirits, which still must be purchased at government stores.

The weaker sex, however, is included in the beer-and-wine-with-meals arrangement now in force at most Halifax hotels.

Faces Charges Involving Theft Of $4,000 Bonds

Toronto, Sept. 27 — (CP) — A 28-year-old former bank accountant today faces three charges involving theft of $4,000 in bonds.

Police arrested Stanley Trowhill of Port Dover, 28 miles south of Brantford, Saturday and accused him of taking the bonds during confusion while following a $250,000 safety deposit box robbery 17 months ago at the Royal Bank of Canada branch at College and Bathurst streets in west-central Toronto.

Trowhill resigned from the bank two weeks after the robbery, police said, and went to Port Dover where he established a successful auto agency and repair shop. He is married and has one child.

After the Bank of Canada reported that the $4,000 in bonds were cashed last May, police began investigations which led to Trowhill's arrest.

The main robbery, still unsolved, took place April 23, 1947, when three hooded bandits broke into the building. They bound two men and three women who lived in apartments over the bank and then broke into the safety deposit vault. Much of the loot has been recovered. Two Toronto detectives found bonds and other valuables worth some $179,000 in one cache and $5,000 was found in another. Some $20,000 in bonds was recovered at Montreal.

Nine Seamen Given Two Years Each

Thorold Sept. 28 (CP) —Penitentiary sentences of two years each today hung over nine of 28 seamen made court appearances there on charges arising from the boarding of Great Lakes ship last spring.

The nine were sentenced Monday night in the counts of boarding a ship while carrying offensive weapons. The sentences were the minimum for the charge laid under the Canada Shipping Act.

Sentenced to penitentiary terms were: Lorden Labb, 24, Montreal; George McMahon, 23, Toronto; William Armstrong, 23, Sudbury; Bernard Hilliard, 21, Timmins; Armand Girard, 21, Belle River; John Laurin, 24, Wallis Ont.; Douglas Borton, 33, Palmerston; Walter Hett, 24, Lion's Head, Head, Ont.; Robert, 23, Owen Sound.

Four others will hear the same charge read Friday, including Michael Jackson, 23 of Toronto, Great Lakes organizer of the Canadian Seamen's Union, and two C.S.U. organizers, Louis Schmaltz, 30, of Thorold and Basil Dawson 32, of Owen Sound.

Seventeen others, charged after the April 22 boarding of the Canada Steamship Lines freighter Thorold, had their charges reduced to illegal boarding and 15 accepted suspended sentences in jail. Of the other two, one was remanded to Friday and the other will be tried later. He is serving a jail sentence on another charge.

Accused Covers Eyes With Hands As Girl Testifies

Toronto, Sept. 28 — (CP) — Fred Aldred covered his eyes with his hands Monday when a 17-year-old girl told of the events leading up to the holdup-slaying of her father.

The 31-year-old suburban Claremont youth is on trial for the murder of William Cowan, 57, father of 17-year-old Eleanor Cowan, who testified Monday.

She told of a struggle in the Cowan store against an intruder and of the revolver shot that followed the struggle.

Aldred and May Hill, 17, with whom he had eloped the day before the killing, were arrested as they walked along railway tracks about two miles from the Cowan store.

ENTOUR TO USSR IN PARIS

Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov

Shown above are western ambassadors to Soviet Russia who have been engaged in a rigorous diplomatic sessions and discussions with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov on the subject of Germany and the siege of Berlin. At last reports, they had accomplished nothing to soften Russian policy with respect to Germany. They are pictured as they arrived in Paris to give an account of their work to the western countries which they represent. Left to right are: Yves Chataigneau, French ambassador; General Bedell Smith, U.S. ambassador, and Frank Roberts, British ambassador.

Berliners Losing Faith in Currency Issued by Russia

Berlin, Sept. 28 (AP)—Berliners have lost some of their faith in the Russian-issued currency in their city, following the break-up of the four-power talks on the Berlin blockade.

The "Ostmark" issued by Soviet authorities is steadily dropping in value, although at no time was it considered equal to the "Deutsche mark."

While there still seemed hope that four occupying powers were getting somewhere in their conversations about lifting the Soviet-imposed blockade of Berlin, the ostmark was being traded on the black market at the rate of between two and three for one west mark.

As of Monday night, the ostmark was quoted at 12 to the deutsche mark. This is almost the lowest point the Soviet mark has reached since midsummer, a short time after the duel east-west currency reforms began.

Communists have a healthy respect for the west mark, which demonstrated that soon after the currency reform. Many of them as they could. This was done in devious ways. One of the systems tried was flooding the western sectors with Russian-made cigarets on sale in the black market for only west marks, and at a cheap price. The double currency was introduced last June. The west issued its new money after failing to obtain Soviet accord with a German-wide currency reform. The Russians retaliated with new money of their own.

In June the same one of the chief sources of the vexing discord, the city government, plagued by the split, ruled employes would be paid three-fourths of their wages in east marks and the remainder in west marks. Lately, however, some workers have been getting up to half their pay in western currency.

EVERY POSSIBILITY

State Secretary Marshall and Foreign Secretary Bevin conferred during the morning on the strategy the western ministers will follow in the Security Council. Officials said the talk also concerned the British-American position and strategy in Germany. Over the lunch, question is referred to the council.

At the same time, British and U.S. sources said, experts of the three Western Powers continued putting the note to be sent to the U. N. secretary-general, Trygve Lie, another big today or tomorrow. A French source said the powers would deliver identical notes to Lie early this afternoon, but this was believed earlier than most sources expected.

Hint Soviet Surprise

A Russian source at U.N. headquarters, meanwhile, hinted a Soviet surprise when the Big Four dispute is argued in the Security Council.

Schoenfeld who spoke as the U.N. faced the severest test of its turbulent history, championed the return of a Democratic Germany to the family of nations.

"A renewed Germany must take her place in Democratic Europe," he said. "Deprived of self-government, she must first achieve her own internal re-adjustment and then take her place with her own special qualities, among the European nations."

"In Berlin," Schuman said, "we are faced with a dilemma as regards currency, transport and municipal administration, which unmistakably been getting worse in spite of the division into four zones, there ought to be a four-power control and administration.

"But the assembly will readily understand that living together in such a way requires a minimum of goodwill.

Will Not be Dejected

"This we have not found on the part of our Russian partners and as we do not intend to allow our selves to be deprived of our rights or to abandon the populations entrusted to our care, we now, after two months during which we exhausted every possibility of direct agreement appeal to the United Nations to settle the dispute and put an end to the act of force represented by the blockade imposed and maintained by Soviet authorities."

Meanwhile, Sir Alexander Cadogan of Britain, September president of the Security Council said the council will begin the Berlin debate tomorrow morning. He told reporters the exact date still was undecided, but might be Thursday if it could be arranged.

Sir Alexander said he believed the Russians would use every possible means, including the veto, to keep the council from taking a decision on the Berlin question.

Carry Label Dreast

The three-power note carry the label "urgent", which means the three western powers want the council to consider their complaint on an emergency basis.

The three-power complaint cites chapter seven, article 39, of the U.N. charter, concerning threats to peace and security.

Under this section, the Security Council is empowered to set forth an interim, provisional settlement of the dispute and call upon the countries involved to conform to the council's requirements.

The council also is authorized to invoke economic and diplomatic penalties against any state it believes to be menacing the peace. These measures can add up to an economic blocade of the penalized power. As a last resort the council is empowered to use armed force to put its decision into effect.

British, United States and French officials, however, are dubious of the practical result of any action under the charter the council may employ one or two procedures in passing on this dispute.

Under either of them, seven council votes are needed for a decision and under both of them the Soviet Union holds a trump veto.

Unions Would Uphold Russia

By one procedure, the parties to the dispute—the Big Four—would be barred from voting leaving only seven council members to cast ballots. One of these members is the Soviet Ukraine which everyone expects to uphold Russia's action.

Under the other procedure, all members would vote, but the decision would be subject to a unanimous vote by the five permanent members of the council. The Russians hold a permanent seat and thus are in a position to use their veto right to block action against themselves.

Informed officials predict that if the western powers are frustrated within the Security Council they will raise the issue on the floor of the General Assembly. In the assembly, a two-thirds majority is all that is required for a decision on so important issue.

Rejection by an assembly decision upholding the western complaint might prove to be only a pyric victory. The assembly had wide powers of discussion, but few powers of action.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"Now her grandfather'll have to know," I said with a lurk of my head toward the stairway.

"Pilot this morning," answered Mrs. Grisell withna shudder. "He's gone this morning. He's had Clay and Munro and Tom Wing up and downstairs half a dozen times already. Tom, Wing's had taken a percolator up and is making him fresh coffee right there in his room."

"Virginia always said he didn't like her," I offered as we went down to breakfast. "He didn't smoke, do you suppose?"

"He may have. He's an awfully shrewd old man. Well, maybe it'll all come out somehow, but I don't see Billen coming back after what that boy for a husband and baby coming and getting away with it! He never got over her mother's doing it."

"I devoutly hope it lightning strikes this house today it doesn't hit that dear old man upstairs," Louise Ring said piously, coming in ruffled and heated and dropping into her chair. "Bring me anything and lots of it. Tom wing," she added. "I've been up since half-past six."

"We've got some news that won't make him feel any better," Mrs. Grisell said.

Louise looked up from her concentration on sugaring bornebonzies. "What's that?"

"Liberty'll tell you," Mrs. Grisell stated briefly.

"Virginia's run away," I said. "We think she went with Willie Phillimore this morning and caught the eight o'clock train. At least she's gone."

"He'll satisfy her!" Louise asked, her mouth full.

"Well, I'm sure he does," Mrs. Grisell fell silent, and I told Louise and Munro, who had joined us, what the situation was. For an hour the wild confusion of talk at the breakfast table kept us all breathless. Everyone had noticed something that, remembered now, contributed to the mystery of our having been deceived so long.

When things quieted down a little we tried to think how Billie would return and where Virginia would go.

"Maybe Bill Brent is with her. He's only got one more day here," Louise said sentimentally.

"Nope, he's around. He was whistling in the shower a few minutes ago," Munro said. He kept saying, "What do you know?" under his breath as we all began again to discuss the problem from as many angles as we could muster, speculating as to what the old man would think and what the real Virginia's reaction would be.

"How's Bill going to take this?" Munro said presently with an odd, twisted little grin.

"He's going to be sent to the South Pacific. After all, it isn't his child's name he's in love with," I said, feeling a sudden satisfaction in being generous about it. "It's Virginia."

"Think so?" Munro shifted his half grin to me.

"I don't know what's going to happen," Mrs. Grisell murmured uneasily.

"Now who defaced the Richardson portrait?" Clay asked.

"Does it get us any near that?" I asked in my turn.

"I don't see it," Munro said. "It's the darndest ... He stopped, musing.

"He'll come back," Clay predicted.

"Think so?" Munro asked again.

"I think so."

"Any reason" — I could hear Bill thundering downstairs — "any reason why he shouldn't tell Bill?"

"Not now." Clay said with a slight frown. "Not now as long as he can help it. Let Calhoun!"

It was beautiful the stately old Hillyard dining room, with its dim mirror relections and dark hangings, its dark-red brocaded wall and brown-black carpet flicked with red. The silver sankards and tureens on the sideboard winked at him; through the curtain lengths the garden shrubs looked in somberly. He was handsomer than ever in his naval uniform, for the plan had been a shopping tour before Virginia left.

He seemed to take the news rings, its clear-cut enough but not personally staggered. His eyes went with sympathetic interest from one face to another. But I knew he was fighting to maintain an apparent indifference; he was hit.

"Poor kid," he said, admirably self-possessed. "So she's been playing a part all this time!"

"Not that so much," Clay said. "She's not changed; she's been herself. But under another name."

"I wouldn't call that exactly being herself!" Bill said with a hard smile.

"Clay means she's just as nice just as pretty and charming—" I began hastily.

"Only — acting a part." Bill finished, grimly condemning her. "Oh well," I said apologetically.

"We'll hear from her, of course" Bill said. "I'll be on my way tomorrow, see him in San Francisco." He glanced at me. "You knew all this?"

"Only just lately."

"And she's gotten out? I don't blame her." But he was shaken; I could see that he was hurt and shaken. Later in the morning he quietly asked me if I'd take a walk with him.

It was a disturbed morning. Not that anything further happened, but perhaps because nothing further happened. A rightening sore of stillness seemed to have fallen on the house, rather like the cross my thick mist had enveloped the cliffs and the garden.

Bill and I drove Munro over to the ranch; it was tacitly understood that nothing was to be said to old Mr. Hillyard of the discovery of his supposed granddaughter's true identity. Not for the present, at least. We were all waiting, not for anything special, but for some hint, some little sign that would show us which way to go. Munro wanted to talk to the foreman; Bill and I wanted to get out of the house.

The ranch was spread out over the hillside and ran back into the foothills. There were orchards close to the old buildings, beyond them were the ranges, empty hillsides across which the cattle had started little shelf-like trails that glistened this morning with the pearls of the fog.

Cutting into the range was a deep valley known as "the draw," and heavily clothing the sides of the draw were thickets of California buckeye and a few cathedral redwoods. Cattle trails threaded all through the glen too.

Bill and I walked up through the exquisite mist-dripping silence, the oak leaves and crisp beneath our feet and the air sweet with woodsy smells; bay and huckleberry, and trampled yerba buena. We came at last to a ranch house, a great sandstone, red barn, and a few cattle, and then we came to a great madrona, red bark falling in curls from its white trunk and the ground beneath it carpeted in white.

It was a wonderful walk — for me, the most serene hour, the most deeply satisfying that I ever known in my life. There is no rational explanation for it — not that this man had been the first I had ever loved; his lightest word, the last tones of his voice, the feel of his brown strong hand held for me as irresistible fascination.

Today he wasted no words. He said he had been momentarily attracted to Virginia, but had been cured by her open admiration of him.

"As if that counted, Bill!" I said it significantly, and he got the point and flushed.

"How'd I know you still liked me?" he grumbled. "How'd I know you ever liked me? She's cute; she made it easy. ... We've always been touch-and-go, Libby. You've always played hard to get."

"Not with you."

"It was all ended between Va and me anyway. Black is the part. She — she's the type that likes to collect 'em, are you going to forgive me, honey?"

Well, why go back to the bitter past? Why let in an ugly feminine reproach? You didn't write me Bill. Cause and effect. San Francisco and didn't come to see me.

To you I was the uninteresting girl in the boardinghouse, the librarian who didn't even read with adult! In love, but with the Little Colonel and the Wizard of Oz. The girl who wasn't daring, wasn't thrilling, hadn't any jolly house wherein to entertain you, any sustaining family to supply her with a background and a fortune.

No, all that luxury of reproach was forgotten on this magic morning when we walked up through the draw and when, before we rejoined Munro at the ranch house, Bill solemnly put his arms about me and kissed me ... solemnly; there was nothing lighthearted or gay about it. I felt myself quiet and respectful almost as this surprising, richness, the security of that feeling.

"Are you happy, Billy?"

"Happy! So deeply — so surely happy."

Mother Flies Ocean to Stand By Daughter

Toronto, Sept 27. (CP)— A worried, 61-year-old mother went to Lindsay today to comfort her 21-year-old daughter, held on a charge of murder in the Sept. 6 slaying of Mrs. Emily McInerney.

Mrs. Emily McInerney came to Toronto Sunday on a flight from Greenock, Scotland, the first time in her life she had been any further than a ferry ride to an inshore town. She came on a one-way ticket and had only five one-pound notes to finance her stay while she stands by her daughter, Mrs. Jean McAllister.

A short, plump woman, Mrs. McInerney was red-eyed and exhausted when she landed at Toronto's Malton airport, wearing a heavy blue overcoat over an obviously new blue suit.

Following her hearing in Mrs. McAllister's case is expected at Lindsay next month, Mrs. McInerney will be free on bail.

Mrs. McAllister is charged with the murder of her husband, whose body was found married while he was serving overseas with the Royal Canadian Navy in their home on a country house near Kirkfield in the Lindsay district.

Mrs. Jean McInerney heard of her daughter's trouble from a neighbor who read about it in a newspaper, she had no idea she would be able to come to Canada.

But a plan for whom Jean once worked started a fund and raised enough money to provide airplane passage to Canada.

NINE SOVIET PLANES 'BUZZ' U.S. SUPPLY CRAFT

Notes Charge Reds Menacing World Peace by Blockade

Western Powers Demand Early Action by Council

Paris, Sept. 29. (CP)—Britain, the United States and France recused Russia before the bar of the United Nations Security Council here today of pursuing a course with a blockade of Berlin which has brought Germany's first city to the brink of economic ruin.

The three western powers told the United Nations in identical notes delivered to Soviet Ambassador Andrei Y. Vishinsky that Russia's present course of action "is not in accordance with the obligations of the members of the United Nations."

The three governments declared that the Soviet Union will take action on the three governments. . . Have made every effort to resolve their differences directly with the Soviet government," the notes said.

The identical sources said they did not believe the 11-country Security Council will take action on the three western charges before Monday.

Paris Soviet sources said Foreign Minister of the Soviet Ukraine, told the General Assembly today that he and M. Zhdanov, Henri Spaak are playing with fire."

The note accuses the Soviet government of attempting by illegal and coercive measures to secure political objectives in Berlin, which it is not entitled, and which it could not achieve by peaceful means."

After calling the formal attention of the Secretary-General to the "serious situation" created by the action of the Soviet Government in Berlin in violation of Chapter VII of the United Nations Charter, the note to Trygve Lie, United Nations Secretary-General, declares that the main charges in terms textually identical with those contained in the joint note sent by the three Western powers to Russia Monday.

Note to Russia

The note to Russia stated: "The issue is between the Soviet government and the western occupying powers which is clearly shown by its actions that it is attempting by illegal and coercive measures, in disregard of its obligations, to secure political objectives to which it is not entitled and which it could not achieve by peaceful means.

"It has resorted to blockade measures against the legitimate Berlin population with starvation, economic and economic ruin. It has tolerated disorders and attempted to overthrow the duly elected government of Berlin."

BEVIN AND SPAAK PLAY WITH FIRE SAYS MANUILSKY

Attacks Speeches Made To General Assembly

Paris, Sept. 29 — (CP) — Foreign Minister Dimitri Manuilsky of the Soviet Ukraine declared in the United Nations General Assembly today "Mr. Bevin and M. Spaak are playing with fire."

In an attack on the Assembly speeches of the British and Belgian foreign ministers, he said the United States now was the focus of a "new war psychosis" spreading throughout the world.

Bevin had "rattled" the atomic weapon from the United Nations reunion itself, he declared, while regional arrangements were the best hope for peace was "a body blow at the status of the United Nations," Manuilsky said.

His speech followed another retort by Bevin, made by Edvard Kardelj, foreign minister of Yugoslavia, who denied that east European countries were "Stalin's Dominion" to join the Marshall plan.

Kardelj's sources said the Soviet delegates led the applause which followed his speech.

Kardelj said the world's woes are due to the cold war between the powers in western powers. Premier Tito of Yugoslavia and his government, Kardelj said, has denounced by the communist international information bureau (cominform) for departing from Moscow's communist line.

As Kardelj spoke, western informants said in Berlin, the United States and France will send identical notes to the U. N. by 4 p.m. today, calling for security-council action in the Berlin crisis. French sources said the notes would be sent "momentarily" to Secretary-

Power Interruptions Start Tuesday Unless Consumers Reduce Use of Current

Local consumption of electric power must be reduced 10 per cent in the daily allotment of 104,000 kilowatt hours or on October 5th the local public utilities will be requested by the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission to make power interruptions at regular intervals throughout the day.

This was the warning received this week by Mr. O. H. Scott, manager of the local Utilities, from C. G. Dandeno, manager of the East Central region for the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

The communication from the Hydro Commission indicated that the week day consumption of electricity in the city has been consistently in excess of the quota allotted for the municipality. Unless this quota can be met by October 5th, interruptions would be ordered, it was stated.

Failure of the local utility to stay within the city power allocation, will make it necessary for the Commission to interrupt the power supply every hour, on the hour, throughout the day, for twenty ranging up to 15 minutes.

Naturally, industry has done what it can to co-operate in power savings, but thus far domestic users have failed to realize that there is a power shortage and that consumption must be cut. Also generally speaking, industry has already have failed to give the needed co-operation to do their share in reducing power consumption.

Since restrictions went into effect yesterday, little or no city has been consistently over its quota of power and power interruptions are considered to be the only thing which will cause users to realize power use must be cut.

Diabetics Warned Against Use Of Vitaman E

Toronto Sept. 29 (CP)—Warning against use of self-prescribed vitamin E as diabetic treatment was issued today by Dr. Fred C. Shute, head of the Medical Research Foundation bearing his name.

Dr. Shute felt that some diabetic patients might abandon their essential insulin treatment, because of recent publicity given the benefits of vitamin E to diabetics.

Such change of treatment he said, would prove dangerous and possibly fatal within four days to certain types of patients. The vitamin, he said, actually worsened the condition of some patients.

The warning issued through the foundation — which has carried out research into synthetic vitamin E — said it was essential for diabetics taking vitamin E to receive insulin. And vitamin E should be taken by diabetics only when prescribed by doctors.

Fort Erie, Sept. 29 — (CP) Fort Erie's police force was reduced to six men today following with the resignation of two constables, Arthur Meleod and Alex Murdock Ross. Both were in the service for more than 21½ years experience on the force.

They told Chief Constable Andrew Griffith they had been offered 000 annually were insufficient to support families.

WANTS CHINA TO HEAD BLOC

Nanking, Sept. 29 — (AP) — Former Premier Chang Chun Tuesday declared China should form an economic bloc in Asia to include "a great part of Pan-Asiatic Japan."

Chang, just from Tokyo where he talked with Gen. MacArthur, China Air Lines in a broadcast said China had no reason to fear that its ancient enemy might rearm.

Twins Have Grand Time but Nearly Wreck Nice Home

Durham, Sept. 29 — (CP) — Searchers, including their frantic parents and neighbors, looked for two hours trying to locate the 2½-year-old twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Bentley.

But they couldn't spot them — because the boys had taken a trip on their own and had a whale of a time along with their dog.

Only trouble was they had picked the wrong day to do it. Mrs. R. S. Patterson, and in their enthusiasm had almost wrecked the home.

They clambered up on the piano, into the bathtub, turned on the taps, and with their dog took a ducking. They threw innumerable things down stairs — to hear them crash and bump.

A basket of peaches was strewn all over the floor.

They were finally found by the Patterson — under a bed. Thoroughly frightened they were returned to their parents.

AT LEAST 10 P.C.'S MAYBE NOMINATED FOR LEADERSHIP

Not Likely More Than Five Will Go to Ballot

Ottawa, Sept. 29 (CP) — As many as 10 men may be nominated for the leadership of the Progressive Conservat ve party at the three - day National Convention opening here tomorrow, but observance indications are that four or more than five men will allow their names to go on the ballot.

Premier Drew of Ontario, John Diefenbaker, member of the Commons for Lake Centre, Saskatchewan, Donald Fleming, member of the Toronto Eglinton, and Garfield Case, member for Grey North, Ontario, are already in the running and plan to fight it out on the convention floor.

E. D. Fulton, 52-year-old member of the Commons for Kamloops in British Columbia and president of the Canadian Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, said he would decide today whether he will allow his name to be placed in nomination. Even if he declines to stand, there is a possibility that he will be nominated.

J. M. Macdonnell, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada and member of the Commons for Toronto Rosa - Ontario, also is expected to announce his decision today. Only a year younger than John Bracken, 65, who is retiring because of age, Macdonnell is not expected that he will agree to stand.

John T. Ross, member of the Commons for Stanstead in Quebec and past president of the Canadian Bar Association, may be nominated along with Transhaourin of St. Johns, Que., party leader in Quebec. Mr. Sabourin has indicated that he will not be a candidate.

Herridge May be Named

Hon. William D. Herridge of Ottawa, Minister-at-Law of the late Viscount Bennett, former Conservative Prime Minister, may also be named as a potential leader. Mr. Herridge, member of the Privy Council, sponsored a "new deal" resolution in the House a few years ago but failed to win market support. At one time, he was Canada's envoy to the United Nations.

The tenth nominee may be Howard Green, member of the Commons for Vancouver South and a candidate for the leadership in 1942. Mr. Green has indicated he will not run but some of the delegates feel that he should.

All the leadership candidates now in the running were in the House of Commons in the successful campaigns gained grounds as Conservative representatives elected.

A 193-man resolutions committee set to work in Ottawa's sprawling Coliseum on the some 1,000 resolutions submitted as potential planks for the party's platform.

25 Germans Allegedly Consigned To Labor Camps Make Daring Escape

Berlin- Sept. 29 (AP) — Berlin police said today about 25 German air force officers escaped from a forced labor in Russian-operated uranium mines in Saxony made a daring break from their guards, it was rogated.

German police sources, confirmed by British authorities, said 52 Germans were bound for the uranium mines aboard a train which halted Tuesday night near the Zoological Garden in the British sector. About half succeeded in breaking away and fleeing through the station.

There have been reports recently that German prisoners in Russian newspapers that labor drafts for the uranium mines have been increased by the Russians. Anti-Communist sources also have claimed persons under political persecution, especially socialists, have been sent to the mines in increasing numbers.

Russia is the western sectors of Berlin said meanwhile they have intensified a drive against Russian food and coal shipments by truck across the sector boundaries.

They said during one period there were 50 to 60 Russian licenced trucks loaded with supplies being transferred from the Soviet sector through the American sector of Berlin to the western sectors.

Several days ago, police added, they confiscated a "few more" such trucks.

Col. Frank Howley, United States military government in Berlin described the action as routine.

Wherever the contents of the trucks did not tally with documents accompanying the drivers' trucks were unloaded and the contents confiscated, it was said.

Planes Were In Soviet-Zone Air Corridor at Time

Written Protest to Russians Will be Sent Immediately

Berlin, Sept. 29 — (AP) — Nine Soviet fighter planes dangerously buzzed two American supply planes in a Soviet-zone air corridor today, United States authorities announced.

The planes were flying supplies in to Soviet-blockaded Berlin from the western zones.

United States officials said they were transmitting a written protest to the Russians, charging violation of air safety regulations and demanding remedial action.

The incident was the latest of several recent Soviet-perpetrated incidents in the air corridors which the Americans asserted violated four-power flying regulations and were designed to harass the blockade-busting air lift to Berlin.

Last week a Soviet fighter flew dangerously close to an American passenger plane, forcing the latter to the convention floor.

E. D. Fulton, 52-year-old member of the Commons for Kamloops in British Columbia and president of the Canadian Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, said he would decide today whether he will allow his name to be placed in nomination. Even if he declines to stand, there is a possibility that he will be nominated.

J. M. Macdonnell, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada and member of the Commons for Toronto Rosa - Ontario, also is expected to announce his decision today. Only a year younger than John Bracken, 65, who is retiring because of age, Macdonnell is not expected that he will agree to stand.

John T. Ross, member of the Commons for Stanstead in Quebec and past president of the Canadian Bar Association, may be nominated along with Transhaourin of St. Johns, Que., party leader in Quebec. Mr. Sabourin has indicated that he will not be a candidate.

Herridge May be Named

Hon. William D. Herridge of Ottawa, Minister-at-Law of the late Viscount Bennett, former Conservative Prime Minister, may also be named as a potential leader. Mr. Herridge, member of the Privy Council, sponsored a "new deal" resolution in the House a few years ago but failed to win market support. At one time, he was Canada's envoy to the United Nations.

The tenth nominee may be Howard Green, member of the Commons for Vancouver South and a candidate for the leadership in 1942. Mr. Green has indicated he will not run but some of the delegates feel that he should.

All the leadership candidates now in the running were in the House of Commons in the successful campaigns gained grounds as Conservative representatives elected.

Clothing Firm's Profit Awes Inquiry Chairman

Ottawa, Sept. 29 (CP)—Chairman C. A. Curtis of the Prices Commission told a clothing manufacturer today a return of $2,000 to $6,000 on a $15,000 capital investment is "something we'd all like to get into."

The manufacturer, Arthu, Jacobs of Montreal, had presented financial records showing that Uneeda Manufacturing Co. which he manages, had a net profit of $8,956 in 1947 on a $15,000 capital investment.

He added to you that any industry that has a 13 1/3 per cent return on its capital isn't a bad investment. But, he added, he didn't think you would find it difficult to justify these increasing margins to many people."

He was referring to the trade practice of adding the same percentage mark-up as prices go up which result in the actual margin measured in dollars and cents becoming increasingly.

"It doesn't require any great capital," Mr. Jacobs said of the knee-clothes manufacturing which commission is investigating. "We have no need of much capital and a quick turnover."

Sales Reduced Profit

The firm's net profit as a percentage of sales ranged from one-fifth of 1 per cent to 2.5 per cent last year.

Commission Counsel H. A. Dyde suggested that, as prices rise, percentage profits should could be reduced and still leave good financial returns.

"Does it appears if I have a stock of $15,000 on the floor and the price goes up 10 per cent, Mr. Jacobs demanded. "Who pays that?"

"I don't think Mr. Dyde said.

"Why I do," Mr. Jacobs said "I'm likely to lose enough to take up $1,500 in 1949 to 2 or three years."

Other witnesses told the commission Tuesday that British-Canadian Overalls and work trousers cost too much for the Canadian market.

N.A. Indians Offer World Peace Plan To White Brothers

Detroit, Sept. 29 — (CP) — The Indians of North America, who abandoned warpath decades ago, today offered a plan for world peace to their palefaace brothers.

"We have learned the secret of peace," Ignatia Soul, secretary of the provisional National Indian government of North America, said. "We have a message for the white man."

He declined to reveal the details of the plan but said it would be submitted immediately to the United Nations.

The U. N. also will be asked to recognize the North American Indians as a government, Sioul said.

Delegates to the third session of the provisional government wore a wound up a three-day conference today. They represented 1,000,000 Indians of persons of Indian descent, said Sioul, of Cherokee, California.

Baseball Fan Sparks Cancer Benefit By Suggestion to Indians' Owner

Cleveland, Sept. 29 — (AP) — Joe Earley, the "average fan" who thought he ought to get a ride like the ball players, had his wish Tuesday night.

Several weeks ago, the 28-year-old baseball fan wrote a letter to Indians' owner Bill Veeck, president of Cleveland Indians. Earley ipstated the money donated go to the American Cancer fund. The show went on before 60,405 fans as an added attraction in the Cleveland-Chicago baseball game.

First they rolled out a new car for Earley and his bride.

Then a truck drove up containing an assortment of gifts. Veeck unloaded them off the truck — a console model radio phonograph, a year's supply of gasoline and oil, an electric refrigerator, a cooking stove, a washing machine, clothes, luggage, towels and so on.

Veeck also added a few sideshows. The first 20,000 women in arrive received an orchid, and a plane from Honolulu at a reported cost of $30,000. Pretty models handed them out at the gates.

Then an automobile plant guard who said he had been in his wife's wind' ever since he wrote the letter suddenly staggered up to the microphone and said his breathless "thanks."

TORONTO YOUTHS GIVEN TEN YEARS FOR KIDNAPPING

Term Includes Sentence on Armed Robbery and Automobile Theft

Toronto, Sept. 29 — (CP) — Three Toronto youths today were sentenced to 10 years each for the Sept. 13 kidnapping of Dr. David Perlman and armed robbery of a taxi driver.

The three — Gordon Cameron, 24, Allen Decker, 19, and William Glover, 17, — were sentenced to six years for kidnapping the Toronto physician. They robbed him of $50 before they left him bound and gagged in a Ford sedan in the Windsor district.

They were given four years consecutive and four years concurrent for the $53 armed robbery of Thomas Barnett, Toronto taxi driver, who was taken to a dark section of the city Sept. 10 and forced to hand over his wallet.

Decker and Glover each were sentenced to one year to run concurrent for two charges of automobile theft.

"I can't imagine what possessed them," commented Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow. "They all come from good homes . . . in this case it is difficult to assess punishment in the crime.

For the kidnapping and two charges of armed robbery, the youths could have been sentenced to a maximum 30 years each.

Cameron, spokesman for the trio in court, said both Glover and Decker "were led astray" by the United States and wanted to go home.

He said the original plan was to find a car with the keys in it, but had almost abandoned the idea when Dr. Perlman drove up.

Dr. Perlan testified that the youths pushed him in the back seat of his automobile and robbed him of $50. After an 80-mile, one-hour drive to the tourist cabin, they tied him up and left him. In the next few hours they had time to free himself and hail a motorist.

The youths were arrested in Windsor the day after the kidnapping.

POWER-SAVING SCHEMES SPREAD TO AVERT CUT-OFFS

Quotas Must be Met by End of Week Says Hydro Chairman

Toronto, Sept. 29. (CP)—With time running out, Ontario struggled today to cut power consumption.

It had a lot of cutting to do to get within the quotas the provincial hydro-electric power commission said must be met by the end of the week. The commission said it would shut off supplies periodically to municipalities which exceeded their quotas.

Commissioner Robert H. Saunders told the province in a radio broadcast Tuesday night huge amounts of electrical current were wasted by careless use of lights and domestic appliances.

The shortage—the second in two years—arose from increased consumption, caused mainly by new industries and the dry summer which lowered water levels in streams serving hydro projects.

Although Easter and Toronto got within their quotas this week, most Ontario cities and were consuming more than their allowances and were devising new ways of saving power.

Rural Western Ontario will be patrolled by 100 "vigilantes" to check consumption and persuade farmers to do more work at night or on weekends. Some London street lights will be turned off.

Each industry in Brampton agreed to cut consumption one hour daily and two of them will shut down Monday instead of Saturday.

IMPORTANT PROGRAM PREPARED BY CHAMBER

A general meeting of members of the Chamber of Commerce and friends will be held in Kiwanis Centre, on Friday, President Harold Seldon announced today.

Matters of important civic interest will be discussed such as the community swimming pool question, parking and the four-lane highway project.

Squadron Leader John Gellner RCAF will give an address on a subject of vital interest to everyone. Members are urgently requested to attend.

Dr. Austin Walters Special Speaker At Kiwanis Club

Kiwanis luncheon was held personal at the Kiwanis Centre on Monday, with the main topic of conversation being the O.Q.M. Convention. Guests were present from Madoc and Trenton. Visitors were extended a warm welcome by President Ted Schenk. Ed Logan was appointed Sgt.-at-Arms.

Congratulations were in order to many of the members. To starting McKeown's Rexall second appointment as an officer of the International Kiwanis; the White Ribbon Award for promotion to assistant sales manager; and Harold Saleman on his being appointed an officer of the Ontario Municipal Association.

The Trenton's rose was presented to two members at the meeting, in tangible recognition and appreciation of their splendid efforts on behalf of the club. Dick Kunze was one of the recipients for his outstanding achievement in the year, with regards to the Montreal convention. For his efforts on the extension activities, Mark Vannel was presented a rose for his success in the formation of the recently progressing Madoc Club.

The third reading of the proposed amendment to the election by-law was given, and a vote by the members carried the proposal. A new member, John A. Thornbury, manager of the new Bank of Nova Scotia, was introduced by Lorne MacDougall, and with the office of installation was fulfilled by Major Ken Graham.

The attendance prize, donated by Ralph Clapp was won by Aubrey Coe.

Registration For Night Classes Disappointing

Registration of students for night classes at the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School was disappointing on the first night of registration, it was stated today by Principal G. E. Currie.

Only 78 students registered for night classes on Tuesday evening, the first night of registration, with the total at this year was 550. Registrations will again be taken on Thursday evening with classes scheduled to commence on Tuesday, Oct. 5 at seven in the evening.

One of the disappointing features of the low first night registration is that unless a minimum of twelve students register for each class, these courses will not be started. Therefore, tardiness on the part of students may mean the course in which they are interested may be lost.

Another disappointing part of Tuesday night's registration was the fact that an elaborate organization had been set up to take care of registrations with 12 teachers giving their time gratis for the work. These teachers will be on duty again Thursday evening.

With the commencement of classes on Tuesday evening all teachers will be on duty in the shop or classes and the principal will be busy with supervision. Students are therefore still being to line up and wait because they failed to register at the proper time.

In addition attendance at night school classes counts from the night of commencement and students registering after the classes have started will lose some of the 90 per cent attendance needed for the refund of their registration fees.

S. Ponsford, Sockless George Of Hasty Pees, Travels 9,000 Miles to Attend Reunion Here

"Sockless George" is in town.

There have been "Shoeless Joe's" and "Mudrock Mary's but they have never associated with spectracks, in fact they've travelled separately for years, but "Sockless George" is a traveller of another nature.

To the gallant Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, George "the four inch wounded sergeant major" is a living symbol of fighting courage, the army, and the unit.

He has just completed a 9,000 mile journey from Durban South Africa where he is the manager of a hotel. to the spot a few miles from where he signed "on the dotted line" as a back private in Hasty Pees in 1939.

He is here for the fourth annual re-union of the regiment, and will see buddies he hasn't envisioned in civies.

He is Company Pofound, M.B.E., M-M., world traveller, gold miner, carpenter, soldier, hotel executive, and a man whose patriotism is on the non-benefits of sock rationing.

No Socks for 20 Years

George hasn't worn a sock for twenty years. He ran away from home when he was thirteen and when he left, he had all he was wearing at that time wore out. Socks don't last extremely long for George.

"They're just a d——— nuisance" remarks George, with a touch of nattvite. "Sometimes, when going to social functions in South Africa I slip on a light pair, and then my worries begin." He slips to the nearest secret corner, removes the offending apparel, heaves a sigh of relief, and goes back to really enjoy himself.

Through the mud and slime, the Scots have stuck at Dieppe, Sicilian, French and continental campaigns, and George has recalined comfortably inside army "Kitcheners," mudpacks, or whatever footwear has been the benefit of foot haberdashery.

His feet, which Dame Fate has entanned to a light mahogany and he's never bothered with "athlete's foot" corns, bunions or callouses. A "foot" soldier, in the true sense of the word.

And he'll rejoin his old buddies of the Hasty Pees here on Saturday and Sunday. With him will be Major-Quartermaster Graham, deputy chief of staff of the Canadian Army in Britain, and pals from all over the country with one coming from Newfoundland.

True to His Promise

George has the rare faculty of living up to a promise. Some time ago he sold his Durban home and at the 1948 reunion. He travelled 9,000 miles to keep his word. Ponsford worked his way as a ship to England where he quaffed a beaker of beer in the House of Lords with former regimental commander Lord Tweedsmuir, and Major General Graham. From there he went to Dieppe where he photographed graves of those of his pals who "went west." He will present his camera to the next of kin during his stay in Canada.

George says he will have to "work his way" back to South Africa. He hasn't got the necessary funds, but he has promised to be back at his hotel job. And a promise is a promise. He is not worrying about getting the firm believer of "where there's a will there's a way" it's a safe bet that in a short time he will be at his desk in the Durban Hotel directing the daily destiny of that establishment.

Great Country, S. Africa

"Great country, South Africa," is his opinion. "Of all the many countries I have visited since leaving here, Canada has the highest standard of living and the highest income tax. Although millions in Durban are perfect with temperatures ranging from 74 to 56 the year round. It's an eternal spring, literally speaking." South Africa is no place for the unskilled labor looking for a start. Natives do all the heavy manual work. Ponsford tried the gold mines of Rhodesia feeling that his experience in the Canadian mines would stand him in good stead. He was told he had to have a blasting certificate before he could go down a mine and after shoving "why" and "how" learned he would have to go to school for a month.

That ended the gold-mining adventure and George took himself to Johannesburg. Here he got into a traffic jam with a policeman and "before I got through talking with the guy, he had invited me to his home, where I stayed for the next few days until I got a job as'a carpenter."

"Give All You've Got"

Georges philosophy of life insofar as working man is concerned is, no matter if you are skilled or unskilled, give all you've got and you won't get fired. I posed as a carpenter, when I didn't know a hammer from a saw. I got the job, but didn't get away with it. My native helper knew more about it than I did. The bosses found out, but I gave them a full day's work and they kept me on."

Ponsford says he was only fired once and then when he took "French" leave from a job in Rhodesia. "It was my own fault. I was drunk, I'll admit."

Soccer and cricket are the chief sports in South Africa but baseball and softball are making great strides.

George is not married. He does not smoke, and at the present time has no liquor habits. Primarily, Says he is through with wars, and if anything starts South Africa will be a nice place to be. Back South Africa, he will immediately send the call to action.

In the meantime he's here, and anxious to see old buddies from the Hasty Pees. He will do that next Saturday and Sunday. It should be a great reunion.

YMCA-Operated Playgrounds Drew 10,000 Children

Attendance reached 10,000 children at the East and West Hill playgrounds during the summer months according to a report just issued by the YM.C.A. under whose direction the playgrounds were operated. Attendance was seven equally divided between the two playgrounds.

It was noticeable that more children over 8 years of age attended on the East Hill than on the West Hill, and more children under 8 years attended on the West Hill than on the East Hill, though three times the number of parents and visitors were in attendance on the East Hill than on the West Hill. One policy of the Y.M.C.A. for effective operation was that younger children must be accompanied by parents or guardians.

A trained staff for the age group 8 to 12 years was selected by the Y.M.C.A. and the program was fitted to meet their needs. All other children on the playgrounds supervision of parents who has the use of facilities which the playgrounds offered. The response of parents somewhat slow in appointing making it necessary for the staff to spend considerably more time getting children, when their skills might better have been employed in program leadership. It was apparent from the daily results that much valuable and interesting activity was organized on each playground. It would appear desirable that an increased staff would be necessary for supervision of the youngest children another year.

'I' Freely Used

Crafts, group games, story telling and leagues formed important features of the program and the Y.M.C.A. was freely used without charge for swimming two afternoons a week. Staff meetings were held regularly when Y.M.C.A. facilities were used for instruction. In addition Drum-Major Cpl. Donald Hoyt' Work Secretary and Program Director of the Y.M.C.A. was in continual attendance on the playgrounds to assist with the operation.

The co-operation of the Board of Education was a valuable part of the playground operation by the Y.M.C.A. and the interest of Harold Seldon and other members of the Board as well as Roy Dulmage and Lawrence Kells aided materially in what was accomplished.

The Board of the Y.M.C.A. recognizes the association's place in the community as an organization which through years of experience can give the best in trained leadership to the recreation of the citizens, with an understanding of individual needs and a satisfaction that these needs in connection with as well as Y.M.C.A. membership.

Increased Staff

Plans now being created with an increased staff of secretaries specially trained in the various aspects of Y.M.C.A. work should give to the community the finest in recreational activities under skilled leaders who appreciate growth development, and behavior in young people as well as the interest and need for relaxation recreation and citizenship training for adults.

Physical facilities are being completely renovated to prepare the way for more efficient operation and these days an ever-increasing number of young people

Farmer Was Unwitting Host To Wanted Men

Pembroke, Sept. 29. (CP)— An 83-year-old farmer entered the story of a desperate manhunt yesterday as an innocent foil who stumbled on his mistake at a funeral.

He is the grandfather of Donald Perreault, 28, one of the two men wanted in connection with the murder of two Montreal policeman during a bank holdup last Thursday. For two days, police said he unwittingly played host to Donald and Douglas Perreault on his lonely farm three miles from Sheenboro, Que., 200 miles northwest of Ottawa.

He had no radio, no newspapers to tell him they were wanted men, stunned by scores of police in the greatest manhunt the Ottawa Valley has known.

Then he went to a funeral in the village of Chapeau and found out. He went back home and ordered them off his place.

They went down the road in their black Cadillac. It was 6.45 p.m. An hour later, three Montreal detectives drove into the yard. Cars full of police were not far behind. They had been tipped off by Rev. Dennis Harrington of Chapeau, some hours before.

A cordon was thrown around the area. Roads were blocked and cars checked. But early yesterday, but the two men had escaped.

Police later found out that they had stopped at a garage near Sheenboro on their way from the farm and were recognized by the boy who refuelled them. The boy was too frightened to say anything until after they had gone. Then police were phoned at Hull. The car left along the main highway toward Aylmer, Que., across the Ottawa River from Ottawa. It was moving in its Quebec licence number was 23-860.

The Season and Motoring

Autumn's arrival and the return to standard time have an influence on motoring as the period between the end of the day's work and dusk is abruptly shortened. The re-opening of the schools have put many children back on the streets in the late afternoons.

These conditions mean that the driver of a motorcar will be necessarily obliged to exert the greatest care to make sure that the way is clear and that there is no danger of striking a pedestrian or another vehicle.

This season has already posed this problem. Some time later in the frosty season another problem will face the driver.

In fact there is of course no time when the driver need not be alert. With the great expansion in the number of cars and drivers, there rests upon those who operate motor vehicles the need for everlasting vigilance. The driver's duty never ceases while he is operating. It is a duty he owes to himself and to every other citizen.

Traffic safety has been more and more kept before the driving and walking public and no opportunity has been lost to impress upon both forms of travel, motoring or walking, the obligation that everyone should be safety conscious. There will be no let-up in the efforts to keep before them the duty of all who use the roadways so that driving with safety becomes a necessity and in the case of pedestrians keeping their responsibility ever in mind not to hazard their own lives or that of law-abiding motorists by darting irresponsibly into traffic or emerging from between cars so that the drivers have little or no opportunity of preventing a collision with the pedestrian.

Duty calls on the motorist and it also calls on the walking public, not to infringe any of the laws which are made for safe travel and for the good of every user of the roads.

Motoring is one of the necessities of this age just as walking. The element of speed has been brought in by the automobile but this should in that fact drivers and pedestrians must use all the safeguards which are provided in the wisely-drawn regulations so that accidents may not happen.

Departments of Highways in the Provinces, press and radio and numbers of other agencies are doing their utmost to make everyone traffic safety conscious. At seasons of especial danger when traffic is high appeals from these bodies have had a good effect. They will continue to'be heard.

One of those seasons is at hand. Leaves will soon be falling and it behooves children not to play in the leaves on the roads and drivers to keep ever on the alert for any children who might be playing or hidden among the leaves.

United Church Moderator

The Right Rev. Dr. Willard Brewing, the new moderator of the United Church of Canada has had a long experience in the church. Some dated to his present office at the General Council meeting at Vancouver. He is a prominent religious leader and has served his high calling, especially in Toronto and in Vancouver. A native of New Brunswick, he was in early life a teacher and later entered the ministry of the Reformed Episcopal Church, becoming bishop of that denomination and occupying a pulpit in Toronto. He was a frequent visitor to Belleville in those days, preaching on many occasions in Emmanuel Reformed Church of which his father-in-law, the Rev. A. A. Maloney, was for many years rector. In 1930 he entered the United Church and its service he held an important charge in Vancouver before his return to Toronto where he has been serving a large congregation.

Dr. Brewing is known as a leader and profound thinker and has held exercised a wide influence over the congregations with which he has been associated. That in his new office as the Moderator of the United Church of Canada he will exert an influence is realised. The moderatorship has been held by a large number of noted leaders and the succession has now fallen to one who will not fail in bringing the message of faith and of the church to the great numbers of the wide communion over which he will preside. In these days of many problems and of an ever-widening opportunity for the church to serve their people and this generation the new moderator has a great task and those who knew Dr. Brewing expect his two years of office will be years of rich blessing to the United Church.

Let a man try faithfully, manfully to be right, he will daily grow more and more right. — Carlyle.

JUST FOLKS

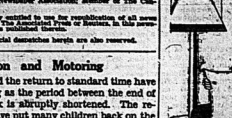
EIGHT



Get out the basin the frosting to make.
This is the morning to fashion a cake.
Have it as tall as you made it the evening
Be sure when it's done to add one candle more.
This is the day that we must celebrate
Ellen Elizabeth's boasting: "I'm eight!"

Years must have wings, since a year so fleeting
It seems only yesterday seven
Was the big candle
It's hard to believe that the seventh has gone by,
But say is a thing that no child will deny,
And, of course, there can be no mistaking the fact
Ellen Elizabeth's boasting: "I'm eight!"

It may not be much later, when more years have flown
And the lass we adore to a woman has grown,
Just as all of her sex she will come to the stage
When she won't be so willing to mention her age.
But, this morning, this morning I'm writing to state,
Ellen Elizabeth's boasting: "I'm eight!"

STRENGTH for The Day

By Dr. Earl L. Douglass

STRENGTH FOR THE SWN SCHOOL OF THE AIR WORLDS

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

All attempts in the interest of tolerance and broadmindedness to make the Church like the world are contrary to the original idea of the Church. The Holy Spirit came upon a group of disciples already separated from their fellowmen and their allegiance to the crucified and risen Christ was the constituting them a Church indivisible. It allowed no compromise or separation. The Church is supposed to be a body of persons who are in the world, yet separate themselves from the affairs of the world, but try to carry the Spirit and purpose of God into these affairs. The Church increases its powers over men's lives when for any reason it seeks to identify itself with the purposes of the world.

This does not mean that the Church is supposed to be a society of people at bitter enmity with the people and enterprises of the world around it. On the contrary it simply means that the Church is holy, that is, separated unto God to the end that it may render a complete and unfaltering service. The Church in every way's be alert to rebuke the world's sins as well as to heal moral diseases and to comfort its sorrows.

Killer Mountain Still Threatens Alberta Village

Frank, Alta. — (CP) — The mountain that 45 years ago killed 66 persons and wiped out a village still poses a threat today.

Government officials keep close tab on Turtle Mountain's crevices, widening and deepening yearly above the giant rock quickpile it loosed April 29, 1903.

Then it flung a 100-foot-deep mass of rubble over the site of limestone slabs were as big as houses — for two miles down and out in the valley, leaving a bald scar on its face as a reminder.

Only a handful of the residents of the old village of Frank escaped. One was a tot recovered from the edge of the rubble.

Estimates of the 7,000-foot fall placed the slide at 500 feet deep, 4,000 feet wide and 1,000 feet high.

Today, a railway has been repaired through the desert of rock chunks while a highway also traverses the waste. But some families continue to reside in the path of what may be future slides although other houses have been moved to the new town.

Mining in the base of the brittle giant continues. A group are last cave-in, no miners on duty were killed when the force of the disaster only after they attempted to use the usual tunnel, found it blocked, and then crawled back through a channel away from the fall.

A freight train escaped the slide by minutes and one of the train's actions performed immediately after was by trainman Sid Chouinette who crossed the slide-pile, blinded by choking dust and in danger from falling slides, to warn an approaching passenger train.

The Canadian Pacific Railway uses the fallen rock as a natural supply for ballast which went last spring to flood-weakened lines as far east as Moose Jaw, Sask.

But outside of a few bodies unearthed when the highway was blasted through, the 56 dead are likely to remain with their houses banks, churches and stores buried under 100 feet of Turtle Mountain.

Mackenzie's Column: Nations Now Facing Greatest Crisis

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The United Nations faces its greatest crisis today as Britain, the United States and France throw the bitter Berlin conflict into the lap of the Security Council, charging the Red blockade is a threat to international peace.

Indeed the situation is so grave that the three-year-old peace organization is in danger of splitting, with the democracies and the Soviet bloc going separate ways. Foreign Secretary Bevin was voicing the thoughts of many statesmen when he warned the general assembly in Paris that the U. N. might fall apart.

The Soviet press in Moscow also told the Russian public Monday that the time-worn phrase U. N. might go their separate ways, this despite the fact Soviet delegate Vishinsky was quoted by a London paper as saying in an interview that he favored keeping the United Nations."

Well, although the U. N. does split — what follows? Bevin answered that by declaring we're not by saying if it's impossible to work on a world-wide "we must proceed on a regional basis." That is, the Russian bloc would have its own organization and the democracies would have theirs.

Never United

As a matter of cold fact there never has been a United Nations. The organization has been split right from the start, first with the communists using it for purposes of obstruction and for grand sounding - board for red propaganda. Thus actually the U. N. has been used by the communists as a weapon of aggression against the democracies.

So if the Russians want to desert the U. N. they have the excuses shed, although there will be great risk there couldn't be collaboration.

Further Away

But, says somebody, a split in the U. N. gets us further away from the idea of one world. I'm not so sure about that. We certainly are fooling ourselves if we think we are going to get one world tomorrow. We've got to make democracy and communism mix.

They can't make it mix now under any circumstances. The Reds keep on telling us that our economic and political differences must be destroyed. Do they have to knock us down and drag us out before we recognize the situation?

The oil-and-water mixers might get at least as far as President Paul Henri Spaak, former president of the U. N. Assembly, who told the Russians in the Security Council:

"By your conduct you have prevented this organization from working. We ask it to function in every country represented here you maintain a fifth column, the fate of which even Hitler did not know."

Russian Proposal Of Arms Cut Placed on Agenda

Paris, Sept. 29 — (CP) — The United Nations General Assembly yesterday placed a Russian proposition to Place on its agenda Russia's proposal for a one-third reduction in armaments of the Big Five within a year.

It sent the proposal to the political committee for further study. The steering committee had voted previously to recommend assembly discussion of the item, without dissenting votes.

However, Sir Hartley Shawcross of Britain said points in the Russian proposition should be included in other items, and he reserved the right to raise these suggestions to enter their own resolutions at any time.

Dry Weather Plagues Farmers

Toronto Sept. 29 (CP) — Dry weather has plagued Ontario farmers this week, the weekly crop report of the Ontario Agriculture Department said Tuesday. Precipitation was light and more was necessary in many areas and fall wheat made slow progress.

A drop in milk flow was reported in several areas — including Carleton and the east end of the dry weather. The drought has made it impossible to plant fall wheat in some districts.

Bean growers, however, have found the dry weather to their liking and much of the harvest has been completed. Soybeans will follow.

Silo filling was in progress in many counties and the Elgin County tobacco harvest was finished.

London Letter: 'Churchill Arch' In New House Will Honor Name

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 29 — (CP) — A stone "Churchill Arch" in the new House of Commons will demonstrate that the wartime premier's name has been engaged in bitter political controversy and yet be shown politely.

Even the Leftist members on government benches who pelt their chief opponent, Winston Churchill, with caustic remarks will probably see no objection to the plaque which Sir Winston Churchill himself spoke of the chamber as symbolical of free British institutions and the democracy shared by all.

Many members of parliament entering the new chamber always will be reminded of Churchill. The arch, almost completed, has been built of batched and burnished Portland stone. Its pinnacles, pearls, teachers and family portraits. It should protect growing children from unlawful use in case you want to know, the male members of professional or college football for the Belleville area. The pupils in school were given a fair opportunity to play. They were required to participate in the game. And of course it should be strict-

General Tryve Lie.

A British spokesman said the western powers decided Tuesday to call for urgent U. N. consideration of the Greek-west dispute. This decision was made for two reasons:

1. There is no actual fighting in Greece at the moment.

2. There is no desire to stem Soviet-Bulgarian charges in the U. N.

On the basis of this decision, Britain does not likely to be summoned for the next week or so. A British spokesman said Monday he expects the Balkans will be the next council meeting, especially in some time after the debate by the delegates to study the documents accompanying the western complaints.

Want Provisional Measures

A French spokesman said the western powers will ask the security Council to impose provisional measures to settle the Berlin dispute.

Kardelj supported the Soviet proposal that there be a reduction of armaments and armed forces by one-third during the period of atomic weapons.

He attacked the U. N. special commission on the Balkans and said the United States was pursuing a "policy of hostility" to Greece, accompanied by "a violation of the principles" which he said was inspired by American monopolistic circles.

Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky drew the attention to the short, stocky Yugoslav's speech, busying himself with a mass of papers. But the Yugoslav did not listened attentively to a translation. Kardelj's speech finished.

May Invoke Article 40

The French spokesman said Britain, the United States and France will likely invoke Article 40 of the U. N. Charter, authorizing the council to call upon contending parties to comply with provisional arrangements to resolve their differences before they make the truce the council imposed on Palestine.

Dimitri S. Manuilsky, Ukrainian foreign affairs minister, said United States of "incitement to war" and declared that "the policy of the United States is the policy of the atom bomb, of world war damage, despite the economic blockade of the United States of America."

The United States had set up a rifle gallery in Germany, the world. These are "keeping under control the Mediterranean basin, Central Africa, Latin America, the Middle East, the Far East and the Pacific."

Manuilsky was the last speaker in the debate which was to end with Polish Premier Herbert V. Evatt of Australia, president of the assembly at 12:40 p. m. without setting a date for the next plenary session. The heavy committee work will begin now.

HELLO, THERE WHAT DO YOU DO?

Now is the time for the annual rawn. After thirty or forty years of it, the thing does become monotonous. But I'm sure there are not to children who have never grown up. That's what makes the fight each other by fair means or foul for front choice seats for the football game.

For be it from me to imply that football is too rough or too brutal for nice ladylike young men. Professional football or college football if there is any real difference between them—if a fine racket for those who make a living or some extra money out of it, and perhaps not much more dangerous to life and limb of the adult player than is many a full time or part time job such as truck driving or mining.

I say adult players. Football is a game for adults, full grown men, not for children or growing boys. For children in their teens it is about as much too rough and dangerous, that is, if they are permitted or encouraged or, as too often happens, pressured by the sporting fraternity of the community, parents, friends, the enthusiasm of parents, teachers and family pride. Then we should protect growing children from this evil. And in case you want to know, the male members of professional or college football for the Belleville area. The pupils in school were given a fair opportunity to play. They were required to participate in the game. And of course it should be strictly intramural or no cause published that the game of other sorts of the routine physical education of the schools.

Even if there were ni inspector who objected, a football highschool, the racket would be unfair to the majority of boys in the school, only a select few victims participate actively—a football, basketball, or golf game, while the rest of the boys get their thrills vicariously like the other states in the grandstand.

The physical education is worth what it costs the taxpayers it should be as scientifically as to give every boy and girl in school a break. Not only each schoolboy or schoolgirl who not crippled or physically defective, but also the mentally retarded and required to show reasonable progress from one class or one another game or contest of especial or grace or agility, to qualify for promotion to the next class. This is as reasonable as it is to require a minimum standing in any subject for a passing grade.

Football, like boxing, professional baseball, football, boxing, as fans may derive healthful pleasure from watching them playing so, if they work for a living. Admit that they get their share of the money but not any honest work (with their muscles) suffer only harm from the occasional emergence in play. For them it is a matter of duty, of what they call duty to their—building up emotional stability which is the key-note of being in profession or business anyway—without a chance to develop it. Their fight is not by actually playing a game of football, a ball, mitts, horse-shoes or, if they haven't the ground room for a game of golf in itself, is an adequate reason for the calling of a general

Split in Three Groups

Mr. Saunders said that industries in Kitchener and Galt had split into three groups and will stagger operations to reduce power use. Preston Maple Leaf Gardens installed its own generating plant.

He said that if every consumer in the province used a light bulb 10 minutes less each day there would be 35,000,000 gallons of water stored for power.

In a letter to 300,000 Toronto consumers, Mayor Hiram McCallum said that if every user would be wasted if a 600-watt water heater was shut off for 10 minutes more than necessary.

Premier Mitchell Campbell, Canadian director of the International Chemical Workers Union (A.F.L.), said Tuesday the operations of the Horton Abrasive plant at Niagara Falls, Ont., will be laid off because of the power shortage. The plant is the largest of its kind in the world.

Mr. Edmister said 200 workers have already been laid off and that the company had indicated 1,100 more would be laid off next week.

The plant's abrasive-production process including 24-hour blast furnace operations.

Toronto Sept. 29

Toronto, Sept. 29 — (CP) — Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver today asked the Ontario government to call a special session of the legislature to deal with the province's power problem.

In a statement, the Ontario party leader said: "I am deeply concerned" over the situation. "As the government has already admitted, it will be several years before the crisis can be overcome. Even then it will be far worse with that time . . .

Mr. Oliver urged the session be called immediately "to determine, beyond any shadow of a doubt, the responsibility for the shortages and the best measures to cope with the present effects".

He added:

"At the present time the government is represented on the Hydro-Electric Power Commission by the Hon. G. H. Challies (minister without portfolio). Yet only a week ago Premier Drew announced the appointment of another cabinet minister whose duties are presumably to investigate the actions of Mr. Challies

Carl Homuth Bets $1,000 On Diefenbaker

Ottawa Sept. 29 (CP) — Karl Homuth, 55-year-old Commons member for Waterloo South, has bet $1,000 that John Diefenbaker will lick Premier George Drew and all other candidates for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party.

The voting takes place Saturday.

The bet was made Tuesday morning, said Homuth, with four persons two of whom are from Toronto. He would not divulge their names, other than: "Certainly none of them are George."

Homuth said he made the bet because he has "utmost confidence" that Diefenbaker will come through.

Farmer Snares Pesky Wolves

Oza Mayer, of Mattawa, 40 miles east of here, is rapidly making a name for himself as a wolf-tamer.

Oza's wolf-taming began almost accidentally. When 20 pigs and two sows were mutilated at Hawkesbury farm, near Snake Creek, he resolved to set snares for the wolves. But when they attacked a horse and gorged themselves on a blind quarter, leaving the animal to bleed to death, he really went into action.

Already he's snared three of the beasts. And with wrestling and clubbing he's managed to bring them back to his home.

The future of the animals is in doubt. The Mayers would like an opportunity to exhibit them but tempting offers for their sale have been received.

Oza's friends feel he has more courage than wisdom in keeping the animals alive at his home. But the game is beginning to have a fascination for him and his strange collection is growing.

United Church Will Adopt Expansion Plan

Vancouver, Sept. 30 — (CP) — The 11th General Council today will survey the whole field of the United Church's undertakings and will consider a report proposing expansion.

Dr. Sidney Smith of Toronto, president of the University of Toronto, headed an across-Canada committee which will bring down recommendations urging the United Church to:

1. Secure and train an adequate supply of recruits for full-time service to the church.

2. Accept responsibility for religious training in its secondary schools and colleges.

3. Grant definite and adequate aid to its student ministers.

4. Review its whole theological training school program and attempt to economize in their operation while continuing to produce the largest number of adequately-trained ministers.

5. Set up an objective of $3,000,000 for the funds from which its church and missionary activities are maintained.

6. Establish a full-time public relations department.

E. Margaret Boyd, a Hamilton layman, told the council the operation of eight theological colleges across Canada, five of which serve only serve 155 students in all their faculties, was "unnecessary and wasteful."

He said the church demands of its individual clergymen that they be "a good man in the pulpit, a family consultant, a business man, and a psychologist — grade A in all respects."

During a report on overseas relief Rev. J. E. Hutchmor of Toronto told the council Tuesday night that "Canada leads all nations in her per capita aid to the world's needy."

Summing up the United Church's contributions he said the following efforts have been completed since war's end:

$50,934 for bombed British churches; $146,230 for the Aid to European Churches Fund; $213,334 for relief to China and India; $40,320 for aid to distressed foreign mission fields and $15,000 for the pastors and people of Europe.

Rev. Frank Fidler of Ottawa was appointed to the full-time secretaryship of the new United Church's Board of Christian Education, and will commence in the new department Jan. 1, 1949.

Candidates Meet Press Reporters For Interviews

Ottawa, Sept. 29 (CP) —Candidates for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party met the press Tuesday and dealt with matters ranging from the Berlin air lift to the contentious freight-rate issue.

Premier Drew of Ontario was met by the newspaper men as he stepped off a plane from Toronto. He was friendly, but non-committal on the likely outcome of the party's National Convention here Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

John Diefenbaker, member of the Commons for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan and regarded by many as Mr. Drew's most serious opponent, held a press conference in the parliamentary press gallery. Most of the questions were preceded with the qualification— "if you were Prime Minister what would you do . . ."

Donald Fleming, 43-year-old Member of Commons for Toronto Eglinton, met reporters informally at a cocktail party tendered on his behalf by supporters from Quebec. Mr. Fleming who does not drink or smoke, twirled a glass of ginger ale in his hand as he answered questions.

Garfield Case, 49-year-old member of the Commons for Grey North in Ontario, chatted with newspaper men in his hotel lobby and in his room. He confessed that his defeat at the Convention was being freely predicted, but he felt he could still win with the support of the "little man, whom I represent."

Declined to Say

Mr. Drew declined to say what the outcome of the leadership voting will be on Saturday when the 1,311 delegates choose a successor to John Bracken, who is retiring because of his age and ill-health.

Mr. Diefenbaker's 45-minute press conference ranged over a wide variety of topics. He said that the external affairs department has not kept Canada informed on just what the country's international commitments are.

He intimated he felt that Canadian participation in the supplying of western Berlin would show that this Dominion is ready to back up her action with words.

On freight rates, he said that something must be done to wipe out the inequalities in the freight rate structure. He felt that government subsidies probably would provide the answer, although there might be some other solution.

World Call Conference

He said that as Prime Minister he would immediately call a new Dominion-Provincial Conference to iron out taxation rights so that social security measures could be provided on an equal basis across the country.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that he did not want to see a "Balkanized Canada." He wanted to see a united Canada and he believed that unity could be achieved despite the variety of political stripes in provincial legislatures.

"I foresee a Canada where everyone will be a Canadian with equal opportunities without regard for race or religion," he said.

Mr. Fleming said he would oppose the outlawing of the Communist party.

"If you outlaw the Labor Progressive party today, it will simply change its name and come up with a new title tomorrow," he said. "I think the law can be so framed as to deal with subversive elements."

Four Convicted Of Conspiring To Steal Cattle

Kingston Sept. 29 —(CP) — Would-be cattle rustlers came before an Ontario court Tuesday when four Quebec men were convicted of conspiring to steal livestock.

The four, Herbert Baldwin, 30; John Athel McCale, 21- and his brother Keith, 20, all of Kazubazua, Que. and Lawrence Kruliz, 30, of Wright, Que., were remanded a week for sentence. On that date the quartet also will face charges of attempted theft of cattle.

A 16-year-old boy, also of Kazubazua, but living here with an uncle, also was charged with the two offences. He did not elect and no plea was taken; he was remanded also to Oct. 5.

The boy appeared in court as the Crown's surprise witness. He told of deliberately leading the men to a pasture owned by Reginald Chase on a farm near Hendrick Park, knowing all the while that Provincial Police had set a trap for the would-be rustlers.

The boy told of meeting the men in Quebec and talking over a "deal."

"I talked to them about stealing a load of cattle," he admitted. "They asked me if I could show them where they could get a load of cattle. There was to be $200 in it for men."

WEDDINGS

TREVERTON—BOWES

On Saturday, Sept. 25, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Howes, Corbyville, was the scene of a very pretty autumn wedding when their younger daughter, Hilda Irene, became the bride of Edward Arthur Treverton, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Treverton, Corbyville. Rev. Mr. Merrick, of Selby, a former pastor, was the officiating minister.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the room to the strains of wedding music played by Mr. Roy Treverton, brother of groom and stood beneath an arch of white bells and pink and white gladioli flanked by autumn cut flowers. She made a pretty picture in a floor-length gown of white satin with sweetheart neckline buttoned down the back to below the waist. Her tight fitting sleeves set in points at her wrists, and her full skirt was alternated with wide bands of Brussels lace, her long train of finger length veil fell from a halo hat and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses and emilax. Her only ornament was a gold locket and chain, the gift of the groom.

Mrs. Harold Pound was her sister's only attendant. Her floor-length gown was pink brocaded organza; a band of flowers held her matching veil in place and she carried a cascade bouquet of roses and emilax.

Mr. Clen Treverton was his brother's groomsman.

Mr. Kenneth Howes, cousin of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly", before the ceremony, and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony, a buffet lunch was served to about fifty guests. The bride's table looked beautiful under pink and white streamers and white bells. It was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, and flanked by pink and white candles in silver holders. Mrs. Howes, mother of the bride, received wearing a black crepe dress with corsage of red roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Treverton, mother of the groom, who wore royal blue crepe and shades of pink flowers. Three girl friends, Miss Muriel Inman, Miss Jean Lott, Miss Dorothy Osborne, and a cousin, Miss Helen Anderson, of Belleville helped in serving the guests. Quiet music was played by the pianist during the serving of the lunch.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a necklace of pearls and to the servitures, crepe de chine scarves. The groom's gift to the soloist was a gold bar pin and to the groom's attendant, gold pen knives.

The happy couple left by motor for New York and other points in the States, going by way of Niagara Falls, and making short stops at Oshawa, Whitby, and Toronto. On their return they are travelling a light blue crepe dress with grey coat and hat and black accessories.

On their return they will reside on the 4th concession of Thurlow, where the groom is a prosperous farmer.

Ralph Jennings united in Harry Andrew McLuskie, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McLuskie, of Belleville. Rev. S. Forrester Bowes, uncle of the bride, clergyman.

The attendants were, Robert James McLuskie, brother of the groom and Mrs. McLuskie.

The bride's gown was simple, artfully serenaded by the stirring strains of the yellow roses and pompon on the baggipes by Piper Jimmy Gilmour, a member of the Scottish Highland Band.

Upon their return from Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. McLuskie will reside in Belleville.

WANNAMAKER—LIVINGSTON

Holloway Street United Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding at two o'clock, on Saturday, Sept. 18, when Rev. Thos. Parkins united in marriage Jean Mae, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Livingston, of Springbrook to Milton Ernest, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Wannamaker, of West Huntingdon. Pink and white asters were used in decorations.

Mr. Wm. O'Connor played the wedding and Alan Fleming, of Belleville, in a gown of blue satin and net, sang "I Love You Truly", and during the signing of the register, Miss Keegan sang "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride made a pretty picture in a gown of white satin and inserted lace, with a sweetheart halo and fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of gladioli, the only attendant, Miss Alice Lake, wore a gown of pink brocaded satin with matching hat and fingertip veil. She also carried gladioli.

A buffet lunch was held in the reception room of the church. The table looked very pretty with a three-tiered wedding cake with tall pink candles on either side. About thirty-five guests were present. The bride's mother received wearing grey crepe with black accessories and a corsage of lilies, assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a blue crepe dress with accessories and a corsage of pink and white asters. For travelling the bride wore a green crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of lilies for a trip to Oshawa and Toronto and other points west.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Perfume is Magic

One of the most interesting developments in the beauty campaign has been the tremendous increase in the use of perfumes. It has been especially on the upward swing since the quaint fashions of grandmother's young day have come back to make women more feminine, more frilly. Perhaps it is a woman's way of expressing herself. Certainly it helps a lot to create personality. And nothing can question the fact that it carries an element of romance.

The popular blends are strictly modern: they are chic, and arresting. We hear about the return of old-time single fragrances, like lily of the valley, gardenia and even violet, but the bouquets still hold the aromatic fort. No amateur can define them. And the names they have! The names alone are intriguing.

There is one rule and one rule only: how what you like and what appeals to you. If you have a fastidious nose you will select an essence that is delicate, that is subtle yet causes those you meet to take a deep breath and sniff. It doesn't assail; it lures. Or use it? It is like lipstick, which is there for other people to see, one thing is certain: perfume has taken a definite place in the good-looks plans of almost every woman.

If one must keep a weather eye on the balance in the check book, invest in a bottle of toilet water. You can use it lavishly without feeling that you are extravagant.

Toilet water is a lighter version of perfume. On warm days it is cool and refreshing, not heady like some of the blends are. It is a wonderful pick-up after a busy day when you are still in because five-o'clock-itis has seized you, made your steps lag. You have a date ahead, so you take a warm bath and a cold shower. You spray your arms and shoulders. And, guess what? If your arms are hot and bothered, your shoulders are, too. They'll like that little attention.

If you have a smooth coiffure, with curls and wave lines, put a few drops on your comb or brush. That's a new way of distributing the thrilling fragrance.

Where you are a perfume lover, put a few drops on your pencil when you renew your make-up. Complexion. The heat is good for the skin, but any little dab will be lost in the glow. Use it on both away from the face.

Perfume in the bath? Yes, indeed. Add a generous amount to the bath water. Then, when you step out, dry yourself with a soft towel. Your body will be fragrant.

If others can't smell it why use it?

Fashion Flashes

NOVELTIES that are wearable abound in the latest hats.

High-rolling fez tucks with bumper brim is fashioned of tricot. Another has a handsome cord by a veil—touched with gilt that forms a scarf.

COMING ALONG nicely, say shops, is the vogue for gray tones furs. Natural gray Afghan Persian lamb makes a handsome coat cut with a loose silhouette and by a belt in back. The belt is detachable to form a convensional tuck-flare coat. Full sleeves are worked into French cuffs, collar is notched in this handsome, useful coat.

LONG AND NARROW skirts trimmed with fringe appear in many dress collections. Dull silk crepe makes a handsome afternoon frock. Its long, slim skirt is formed of seven wide tiers arranged at the left side in an inverted V-line, each section trimmed with narrow fringe. Fringe edges the short, wide sleeves.

IT'S A BIG SEASON for the casual hat, now back nicer than ever. Gray felt makes a simple sports hat with red and black pleated ribbon forming a crown band that is set on the grim, and cut with a matching cockade. The soft brim edge is handstitched in red and black.

CLOSER CO-OPERATION between manufacturers has resulted in handsome sets of matched accessories. Belt and shoe men are working together as are glove and handbag people, and with fabric interests, too. Watch for ads of co-ordinated accessories in all price brackets. They did!

TO THE DOGS are stories, now that one [illegible] showing coats of gold-washed kiddish? So far, but who knows, mighty interesting. Watch for ads to tm to set beauty!

A Relaxing Beauty Ritual

A good scrubbing with a back brush, awakens the blood vessels leaves you refreshed after your bath

By HELEN FOLLETT

HURRIED bathing may be refreshing, the cold bath picks one up, but that nice, clean, tubbed look comes only from scrubbing. You can pick out the hasty bathers and the scrubbers at a glance. Quick baths in and leap out is not enough. The fastidious bather goes after her hide as she goes after the kitchen sink, using plenty of elbow grease. She makes soft dead skin scales of which the chemicals of perspiration cling. She awakens the blood vessels that are near the surface of the flesh by scrubbing with a bath brush. For reward she has a glow in her cheeks, starched in her eyes, elastic nerves and self respect.

You can get in the bath tub what you cannot find elsewhere in a busy, active day and that is complete relaxation.

Rich Lather

The water of the bath should not be much above the body temperature of the skin, but warm enough so that the soap will foam into a rich lather on the brush. Hot baths are depleting. Cold ones are invigorating, but not cleansing.

Soften the water with oath salts or those perfumed waters that are available at cosmetic counters. Before starting on your scrubbing, close your eyes, lie at full length, relax and think of nothing at all. This soaking will make your bath more thorough.

Each alternating hot and cool shower is a grand finish. Hot water while you count five, cold for five seconds, warm again, cold again.

For the rub down have a towel that takes hold as if it had a grip. Follow along with a tonic friction. There are delightful and fragrant preparations to be had. Their delicate perfume will remain with you all the day long. If you have a perfume of the same scent; spray your arms and shoulders.

Bath powders are equally desirable, especially if the skin is inclined to be dry or shows up red points that we call gooseflesh.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Should an Invalid Marry?

When serious accident or illness occurs to cause permanent disability to a young man or woman about to be married, should the invalid insist upon releasing the other party to the engagement?

This question, cropping up every so often in my mail, is deeply distasteful to a young woman who writes me as follows:

"I am 19 years of age, and have been going steady with the same boy since I was 17. After going with him for three years, we were in a serious auto accident in which I became an invalid for life, while he escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

"We are still going together, but he is constantly urging marriage, but although I am very much in love with Joe, I feel that I would be imposing upon him for the rest of his life, as he would be deprived of a normal marriage relationship. I have discussed all this with him thoroughly, but he insists that he loves me and would always be a devoted husband to me.

"What is your advice about this problem?"

Now in this particular case, I would first ask this question of my correspondent: "Are you perfectly certain that, young as you are, there is no way at all in which your injuries can be healed in such a way as to make it possible for you to lead a normal life? I would warn it if had a great deal more than you have told me, and have some very expert opinion about them, before I would be willing to accept your statement that normal life is over for you.

Again, you say that you have been going with this boy for two years, and that the accident occurred just three months after you began to go with him. That means that during practically all the time you and this boy have been friends, you have, according to your own statement, been an "invalid"—it seems to me that any young man who would be sufficiently loyal to an "invalid" for such a length of time, must be held to be by more than merely a sense of obligation.

What this girl should do first, as I see it, is to make very certain that she has had the most expert medical opinion she can possibly secure about her condition. Not for a minute should she make her decision on the basis of one doctor's pronouncement alone. If she really wants to marry this young man and if he sincerely wants to marry her, then, between them, they should make every effort to find out everything possible about the nature of her injuries and possible cures for them. After all, this is an age of medical and surgical miracles, and the difference between chronic invalidism and a return to normal health sometimes means the difference between the services of a routine practitioner and those of a specialist in some particular field. So I think this young woman should not rest until she has had the most authoritative opinion available to her as to her chances for the future.

If, then, when she has done this, she finds that things are really as serious as she now believes, she and her fiance should together talk the problem over with the doctor after the whole matter has been thoroughly investigated in this manner should any decision about marriage be made. After all this, they should and her fiance both thoroughly understand every angle of the situation, I think she can safely accept whatever decision he makes.

After all, both of them are very young, and it is quite likely that their ideas will adjust themselves in time. Perhaps one of the wishes becomes clearer. Time, which is a wonderful healing analysis of the problem, under the guidance of intelligent sympathetic will almost certainly point the way to the best solution.

Meant for Stew-Pot, Rooster Ship's Pet

Montreal — (CP) — This is one ship's mascot that has something to crow about.

When Chips went aboard the British freighter Daghestan in Calcutta, he was immediately earmarked for the stewing pot. That was more than six years ago and today Chips, a rooster, still has the run of the ship and the ports at which she touches.

Although Chips boarded the Daghestan by mistake and learned his error only when he was far out at sea, his curiosity has not been curbed. His enthusiasm to see the port of Montreal when the ship docked was almost cost him his life.

He got too near the ship's side and fell into the harbor. It took the crew three hours to fish him out. Now he leaves the vessel via the gangplank and does his strutting on the dock.

How come Chips is still aboard when he became a dinner six years ago?

The crew was too chicken-hearted to do the job.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Your Child's Manners "Go Back to School" Too!

Your children are going back to school these days.

Are you proud of the manners they are taking back to school with them?

Or have you, during the long Summer months, permitted the children to let down on their manners, so that, when they present themselves at school, their manners are loose-jointed, grim revelations of your lack of discipline and good example?

I know so many mothers . . . don't you? . . . who allow their children's manners to become tarnished during the summer play months, and then expect the teacher to do the job of polishing them up.

During the summer many children are allowed to storm in and out of the house with never a "Please" or a "How do you do" to a guest. Naturally, then, they have lost the habit of saying a polite "Good morning" to the teacher before they take their seats in the class-room.

"Please" and "Thank you" . . . those courteous twins . . . have they been allowed to pass out of the vocabulary during the summer? If so, of course, you cannot expect an immediate rebirth on the first day of school.

And what about that abrupt "Yes" and "No" habit? Has the habit of saying "Yes, Mother," "No, Father," "Yes, Aunt Jane" and "No, Mrs. Smith", be with the habitual politeness say to his teacher, "Yes, Miss Allen," "Please, Miss Allen", "Thank you, Miss Allen". Miss Allen's life will be pleasanter and happier.

And . . . remember this . . . Miss Allen will know, inevitably, what kind of parents your child has, from what kind of home he comes.

The first teachers in the School of Good Manners are the mother and father of the child.

Party to Introduce her Cousin's Bride

Dear Mrs. Beeckman!

My sister and I are planning to have a party for a cousin who was married recently. His work during the summer months takes him down South, and just before he left this fall he informed he was secretly married. His and his wife have now returned, and are living with friends for the short time until they will get into their own apartment. Most of our relatives have not met his wife. We would like to have some kind of party for them, but we are not sure whether it should be in the form of a shower, or what. What do you advise?

A. D.

I don't advise your giving a shower for them . . . for this would mean that you are presuming to invite relatives and friends to bring gifts to a girl whom they have not yet met. It would be too obviously a "gift" occasion, and wouldn't be a fair start for the girl. If she knows what's what, or how your relatives who already don't want a "true" made about his marriage, if the bridal parents don't live in town and so can't have their relatives and friends to bring gifts to a girl whom they have not yet met. It would be too obviously a "gift" occasion, and your sisters might give a tea for them, say on a Saturday or Sunday afternoon, inviting the relatives and friends of the bridal pair. Then when they are settled in their new apartment, you and your sisters and other relatives and friends might join in giving them a "surprise" housewarming.

A number of local chapter Masons attended the annual meeting at Bancroft on Monday Forenoon.

Under the supervision of Mrs. F. R. Wells a tag day for the Canadian Institute for the Blind was held on Saturday by a number of school girls. Approximately fifty-four dollars was realized.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Perfume is Magic

One of the most interesting developments in the beauty campaign has been the tremendous increase in the use of perfumes. It has been especially on the up and up since the quaint fashions of grandmother's young day have come back to make women more feminine, more frilly. Perhaps it is a woman's way of expressing herself. Certainly it helps a lot to create personality. And nobody can question the fact that it carries an element of romance.

The popular blends are strictly modern; they are chic, and arresting. We hear about the return of old-time single fragrances, like lily of the valley, gardenia and even violet, but the bouquets still hold the aromatic fort. No amateur can define them. And the names they have! The names alone are intriguing.

There is one rule and one rule only: buy what you like and what appeals to you. If you have a fastidious nose you will select on caution that has delicacy, that is subtle yet carries enough punch to take a deep breath and sniff, if you have smell it, why use it? It is like lipstick, which is there for other people to see. One thing for certain perfume has taken a definite place in the good-looks plans of almost every woman.

If one must keep a weather eye on the balance in the check book, invest in a delicious toilet water. You can use it lavishly without feeling that you extravagant.

Toilet water is a lighter version of perfume; not so strong, but it is cool and refreshing, not heady like some of the blends. It is a wonderful pick-up after a bath; day when you are all in because five-o'clock has not arrived you, made your steps lag. You have a date ahead, so you take a warm bath and a cold shower. You open your windows and shades. And, guess what? If your feet are hot and bothered, spray your toes. They'll like that little bit of attention.

If you have a smooth coiffure, minus curls and wave lines, put a few drops on your comb or brush. That's one way of distributing the sweet-smelling fragrance.

You can, if you are a perfume fan, sprinkle a few drops on your washcloth when you concentrate your facial complexion. The alcoholic content is good for the skin; it whisks out any little black points that may be in the pores. But keep the cloth away from your eyes.

It is a neat idea to have bath salts or wafers of the same scent. Or, you can make a dusting powder or friction lotion to give your body a velvety coolness.

There is even more to be told. You can get nail polish that matches a perfume. There it is, right at your fingertips!

A Relaxing Beauty Ritual

If others can't smell it why use it?

A good scrubbing with a back to nah awakens the blood vessels leaves you refreshed after your bath

By HELEN FOLLETT

HURRIED bathing may be refreshing, the cold bath picks one up, but that slow, clean, tabloid look comes only from scrubbing. You can pick out the hasty tubbers and the scrubbers at a glance. To jump in and leap out is not enough. The fastidious bather goes after her hide as she goes after the lint on her coat with plenty of elbow grease. She makes off dead skin scales to which the chemicals of perspiration cling. She awakens the blood vessels that are near the surface of the flesh by scrubbing with a bath brush. For inward she has a glow in her cheeks, starshine in her eye disturbing a young woman's respect.

You can get in the bath tub what you cannot find elsewhere in a busy, sorry day and that is complete relaxation.

Rich Lather

The water of the bath should not be much warmer than the temperature of the skin, but warm enough so that the soap will foam into a rich lather on the brush. Hot baths are depleting. Cold ones are invigorating, but not cleansing.

Soften the water with oath salts or those perfumed waters that are available at cosmetic counters. Before starting on your scrubbing, close your eyes. Be at full length, relax and think of nothing at all. This soaking will make your bath more luxurious.

An alternating hot and cold shower is a grand finish. Hot water while you count five, cold for five seconds, warm again. cold again.

For the rub down have a towel that takes hold as if it had claws. Polish along with a constriction. There are delightful and fragrant preparations to be had. Their delicate perfume will linger with you all the day long if you have a perfume of the same scent; spray your arms and shoulders.

Bath powders are equally desirable, especially if the skin is inclined to be dry or shows up red points that we call goose flesh.

Fashion Flashes

NOVELTIES that are wearable abound in the latest hats. A high-riding felt makes with bumper brim is fashioned of tricolored cut velvet ribbon draped over by a veil—touched with gilt that forms a scarf.

COMING ALONG nicely, say shops, is the vogue for gray toned furs. Natural gray Afghan Persian lamb makes a handsome coat cut with a loose silhouette held by a belt in back. The belt is detachable to form a convertional back-flare coat. Full sleeves are worked into the yoke; the collar is notched in this handsome, useful coat.

LONG AND NARROW skirts trimmed with fringe appear in many dress collections. Dull silk crepe makes a handsome noon frock. Its long, slim skirt is formed of wide scales arranged at the left side in an inverted V line, each section trimmed with narrow fringe. Fringe edges the short, wide sleeves.

IT'S A BIG SEASON for the casual hat, now back nicer than ever. Jaunty felts mates a simple sports hat with red and black pleated ribbon forming a crown band that is set on the grain, and cut with a matching cockade. The soft brim edge is handstitched in red and black.

CLOSER CO-OPERATION between manufacturers has resulted in handsome sets of matched accessories. Belt and shoe men are working together as a glove and handbag people, and with mighty interesting results. Watch out for ads of co-ordinated accessories in all price brackets. They are good!

GOING TO THE DOGS are gold accessories, now that one smart shop has been showing collars and leashes of gold-washed metal and gold kidskin! So far, only for poodles, but who knows, bulldogs might take to 'em to set off their weird beauty!

NOW POPULAR DELICACY

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Should an Invalid Marry?

When serious accident or illness occurs to cause permanent disability to a young man or woman, about to be married, should the invalid insist upon releasing the other party to the engagement?

This question, cropping up every so often in my mail, is deeply disturbing a young woman who writes me as follows:

"I am 19 years of age, and have been going steadily with the same boy since I was 17. After going with him for three years, we were in a serious auto accident in which I became an invalid for life, while he escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

"We are still going together, and have been discussing marriage, but although I am very much in love with Joe, I feel that I would be imposing upon him for the rest of his life, as he would be deprived of a normal marriage relationship. I have discussed all this with him thoroughly, but he insists that he loves me and would always be a devoted husband to me.

"What is your advice about this problem?"

Now in this particular case, I would first ask this question of my correspondent: "Are you perfectly certain that, young as you are, there is no way at all in which your injuries can be healed in such a way as to make it possible for you to lead a normal life? I would want you to get a great deal more than you have told me, and have some very expert opinion about them, before I would be willing to accept your statement that normal life is over for you.

Again, you say that you have been going with this boy for two years, and that the accident occurred just three months after you began to go with him. That means that during practically all the time you and this boy have been friends, you have, according to your own statement, been an "invalid". It seems to me that any young man who would be sufficiently loyal to an "invalid" for such a length of time, must be held to be by far more than merely a sense of obligation.

What this girl should do first, as I see it, is to make very certain that she has had the most expert medical opinion she can possibly secure about her condition. Not for a minute should she make her decision on the basis of one doctor's pronouncement alone. If she really wants to marry this young man, and if he sincerely wants to marry her, then, between them, they should make every effort to find out everything possible about the nature of her injuries and possible cures for them. After all, this is an age of mental and surgical miracles, and the difference between chronic invalidism and a return to normal health sometimes means the difference between the services of a routine practitioner and those of a specialist in some particular field. So I think this young woman should not rest until she has had the most authoritative opinion available to her as to her chances for the future.

If, then, when she has done this, she finds that she is not really as serious as she now believes, she should make doubly sure to gather talk the problem over with the boy. After all, the whole matter has been thoroughly discussed in this manner before any decision about marriage be made. After all this, they should feel free to discuss thoroughly and understand every phase of the situation. I think she can safely accept whatever decision he makes.

After all, both of them are very young, and it is quite likely that their marriage is imminent, their ideas will adjust themselves as that time draws near and wishes become clearer. Time, aided by their frankness and analysis of the problem, under the guidance of qualified experts, will almost surely point the way to the best solution.

Unless you simply want a "fuss" made about his marriage, let the bride's party be just live in town and so can't give a real party for them.

If the groom's parents can't give a party in honor of their son's bride, you and your sisters might give a tea for them, say from four to six Sunday afternoon, inviting the relatives and friends you want the bride to meet. SEEKS LEADERSHIP — Donald Fleming, member of parliament for the riding of Toronto Eglinton is seeking leadership of the Progressive Conservative party at the national convention being held in Ottawa this week. Mr. Fleming, shown here in a recent picture, may well be a key figure in the proceedings of the convention. —(CP Photo).

Movers, Seconders Easy to Find Say Candidates

Ottawa, Sept. 22 (CP) — Contenders for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party are not worried about finding delegates to move and second their nominations at the party's National Convention here Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The four candidates now in the running said Tuesday night that they have yet to decide definitely on the choice of movers and seconders.

Premier Drew of Ontario said that he has yet to make his selection.

John Diefenbaker, member of Commons for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan said that possibly Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., member of Commons for Nanaimo in British Columbia, would move his nomination. The seconder might be Ray Holman of Charlottetown, vice-president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada.

Donald Fleming, member of Commons for Toronto Eglinton, said he would make up his mind within the next couple of days. Deadline for nominations has been set for 8 p.m., EST, Friday.

Garfield Case, member of Commons for Grey North in Ontario said he will choose men who will best help his chances of winning the leadership.

The mover of a nomination is entitled to speak for 10 minutes, the seconder for five, and the candidate for 20. Case said he may decide to save time by having the mover and seconder simply submit his name without speeches.

Maj.-Gen. Graham Back in Ottawa

Quebec Sept. 22 (CP)— Maj. Gen. H. D. Graham of Trenton, arrived here Tuesday aboard the liner Empress of France on his way to Ottawa where he will take over the post of Vice-Chief of the Canadian General Staff.

Maj.-Gen. Graham came from Britain where he spent two years as senior Canadian Army Liaison Officer.

Passengers aboard the Empress of France said the liner caught the tail-end of a hurricane that menaced Atlantic shipping but had no trouble.

"Luckily we were about 600 miles away from the centre of the storm and the ship wasn't delayed at all," said Captain H. H. Davies, master of the liner.

ATTACKS IDEOLOGIES OF SOCIALISTS AND REDS

Toronto, Sept. 22 (CP) — One of the "most disturbing signs of our times" is the "apparent acceptance of the Socialist doctrine by many Canadians," W. J. Sheridan, of Montreal said today.

Mr. Sheridan, manager of the Department of Economic Development of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, attacked both socialist and communist ideologies in a speech before the Advertising and Sales Club of Toronto. He said acceptance by Canadians of "our responsibilities to our fellow men" and "the courage to defend" reserves if freedom is to live.

Cabinet Begins Closed-door Study Of Freight Rates

Ottawa, Sept. 22. (CP)—Another angle of the freight-rate issue was back in the lap of the government today.

The Cabinet had under consideration an appeal of seven provinces—all except Ontario and Quebec—from last Spring's 21-per-cent increase in freight tolls.

As the government wound up a two-day hearing on the case late Tuesday, Acting Prime Minister St. Laurent said an effort would be made to get an early verdict on the $70,000,000-a-year issue.

With the Cabinet taking over that question, four more freight-rate issues were still devouring. They were:

1. A new application by the railways for another increase in rates of 20 per cent, based on increased 1947 costs of labor and materials. In its brief Monday the Canadian Pacific Railway said the latest wage increase would cost that company alone some $27,000,000 a year.

2. An application before the Board of Transport Commissioners for removal of the "mountain differential" freight rate on some hauls over the Rockies. This rate is 25 per cent above the Prairie scale, and British Columbia provinces is making the application to have it wiped off.

3. A general investigation by the Board into the whole Canadian freight-rate structure, accompanied by government intimations to wipe out regional inequalities in "discriminations" in rates.

4. A Royal Commission investigation into National Transportation" announced by the Dominion government last year, yet launched. This inquiry, whose functions will be limited to some extent by statute, will touch on freight rates generally, but the exact definition of its powers has not been outlined by the government.

ERP Called 'Key To Victory' In Moral Struggle

Washington, Sept. 22 — (AP) —Sir Stafford Cripps yesterday termed the European Recovery Program the key to victory in "a great moral struggle."

Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer said the United States fashioned the key, but he said "material requirements" alone cannot "bring about the regeneration of the strength of Western European democracy."

Despite its own economic troubles, Sir Stafford said Britain has increased its production to a point where it is able to lend still greater help to the other countries on the continent banded under the Marshall Plan.

In the face of a fuel shortage, Sir Stafford said, Britain plans to resume coal exports to Marshall Plan countries at a rate of 6,000,000 tons yearly. Oil supplies also have been made available even though he said it will cost the United Kingdom $180,000,000 this year besides halting private motoring there.

DONALD DUCK AGAIN

Indian on Trial For Murder Gives Defence Evidence

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont, Sept. 22 (CP)—A verdict in the murder trial of Richard Rivers, 20, accused of strangling his attractive 21-year-old sister-in-law in a hotel room, may be reached late today.

The husky Ojibway Indian from the Mississagi Reservation about 90 miles east of here was testifying in his own defence when court adjourned early Tuesday due to illness of a juror.

His story, told under questioning by Defence Counsel Ian Munro, paralleled a statement he is said to have given police following his arrest last July 27. He said that the night of July 22 he took his sister-in-law, his brother's wife, to his hotel room in Blind River 96 miles east of here.

He said he and the half-Indian girl drank beer and whisky and had sexual intercourse "after was not undressed but only had her slacks off." he said—and that he "passed out" and knew nothing of how the girl met death.

The young woman, beaten about the head and strangled by a man's belt drawn tightly about her throat, was found dead on the hotel room bed. She was naked except for a pink sweater rolled up to her neck.

No Mental Illness

The first defence witness called after the Crown closed its case at noon Tuesday was Dr. J. N. Senn, psychiatrist and superintendent of the Ontario Mental Hospital at Hamilton. He said he examined Rivers 14 days after the slaying and found no evidence of mental illness.

Cross-examined by Crown Attorney A. A. Wishart, he said Rivers would know the difference between right and wrong and would be responsible for any of his actions. Normal mental age is 14 to 16 years and Rivers had a mental age of "well over 12 years."

Mrs. Millie Rivers, mother of the accused, said she led police to her son's hiding place in bushland two miles from his home July 27.

She said Richard came home on the morning of the slaying, July 23, and went hunting. She went to Blind River that afternoon, heard about her daughter-in-law's death. She said that, back home, she asked Richard:

"What did you do?"

"I don't know," he replied.

Fire Destroys Old Coach House On Wilks Estate

Galt, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Damage estimated at about $45,000 after a fire of undetermined origin destroyed yesterday morning an old coach house on the Wilks estate, south of nearby Preston. The blaze started in the cellar and quickly spread through the rambling structure containing living quarters, a four-car garage and stable.

Occupants of the 60-year-old house fled "the buildings a few minutes before the flames would have cut off their escape. Firemen were hampered by a lack of water.

Slain Merchant's Widow, Daughter Tell of Struggle

Toronto, Sept. 22. (CP)—May Hill, 17, is expected to testify in defence of her 21-year-old sweetheart, Fred Aldred, now on trial for murder in the Aug. 1 shooting of storekeeper William Cowan, 57.

Mrs. Mae Cowan, Cowan's widow, told Tuesday how she joined her husband and two of her daughters in trying to prevent the escape of a youth, alleged to be Aldred, who broke into their store at Malvern in the Scarboro area.

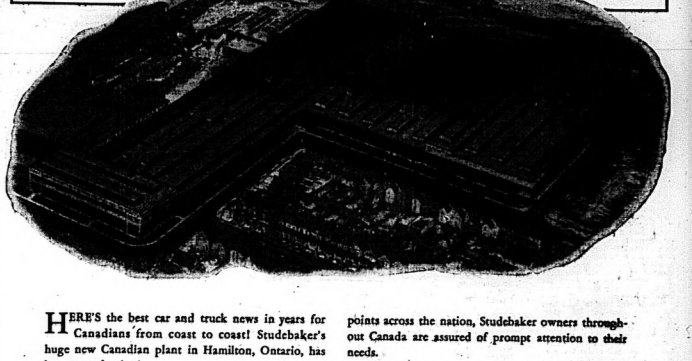
Asked if she could identify the intruder, Mrs. Cowan nodded toward Aldred in the prisoner's box.

"He dashed into the storehouse and I followed him," she said. "I switched on the (store-house) lights as I entered. I followed him down the last aisle. As Aldred ran down, I caught up with him and kept him from reaching the door.

"At this point he said to me, 'get out of the way sister, or I'll shoot.' I didn't move. He glared at me then and raised his hand and hit me over the head with something very hard."

"Did you see anything in his hand?" asked Crown Counsel W. O. Gibson.

"No, I didn't notice," she replied. "Then he dashed to the left side of the storehouse, found no opening, ran back and out into the store again. He rushed to the front door and ran down the road."



Mrs. Cowan wept as she identified as her husband's the .32-calibre revolver which killed Cowan.

Two daughters of the slain man, Ruth and Eleanor, gave similar testimony. Under questioning, neither said they saw Cowan's revolver in the hands of Aldred.

But two Scarboro police constables, Samuel Bogle and James Lipsiock, swore that Aldred had the revolver when he and May Hill were arrested two miles from the store two hours after the slaying.

Indians Grab Stranglehold On Flag, Pulling Two Games Away from Yanks, Red Sox

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Indians may be a vanishing race but you couldn't tell it to the baseball world today.

Led by Manager Lou Boudreau the Cleveland war party appears a cinch to clash with another species—Boston Braves—for the 1948 world-series wampum.

The Indians gained this almost insurmountable lead Tuesday night massacring Chicago White Sox after Red Sox and Yanks were ambushed in the afternoon, 4-2, and 5-2 respectively, by Washington Senators and Philadelphia Athletics.

The Indians can nail down their first flag since 1920 by winning games. Should they divide the three in their remaining four games, the Red Sox or Yanks, by winning all of their four, could only tie the Indians for the pennant. The fact that two of the runner-ups remaining games are against other keenest the pacesetter of them sweeping all four.

Lefty Gene Bearden turned in one of the best performances of his career in shading the White Sox. The rookie held Chicago to four scattered singles, fanned five and walked three for his fourth 18th victory against seven defeats

Support Classy Pitching

The Indians supported Bearden's classy 5-hitter with a 15-hit attack that included homers by Dale Mitchell and Clark Mitchell who opened the game with a homer off southpaw Bill Wight and the Indians were away to a flying start.

Rae Scarborough and Carl Scheib were two boys who put a crimp into the flag hopes of the Red Sox.

Scarborough chilled the Sox on six hits in picking up his 14th victory but Scheib weakened Senators. The Senators hammered starter—and loser—Joe Dobson for four runs in the second inning.

Scheib left a more difficult time stopping the Yanks. He allowed 11 hits but fanned five, double plays got him out of holes. Scheib put out the Yanks until the ninth when a single, walk and pinch-hitter Joe Astroth' two run double had him on the ropes. However Scheib settled down and retired the next batter to end it.

The A's scored a run in the first inning and routed starter Vic Raschi with three more in the third on two singles, a double and triple. Raschi, trying for his 20th victory, previously had beaten the A's eight times without suffering a loss.

In the only other game in the American League, St. Louis Browns clipped Detroit Tigers 5-3 on rookie Bank Aerli's two-run eighth-inning homer.

Dodgers Beat Braves

Brooklyn Dodgers, engaged in a three-way battle in the National League for second place with St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates downed the pennant-winning Braves 9-8 in 11 innings on a home run by Jackie Robinson. The victory pushed the Dodgers a game ahead of the Cards. The Cards, in front of Pittsburgh by a half game, had their scheduled night game with the Pirates rained out.

New York and Philadelphia divided a doubleheader. The Giants won the opener 5-3 and the Phils the nightcap 6-3 in a game that was called because of darkness at the end of six innings. In the abbreviated game Puddinhead Jones, who came from Toronto Maple Leafs, drove in three runs for Phillies for a six-run outburst in the last inning.

Chicago Cubs beat Cincinnati Reds 5-2 to tie the Reds for seventh place.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

What appears to be a repetition of the rousing battle that featured last week's boxing card, is slated for Memorial Arena tonight when Promoter Murray Swarts, stays another of his highly entertaining flatiouff fiestas. Boxers from Hamilton, Oshawa, Trenton and Belleville will be featured in the bouts with Bud "Peter" Fypher, Oshawa, meeting Hal. Whitney, Hamilton, in the main bout. Both boy tip the scales at 139 pounds and both are rugged battlers. Fypher has already made many friends here, but he will face the acid test when he mixes punches with the clever Hamilton mittman.

•

Belleville's "Jumping" Jerry Downs, the Comeback Kid, who withstood a storm of gloves in a blaze of glory last week is back again with the starry Bud Henry. These boys shared a terrific battle and many requests for a rematch were made by the promoter. Tonight's second main bout will be the answer. Ronny Mansfield, another scart Belleville battler makes his 1948 ring debut against Tony Bisci, of Hamilton in the main preliminary, while Gerald Ellis, clever Trenton fighter will see action against Wally Bowie, Hamilton.

•

Ray Lucas who decisioned Walter Duby, Trenton, last week will be out to repeat in another remaich but Duby claims he will have a lot to say about that. These boys let go with everything they had on the last appearance and the local scrap will be one of the features of the evening. Carl Clapper, Belleville, meets George Swezer, Trenton, while the clever Sonny Drake, of Oshawa tangles with John Sylvester of the city. Jack Dietze, Hamilton and Gaspare Vian, Trenton, round out a highly entertaining card.

•

The sympathy of sports fans of this city and a large district goes out to Jack Corbett in the passing of his son "Stub" Barrett, who passed away suddenly last night following a heart ashure. "Stub" was one of the best known figures in sporting circles here, especially in the realms of bowling and ladies softball. Friendly, pleasant, he possessed a well-deserved popularity with all classes of people. He was his hobby, and he was one of the few who have devoted nearly a lifetime to the well-being of the gentler sex in sporting circles. He was a firm believer in clean wholesome athletics and was one who instilled in his teams the spirit of good, clean play rather than sacrifice accuracy for victory. Sport here can ill afford to lose men like the late "Stub". This column extends its heartfelt condolences to the family.

•

The Napanee Intermediate "A" team left yesterday for Shallow Lake, Grey County, where they play the return swains in the second game of their best-of-three series for the right to represent Lennox in the provincial title. The Gilbardsville gang won a sparkling thirteen - inning game here two Lakes last Saturday, and will have their hands full to sweep the series in the second game. The Grey County crew will take their baseball seriously and in all likelihood every one of the 341 souls that comprise the population will be out to rout the homebrews to victory.

•

And speaking of baseball, the Belleville Merchants have one more game on their schedule and that is the third and final game with Napanee for the Belleville Baseball League championship. Each team has scored a victory and the up - coming Joust will be the payoff, and from all indications there is no need to know. No date has been set, and it is altogether likely the game will not be played until much, very much later. If the Napanee - Shallow Lake series is extended to a third game, the winners will go into immediate action with Gilbardsville, and it is likely that Napanee will want to squeeze in the local tilt between playdown series.

•

W. J. Snyder, Secretary-Treasurer of the Ontario Baseball Association, announced today Toronto Staffords and Niagara Falls would meet in the semi - final series with the first game being scheduled for Wednesday in Niagara Falls. The second game is slated for Toronto on Thursday, but Mr. Snyder hinted that the entire series may take place in Niagara Falls. The winners of this round will meet London Majors for the provincial crown.

•

In the senior B bracket Toronto Mahers take on Kingston Lecos with the first contest scheduled for this weekend and the survivors take on the winners of the Hamilton - Brantford series for the title. Brants and Flores play their third game in Brantford on Wednesday.

•

Harold Wilson's sleek Gold Cup speedster from Ingersoll, "Miss Canada III" will not live up to any of expectations despite the fact that she was said to have ripped over a Pelican course at 119 miles per hour last summer. During the President's Cup races at Niagara Falls on the weekend, "Miss Canada" finished third to the Arena brothers' "Such Crust" owned by a Detroit baker, and "LaSala" from Lake Hopatcong, N.Y.

•

"Such Crust" roared over the fifteen - mile course in the first heat of the second day's racing in second place behind "LaSala" but sped to a new heat record of 77.356 MPH to take first place and cop in the second heat, finishing in front on the historic Potomac River. "Such Crust"'s winning point total was 1,500, built up from two heat victories at 400 each, 300 for one second and bonus of 800 more for fastest heat and fastest forty-five miles. The pilots seemed to be nearing their boats out of the water as if we were airborne and they were planing through the waves on the windswept course. Down the long straightaways the fleet tore along at better than 100 miles an hour — sometimes 118—skimming down on the turns to avoid skidding and collapsing.

•

"Miss Canada" however, although she finished in the show position, caused five other outstanding American boats to take her wake. "Red Bluff" and "Yankee Doodle" were the early leaders, well known on Belleville and Picton regatta courses, competed in their class race with the latter taking first place and "Red Bluff" second.

Alouettes Set Sights on Argos, Defeat Wildcats

Montreal Sept. 29 (CP) — Montreal Alouettes set their sights on Toronto Argonauts today following their convincing 36-6 victory over Hamilton Wildcats before 9,000 Big Four fans here Tuesday night.

The revived Alouettes tackle Argos here Saturday in a game which will wind up two-bruin playoff hopes. An Alouette triumph will move them into a tie with Argos giving each team identical records of three wins and three losses.

With all their injured players back in action Tuesday night, Alouettes gave their best showing of the season. Their last-half passing attack was too much for the Wildcats, who again displayed lack of staying power.

Steve Shemish, who came to the Als from Baltimore Colts of the All-American Conference led the Montreal serial offensive. He tossed perfect strikes to end Ralph Toohey for two touchdowns. He converted all five Montreal touchdowns and kicked a field goal.

The other Alouette touchdowns went to Glen Douglas, Bob Cunningham and veteran Chet McGraw. Fred Black kicked a single and big Herb Trawick accounted for the edger two Montreal points when he backed Gord Miller behind the Wildcat goal line for a safety touch.

Jim Oldenburg was the whole show as far as Hamilton was concerned, kicking two field goals to rack up all six Wildcat points.

With Hamilton leading 6-3 the tunning point came when speedy Joey Fal and Glen Douglas combined for a 88-yard touchdown dash in the second quarter. With the ball on the Montreal 12-yard line, Fal sliced through a big hole and drove to the 50, reversed his field neatly and latcrailed to Douglas who galloped the remaining yards unmolested on the major that sent the Als ahead 9-6.

Then Nemeth flipped a 35-yard pass to Toohey at the end zone to give Alouettes a 15-6 lead at half time. From then on it was strictly a Montreal show.

Bud Henry, classy Oshawa fighter, who meets "Jumping" Jerry Downes, Belleville, in tonight's amateur main bout at the Arena. The boys met last Wednesday and a right merry brawl ensued. In fact that the fans yelled for a rematch. Tonight's battle between these lads should be an eye-pleaser.

Montreal Royals Only Game Away From Loop Flag

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal Royals are only a step away from winning the International Baseball League's Shaughnessy playoffs and a berth in the Little World Series.

Manager Clay Hopper's pennant winning Royals downed Syracuse Chiefs last Tuesday night to take a 5-1 lead in the best-of-seven final series.

Hopper has selected right-hander Al Zachary (4-3) to try for the clincher tonight against Syracuse's Dixie Howell (17-12).

Jack Banta 19-7, a clangorous element in the series up till Tuesday night, held the Chiefs to five hits, all singles. The Royal right-hander and loop strike out king fanned five and walked only two in outpitching Johnny Heitz.

Banta Heitz duelled on even terms until the fifth when the Royals broke a scoreless deadlock on Frankie Drews' error, a stolen base and Lou Welzl's single.

The Royals iced the decision in the eighth on Bob Morgan's two-run homer. Drews went on to get a pinch hitter in the eighth and Frank Howard allowed the Royal's final run in the ninth to Sam Jethroe's single and Al Gionfriddo's fly.

Syracuse had Banta in trouble only in the fourth. With two on and one out, Frankie Drews' grounder to Jethroe at second forced Welzl's out at the plate.

B.C. All-Stars Beat St. Kitts To Take Title

Vancouver Sept. 29 (CP) — B.C. All-Stars Tuesday night brought the Canadian Junior Lacrosse championship to British Columbia for the first time in the 70-year history of the Minto Cup. The All Stars defeated St. Catharines 12-10 to take the best-of-five series three games to two.

In the bitterly contested series the defending champion Athletics won the first game dropped two straight and then tied the championship finals Monday night with a narrow victory.

The All Stars shaded the Athletics in the final game in a similar pattern as they won the first and third quarters and increased their margin by one counter in the third quarter.

Top scorer for St. Catharines and probably their outstanding player throughout the series, was Jim McNulty. He scored 3 goals and one assist while here Joe Alammeal in a pair. Harry Wipper scored twice and assisted in two goals.

Top marksmen for the conquering All Star team Vancouver and New Westminster were Les Matthews, with three goals and one assist and Russ Buchanan with three goals.

The All Star home game in comparison with Monday night's near-riot. There were only 18 penalties handed out and the boys didn't once drop their gutted sticks to "mix it."

Sacos Roll Top Score In Major B Loop

Sacos bowling team topped the Major "B" League with one segregate score of 3131 to defeat "Our Gang" three points to one at the regular Tuesday night matches at Recreation Alleys. "Our Gang" rolled a total score of 2836.

In other games Blacks took the measure of the Army, Navy, Air Force Vets three-to-one, while "Just Us" hung a 4-0 defeat of the Ontario Intelligencer team.

M. Moreau of Blacks annexed the individual honors, rolling a high single of 309 and high three string of 770.

The scores:
Sacos, 3 points	3131
"Our Gang," 1 point	2836
"Just Us," 4 points	3026
Ont. Intell., 0 points	2899
Blacks, 4 points	3138
ANAF, 0 points	2419

They'll Do It Every Time

McCarthy Still Has Hopes For Fading Sox

Boston Sept. 29 (AP) — Joe McCarthy has hopes that the fading Boston Red Sox in their day-to-day struggle to remain in the American League pennant.

"You never can tell about baseball," the veteran Yankee pilot said. "The standard quote reserved all managers in a similar situation.

When we're home Boston behind with only one to play, then we'll concede, but not before," he added.

"Let them (Cleveland) clinch it and then maybe I'll have something to say...

"You know who it's toughest on? The Yankees. I know just how it feels to be in pennant championships and you see that championship slipping a little more out of your fingers every time you lose. You say to yourself 'I'm just as good a team as I was last year or the year before. Why aren't we winning? We're the champions.'

"That's when it's tough. When you see that championship just slipping out of your grasp and you know you can't get it back."

As he talked Joe McCarthy's came out of his private office into the Sox clubhouse, McCarthy conspied Ted Williams. The "Kid" was sitting quietly in front of his locker. At the end of pleasant words.

"There's a kid that's been through a lot with me this year" he said. "He's a great kid."

To newsmen who had wondered last winter how McCarthy and Williams were going to hit it off in Joe's first year as manager of the Sox this scene was a revelation.

McCarthy the manager who won eight pennants in the Yanks and one for Chicago Cubs, may be whistling past the graveyard but he hasn't quit yet.

Stockholm — (CP) — Army surgeons from 20 countries, including Turkey, Iran and Mexico, met here recently for a two-day conference and stressed importance of standardization of hospital equipment and closer co-operation among medical men.

By GEORGE FORSTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Sept. 29 (CP)—Now that Cleveland Indians are sprinting for the American League pennant, boxman Bill Veeck is getting a bit more respect.

Some people who used to think he was just plain crazy, now think he's crazy like a fox.

A lot of them thought Veeck was stark and staring when he shelled out a reported $100,000 for pitcher Sam Zoldak. For ten cents, thought he was worth it.

But Doug (Wildcat Star) Vaughan suggests that if the Indians win the flag "it would not be fair-minded to say that they could not have done so without Zoldak."

A Pitch in Time

Doug relates that Zoldak first pitched for Cleveland in late June and beat the Yankees 5-2.

Since "Sam put on a Cleveland uniform he has won eight games and lost only two decisions."

Vaughan figures that Zoldak gave Manager Lou Boudreau a pitching staff "which would remain workable despite Lou's habit of tossing a dozen or more hurlers into a contest."

Clouting Catcher

Another vital factor in the Indians' flag hunt was the surprise hitting this year of catcher Jim Hegan, says Vaughan.

"Over the stretch reports Vaughan, "he collected 39 safeties including nine doubles, two triples and 4 homerun for a torrid 361 average.

"Unless it's Hegan himself, there isn't a soul in the wigwam expects him to continue that pace but the opinion is equally unanimous that his recently-acquired, flat-footed stance is going to make him a far more dangerous threat at the plate in the years ahead."

CAT HATCHED EGGS

Yankees Have Little Fight After Last Loss

Philadelphia Sept. 29 (AP) — New York Yankees champions of the baseball world for the last two years, had little fight left today.

To a man, Becky Harris' warriors seemed to realize that they blew the big one Tuesday when they bowed to Carl Scheib, 21-year-old righthander of Philadelphia Athletics 5-3.

Going into that title, the champions felt they still had a chance. Coming out of it, they were numbed. As they prepared to face Connie Mack's warriors in the second of the three-game series today, the Yanks were quiet, as if they had been brushed by a ghost.

"There isn't much to say," Manager Harris intoned solemnly. "We got a couple of bad breaks yesterday. However, there are four more games to go. Maybe something good will happen."

Actually, the Yankees have much less than the team they were a year ago, when they outlasted Brooklyn Dodgers in a seven-game World Series.

They have slowed up amazingly. There scarcely is a fast man on the club, and it would have been the nearest thing to a miracle if Harris had driven them to the front again.

Atkins-Watson Bout Will Be A Thriller

What the fans thought was the hardest-fought wrestling match in years between Whitey Watson-Alkins dual test ended in due for a return engagement on Friday night. If the re-match is any harder or rougher than the first bout, God or other of those immortals I've lived will surely have to give up for a while. When the bout ended last week Whipper Billy Watson was in the best shape the weariest shape of his career. Watson won the bout by virtue of his one fall victory in the forty-five minute mark but the final round of the match saw him in real distress.

The Australian wrestler is a hard case for any opponent and against the Whipper that Atkins really bore down. The chance of writhing the British Empire title which he had some sucha long way to go, he proved himself to fiercer efforts than ever before Atkins admitted after the match that he had put out the best he never before in his career. "I didn't know I have thousand miles to fool around" said the burly Alligator and he added "Watson escaped me this time but in a re-match I guarantee to take him." It should make hot fare for the fans to watch this time.

Pat Flanagan gets another semi-final spot on Friday's card this time against Dearborn Dan O'Connor. Pat may be slightly over-matched in going in against the Kansas City Irishman but the thin-haired Flanagan thinks he can come out on top. Since his recent campaign in Texas Flanagan has been hitting the top brackets in Toronto and Cleveland so well as smaller cities. In the opener Pat Matts meets Ralph Martin of Montreal.

Fleming Mackell May be Answer To Conny's Prayer

(By The Canadian Press)

Fleming Mackell could be the answer to Conn Smythe's prayer.

For years Toronto Maple Leafs' manager has been searching for an Irish hockey player with the skill and fight of King Clancy, Red Kilrea and Frankie Finnigan. Mackell's showing to date at the St. Catharines training camp has given him a may be a man.

The stocky, 19-year-old right winger led the American Hockey League in scoring last year and the been one of the leading scorers in training workouts. Captain Cecil Kenney leads with 15 scoring points while Mackell and Max Bentley share second spot with 13 each.

Mackell was sent to Pittsburgh Hornets last year after three games with St. Michael's College to the Memorial Cup. His father was a member of the Ottawa Senators in the early 1920's.

Lanky Ken Charlton leads the individual point parade in the Western Inter-Provincial Football Union.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press and released Monday at Winnipeg show that the Saskatchewan Roughrider halfback with 23 points in six games. Charlton last weekend added a touchdown to his previous total of 20 points — four from touchdowns and 10 singles — to move ahead of the former leader, Bob Sandberg of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, this week.

Maple Recreation Association Tuesday night defeated Hespeler 11-4 at Maple to win the Ontario Lacrosse Association Intermediate B championship in three straight games. Peter Rumble in the Maple goal held Hespeler scoreless until midway in the third quarter.

Gordie Brydson, professional at Toronto Scarboro, winner of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association tournament, was Tuesday re-elected as president of the C.P.G.A., '49 Vancouver.

The association also decided to split its divisions into five instead of the present 11 zones, with presidents of each division to serve on the executive as vice-presidents.

The new five-division setup will be made up of the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario, Prairies and West Coast.

Lorne Carr, former National Hockey League star, has been reappointed coach of Calgary Buffaloes in the newly organized Western Canada Junior Hockey League, it was announced Tuesday. The club wound up in the second place behind Lethbridge Native Sons in the Southern Alberta Junior Circuit last season.

Sara Hyland, a pacer owned by James Macklin of Oswego, N.Y., dropped dead after crossing the finish line in the fifth race at Roosevelt Raceway, Westbury, N.Y. Tuesday night. The horse staggered badly as she came to the wire, last in the field. Driver Charlie Fleming pulled her up but she fell to the track. The track veterinarian said it was a heart attack.

The race was won by Bater Up.

Gordie Brydson P.G.A. Champion With Card of 292

Point Grey Golf Club, Vancouver, Sept. 29. — (CP) — Without a par round but consistent enough to pace a field of 34 through 72 holes, Gordie Brydson, stocky, cigar-smoking shotmaker from Toronto's Mississauga Club, today held the 1948 Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Brydson, stapling off a determined challenge by Stan Leonard of Vancouver's Marine Drive, carded 292, eight over par, for the 72 hole test, played over the exacting 6,420-yard Point Grey layout.

Monday, while a drenching rain beat down steadily, Brydson tied with Fred Wood, of Vancouver Shaughnessy and Ben Colc of Vancouver Langara with cards of 146 for 36 holes. Brilliant sunshine Tuesday provided a welcome change and Brydson added rounds of 74-72 to gain the crown most desired by Canadian professionals after the Canadian Open title.

Brydson carred with Stan Leonard, of Vancouver's Marine Drive, waged a thrilling stretch duel, Leonard had started the last 18 holes three strokes behind Brydson. At one stage he had pulled even as the Mississauga mentor went one over on three successive holes. Then Brydson rammed home a birdie three on the eighth where Leonard took a disastrous five, although Leonard romped home in 34, on under, he missed a first-place tie by a stroke when a 35-foot putt for an eagle on the home hole hung on the lip. Brydson, after that calmly sunk a four-footer for the winning edge.

Brydson, with his victory captured top money of $350. Leonard earned $200 for the place, while Wood won an even $100.

Boudreau Happy After Indians Beat White Sox

Cleveland, Sept. 29 — (AP) — If we lose the pennant now we'll no one to blame but ourselves," Manager Lou Boudreau of Cleveland Indians said today.

That just about sums up the American — League baseball race. Two up and only four games to go, the Indians can win the flag without any outside assistance, although further help from Philadelphia and Washington would be most welcome.

Two triumphs would insure the Tribe of at least a tie. Three victories puts the Indians into the World Series no matter how Boston and New York fare.

"Nothing short of a major catastrophe can stop us now," Lou added. "We have four games to go against clubs that we've beaten consistently.

"The boys are hitting. The morale is high. There is no sign of jitters. Our pitching is in great shape. Bob Feller once again is the pitcher of old. Gene Bearden at this moment is the best lefthander in the league. Bob Lemon, our big winner is rarin' to go."

Undoubtedly Boudreau believes his club is at its peak now. It has won 17 of its last 20 games including Tuesday night's 13-0 victory over Chicago White Sox. With him, Indians could have won all 20. Their three defeats were each by one run.

As Ted Lyons, White Sox leader, said Tuesday night: "In their (Indians) present frame of mind, they're awfully tough to beat now. They are confident and cocky. They believe they can lick anybody."

Boudreau planned to pitch Feller today against the White Sox. This will be the last meeting between the two clubs.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Perfection in bridge will never be reached. If you had it to do over again, your opening lead in some deal would be different. Give another chance, your lead selection would defeat declarer.

A losing slam is sometimes correctly bid. If you had it to do over, your bidding would have stopped at a safer contract. Given another chance, you would have been content with game.

A game is sometimes bid in a deal that produces a slam. Given another chance, your bidding would have reached a slam that could be made. And so it goes.

One of the deciding deals in a championship match may well have been the one shown here:

NORTH
♠ 10 9 3
♥ 8 2
♦ 5 4
♣ A K 10 9 4

WEST
♠ 8 2
♥ Q J 7 6 4 2
♦ 8
♣ Q 8 7 6

EAST
♠ K J 7 6
♥ 5 3
♦ 7 3 2
♣ J 5 3

SOUTH
♠ A Q 6 5 4
♥ 10 9
♦ K Q J 10 8
♣ 2

In the bidding, north discovered that their pair was missing a king and an ace. But the stretch was to six spades with south as the declarer. As you can see, his goose could have been cooked.

Until later, only east had confidence of securing a trump trick in that hand. West, of course, did not know it at the start. Lead of a heart from west would have sank the contract for sure.

But west elected to start out with the lead of his singleton diamond, ran the bidding he knew east had one suit. If it was the diamond ace, a diamond return would give west a quick ruff.

Reckoning thus, west later announced that he could not very well be criticized for his choice of the lead. He offered quite a bit of mathematical data to back up his contention.

Whether or not he was justified, it happened to be unfortunate for his side. For, as it was, declarer had to play to make the slam. Few could have.

Opponent cards are unseen. Despite the fact that a photographic mind to make six spades. Throw in the element of fluke and see what you can do with it.

TheMovieColumn

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 29 — (AP) — "In two or three years," said Wallace Beery, "that little gal is going to be the biggest star in the movies.

"If M.G.M. is smart, it'll pay her what she's worth," continued the usually unenthusiastic Beery. "She is really cyptic. They call 1 ot of those old babes' exotic, but this gal really fits the word. By the way, what's her name?

I supplied it — Elizabeth Taylor. Beery is not sharp at remembering names, even with those (such as Lbi) with whom he has appeared in films. But an old show business eye like his could not mistake the talent of the dark-haired young beauty.

I deserted Beery and hastened to a stage where the actress was testing for her role in "Conspirator," in which she'll play Robert Taylor's wife.

In case you haven't seen the gal since she played the kid in "National Velvet," you'll be interested to know that she was testing in a dress originally worn by Marie McDonald. "The Body, Jr." you might call her. In fact, Marie's dress proved too large in the waist, but not big enough elsewhere.

Careful styling aided by her natural sirtkling has made Elizabeth seem more mature than her 16 years. In the picture she plays a 17-year-old to Bob Taylor's 33.

Elizabeth's favorite subject these days is not her film career, but Glen Davis, the former grid star. The young actress proudly displays Glenn's gold football, which has been removed from around her neck since he put it there.

Right now there's only one thing separating them — about 8,500 miles of Pacific Ocean. He's in Korea on a three-year army stretch.

Manufacturers Say British Cloth Costs too Much

Ottawa, Sept. 29 — (CP) — British made denim for overalls and work trousers too much for the Canadian market, witnesses for the declared during Tuesday's hearing of the Price Commission.

They said there was a shortage of Canadian-made denim, imports from the United States were restricted by government controls and British-made material was available.

Ernest Near, general manager of Larned Carter Co. Ltd., of Toronto, was one of the witnesses who said his firm had begun to purchase denim for overalls in Britain. He added quickly:

"It's too expensive for the Canadian market."

He said comparable cloth, neither pre-shrunk, would cost 33½ cents in Canada and 46⅝ cents in Britain. In overalls produced from the British cloth he would have to compete with his own lines of Canadian material with the result that he would have to absorb the squeeze.

Howard Daniels, general manager of the Kimball Overall and Shirt Co. of Brantford, gave similar testimony. He said the company was buying pre-shrunk denim from Britain which cost 50 to 51 cents a yard laid down. Comparable Canadian cloth cost him 43 1-3 cents. He also said his firm would have to absorb the "squeeze."

"Not too tight a squeeze," Chairman C. A. Curtis commented.

"Well, maybe not," Mr. Daniels replied.

John Morawetz, general manager of Hamilton Carhartt Manufacturing Ltd. of Toronto, another producer of work clothes, said his firm found the "very high British price" too great a barrier to make purchases in the United Kingdom.

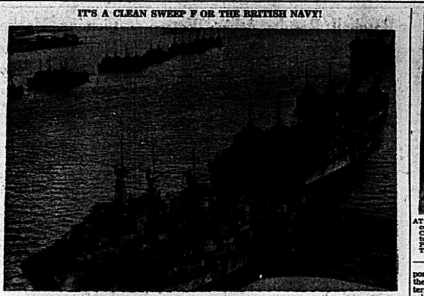
Own Artillery Fire Worries Air O Pips

Shilo, Man. — (CP) —Circling lazily over enemy gun positions in a small plane without benefit of armament and with a top flying speed of only 115 miles an hour is not the best insurance for a long life. But this type of work holds no fear for army pilots of No. 444 R.C.A.F. Air Observation Squadron, the eyes of the Royal Canadian Artillery.

Canada's only air observation post formation, the squadron of eight light Auster monoplanes is stationed at Shilo and Rivers, Man. The highly manoeuverable aircraft, equipped with two-way air-to-ground radio, direct artillery gun emplacements and hovers over them to direct shelling ground forces on the target.

Oddly enough, the biggest danger to these pilots is not presented by enemy fighter planes. They rely on their ability to fly slowly and close to, the ground for defence, placing distance between them and attacking fighters. The flying artillery officer is most afraid of getting in the way of the ground fire he is directing from the air.

Many Volunteers



Despite the dangers involved, the squadron is up to strength and there is no lack of volunteers.

Fire detection from light aircraft was first practised by the British Army during the North African campaign but Canadian farmers did not take to the air until the last months of the war.

All pilots of 444 Squadron are artillery captains who had operational experiences "Air O Pip" work during the war. The adjutant and ground crew are R.C.A.F. personnel. The pilots' uniforms and badges are those of the R.C.A.F.

The squadron was created in 1946 and received its first aircraft in the spring of 1947. It is commanded by Major M. W. Rellander of Moose Jaw. The unit adjutant is Flt.-Lt. H. A. Poyntz of the R.C.A.F. The operational flight at Shilo is commanded by Capt. R. O. Dundgren, the flight at Rivers by Capt. A. B. Stewart.

GARNER WELCOMES TRUMAN TO TEXAS

—Central Press Canadian

President Harry S. Truman and John Nance Garner, former vice-president of the U. S. (right), are shown chatting on the lawn of Garner's home in Uvalde, Texas. En route to San Antonio, the president's party stopped off for an early morning visit with Garner. Truman, who said he does not make political speeches on Sunday, spoke informally to the crowd assembled in front of Garner's home and then proceeded to church services in San Antonio. The grand old man of the Democratic party, Garner, who has been in retirement from politics since his split with the late President Roosevelt over the third term issue, gave Mr. Truman a welcome and reception that left no doubt of his support for the president.

NB Gets Two More Composite Schools

Saint John, N.B. — (CP) — Opening of two new regional composite high schools, at Port Elgin and Southampton, has raised to 13 the number of these institutions functioning in New Brunswick.

Five others were completed in recent months and seven or eight more are scheduled for completion next year. A long range program recalls for about 30 to serve all sections of the province.

The new buildings present a sharp contrast to the rural high school of years ago when one teacher taught three grades of boys and girls fortunate enough to live within walking distance.

A choice of three courses — college preparatory, agricultural high school and home economics —is offered in the modern composite high schools, containing all the facilities of their city counterparts. Vocational studies are related to the economy of the districts. Students from points up to 20 miles away receive transportation back and forth in school buses.

Schools Assistance Act

The transformation in rural education started with adoption of the Rural Schools Assistance Act of 1943, under which the province pays 40 per cent of the cost of a school's academic branch and up to 50 per cent of the vocational.

Modernizing the "little red schoolhouse" formerly containing the first eight grades also is in gradual process. Pupils now attend only six grades in an ordinary school before advancing to the regional high school.

The ultra-modern $850,000 regional high school at Port Elgin serves 34 school districts in eastern Westmland County, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Magee donated $50,000 and the land for the school. Mr. Magee, a prominent Port Elgin resident who fostered vocational training in the province, had charge of financing the $250,000 required as Port Elgin's share of the project.

The $300,000 Southampton regional high school is a result of co-operation by residents of 19 school section districts. It accommodates 300 students in four departments — academic, industrial, home economics and agricultural.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

Little Benny's Note Book

was taking a Saturday walk with pop, and I said, G, pop, look he's what I call grate.

Meening a telefone man climbing the telefone pole as fast as anything as if it was a ladder, and pop said, The man has learnd, there's no doubt about it.

Gosh, I should say he has, he couldn't do it any better if he was a munkey, I said, and pop said, That's a fact, and what's more, he knows what to do when he gets up there, and a munkey would probably be at a total loss

He's grate all rite, I said, and pop said, Yes Indeed, a man like that should go far, unless at course he happens to be like Larkspur Jones.

Who was he? I said, and pop said, Oh, a chap I knew. He was unsuccessful in life because he lacked self confidence, and if you dont believe in yourself nobody will take the trubble to believe in you. And yet Larkspur Jones was a man with remarkable talents, pop said.

O, what could he do? I said and pop said, Well, just to mention a few of his accomplishments, he could scratch his back with his toes, juggle 3 little apples and peal a big potato at the same time, blow smoke rings with an unlighted cigar, and doze off at his desk with his eyelashes. But as I say, he was a failure in life because he had no self confidence he said.

Didn't he ever get any? I said and pop said, Well, yes. He consulted a syko annalist, and the syko annolist advised him to go around with a high stiff collar but no necktie, and the result was, everybody thawt he was a genius, because only a genius could afford to be so eccentric. So now Larkspur is quite okay, because the surest way to give a man self confidence is to call him a genius. The last I heard, he was making a good enough living to keep a family of 2 practically out of deb, pop said.

Being the happy end of the subject.

Youth Movement Started by Rangers Really Taking Hold

Lake Placid, N. Y., Sept. 29 — (CP) — The youth movement started by Manager Frank Boucher has taken hold in his New York Rangers of the National Hockey League.

The 47-year-old Boucher, who expects at any moment to become a grandfather, emphasized in an interview at the blue shirts' training camp that the average age of the nine forwards currently slated for the Ranger roster is only 23 years younger than last year's team.

"And we are getting much bigger fellows these days," said the former star Ranger centre who capped a 23-year professional career when he became Rangers' manager in 1946.

But despite the fact the Rangers have a "reliable" defence for the first time since before the war, Boucher is making no prediction of how the Rangers will fare this season.

Last year he made a perfect score in a pre - season prediction of how the six N. H. L. teams would finish. It was in this order: Toronto, Detroit, Boston, New York, Montreal and Chicago.

This year, he said, all the teams are strengthened to such an extent it is impossible to predict how they will finish.

The tag-end Chicago Black Hawks will be a hard team to keep down this season, said Boucher, who won the Lady Byng Trophy as most gentlemanly player so many times they finally gave him the cup and put a new one up.

New Line Outstanding

The standout young line of Don Raleigh, Edgar Fisher and Nick Mikowski was outstanding in an exhibition game yesterday when the Rangers whipped their American Hockey League farm club, New Haven Ramblers, 10-2.

Little Tony Leswick filled up four tallies with the aid of Edgar LaPrade and Eddy Kullman to put that line into the running for honors.

The blueshirts hope to persuade Clint Albright, 23-year-old Winnipeg amateur, to postpone finishing his mechanical engineering course at the University of Manitoba to fill the berth.

But if worse comes to worse, the ebullient Phil Watson, 31-year-old Ranger veteran slated to coach New York Rovers, will be called back to resume active duty. Boucher, upset with pride by a covey of defencemen — Neil Colville, Hall Moe, Frank Eddolls, Bill Shero, Wally Stanowski and Elwyn Morris. The last two were obtained in a trade with Toronto Maple Leafs for Bill Juzda, Cal Gardner and Gene Ingoldsby.

Chuck Rayner will be in the nets while Jim Henry, Rayner's partner in a resort business at Kenora, Ont., will probably start the season with the Ramblers.

London Ont. Sept. 29 (CP)—London Majors swamped Fort Wayne (Ind.) General Electrics 19-1 here Tuesday night to tie the sandlot baseball World Series at three games apiece. Last and deciding game of the best-of-seven game series will be played tonight.

Joe Bechard's home run in the opening inning started the Canadian sandlot champions off on their scoring spree. The winners blasted two pitchers on the U.S. title-holding squad for 16 hits. Bechard's four-bagger in the inning was responsible for London's first run of the game.

Cards' Manager Given Contract For Two Years

St. Louis, Sept. 29 (AP)—Eddie Dyer, tabbed by many persons a couple of months ago as on the way out, will manage St. Louis Cardinals two more years.

Robert E. Hannegan, President of the National League ball club announced that he had come to terms with Dyer after a five-minute talk Tuesday night.

Hannegan wouldn't say whether the oral agreement called for a pay increase.

Dyer signed a one-year contract last fall shortly before Hannegan and others bought the team from Sam Breadon. Writers figured Hannegan would find his own manager in an effort to get the team back in first place.

However, Hannegan said in July he had the utmost confidence in Dyer's ability to pilot the Cardinals and he said so again Tuesday night.

Dyer's comment was: "I'm happy."

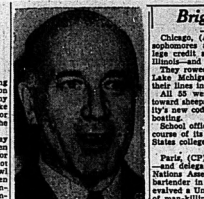
Says Immigrants Can Boost Output



Brighton, England — (CP) — Industrial production and the standard of living in underpopulated Dominions can be improved by immigration, provided the newcomers can be regularly assimilated and do not lower the average quality of the existing population, says Prof. C. B. Fawcett.

He told the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science that introduction of any considerable mass of immigrants who could not easily be absorbed might cause long-term difficulties and would far outweigh the value of any immediate addition to the working force of the country.

Any "foreign" minorities which remained distinct communities in the population tended to lessen its social and political unity.

Business Spotlight

Whatever may be one's opinion on the matter of devaluation of currencies, present indications seem against any widespread steps in this direction.

Sir Stafford Cripps has stated definitely the British pound won't be devalued at this time, and the report of the world monetary fund says economic troubles of many countries are "fundamental" to be solved just by devaluing their money.

A fund official, as quoted by the Wall Street Journal, points to the case of France, which devalued her franc early this year in the hope of increasing her exports.

"Actually her exports are bringing in no more dollars today than before the change. In part this has been due to the rapid inflation in France, which has wiped out much of the effect of devaluation."

Production Needed

The fund's report said world recovery plans may be ruined unless inflation plagued countries in Europe, Latin-America and Asia cut government spending and keep taxes high in order to balance their budgets. It stressed greater production and hinted that wages and profits should should be held in check unless increases lead to greater production.

And Sir Stafford, addressing a joint session of labor and world bank, said of foreign exchange:

"Unless we can maintain a high degree of law and order in this field the great efforts that are being made by many countries toward world recovery will be frustrated by the chaos and anarchy that will prevail in foreign exchange."

Markets Tuesday

Security exchanges managed moderate recoveries yesterday. Grain markets were better.

A policeman testified that when he called at 10:40 there was a head on a customer's unfinished pint. The publican said the beer had been drawn at 9.35 and that experiments showed a "head" maintained itself up an hour.

Appeal was allowed.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"I feel so rich. Women all over the world are crying because their their men are going away. And I feel so rich!"

"You'll write me, Liberty?"

"I'm already writing you the wittiest, most entertaining letters anyone on your ship is going to get.

"I know that. My dear, this is such a right feeling. That we belong to each other, that nothing will ever change that.

"It feels married, Bill."

"It feels married already. And always married. And far beyond the war years—

"For it will be over someday, won't it, Bill?"

"It will be over someday. And then our fun will begin."

"You'll go back to the newspaper?"

"To press work, anyway. It might be an exchange bureau. It might be radio work. It might be Ceylon or Buenos Aires—"

"Or Alameda, California," laughed, bringing him down to earth.

"Shall you care?"

"Shall I care!"

"And you won't mind waiting?"

"No, Bill. Because I'm promised — I'm loved. I've got all a woman wants. I'm" — I spread my hands in the warming sunshine as we came out close to the ranch house and the twelve o'clock dinner bell clanged — "I'm set," I said, and quickly, without a glance about, - he circled me in his big arm and kissed me again.

He went away the next day, and my heart said, "Perhaps forever!" But I was proud, I was content. Until he went we were as discreet as we could be, and perhaps because everyone in the house had thought him pretty well involved with Virginia, nobody seemed to suspect anything had occurred between me and Bill. I could lie in bed at night, watching the moonlight slide in long shafts and angles down the wall, watching the shadows move stealthily among the old curtains and wardrobes and heavily upholstered chairs, and think: "Engaged to Bill." Destined to be one of the cherished women of the world. My husband. You know my husband, Lieutenant Brent?

We would have a studio apartment, Bill and I, over somewhere in the North Beach neighborhood, where bewitching little brown cabins climb like mussels to the faces of the hills and big apartment houses, walled in glass, looked down with a thousand windows upon the piers and the shipping and the dragging, irregular line of the submarine nets stretched across the bay. We would know when the cargo ships and the transports came in and out, though never a newspaper chronicled their movements and never a lip betrayed them. We would see the clippers float down to the gently rippling waters in Treasure Island Harbor. And when the war was over friends would come to us for lazy Saturday-night suppers or hilarious Sunday breakfasts, blue cigarette smoke mingling with the good smell of coffee, hours slipping by while Jack played the piano and Mollie sat sketching us all.

And often we'd go to Chinatown, where we'd had our first thrilling evening of adventure together, in the old days at Mrs. Liffey's boardinghouse.

Bill had kissed me good - by quietly; it wasn't just in my imagination that he had grown older, more serious, since Virginia had gone away. He had said he did not want our engagement announced — oh, not on his account! He said he would have shouted it to the skies, is his pride and exultation. But it was not fair to me.

"Virginia and I were sort of carrying on," he had said with his troubled boyish grin.

"I suppose to the end of your life, Bill, you'll kiss any woman who'll let you kiss her."

"No — not Billee. It's not as bad as that! Va knew all along and I knew that it wasn't the real thing."

"Va was awfully pleased, just the same." I had a moment's stinging memory of her complacencies and her triumphs.

"Libby, I don't suppose I'll ever see her again."

"I'm wondering," I said, "when we'll see Billee."

"Somehow Walt Burton doesn't seem a very sturdy limb upon which to lean."

"Bill," I said, "Virginia — the real Virginia — would get rid of Walt this minute if she could come back here and win the old man over, and make herself a place here. Evidently she got shipped up into this love affair when she was idling about in the East in a rather inferiority-type girls' school. Walt was the school girl lover. She had no idea of her prospects here as the last of the Hillyards or she would have been smarter."

"And when the invitation from old Calhoun came she and Walt had married and started West in the car."

"No, it's Billee's car, and her aunt was paying Walt's salary then. Va and Walter were married — or were lovers, anyway — before they every heard of Hillyard House."

"I shouldn't wonder a bit if the real Virginia — that is, Billee — did leave Walt and come sneaking in here someday. It's too big a chance to lose. The old man could only throw her out, the way he did her mother. Especially if that marriage turns out to be illegal!"

"And meanwhile, Clay watched old Calhoun play fast and loose with the family fortune. Now it's Virginia's turn. He got into the Family lawyer's coming up here soon, and then we may know something.

"Gardner Fitch, is it!"

"Gardner Fitch, yes."

"It seems a silly sort of time to have to tell him that the girl we all thought was Virginia Carolan is really Billee Harnleigh, and that the real Virginia is straggling down through the country somewhere, married to a chauffeur."

"They were going to her aunt — that is, Va's aunt," I remembered. "That is, that's what they said."

"Apart from her old grandfather having been through all this with her mother," Bill said, shaking his head, "it's not too good that Billee has been deceiving him all the time."

But then we began talking about ourselves, and after a while it was time for his quiet good-by kiss, his arms tight about me, and our promises to wait, to write, to remember.

"Of course I may not be sent overseas at all; this may all be hysteria," said Bill. "Not so very hysterical," I said, trying to laugh, watching the last smile on the brown handsome face, clinging to the hard brown hands, seeing the splendid big figure turn and go away. Afterward I went up to my room, stood looking out of the window, not thinking much, not feeling much, for a long time.

The house was very quiet that day. Clay was suffering with his eyes; he was going back to town tomorrow for more sessions with his oculist; he would be away for a week. Munro and Louise and I gathered by the library fire before dinner and felt subdued and lonely. The halls and stairways and the big unused rooms seemed to loom over us gloomily, heavily. Mrs. Grizelli presently joining us, was in low spirits.

It was a week later that the telephone rang and Munro went over to the table and picked up the receiver. We heard him say that he could take the message for Mr. Hillyard. It was a telegram; Munro came back to the sputtering coke fire and reported it to us.

"It's from Billee. 'Am getting marriage annulled on ground of misrepresentation of age,'" he quoted. "Am with Virginia's aunt. Please keep news from my grandfather until I arrive. Will explain myself."

"It was signed 'Virginia Carolan' and it came from San Francisco," he said.

"Then they never got any farther than that!"

"Evidently the aunt got busy."

"An annulment, eh!" I mused. Then the Virginia Carolan we knew as Billee might be back at any time, ready to start all over, this time as the granddaughter of the house.

Comparing the two girls, it seemed to me that the real Virginia would have a better chance than the false Virginia had had. She was a quieter, sweeter girl. She loved Hillyard House sincerely; that had shown, through her attitude here from the very beginning. Virginia Hornleigh was superficial and insincere; Virginia Carolan was a graver type. She had married Walt Burton, true, and lent herself to this ridiculous make-believe; but then she was only eighteen, and there certainly was in her the making of a fine woman, despite these adolescent escapades.

"So I think we do nothing," said Mrs. Grizelli, "until we hear again from her, or until she arrives. Let her be the one to face Mr. Hillyard and explain! I'm certain I don't want to."

"Not the way he is now," Louise Bill agreed with a shiver.

"I wish I could help you with some of that mending, Louise," I said, not for the first time. "I'd be so glad to take night duty now and then and let you sleep."

"It'd drive him crazy," Louise said simply.

"We ought to have someone." The sigh this time came from Mrs. Grizzell.

Holding the Indian chieftan staff of office is Chief Duck Chief, present head of the Blackfoot tribe. P-C'S URGED TO BECOME 'CRUSADING PARTY'

Stern Gang Head Detained in Haifa By Israeli Police

Friedman-Yellin Sought Since Bernadotte Was Slain

Haifa, Sept. 30 (CP)—Nathan Friedman-Yellin, head of the Terrorist Stern Gang sought by Israeli police since the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte in Jerusalem a fortnight ago, was detained in Haifa today.

A Terrorist arm of the Stern Gang, a Jewish underground extremist organization, boasted that it was responsible for the assassination of Bernadotte, United Nations' Palestine mediator, Sept. 17.

Friedman-Yellin was arrested together with one of his right hand men. In the room where they found him, and in a search of his apartment in Tel Aviv, police were said to have found "documents throwing new light" on Sternist activities.

PINNED 42 HOURS HEAD DOWNWARD IN WRECKED PLANE

12-Year-Old Boy Fights for Life in Hospital, Mother Killed in Crash

Edmonton, Sept. 30 (CP) — A plucky 12-year-old boy, Micnac Lintner, today fought for his life in a hospital here hundreds of miles from where he was pinned head downward for 42 hours in the snow-covered wreckage of a crashed plane.

He was suffering from a fractured skull, broken arm and frozen feet when a paratroop rescue team found him Wednesday 42 hours after the light Stinson plane crashed in remote bush country killing his mother, the pilot of the aircraft.

Only courage kept him alive between the time the plane plunged earthward, 45 miles north of Fort McMurray, B.C., and his rescue nearly two days later.

Michael still was conscious when Sgt. Larry Pulsen and Lac. W. Dobbin, both of Edmonton, crashed through the thick underbrush around the plane.

While Pulsen and Clark applied splints and bandages, other ground rescuers met Lintner on their way to the wreckage. Lintner, from the seat belt, and carried her on a stretcher to a waiting truck. Then Michael was taken the 1 1-2 miles through the bush to the truck and placed beside him mother for the last time.

Race Along Roads

The vehicle raced along the winding, mountainous Alaska Highway from Fort Nelson to Michael's father, Lt.-Col. A. L. Lintner of Anchorage, Alaska flew from Great Falls, Mont., Wednesday to meet him.

An R.C.A.F. Dakota transport winged the 560 air miles to Edmonton in about four hours and Michael was whisked to hospital from the airport in an ambulance.

On arrival in hospital Michael was taken to the operating room where he remained for several hours. Crew members of the plane reported he has multiple skull fractures, a broken right arm and frozen feet from the 42 hours he's dead in freezing and near-freezing temperatures.

Lt.-Col. Lintner told reporters he and his son exchanged only a few sentences before the crash.

"It happened just like that," he said 4435 hims during flight. He gave no description of the events leading to the tragedy, Lt.-Col Lintner added.

"The boy was the bravest I have ever seen in my all my experience," Lac. Clark said. "He knew his mother was dead but never mentioned it. He was cheerful all the time."

The tiny two-seater, taking Michael to school in the United States, was flying minutes behind another civilian aircraft which landed safely at Nelson. The pilot of the first plane reported Mrs. Lintner's plane had crashed after but her aircraft never appeared.

Lt.-Col. Lintner said his wife was an experienced pilot with about 435 hims flying time. She was used to almost any flying conditions and knew her route well.

Baldness Cured By Acquiring Of New House

London, Sept. 30 — (AP) — The case of a man whose baldness was cured by acquiring a new house was reported today by the Practitioner, British medical journal.

Dr. F. F. Hellier, dermatologist, wrote he "the essential cause of alopecia areata (patchy baldness) is psychological.

"A patient of mine revealed . . . that he was 'fed up' at living in the unattractive old house. No doubt there were deeper conflicts lurking in his subconscious, but the acquisition of a new house cured his depression and his alopecia.

Treasury Empty But Ball Team Will be Honored

London, Oct., Sept. 30 (CP).The city treasury has only five dollars left in the 1948 reception account but the International League Wenige today promised a "big bean feast" for the London Majors baseball team which Wednesday night clinched first Wayne, Ind., for the world sandlot title.

"We have to find the money somehow, even if we have to empty our pockets," he said from his bed at Victoria hospital where he received a broken ankle. "Our ball team's victory is real advertising for London and a lot of people would pay thousands of dollars for publicity like it."

POLICE ALERTED

Preston, Sept. 30 (CP)—Provincial police in Preston and Hespeler alerted late Wednesday when reports were circulated by radio and telephone that the body of a local alleged police officer slayers had been dumped west of Brantford.

Resolution Asking Communist Party Be Outlawed Sponsored by Que. Group

Ottawa, Sept. 30 (CP) — A resolution urging that the Communist party be outlawed in Canada will be placed before the national executive of the provincial executive convention, it was learned today.

The resolution, sponsored by party supporters in Quebec, was one of several a 193-man resolutions committee has decided to recommend.

Resolutions are expected to call for establishment of a free market for gold, Canadian withdrawal from the International monetary fund and establishment of a labor advisory board. Others may urge devaluation of the Canadian dollar, an end to British North America Act amendments without the consent of the provinces, and reconvening of the Dominion-Provincial conference.

It was understood that there will be prolonged discussion on the resolution recommending the ban of the Communist party. John Diefenbaker, Conservative MP commons for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan, and Donald Fleming, Conservative MP for Eglinton, have said during their campaigns for the party's leadership, that they would support the party ban in Canada.

They have urged criminal code amendments to deal with members of the Communist party.

BRITISH APPROVE MONTY AS O.C. OF JOINT FORCES

5-Power Alliance Makes Selection

London, Sept. 30 (CP) — The cabinet today approved the selection of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery as head of a joint armed force of the Five-power Brussels alliance.

A government source said the selection of Lord Montgomery, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, will be announced soon in Paris by the five powers—Britain, France, The Netherlands, Luxembourg and Belgium. The information said the choice was made by the defence ministers of the five countries at Paris early this week.

Viscount Montgomery presumably will resign as chief of the Imperial General Staff.

Press Association said there was some speculation in informed circles that Viscount Montgomery would be succeeded in the Imperial post by Air Marshal Sir G. W. R. Tempest, 50, deputy chief of staff and Britain's first military governor in Germany. Viscount Montgomery is known to think highly of Tempest.

London newspapers earlier had predicted that Montgomery would take over the western military command.

They said also that Gen. Alphonse Juin, French commander-in-chief in North Africa, will hold the five-power land command; Admiral Sir John H. D. Cunningham would lead the joint naval units and marshal of the R.A.F. Lord Tedder would be chief of the Air Forces.

In what might have been his last public appearance in his present role, Viscount Montgomery appeared today at a press conference with War Minister Emanuel Shinwell to outline plans for building up a Territorial (militia) army of 150,000.

Viscount Montgomery told the Territorials would form the base around which "we could wrap the fighting component of the nation should there be a sudden emergency."

This fighting manpower, he said, consisted primarily "the essential core of alopecia areata (patchy baldness) is psychological.

"A patient of mine revealed . . . that he was 'fed up' at living in the unattractive old house. No doubt there were deeper conflicts lurking in his subconscious, but the acquisition of a new house cured his depression and his alopecia.

"Class Z" reservists—men only recently discharged from the services—and the proportion of whom could be "called out immediately straight into the Territorial army."

Suffered Disasters

Pointing out that the Territorials probably had to be retrained before they were ready for battle, Viscount Montgomery said there is a citizen volunteer force —Viscount Montgomery said: "I started that force. I am very proud of it. I am very proud of what that philosophy and we suffered disasters through the consequence.

"We shall not in a third war be allowed that breathing space while we get the Territorial army out and trained."

"You are going to find in another war that all lots of the nation—especially our nation—London are going to be a very great test.

"The nation will have need of disciplined people who will have a steadying effect in time of war and people who are used to obeying orders."

SIX GIRLS ENTER O. V. C.

Guelph, Sept. 30 — (CP) — Six girls have enrolled in the group for the first-year class at the Ontario Veterinary College here, it was disclosed today. They are: Elizabeth Ann Cathcart; Dorothy Webster, Toronto; Beverley Lisk, Dunnville; Margaret Wood, Quebec City; Joyce McMahon, Saskatoon, and Phyllis Dunn, Calgary.

Convention Highlights

Ottawa, Sept. 30 — (CP) — Banners outside the convention hall proclaimed the various candidates. One said, "Keep Ontario Strong — But Make Canada Stronger." Another right beside it added "Diefenbaker, a National Leader." Then a third said in both French and English "A United Canada With Fleming."

Rations and streamers gave delegates a chance to offer symbolic homage to their favorites. One basket had a picture of Donald Fleming, member of parliament for Eglinton, Another had the name George Drew. Supporters of John Diefenbaker, member for Lake Centre, wore a ribbon with his name.

The Fleming supporters didn't stop at placards and pins. They had small posters bearing such legends as "Fleming for National Unity" and "Four F's — Firmness, Fidelity, Fleming, Fortitude."

Reporters look notes at rows of tables below the main platform. They wrote their stories on the tables and used as an assembly room for hordes during exhibition breaks. The room now is a sanctuary for scores of clattering typewriters.

Prominent among the arrivals before convention time was Senator John T. Haig of Manitoba, Progressive Conservative leader in the upper chamber. He said he figured Western and northwest will split about 50-50 between Drew and Diefenbaker but that the Ontario Premier has a clinch to take the leadership. However, he assumed Donald Fleming's candidacy would push the vote beyond a first ballot.

A facetious complaint came from Sim Scherbaiuk, the burly genial correspondent-overseas for the new Russia's Tass news agency. "Look," moaned Sim, "all you daily newspaper men get red ribbons to wear. And what do they give me? Pink!"

J. M. Macdonnell, member of the Commons for Muskoka-Ontario and president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, was an early arrival. He moved almost immediately to the speaker's platform to test the public address system. It is likely that he will be permanent convention chairman.

Conversation among the delegates in the convention hall today touched on a wide variety of topics. Several delegates exchanged views on how the party can win the next federal general election. One unidentified delegate said to a colleague:

"If we leave the C.C.F. alone they will get a lot of Liberal voters. We should criticize only one government, because it may be responsible for the administration."

Retiring Leader Requests Party Name Remain

Ottawa, Sept. 30 — (CP) — John Bracken thinks the Progressive Conservative party should stay just that.

In his farewell speech, the retiring leader advised the national convention today not to change the party label.

Mr. Bracken, generally credited with having forced the name change to "Progressive Conservative" when he took over, said today that "the name has come again won't help the party."

Here is Mr. Bracken's recommended designation to stay:

"It means what it says 'conservative' — the conservation of all that is worthwhile and good from the experience of the past, and 'progressive' — the acceptance of only what is good in the every light of modern days."

Before the Winnipeg convention in 1942, the party was the National Liberal and Conservative party officially, though the full title was seldom applied.

Britain and U.S. Agree on How To Make Nuts Bolts

Washington Sept 30 (AP) — Britain and the United States are about agreed on how to make nuts and bolts.

A formula of standardized threading probably will be signed about the middle of October, it was learned today. This will mark an end to decades of talk and, later, formal negotiations between the two great industrial countries.

Canada is reported to have had a part in the negotiations. That led to the present conference by Ontario Veterinary College here, it was disclosed today. They are: Canada is expected to have had a part in the negotiations. That led to the present conference by Ontario Veterinary College here, it was disclosed today. They are: Dorothy Webster, Toronto; Beverley Lisk, Dunnville; Margaret Wood, Quebec City; Joyce McMahon, Saskatoon, and Phyllis Dunn, Calgary.

Sush an agreement will be of tremendous value to industry.

Manufacturers and scientists began talking of the need for a standardization of threads back in the early 1900s. Since the war, the effort has materialized into specific proposals by representatives of Britain and the United States. These now are near an end after years of compromises on both sides.

TWO CIVILIANS WOUNDED

Berlin Sept. 30 (AP) — Russian soldiers who made a foray into the United States sector of the city Thursday wounded two German civilians, American military police reported.

Particulars of the incident were not immediately available.

United States authorities said American military police had intervened and that the incident is still under investigation.

40-Mile-Wide Bush Fire Rages In N. Manitoba

Winnipeg, Sept. 30 (CP)—A 40-mile-wide bush fire blazing wild in northern Manitoba's Washow Bay area is being battled by nearly 200 men, Department of Mines, Big Island and Arborg.

One of several now burning in the province this part of the province, the ire is reported to cover an area of several square miles since its outbreak a week ago.

Police Recover $50,000 in Jewels

New York, Sept. 30. (AP)—Vigilant police trailing of a suspected stool pigeon led to the arrest and the recovery of $50,000 in jewels Wednesday, a wealthy Czech beauty.

Three men were arrested and questioned in the theft of the jewelry from Mrs. Sonja Lowe, 31, of Milton, Mass., who was bound and gagged with her own stockings by three masked bandits in a hotel room early Wednesday.

Mrs. Lowe is the recently divorced wife of Allas M. Lowe, Boston manufacturer.

The trio, in whose possession police said they found the jewels, said they received the gems from a fourth man who told them also sell the jewelry for him.

No charges were placed against them immediately.

London-to-Paris Mail Arrives In 47 Minutes

Paris, Sept. 30 (Reuters). — Mail from London to Paris in 47 minutes—less than the time it takes to travel from Paris to Atlanta to get from home to the office—was delivered.

This modern "tale of two cities" was accomplished today through the combined efforts of two helicopters and a jet plane. The mail was flown from the heart of London near St. Paul's Cathedral, to the Air Force Club in the heart of this city.

The aircraft were used to bring the capitals within an hour of each other after four postponements over a 24-hour grable weather over France.

TWO KILLED BY TRAIN

St. Thomas Sept. 30 (CP) — Albert Boudreau, 35, and Melvin Tilbury, 18, both of S.R. 1, Tilbury, were instantly killed at New York Central Railway crossing two miles west of Fletcher this morning when a truck driven by Boudreau and loaded with tomatoes was struck by an Empire State Express.

P.C. CONVENTION CALLED TO CHOOSE LEADER OPENED

Will Also Revamp The Party's Platform

Ottawa, Sept. 30 — (CP) — The three-day national Progressive Conservative convention, called to choose a new party leader and to revamp the party's platform, was formally opened today.

Delegates from all parts of the country gathered in Ottawa's sprawling coliseum for the inaugural proceedings amid indications that the leadership contest will be one of the stiffest fought in the party's history.

Main item on the day's agenda was a farewell address by John Bracken, the relinquishing of leadership because of his age and ill-health. His successor will be chosen Saturday.

There are four men now in the running, but a large number of delegates were predicting that it mainly will be a two-way fight between Premier Drew of Ontario and John Diefenbaker, member of the Commons for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan.

In pre-convention speculation, Mr. Drew seemed to have stolen over the 53-year-old criminal lawyer from Prince Albert, who has placed third at the party's 1942 leadership convention.

Cohocded Little Chance

Donald Fleming, 42, member of parliament for Toronto Eglinton, has said that he has strong support in Quebec and that he will also draw strength from other parts of the country. But some delegates concede him little chance of beating the two major opponents.

Hamilton Case, 49, member for Grey North in Ontario, is the fourth man in the running but he strength appears to be negligible.

Mr. Case is conducting practically a one-man campaign, but he thinks three candidates have groups campaigning on their behalf.

All four attended a cocktail party tendered by the Ottawa Press Club for newspaper women and some of the delegates. Later, the opening banquet and dinner of the Progressive Conservative Student Federation.

At that dinner they were told the party must enunciate some "clear-cut, positive national policy that "has been so ambiguous, so soft that the people of Canada could take it to mean almost anything."

The statement came from Allan Lamport, of Toronto, a national president of the party's student federation and a student at the University of Toronto.

Dull Weather Places Added Burden On Ontario's Hydro System

Toronto Sept. 30 (CP) — Dull electric system said it was "quite weather has placed an added possible" cuts would come next burden on Ontario's hydro electric system, it was disclosed today.

Overcast skies had increased the load about 45,000 kilowatts more than Wednesday, Mr. Saunders added.

Because of the weather, the Hydro Commission cancelled the flight of a chartered plane which was scheduled to fly 50 persons to 50 per cent of southern Ontario and broadcast its message over the power saving. Special amplifying equipment in the aircraft would have been used to broadcast from 20 miles.

Meanwhile Toronto householders were confronted with large newspaper advertisements telling them where and when their power supplies would be reduced next week if compulsory cut-offs become necessary.

BrackenAsksParty To Follow Path Of Reasoned Progress

RetiringConservative Leader Speaks Bluntly to Delegates

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Sept. 30, (CP)—John Bracken today asked the Progressive Conservative party to follow "the straight path of reasoned progress" and become the "crusading party of the common man in every walk of life."

In an outspoken farewell address, the retiring leader bluntly told the party membership it had never, in this century, "fully succeeded" in becoming the party of the people.

And, to that, he added this warning:

"The voice that goes out from here during these three days will either help us to power and prestige, or it will help to defeat."

Mr. Bracken spoke to more than 3,000 delegates and other supporters jammed in the Coliseum at Lansdowne Park for the opening sessions of a three-day convention. Friday, they will hammer out a new party platform and Saturday will ballot in the selection of a new party chieftain.

The party could do these things:

It can turn to the "left" and find all the side-roads filled to over-flowing with wishful thinkers and hopeful planners; or we can turn to the "right" and be interpreted as class party, devoted in the public mind to business interests almost exclusively.

"To the 'left' lies the bidden slope of Communism; to the right a short and bitter descent to oblivion.

"The only road to the real 'middle ground' lies straight ahead," he said today.

Mr. Bracken, who is 70, was stricken in his hotel room Wednesday. Hospital attendants said the attack probably was brought on by the excitement of preparations for the opening of the Conservative National Convention.

New Streamlined Income Tax Form Being Prepared

Ottawa, Sept. 30. (CP) — A new, streamlined income tax form —easy to look at and simple to handle—will be introduced to the Canadian public in 1949.

This was learned Wednesday night from a government authority who also disclosed the current simplified form, a postcard-like document called T1-TS, is headed for the scrap heap, because of complaints and abuse by people who were not entitled to use it.

The new income tax document, still in its embryo stages, will be a crisp, two-page affair, to be used by the majority of wage earners in Canada, including fishermen and farmers.

Many of the current special forms for western farmers and farmers' sons will be done away with, it is said. All those earning less than $5,000 a year may get the chance to use the short form.

Although little is known yet of what the new form will contain, it is disclosed that much of the heavy legal wordage, which marked income tax documents in the past, will be avoided.

For those lucky people who earn no more than $5,000 a year, the government will issue "T-1 General" form. It is said believed it will bear much change for current forms in use for that income group.

Those two statements—T-1 short form and T-1 general—will be the main forms in use in 1949, covering income earned in 1948.

WIRES DISCONNECTED TO STOP TOLLING OF CITY HALL CLOCK

City residents within hearing of the local town clock may have been startled from their sleep early this morning by the unrestrained ringing of "Big Ben".

Shortly after the o'clock striking apparatus of the clock went on a striking bee and the "bong, bong" of the bell went out continuously over the city until the city hall caretaker was rushed to the scene to silence the bell. Apparently the striking had been caused through a short circuit in the wiring and was silenced by disconnecting the wires.

Ideal Weather, Record Crowd Make Picton Fair Greatest In History of Organization

Picton, Sept. 30—With paid attendance around the twenty thousand mark, Picton's annual fair closed Wednesday night, with the grandstand packed twice for a rodeo and horse show, one of the greatest in fifteen years. Contributing much to this record was the ideal weather which prevailed.

Yesterday's horse races were featured by exceptionally close finishes in the free-for-all. As two heats five of the six horses drove down the stretch almost in a row. In this race, the first heat was taken by Peter Aubrey, the second by Neptune and the third by Oxford Lad. In the 2.24 class, all three heats were won by Lucky Lester, owned by H. Corcoran, Kingston.

A parade of prize winning cattle was held. This included the grand champion of the show, Jack May, which won the trophy for the second year, and the grand champion bull, owned by F. J. Webster and Sons.

Horse Show Excellent

The horse show was exceptionally good. Best light horse in harness was owned by Ferguson-Coach Lines of Peterborough, grand champion brood mare by John A. Cole, Bloomfield, and champion brood mare by Harry Pyne, West Lake; best span roadsters by Arthur Bryczat, Warkworth; best pony, Eugene Rabbits, Northport; best saddle pony, Catherine Anderson, Picton; best foal of 1948 John Cole; best foal, light horse, Allan Dan, Peterborough; grand drought team in harness, Robert Thompson, Picton; grand single horse team, F. Bonisteel, Trenton; carriage horses, Allan Mann.

Large Display of Cheese

Cheesemakers of Prince Edward had a large display. Jack Ackerman, Stirling, Stewart and Thomas Wannamaker had first prize cheese; H. Atherton and S. Stewart, best finished cheese; T. Wannamaker, first Junior cheese, and first July cheese. S. Stewart had the best Cheddar cheese.

In the big pumpkin contest, Lawrence Hinesman, with a 67-pound specimen took first place in the 200 class. Pumpkins from Hicks first with Chinese variety. In poultry, Joe Cooke, Bloomfield had best bred-to-lay pen; Charles Saunders, Bloomfield had best exhibition bird; P. Marvin, Wellington, best entry pigeons, entry bantams, entry ducks; Willis Sills, East Lake had best cockerel in show.

The display of tomatoes was large with S. H. Brant, Verona-Wilkie being first with 25 kinds and best six-quart basket. Apple winners included: Dunbar Bros., East Lake and Peter Collier, South Bay.

During the afternoon the R.C.A.F. at Trenton provided a thrilling air show with Harvards and jet planes. The Royal Canadian Regiment band of Brockville provided music under W.O. 1 Armstrong.

Special Displays

Special displays included fine carving by Miriam Lorry, leather work by Fred Greatrix, needlework by the Polish girls, Mary and Ann Lewica, now resident here; budgie birds by F. Greenwell, Northport, and war exhibits by E. J. Bateson and Vincent Smith, Picton, Trenton grade Health Unit. Kingston Cancer Clinic, the Red Cross Blood Clinic, the Canadian Legion were others having special displays.

Not only was attendance the best in two years, but the quality and quantity of exhibits in all classes set a new mark. This was remarked upon by A. A. Caroll, superintendent of Ontario Fairs who officially opened the 112th exhibition of Prince Edward Agricultural Society.

V.L.A. Smallholders Hear Talks On Methods to Improve Properties, Rules of $9,000 Competition Explained

About 50 Veterans' Land Act smallholders in the Trenton and Belleville area, with their wives and families, were gathered in the Armouries Church Street, Wednesday evening to listen to a program of lectures on small holding development and improvement. The talks were given by a team of experts from Ottawa who had given similar talks in Kingston and Peterborough to smallholders earlier in the week.

The Ottawa team consisted of Fred Browne, extension horticulturist with the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, Dan Cameron, landscape horticulturist with the Dominion Experimental Farm, M. W. Miller, district agriculturist with the Veterans' Land Act at Ottawa, and Gordon Way, public relations officer at V.L.A. head office, Ottawa. During the afternoon they visited several small holdings in the area with Veterans' Land officers, with local soil conditions.

The meeting was one of many, that will be arranged by the Veteran's Land Act administration throughout Canada during the coming year, to assist V.L.A. smallholders in their efforts to win prizes in the $9,000 Canada wide competition that the government is running for the established small holders. These competitions will be on a province wide swing and will culminate in the autumn of 1949, when the grand prize will be awarded to the veterans whose properties have shown the greatest improvement in development since the veterans took them over.

Soil Management

Wm. (Bill) Latour, V.L.A. field supervisor for Hastings County, acted as chairman and briefly introduced the Ottawa party. Following a 20-minute film on "Soil Management" the talks devoted to soil management and fertility with some advice to the smallholders on the best vegetables and fruits would be most suitable for their land.

"Soil is not 'dead dirt' but contains millions of bacteria, around one and a half million organisms per cubic centimetre," said Mr. Browne. "These organisms, which are essential to plant growth, cannot live if there is no organic matter in the soil. Agriculturists all over the world are worried about the depletion of the organic matter in the productive top layer of the earth's crust. This depletion is being caused by the change-over from animal to motor powered machinery, increased production, and wasteful 'mining' practices.

"Slowly but surely," he said, "we are coming ourselves to death."

Mr. Browne went on to explain that the best source of organic matter and plant nutrients as well is well-rotted barnyard manure; but he recognized that this is not always easy for veterans to obtain, particularly for smallholders near large centres of population.

Alternative Methods

"The alternative," he said, "is green manure, or, cover crops plowed under, and regular applications of the proper chemical fertilizer. Most smallholders have a larger garden area than they need anyway, and this should be split with one half used for vegetables one year, and the other half put in to cover crops. Next year the two areas should be reversed. An excellent plan would be to sow millet in the spring, plow it down in July, follow immediately with buckwheat which, in turn, would be plowed down before it seeds."

When Mr. Browne finished speaking he invited questions and several were asked bringing forth numerous points in gardening that had not been included in his address.

A brief explanation of the small holding competitions, as they apply to local veterans, was given by Mr. Millar. "All smallholders are automatically entered," he said, "and those on the subdivision, where they started with new houses and raw land, are in a separate competition from those whose homesites not on the subdivision. Top prize for the winning subdivision home will be worth $20 and there may be a second prize. The individual smallholders are entered in the (Ottawa) district competition where they are judged according to value from $7 to $20. The judges will be trees, shrubs, perennials, etc., and not cash."

"This is a real competition," he said, "between the subdivisions themselves, and the top prize for the class in which the Tracey subdivision is entered will be worth $50. The prizes will be in playground equipment, trees for street planting, or anything else that will benefit the community as a whole."

Landscaping Essential

Mr. Cameron's talk dealt with landscaping the area around the house; the "outdoor living-rooms" of the home.

"It is generally accepted by landscape architects," he said, "that there are three divisions to any property, the front lawn, or public part, where the plantings should be somewhat more formal; the recreation area, or private portion; and the service area, where the clothes are dried, wood piled, etc. Hedges, shrubs and trees are the materials used to separate these areas from each other.

"Trees should be planted for shade, and to provide a frame for the house," he said. "Foundation plantings are excellent to beautify the ground and are highly essential to break the harsh lines where the house foundation meets the earth level."

Mr. Cameron sounded a warning to the smallholders not to be falling in love with a little tree and planting it in a prominent place in front of the house.

"It should be remembered," he said, "that that tree will some day become a giant and completely obscure everything behind it. The choice of the spot to plant a tree should be governed by the hope that tree will play in the landscape scheme when it has fully grown, as few of us have the heart to cut mature trees in our garden."

Certain Trees Recommended

He recommended that certain types of trees, such as Manitoba maples and poplars, should be religiously avoided. Both are greedy feeders and the root system is very untidy, while the latter particularly is subject to water systems, the roots of poplars having been known to penetrate tile and drain lines and completely block them.

Between the addresses three films, illustrating the subjects of the lectures, were shown by Mr. Way. The films were "Vegetable Growing", "Farm Homes Beautiful" and "Repainting a Frame Building", the first two by the Ontario Dept. of Agriculture, the last by the administration to the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment for the use of its armouries. After the meeting several smallholders surrounded Mr. Miller, superintendent of Agriculture experts, to discuss problems that had not been covered in their talks, before dispersing to their homes.

Prescott, Lancashire, England, (CP)—The co-defendant shook hands with his lawyer when the case was dismissed.

Which isn't news—Except that the co-defendant was a dog.

Bertha Shepherd had been summoned for not having her Labrador retriever, Peeves, under proper control. It was alleged he had bitten a woman.

The magistrate looked over the handsome, five-year-old black animal, decided they liked him and dismissed the case.

Peeves, sitting solemnly still after the verdict was reached, bounded up to lawyer Leslie Rigg and "shook hands" with him. Then he repeated the same trick with his mistress.

London, (CP)—An 87-year-old woman did the splits and several high kicks, then stooped to pick a handkerchief from the floor in a demonstration to celebrate her 87-year-old friend's wedding.

The bride was Alice Leamar retired vaudeville artist. Groom was Harry Griffiths, 70, recently retired illusionist, frequent topliner under the billing "The Great Harry Griffiths," from Lyons, France, another vaudeville old-timer.

One morning he and his companion, Percy were found lying injured in their pool. George had wounds on his back caused by Percy's teeth. Percy's foot had been injured by George's claws. Percy has been moved to another tank.

Seattle, (AP)—Tony Tinkleberg paid a $50 fine Wednesday on a vagrancy charge, to wit: That he patted a woman on the knee.

Tinkleberg, 52, explained how it happened. He said as she sat in a bus, he had an irresistible impulse to pat the woman's knee.

He assured the judge, however that three days spent in jail awaiting a hearing had given him plenty of time to consider the constitutional and civil rights of women.

"He said he wouldn't do it again

BRACKEN ASKS

...What Canadian politics require most at the present time is a crusading party — a party dedicated to the welfare of the ordinary man and woman in the rank and file of this country; a party dedicated to the preservation and expansion of human freedom; a party that upholds the individual first and asks of government, not that it be master of the people, but that it be their servant.....

Striking at the government, he said it should be "thrown out of power at the first opportunity."

Lists Four Major Routes

1. The government had been the "chief cause" of the rising cost of living.

2. It had run the country into the worst trade crisis in our history.

3. It had let food production fall behind consumers' demands at a time when the world was facing famine.

4. Its contribution to inflation on Canada had been to reducing the value of the dollar to 66 cents.

5. It had failed in its responsibilities to the northern half of this continent.

6. It had let bureaucracy "run wild."

7. It had created a new family compact of boards, commissions and bureaucrats, which dwarfs into insignificance the one of historic memory.

For Progressive Conservtives he listed these four major routes as their approach to the future:

1. An economic creed "that will command our faith."

2. A political philosophy "in which we can all have confidence."

3. A humanitarian program that will "meet our social problems."

4. A peacetime policy which will "most likely be head off war."

Turning to peace he said.

"We must continue to be willing to pay the high price that peace demands until the last hope of saving it is gone; but if Communism forces war upon us, we must be prepared to pay the price of victory, whatever that price may be.

"But let us not fall into the state of mind that war is inevitable. If we do that, we shall certainly make it inevitable."

Price of Peace Four-fold

The price of peace was four-fold:

1. Canada had to be strong at home in her domestic economy and strong abroad in her external relations. A strong domestic economy was the only thing which would head off communism because "defeating Russia in war would be a military victory, but it alone would not end communism."

2. Canada must serve her people "better than communism could do."

3. She must help her customer nations abroad to rehabilitate themselves, if they were made strong, Canada also would be strengthened.

4. She must help other nations to help themselves "in their aim to reach higher standards of living."

Of immigration, Mr. Bracken said the new Canadians should diversify speaking, "come from those countries from which our present population has sprung." Canada must create opportunities for the maximum number of people who can live in this country at a high standard of living.

"As for the party's economic creed, it stood for maximum production of needed goods and must preserve the incentive to enterprise. This meant it must be willing to pay wages and salaries based on the relative value of services rendered; pay for food and other products at prices bearing a reasonable relationship to the costs of their production.

Business men should be assured of the right to be rewarded by profits arising from legitimate competitive business.

As for the distribution of that production, the party stood for every able-bodied man being rewarded according to his work and dependents each according to his need, the family having the first responsibility, the state supplementing the need where necessary."

In the field of trade, the party should accept "all the imports we need and can pay for and export "all we can spare and get paid for." In National emergencies "we should give, or loan, or do both to rehabilitate our customers."

The party should see to it that justice was done to all provinces in Dominion-Provincial relations. Fiscal need was the safest approach to a solution in this field. Discussions towards a new deal for all provinces were "long overdue."

Of industrial relations, he said the party stood "for looking upon all producer groups as partners in industry."

"That means the sharing of economic gains by workers, raising and stabilizing the economic level of farmers, and assuring business men the right to make legitimate profits in fair competition."

The first responsibility for "real" social security rested upon the individual; the second upon the family unit. These must be supplemented by "comprehensive contributory social security measures."

Skiers Requested To Attend Meeting At Parish Hall

Skiing in common with other winter sports has noted a marked resurgence in the past few years.

Many communities outside metropolitan areas have taken advantage of natural ski grounds to promote this exhilarating pastime for the benefit of residents and winter sport-seeking tourists.

Despite the fact that this city boasts a large number of ski enthusiasts and that within a few miles of its northern boundaries there is situated one of the finest natural ski-grounds in this part of the province little or nothing is heard of the sport.

Every winter large numbers of skiiers trek to the sloping Oak Hills near Stirling with their splendid natural facilities. But unlike those of other communities where the sport has been established, the skiiers must trudge uphill after completing their runs.

No ski-tows are in evidence, due mainly to the lack of interest along municipal lines. To date skiing has been strictly individual or corporate sport. And enthusiasts here have been content with it being that way.

In an effort to promote the sport and modernize hitherto untouched skiing facilities, the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity is endeavoring to interest communities to organize clubs and sponsor modern improvements for runways.

Natural Ski Run

...It is felt that the Oak Hills with their splendid natural slopping gradients, if modernized with ski tows and other paraphernalia would provide for ski enthusiasts one of the best playgrounds in the district.

With this in mind, Mr. Clinton Melville, director of photography and winter sports for the Department of Travel and Publicity will hold a meeting in St. Thomas Parish Hall, Bridge Street east on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Mr. Melville will show motion picture films which point out the advantages to the community of organization club. The pictures will also show what other districts are doing along these lines and of the tremendous benefit derived by skiiers and communities alike.

Mr. Melville will be here under the aegis of the Tourist and Publicity Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. That body it is said, will strongly consider sponsorship if sufficient interest on the part of skiiler and the public is shown.

All those interested in the sport are urged to attend the meeting.

Marmora

Marmora, Sept. 30. — Wayne (Weiner) Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown of Deloro will be donning the uniform of the St. Kitt's "A" Junior "A" team this coming season. He has been at the Hershey, Pa., hockey school of the Boston Bruins where choice was made for him to play for the St. Catharines team. "It was in 1957 that Bert Clapper interested himself in the lad, whereby he played last season for a St. Kitt's juvenile team.

Then and Now

It is a far cry from the rather primitive methods of lighting houses and streets to this modern age with its electrical fixtures and light bulbs and its artistic poles generously spaced so as to light the roadways. There were many dark spots in older days. Within the memory of many is the old style street light coming from an oil lamp on a wooden post, striving desperately to light up the darkness with its meagre light which however did enable people to go about at night and find their way to and from home. Somehow people were able to see in that darker age and walk from one dim light to another faint light at a fair distant corner.

How changed is all from the days when the lamp lighter went about with his oil can, matches and a rag to clean the lamps and their encasing glass. To reach the lamps he had to carry a wooden ladder. It meant considerable work for him.

Those were times long before granolithic or concrete sidewalks, just wooden planks. There were no paved roads, macadam was all the "go" and every street had its deep ruts down which the wagons passed drawn by the horses whose hoof beats were not unheard.

Time has changed all this. Electricity was first delivered at distant corners from an arc lamp suspended to an arm attached to a pole and lowered or raised by a heavy rope when it was necessary to replace the carbons.

Lights now are so different on the street. The sense of loneliness, spread by the dim oil lamps, so far apart, has disappeared and streets have become actual "great white ways." Yet those old days were not regarded as hardships on the streets or in the dimly lighted houses where kerosene was the means of illumination, while others were bright with gaslight. Time accustoms people to all changes. More light and luminaries are available for cheap power and for a generous use of the "juice," which removed the need for so much attention to the cleaning of oil lamps or the smoked glass chimney with the grime which gathered about the old lamps.

Modern inventions have no doubt "spoiled" some people who have come to be careless with the expenditure of electricity because it is so cheap and convenient. This may make it difficult for them to adjust themselves to the present situation when a shortage of power calls for conservation of energy in a real way. It is characteristic of such a development as this electric age that people come to look upon cheap and convenient means of light and heat as something which absolutely is essential. But something has to be saved. If some overuse electric energy, others may suffer because in this age a whole province or nation is linked up with this modern "fuel," developed from water power. Millions in Ontario depend upon it and it must be shared.

It is urgent that power be saved for there will not be sufficient to be used with the accustomed lavish use as hitherto. All are concerned and it is accordingly right that each and every person ought to conserve for his or her own sake as well as for others.

Never before was electricity so much in demand with business expansion, growth of population and convenience and comfort as the leading factors in its popularity. But as said before this benefit is for all the people and a little forbearance and co-operation will help solve the difficulties until in the course of time new hydro-electrical developments will be brought in.

Efforts in Ontario are being made to avoid shut-offs which will be necessary in municipalities if they consume more than their quota.

Subsidies for Research

Scientific research in fields that will balance progress in the science of destruction is a need obvious to all who still retain their faith in science. Dr. John N. Finlayson, of the University of British Columbia, stressed this when he said:

"We have the mastery of certain forms of physical force that can literally move mountains . . . The danger is that we find ourselves overweighted by our very intellectual prowess, overwhelmed by our very triumphs, and instead of using them, are used and dominated by them." — Montreal Herald.

Duty is a power that rises with us in the morning and goes to rest with us at night. It is co-extensive with the action of our intelligence. It is the shadow that cleaves to us, go where we will. — Gladstone.

Counsel and conversation are a second education, improving all the virtue and correcting all the vice of the first and of nature itself. — Claredon.

AFTER THE GAME

The contest was over and done.
The winner was jubilant, rightly;
But he who was beaten was one
His failure to win spoke of lightly.

"The game was supposed to be fun,"
Said he, "and it was to the end.
There were moments when I could have won,
But didn't, and that's beyond mending.

"There was never a bitter word said,
The joy of the game was the playing.
That one had to finish ahead
Should, I am sure, without saying.

"'Twas a match; but as friends we began,
And little the difference now whether
He or I was the fortunate man.
We had fun out there playing together."

STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

NEW WORD FOR OLD

Religious doubt can involve one in very intense suffering. There are vast multitudes of people who never think of religious matters one way or another. Still others take their religion for granted and without much thought believe that they ought to. Neither of these is proper for them to believe. Still others — and they are probably not a very great number by any means — come to terms with the verities of religion on the basis of facts brought into emotional adjustment. And these have indeed the peace that passeth all understanding.

In his "Apologia," John Henry Newman, the Catholic cardinal, tells of the peace which came to his heart when he made his ultimate decision regarding religious truth. The great Protestant, John Wesley, had a similar experience, when in the little prayer meeting held one evening in London he found his heart strangely warmed and knew that forever he belonged to God. Francis of Assisi had the same experience. So did Dwight L. Moody.

The skeptic is doomed to discontent and mental suffering. Religious faith lies at the basis of most of life's happiness. Security rests upon the confidence that there is a Power in the world higher than our own.

Mackenzie's Column: France Standing Squarely Behind Britain and U.S.

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

One of the most significant and hopeful — aspects of the sanitting conference in Berlin is the manner in which France finds herself able to stand squarely beside Britain and the United States in charging Russia with menacing world peace.

For those familiar with the situation it was a moment of great drama when Foreign Minister Schuman confirmed French-British-American solidarity in addressing the General Assembly of the United Nations in Paris. Schuman was bound to have in mind the economic and military weakness of his war-stricken country. He couldn't forget that this communist state has the largest single political party in France and have a powerful hold on labor. Clearly France must avoid war at all costs within reason. And she must take a realistic attitude which would seriously conflict with the fundamental policy of not allowing Germany again to become capable of waging war.

Throws Down Gauntlet

Yet Schuman threw down the gauntlet to Russia, thereby signaling his determination to present a solid front at this dangerous moment. Only a few days before London says Schuman left his hearers in no doubt of his determination to stand united to work for peace and a German settlement on a commonsensible way, while resisting every pressure to which they might be subjected. He has tried or may try to force a decision on his own terms. The London Daily Telegraph points out that the French are uncompromising foes of the enemies of occupation and all too conscious of their own military weakness.

The defence ministers of the United States, Britain, France, Russia, The Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg in Paris last Monday to discuss plans for co-ordinating their military resources. It was unofficially discussed was unofficially discussed later from British sources the ministers discussed a proposal to set up a pact — even to the extent of mobilization — in the light of Russia's veto power. They were said to have considered concrete measures in event the totals developed into armed action.

Impressive Effect

There is a possibility, as this column suggested yesterday, that the U. N. may split over the Russian question, however. I think that will depend on the nature of the action taken by the U. N. Assembly with the charges of the democracies. An effort to impose heavy sanctions likely would result in the communists walking out of the "peace" organization.

On the other hand the Russians are bound to consider carefully before quitting. Nonpayment of bills by the U. N. gives them a good chance for obstruction and for sounding off red propaganda.

Family Budget Survey Will Be Taken This Fall

Ottawa, SeSpt. 30 CP)—Just how well the average Canadian family he spends on movies — mother will have to confess the cost of her shampoos and fingernails.

It's all in line with a countrywide survey the Bureau of Statistics will launch October 4.

While no direct changes in the cost-of-living index are contemplated as a result of the survey, Bureau officials believes it will be a valuable means of checking whether this graph of living expenses is up-to-date.

About 250 men and women will tour 30,000 homes in 30,000 population, as well as rural communities, to get the answers to this poll, covering a 12-month intervale of its kind ever taken in Canada.

Approximately 15,000 families will be asked to report incomes ranging from nil to $100,000 a year, will be asked to fill out the 12-page questionnaire.

While many of the questions are complicated, interviewers say may be assured that all answers will be kept "confidential."

Dad will be asked how many cigarette or cigar packages he has used, how many night shirts he bought—and how much he paid for them.

Mother will have to tell the cost of her new hat, how much money she spends at the beauty parlor, how the kids, she will be asked to put down the cost of the coat she has bought in the last 18 months.

Junior had better begin figuring out his allowance, too. Even on movies, because that also is included in the questionnaire.

Nor is his older sister forgotten. The U. S. Bureau of Census how many lipsticks she buys in a year; how much she paid for that last evening dress.

Letter to the Editor

Parliamentary Government

Belleville, Ontario,
September 26, 1946.

To the Editor,

Parliamentary Government was established in Canada in 1791 by the Constitution Act passed by the British Parliament which gave a government was carried on here by town meetings held in different localities without parliamentary authority in a purely democratic way. All the people came together, usually in the spring and passed such provisions and regulations as were thought necessary. This appears to be the origin of "Party Conventions."

In 1793 one of the early Acts of this new system of parliamentary government was to abolish slavery, about sixty years before it was abolished in the United States.

Slavery, or Communism, is again raising its ugly form in this country. It might do well for all Party Conventions to drive Communism out of the country. Burn it in a deep that it will never rise again.

Prohibit Communists from coming into or being in Canada by owning real estate, owning or any interest therein in Canada.

2. Disqualify Communists from voting at any public election or holding any public office.

Formerly, some one big question interested the people such as:

1. Confederation
2. Free Trade
3. Protection
4. Reciprocity
5. Hydro Electric

Today, the jobs in the northwest for settlers and provinces.

More recently the question has been towards a large number of small questions, such as, Canadian plate platitudes, not easily remembered or understood.

Perhaps future years may determine whether Canadians are to become Russian slaves.

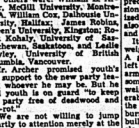
YouthWantsParty To Talk in Terms Of Ordinary Man

Ottawa, Sept. 30 — (CP) Youth sounded off Wednesday night on the eve of the Progressive Conservative party convention.

Allan F. Lawrence, a 32-year-old navy veteran from Toronto, elected president of the youth section as he addressed a banquet of the party's student federation, of which he is president.

He said time is running short and the Progressive Conservatives had better start talking in terms of the ordinary man understands.



Four candidates for the party leadership will speak Friday and Saturday — last day of the convention — heard him speak.

"I feel the party has been losing support for many years," said Mr. Lawrence, a former head of the University of Toronto. He advocated something more than information or advice for readers or correspondents who say or think they have high blood pressure.

Oversize (we err when we say overweight) is recognized as the precursor not only of hypertension or the condition often diagnosed by high blood pressure, but also as the precursor of diabetes mellitus and of heart muscle failure.

It is incorrect to speak of overweight when we mean oversize. A great many young men who left valley jobs to enter the army, lost little or no weight, in some instances actually gained weight but they did lost considerable slacker flesh, girth, due to the good physical training they burned off the bulky blubber and put on firm, solid, weighty muscle.

Remember this whenever you hear the misleading expression "overweight."

A friend of mine died a few days ago, a profound disappointment to countless people and his own. In his youth he was by far the brightest of his school class. He was brilliant, shrewd. He was the life of a very large party.

At the university, it is probable that he was known to every one of hundreds of students. He debated. He wrote for the college paper. He took an active part in sports better than well. He was popular with both scholastic leaders and the most extraordinary distinction.

He entered the profession of flaw and had hardly graduated before he began to make a couple of spectacular court cases. He wrote a number of articles. He appeared on the public platform and won his audiences hands down. The cynical thought that he was going all the ways got in.

He made money easily. Money was pie to him. He went for a trip around the world. He settled for California of the West Indies —but Algiers!

He built himself an odd, curious house in the suburbs. He began to drink. Drink in a couple of years became a habit. Drink in a couple of spectacular court cases. He wrote a number of articles. He appeared on the public platform and won his audiences hands down. The cynical thought that he was going all the ways got in.

He made money easily. Money was pie to him. He went for a trip around the world. He settled for California of the West Indies —but Algiers!

Talent is God-given; but it is best to have a talent that you have to exert.

WATCH YOUR SIZE, NEVER MIND YOUR WEIGHT

Before you "go on a diet" next week or next month, lovely, you had better try to get clear in what, for the sake of argument, we'll call your mind, just what good and sufficient reason you have for wanting to reduce.

Is it because the scales indicate you are overweight? Is it because all the raying beauties of Hollywood follow this or that trick diet to keep raving.

The tape measure tells far better than the scales whether your personal appearance, beauty, vitality, health, endurance and expectation of life or chance of living as long as the average for persons of your age.

It is oversize rather than overweight that leads eventually to diabetes, slow but certain failure or one or another kind of cardiovascular degeneration characterized by high blood pressure (cardio - vascular degeneration (CVD) is gradual wearing out of heart and/or arteries.

Speaking of high blood pressure, I should say that any one interested in it should consult his or her physician. High blood pressure is not a disease. It is just a sign of something wrong—a sign that is no more susceptible to treatment than is, say, too much sugar, without a diagnosis for the reason I have no information or advice for readers or correspondents who say or think they have high blood pressure.

Oversize (we err when we say overweight) is recognized as the precursor not only of hypertension or the condition often diagnosed by high blood pressure, but also as the precursor of diabetes mellitus and of heart muscle failure.

It is incorrect to speak of overweight when we mean oversize. A great many young men who left valley jobs to enter the army, lost little or no weight, in some instances actually gained weight but they did lost considerable slacker flesh, girth, due to the good physical training they burned off the bulky blubber and put on firm, solid, weighty muscle.

Remember this whenever you hear the misleading expression "overweight."

Here is a suggestion which can't possibly do any harm and may do some good in many instances.

If you have oversize and high blood pressure you had better instead of paying so much attention to food, you should particularly investigate the great excess of refined carbohydrate material (starch and sugar) in your present inadequate diet. Once you get through the picture in your study of nutrition you might profitably try to learn something about wheat—the grain grown by farmers, not the odds and ends shot from cannon. On written request (no clipping, please) I'll mail you a pamphlet telling how to use plain wheat in the everyday dietary if you provide yourself with a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your address. I almost hesitate to mention it here, but the housekeeper who has the brains and the ability to feed her family plain wheat in various dishes every day fives her family the greatest possible boost in better nutrition—and that means vite.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

The Gall of Some People

The instructions for non-surgical drainage of the gall-bladder in your booklet No. You have indigestion caused me from a gallbladder operation. I had suffered with bilious attacks for many years and finally the doctor said I'd have to have my gall-bladder removed. (Mrs. W. D. M.)

Answer—Possibly not. All I know is that the routine given in the booklet can do no great harm in such cases. A copy of the booklet So You Have Indigestion? will be sent to readers and stamped self addressed envelope. Please keep it clean. No glue, scotch tape and the like. And no staples, pins, needles, twine, rubber bands, paper clips, rubber hose or carboard—as the others do.

It Is Out of Fashion

Have tried many leading drugstores and some of the small stores but none of them have iron and thiamchloride. (Miss C. M. A.).

Answer—It has gone out of fashion. Send a stamped self addressed envelope for my reply, asking for pamphlet The Gray Sickness—Nutritional Deficiency Anemia. It tells about a simpler and more efficient iron preparation for anemia.

Hot Water

It has been my practice to drink a glass or more of hot water on rising each morning. Another thinks this is harmful because hot water standing in the pipes and boiler may lead to some smothing. (B. G.)

Answer—If pipes are lead or boiler or connection are lead lined there would be danger of dissolving lead poisoning. If the pipes, connections and boiler are tin, steel, copper, brass or aluminum, there is no danger.

Mexico Develops Shrimp Industry Worth Millions

Mexico City — (AP) — This is a story of how a little shrimp got to market.

It all started about 30 years ago when a group of Florida fishermen visiting the west coast city of Mexico discovered extensive beds of big, fat, sweet shrimp in the blue waters of the Gulf of California.

During those 30 years the shrimp business on the west coast alone has grown into a $14,000,000-a-year business.

As word spread on the size of the shrimp beds, Japanese fishermen moved in, obtained concessions, and agreed to show Mexicans how to catch shrimps. Fishermen said, however, all they got was a promise.

For 10 years the Japanese monopolized the shrimp beds and operated a shuttle service with shrimp for Japan. Then in 1940 former president Abelardo L. Rodriguez told President Manuel Avila Camacho the Japanese fishing colonies on the west coast were fronts for military camps.

President Avila Camacho, convinced, cancelled concessions and Rodriguez chased the Japanese out, after agreeing to buy 20 boats and start a Mexican shrimp business.

The shrimp industries thrive from Guaymas to Mazatlan on the east coast of the Gulf of Calif.

The newly developed "green shrimp (uncooked) industry" has boosted the market. The current season which started last September and ends late in June is expected to produce more than 18,000,000 pounds of shrimp, most of which goes to the United States market.

Rodriguez formed the company "Comania Productora Marinos de Guaymas" — capitalized at 2,500,000 pesos ($5500,000). Later he turned the shrimp industry over to a group of co-operatives which operate along the coast.

The Compania Productor Marinos continues to exist but other quick freezing plants have sprung up. Among the most important is Productos Congelados at Guaymas at Nogueira de Topolobampo on the Bay of San Carlos several hundred miles south.

Hundreds of refrigerated railroad cars now carry the frozen shrimp to San Diego, Calif., the main distribution centre.

The headless, veined shrimp, frozen in five-pound blocks and packed in waxed cartons are shipped in 50-pound containers.

Besides 18,000,000 to 18,000,000 pounds of frozen shrimp, about 1,500,000 pounds of fresh shrimp packed in crushed ice cross the border into the United States.

More than 20,000 tons of ice are used each season by the shrimp boats, plants and railroad cars.

The shrimp industry alone represents an investment in excess of 20,000,000 pesos ($40,000,000).

DON'T RETIRE EXPERTS TELL OLDER PEOPLE

Brighton, England — (CP) — Advice to old folk: "Don't retire. Keep on with the job you know."

It was given by Sir Ernest Rock Carling, consulting surgeon to Westminster Hospital, in a discussion of the Physiology Section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

"The most important problem for old people today is how to ensure themselves the right to continue working without impeding the promotion of those younger than themselves," he said.

"That means: know how to abandon the enjoyment of the first violin's privileges and learn to play second fiddle."

Hitherto the old had been regarded as outside the stream of active life, with the result they sank into loneliness and boredom.

"There is no scientific evidence for the selection of the retiring age of 65 for men and 60 for women. In the last 50 years the expectation of life has increased by almost 20 years for women and 17½ for men."

He said that in Britain there would soon be more people over 60 and under 20. For economic reasons it would be necessary for old people to work as long as possible.

His Men Harder

Miss Barbara Lewis, another speaker, said that a survey of old people in Birmingham indicated retirement was a much greater problem for men than for women. Men did not know how to occupy their time, whereas women could find odd jobs around the house.

"We were told over and over again that the old men had 'gone to pieces' since they had retired."

Dr. Marjory Warren said people should be educated to meet the problems of their advancing years. They should be told of the importance of hobbies and forming interests outside their work.

Prof. D. Burns said that as a magistrate he often had old men brought before him for attempted suicide.

Frequently it was found the man had lost his job at 65 or thereabouts. If he was a bachelor or widower he became apathetic and neglected himself until he sank into melancholy and attempted to take his life.

H. S. Shelton said more research was needed into the approximate length of normal human life and the length of normal activity.

It should be learned how much old age was a physical condition and how much mental — in other words, how many people became old because it was expected of them.

"For example, all my life I've been in the habit of carrying a walking stick," he said. "Now I've had to give it up because people began to assume I carried it because I was getting old and decrepit."

Aussies Press Fight Against Alcoholism

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — Alcoholics Anonymous is meeting with success in Australia.

Membership of Alcoholics Anonymous — a fellowship founded in the United States by reformed alcoholics to work for the rehabilitation of other alcoholics — has risen by more than 500 in Sydney during the past year.

A. A. members now regularly attend the law courts to watch for men and women who may express a desire to overcome their craving for drink. Police magistrates have been helping the fellowship by remanding alcoholics interested in A. A. for a month to allow them to seek rehabilitation.

High tribute to their work was paid by leading Sydney psychiatrist Dr. S. J. Minogue, in an article in the Medical Journal of Australia. Dr. Minogue says that A. A. has had amazing successes in a field where psychiatry had failed and suggests that their methods could be applied successfully to neurotic cases.

"Arrogant and Proud"

"The inebriate is arrogant and proud, rushing through life like a tornado, fighting a losing battle with the world, a pathological liar, deceiving doctors and relatives . . . On joining the A. A. the inebriate must sincerely and honestly admit that his drinking has got out of control and that his life has become disordered. This admission is the first sign that he is learning humility," he added.

While A. A. works to reform hardened drinkers, two men at Brisbane, Queensland, are working on inventions which they believe will make drinking more pleasant.

Testotaller C. V. L. Mitchell has invented a machine that will eliminate waste and speed up service in filling beer glasses.

The machine accelerates the flow of beer into the glass and allows the bar tender to regulate the amount of froth on the top without waiting for the beer to settle.

It has been tried in several hotels and pronounced successful.

The other inventor, Wilbert E. ("I'm no teetotaller") Jones, told this correspondent that he has in production a beer mug that protests loudly when it is empty.

A bell-in instrument panel on the side of the mug flashes a red light to warn the drinker when the beer content is getting low, and a loud protesting "honking" from a horn lets him know that it is empty.

The Experts Say . . .

BY KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Sept. 30 — (CP) — If the housewife wants to try a hand at some all-Canadian dessert she doesn't have to go very far.

At her back door right now she may have a few apples down with apples. And if not, the town market should be filled with bushels of the crisp, rosy fruit, which perhaps grow more easily in Canada, and in more quantity, than in any other country of the world.

The Dominion department of agriculture has devoted a booklet exclusively to ways and means of eating apples, in salads, desserts, and even as a relish with the main course of a meal.

To enjoy apples with baked beans the following ingredients are needed: one slice of uncooked bacon (about 1½ inches thick); one teaspoon dry mustard; two tablespoons vinegar; two apples; one-half cup brown sugar; one teaspoon butter.

Mix bacon rind from ham. Mix mustard and vinegar together and spread on ham. Slice apples thinly and spread in layers on ham. Sprinkle with brown sugar and dot with butter. Bake in a slow oven (325 to 350 degrees Fahrenheit) until ham is tender — about 45 minutes.

Apple cup salad makes a choice luncheon dish. Core the apples and scoop out pulp to make apple cups. Fill I bowl with cold water and as each apple cup is made put the cup in the water.

Dice enough celery to equal one-half apple pulp. Mix celery and apple pulp with one cup cottage or cream cheese. Blend with mayonnaise.

Dry apple cups and fill with mixture. Serve on crisp bends of lettuce.

Add for a dessert you can never go far wrong with a apple upside-down cake.

Ingredients: one-quarter cup butter; three-quarters cup brown sugar; three apples

One-quarter cup butter; one-third cup white sugar; one egg; one-quarter cup molasses; one cup flour; one teaspoon salt; one teaspoon ginger; one-half teaspoon cinnamon; one-half cup boiling water.

Melt one-quarter cup butter in baking dish. Add the brown sugar and cook together. Pare and core apples. Cut each apple in half to make two thick rings. Arrange rings of apples over butter and sugar mixture. Cream one-quarter cup butter. Add white sugar and cream well together. Add well-beaten egg and molasses. Beat thoroughly. Sift dry ingredients and add to mixture. Lastly add boiling water, mixing quickly. Pour over apples in baking dish and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 40 minutes. Serves six.

Housewives have found that apples can be useful for other things as well as food. Discolored aluminum pans may be brightened by boiling apple parings in them for a time.

Cheese--A Food of Quality

"As different as cheese from chalk" is a very old saying which tells much about the place of cheese in the estimation of our forefathers. Cheese has been a staple food for centuries, providing the main protein in the diet of many people.

Unfortunately, the people of Canada do not always make the best use of this ever-ready food. Cheese with apple pie is traditional in the East, and in these budgets, cheese should be considered as a main dish. We often get given much good value for money expended. Then too, there is no waste for every scrap of cheese may be used.

"Cheddar" is the principal type of cheese made in Canada. It is commonly called Canadian cheese or just "cheese" and is sold according to age as new (mild) medium and old (strong). The age of the cheese affects both flavor and price but not its food value.

Cheese is a concentrated food. It requires 11 pounds or a little more than 1 gallon of milk to make 1 pound of cheese. Cheese contains all the milk solids which are bland in flavor and also add bulk.

Cheese should be cooked at low temperature. High temperature toughens it and makes it less easily digested. For this reason Cheese dishes are often poached that is, the dish is placed in a pan of hot water and baked in a moderate oven.

There are many main course dishes made with cheese. Here are several suggested by the home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Oat Cheese Croquettes

1 1-3 cups rolled oats
2-3 cups milk or hot water
3-4 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup grated cheese
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon grated onion
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 chopped hard-cooked eggs
1-3 cup dry bread crumbs or oatmeal

Gradually stir rolled oats into boiling milk or water, stirring constantly for about 5 minutes. Add cheese and stir until melted. Remove from heat and beat thoroughly until very smooth. Let cool slightly. Add salt, pepper and eggs. Chill mixture 1 hour. Shape into round flat patties, roll in dry bread crumbs or oatmeal and pan fry until nicely browned on both sides. Serve with mayonnaise or relish. Yield: six servings.

Macaroni Loaf

1 1-2 cups cooked macaroni
1 teaspoon onion juice
2 tablespoons chopped parsley or green or sweet red pepper
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1-2 cups grated cheese
Salt and pepper
1 1-2 cups hot milk
2 eggs

Combine all ingredients except eggs and milk and place in a greased baking dish. Add hot milk slowly to beaten eggs and pour over other ingredients. Oven-poach in a moderate oven 350F until set. About 40 minutes. Yield six servings.

Cheese Dumplings in Tomato Sauce

2 cups sifted all purpose flour or 2 1-4 cups sifted pastry flour
1 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon dry mustard
3 tablespoons shortening
1 cup grated cheese
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 cup milk
1 can condensed tomato soup
1 cup water

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and mustard. Cut in shortening with pastry blender until mixture is like fine crumbs. Add grated cheese. Combine pastry blender until mixture is like fine crumbs. Add grated cheese. Combine grated onion and milk. Blend with dry ingredients. Dilute tomato soup with water and bring to the boiling point. Drop dumplings into hot soup, cover closely and cook 15 minutes. Do not remove cover during cooking period. Yield six servings.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Isn't Wrong to Have Dates With Different Fellows

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The other night I went out with a fellow and a couple of nights after that I went out with a different fellow. My girl friend tells me I am doing wrong by going out with more than one fellow. I explained to her that I am not going steady with anybody but she insists I am wrong just the same.

The question is who do you think is wrong, my girl friend or I?

"Uncertain"

Dear "Uncertain":

As I look at it, you are not only perfectly right but very sensible in going out with different boys. This business of going "steady" for teen-agers has always seemed to me both foolish and unwise, as it completely restricts opportunities for making friends at the very time when young people should be making all the friends possible. I hope that you will keep on being as sensible as you are now.

Should First Consider Marry?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My friend and I have had an argument over a situation I know others can ask as has different ideas we come to you.

The problem is could you ever marry a first cousin. Some people say yes, if there would be no children.

We would appreciate your help.

"Miss"

Dear "Miss":

I think the "people" you quote were doing in their answers to you what most of us are inclined to do when asked for an opinion and that is, speak without having any real knowledge of what we are talking about.

I am certainly not going to commit the same error of giving an opinion on something on which I am by no means fully informed. To get any information that would mean anything, you would have to put your question to a doctor.

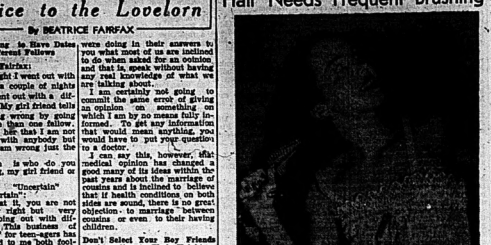
I can say this, however, that medical opinion has changed a good many of its ideas within the past years about the marriage of cousins and is inclined to believe that if health conditions on both sides are sound, there is no great objection to marriage between cousins or even to their having children.

Don't Select Your Boy Friends According to Their Height

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17 and am 5 feet 6 1-2 inches in height. I like a boy who is also 17 but there is one thing that stands in the way of our being very happy. That is, this boy is only 5 feet 2 inches tall.

Do you think that I should try and forget him and go out with other boys even though they do not interest me?



"L. L."

Dear "L. L.":

I think it would be very silly if you threw over a friend just because he happened to be a little shorter than you are. It is perfectly true that this sort of thing often makes boys and girls and

Hair Needs Frequent Brushing

A spiral brush is excellent for doing a really thorough job. Use it with a watery motion and a twist of the wrist

By HELEN FOLLETT

NO MATTER what kind of hairdo a girl wears, one beauty rule is necessary. The glorious crown must have frequent brushings. It must be shampooed often, and the scalp massaged and kept in an immaculate state. You can't style without sheen. If the hair is neglected it has a dull look as if the shafts were only half alive. It doesn't stay put. Women tries to arrange it, it has tantrums, flies every which way. Brush it well every night and you will see how nicely it will behave. For this, a spiral brush is excellent. Use it with a rotary motion and a twist of the wrist.

One is all too likely to place the blame on the permanent when the head looks messy, or fancy that the shampoo medium is too drying. All the poor thatch needs is a little petting and loving care. Then its growth is healthy and well kept almost any hairdo will look neat, be smart.

The trend, of course, is toward simpler coiffure arrangements. That's good news to the busy lassie who have little spare time. Clustered curl effects are definitely out, as are the frizz tops.

Preferably, especially for young women, the hair should be fairly short, three or maybe four inches. But if the longer bob is worn, an attempt should be made to comb it into an arrangement that avoids heavyness at the shoulders.

With tresses smooth and shining bright, forehead arrangements are coming into fashion. You can have soft bangs with a single wave line, or the ends turned under. Or you can form a forward moving wave line that dips over so slightly.

A Cosy Coat?

Flared red topper

By VERA WINSTON

FULLNESS HAS WORKED itself around to the side in many of the newest clothes, and it is the fabric handling used for this cosy coat which is of red wool suede. The flared fullness comes from under the arm and is controlled by the pockets, while the sleeve fullness is caught into the pointed turn back cuffs. The long scarf which accompanies this full swinging coat is in matching red with black fringe for color contrast.

Never Necessary to Serve an Alcoholic Drink at Wedding Reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our family are not "drinking people" . . . we don't like alcoholic beverages, don't drink them, but are not at all narrow-minded about other people drinking, if they wish to. Now my daughter is to be married soon, in church, with a reception in our home. I suppose we must serve some sort of drinks, mustn't we? And what would you suggest? There will be only about forty guests.

M. T.

Indeed there is no "must" about serving alcoholic drinks . . . and you may do, and should do, entirely as you prefer about this. Since only relatives and intimate friends will be present, they will naturally understand. With the simple reception-foods you may serve coffee, hot or cold, or a choice; and for the drinking of the toasts to the bride and groom, you may serve what many people do, a delicious fruit punch, or offer one or a group of ice-cold soft drinks, such as gingerale, grape juice, a cola and so forth.

Bride's Brother and His Wife Invite "to the Marriage of Their Sister"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. The announcement of my sister's engagement is to be made soon. Our older married brother is making the announcement of the engagement, and also the wedding invitations are to be issued in his name. Would it be a breach of etiquette to include his wife's name in the engagement announcement and in the wedding invitations? If this is proper, should they read "and sister" or "their sister?"

2. If the bride's mother were living, she would, of course, be the first one seated before the procession starts. In this case, when the brother issues the invitations may the wife be seated last? In other words, may she occupy the parent's seat, or take the seat directly behind this seat?

B. S.

1. The wedding invitations should, most definitely include the name of your brother's wife . . . and the best form is to use "their sister". Like this:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith Brown request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their sister Mary Emily Brown (It is, however, not incorrect to use "the marriage of Mr. Brown's sister.")

The announcement of the engagement may be made by the brother and his wife (if the brother's name is used, the wife's name should be included); or by the bride's mother. "Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Mary Emily Brown, of Address), to Mr. Thomas Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Robinson, of Chicago."

2. If the brother and his wife are hosts of the wedding, the wife, the hostess, might then be seated last before the processional starts, and her place would be in the first pew on the left of the aisle, the place to which her husband would return after he has escorted his sister down the aisle, or after he has given her in marriage.

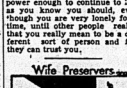
even men and women self-conscious; but if people are well suited to each other in every other respect the question of their proportional height seems a very small detail to be concerned about.

Of course as I am saying all the time, I personally think it is too bad for teen-agers to take each other so seriously that they go out with only one person and I think you would be much wiser if you went out with other boys too and stop telling yourself they don't interest you.

She Wants to Lead a Different Kind of Life

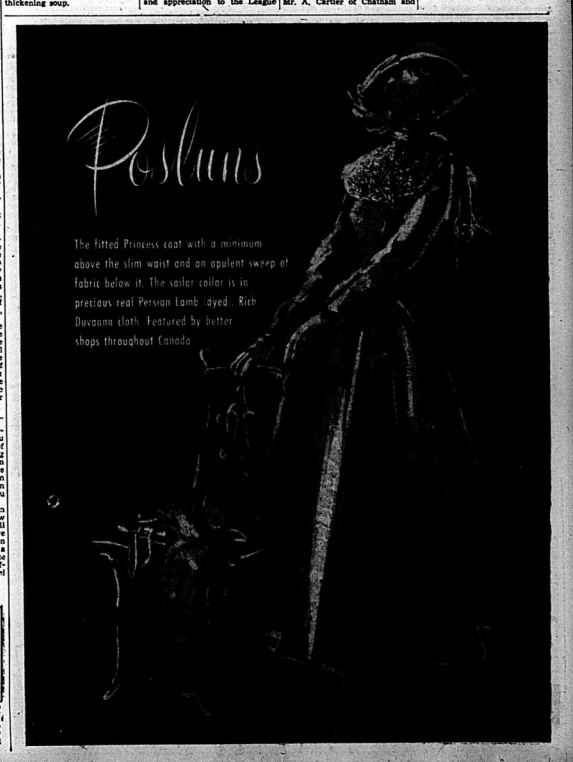
Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of about 19 who has had affairs with boys. I want to start all over again and lead a different kind of life but practically every boy I've ever gone out with has gotten fresh. I would like to find boy and girl friends that are decent. Please help me.



'Friendless'

Dear "Friendless"



I am afraid the reason why you have difficulty finding friends who are, as you say, "decent" is because the life you have lived to date has given you a reputation that makes these young people reluctant to associate with you. A reputation, you know, takes quite a while to build up and you are going to have to realize that it will take quite a period of careful living before you will acquire a different sort of one than you have been building for yourself all this time when you have been going with the wrong kind of associates. In other words, you have got to earn the friendship of the people you want for friends.

If you are really sincere in your desire to turn over a new leaf, you will have to have will power enough to continue to live as you know you should, even though you are very lonely for a time, until other people realize that you really mean to be a different sort of person and feel they can trust you.

Wife Preservers

When you are dispensing the baby, it is helpful to have a larger pedestaler hung conveniently over the crib or bassinette. Pack safety pins on it, so you will have them handy when you need them. If the baby is old enough to pull himself up in his crib, have it tied in the corner.

Bare Subsistence Lot of Majority Throughout China

Shanghai — (Reuters) — Today three years after the world emerged from the greatest war in history, civil war and inflation have reduced 80 per cent of China's 450,000,000 people to a bare subsistence level.

This is the outstanding fact which emerged from a poll conducted by the Institute of Chinese Public Opinion.

Chinese in all walks of life have been severely hit by inflation, and perhaps none more badly than government employees, by that government's own admission. High officials continue to live in government-furnished foreign-style houses, ride in official automobiles and receive numerous privileges which free them from the necessity of living on their meagre salaries.

The average government employee, however, gets only the equivalent of eight to nine American dollars a month, plus loads of rice, oil, salt, sugar and coal, most of them in kind. Many live in government dormitories, with a whole family of four or five often crowded into one small room. But it is estimated that in Nanking alone, over 8,000 government employees are not given living accommodations.

Life for these people is a matter of trying to keep alive. Cotton and many other commodities are priced beyond their reach.

In these circumstances almost all resort to "squeeze," or bribery. Although squeeze is nothing new to China, it is more in evidence today than ever before. You even pay to buy travel fares.

School Teachers Suffer

School teachers and college professors are much in the same plight as the ordinary government employee. The majority of them are deep in debt or suffering from undernourishment. Large numbers are known to hold several jobs outside their teaching hours in many cases menial labor jobs to make ends meet.

Chinese students are another class hard hit by the inflation. About one-third of the country's students depend on a government stipend.

Many educational institutions now demand payment in terms of rice — or the cash equivalent of the rice prevailing at the time payment is due. In many localities, house rents are collected on the same basis.

Chinese soldiers are better off. Although a common soldier still gets only a few cents in terms of United States currency he gets his food and clothing free. In large cities soldiers travel free in all municipal vehicles.

But prices are reaching here that most soldiers in rural districts are obliging themselves to anything they can lay their hands on. And in Shanghai, the imposing police force has been unable to stop "gate crashing" by soldiers at theatres.

The inflation has brought to a standstill the business of small manufacturers and merchants. Handicapped by insufficient capital and lack of raw materials, they find the cost of production so high that they cannot compete against imported products cheaper in price and better in quality.

Luckless Burglar Gets 100 Pellets

Ipswich, Staffordshire, England — (CP) — One hundred shotgun pellets were taken from the body of William Smith, 20, after he attempted to burgle the Station Hotel.

Landlord James Thorpe, a sniper in the First World War, picked up his shotgun when he saw Smith climbing out of a downstairs window and shouted: "Halt or I shoot."

"It was unfortunate for Smith that he did not halt," Magistrate Ryder Richardson, sentencing him to two years' imprisonment.

CANADIAN RHODES SCHOLARS HEADING FOR OXFORD

Sir Edward Peacock of London, Ont., a Rhodes Scholarship trustee, is photographed aboard the liner Empress of Canada which sailed from Montreal recently with a group of Canadian Rhodes Scholars boarding for Oxford to continue their studies. Left to right: R. L. Gordon of Edmonton, Alberta; Sir Edward Peacock; Ian Ross Cran from the University of Manitoba; from the University of Alberta; N. E. Currie, St. Vital, Man., from the Rhodes Scholar and Canadian representative for the scholarships; Sir Edward Peacock; D. B. Bibbs, Regina, from the University of Saskatchewan; H. W. Macdonald, M.C., Rhodes Scholar from the University of British Columbia; and D. G. Anglin, Toronto, from the University of Toronto.

Zooming Costs Hit Students At University

Toronto — (CP) — "Live and learn" the proverb says, and an estimated 15,000 students enrolled at the University of Toronto are discovering that the costs of both are rising.

The high cost of learning got a big boost when Varsity, troubled with its own high costs, upped tuition fees last year by $50, bringing a year of Arts courses to $180 and Engineering to $545.

Text-books, a big item for undergrads, cost an average of $50 for first year students, more for students in higher years and still more for medical students who pay $30 and up for many of their texts.

Cost of living in the city is high too, and is given an extra push by the spending of crowds of students who complain of high prices.

Those lucky enough to live in residence — a fair part for the out-of-town students, who contribute 30 per cent of total enrolment — pay from $300 to $400 for the term. Single rooms without meals, averages $6 a week.

There were 8,030 veterans enrolled last year, about 25 per cent of them married with children, and there are only slightly less this year. If they reach an agreement they have to search a good deal and pay a good deal.

Needless to say Entertainment.

Altogether, it will cost the average first-year student from out of town anywhere from $1,000 to $1,200 for a year in Arts or Science. That rough estimate allows a little enjoyment along with studying.

Only five years ago a survey of engineering students reported $605 as a minimum outlay for a school year. Of course, by doing little else but eat, sleep, study and get his clothes washed a student might squeeze through on $900, but it would be a long, dull year.

The estimate also disregards fraternities — which cost about a fifth of the campus, married men or veterans. Expenses in dentistry or medicine is also higher than for estimate — there are added costs for tuition, books, equipment and laboratory fees.

A string of generous scholarships from the University, governments and business-owned organizations provides some assistance. The university estimates that one of every 10 students at U. of T. receive such help. Grants range from $100 to $2,500; most are given for high scholarship standing; many are given by the university on the basis of necessity to students who get grants while fairly good marks.

Varsity students have one consolation, McGill tuition costs are $100 higher in every course, and across the line it costs about $2,000 a year to send a girl to Bryn Mawr, about $3,000 to send a boy to Yale and $4,800 to Harvard.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH IN PORCELAIN

—Central Press Canadian

This porcelain statue of Princess Elizabeth depicts the heir to the throne as she appeared on her horse, "Tommy," in the King's birthday parade last year. Designed by Miss Doris Lindner of London, it is being executed by the Royal Worcester Porcelain Company. Only one hundred of the statues were made — and for export only — which makes them a collector's item. Price £100 each (about $400).

P.E.I. Seeks Grant To Dig Mussel Mud

Charlottetown —(CP)— Wanted: a grant to finance mussel-mud digging.

Mussel mud, explains provincial Agriculture Minister W. F. A. Stewart, is a first-rate fertilizer, and when spread on farmland enriches soil to the point where crops other than blueberries may be grown.

Heavy crops of red clover and other grasses have flourished after application of mussel mud. Nobody appears to know how mussel mud got its name, since it contains only 30 per cent oyster shells — not mussel shells.

The fertilizer has a high lime or calcium content. The abundant growth of hay on fields subjected to mussel mudding is regarded as proof of its value.

So the provincial government is attempting to obtain a federal grant to revive the mussel-mud-digging industry. The grant would be in lieu of that due the province for marshland reclamation.

No action will be taken on the matter unless a grant is assured.

ACQUITTED OF RAPE

London, Ont., Sept. 29 — (CP) —Pte. James Davey, 22-year-old permanent force soldier stationed here, was acquitted Tuesday on a raps charge by an assize court jury which deliberated 45 minutes. Davey was accused in the assault-of a young married woman following a dance at Wolseley Barracks.

1948 Olympics Proved Big Job For Radio Folk

The BBC recently took a look at its reporting of the 1948 Olympic Games — and gave itself a satisfactory pat on the back.

More than 900 persons toiled at Wembley and other Olympic sites to keep world listeners informed — 41 different languages — about what went on at the world's biggest sports spectacle, staged in England July 29-August 14.

The BBC reports that 789 of these were members of the BBC staff — including 186 commentators and reporters and nearly 200 engineers. Present also were 134 commentators, reporters and technicians from 62 radio organizations in 38 other countries.

An office for 150 correspondents, a centre of 30 recording rooms and the largest control room ever manned by the BBC were built at Wembley Empire Pool of Arts. One hundred and forty-nine microphones, including 24 connected to mobile recording units — picked up descriptions of the 15,429 events.

Total output of the Wembley radio centre was 1,450 hours of transmissions and 2,622 recorded items. Altogether, there were 1,000 singers at the games cut 6,000 discs.

One of the 600 transmissions sent overseas by trunk-line and radio-telephone hook-up was a broadcast on July 29 by Min Chai Ho, senior announcer of the Korean Broadcasting System. It was the first broadcast in Korean to take the air over BBC transmitters.

However, the BBC did more than broadcast or aid in broadcasting — the Olympic games. An enquiry desk at the radio centre answered some 8,000 questions. And not all the questions were of the "Who won last night's basketball game?" variety. Fans on duty had to cope with such queries as "Can I have my sock darned?" and "How many coupons are needed for a man's overcoat?"

A work by the young Toronto-born composer John Weinzweig, which won the highest honors in the chamber-music class at the Olympic Games music competition is to be presented on CBS Wednesday night, Sept. 29.

Called "Divertimento for Flute and Strings," the piece was first performed by the CBC in 1946, shortly after it was completed.

Weinzweig, who served in the R.C.A.F. during the war, is a composer for radio and films, and a graduate of the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N.Y. He now is on the staff of the Royal Conservatory of Music at Toronto.

Included in the program will be two other Canadian compositions. "Interlude in an Artist's Life" and "Sonata for Violin and Piano."

Urges Investment In Caribbean Area

Port of Spain, Trinidad — (CP) —Lawrence D. Cramer, secretary general of the Caribbean Commission, believes the West Indies can attract "thousands and perhaps some day, hundreds of thousands of people from outside."

Expressing concern over the lukewarm attitude of both local and foreign capital in the development of the Hotel tourist business in the Caribbean, Mr. Cramer said he saw no reason why $50,000,000 could be attracted to the area.

A New oYrk proposal advocated formation of the Caribbean Development Tourist Association in 1946 and a meeting was held later in the year with delegates from Haiti, San Domingo and Dominica as well as various territories.

Further meetings may be held to discuss the proposals.

Pioneer "Crates" Recalled by Show Of New Aircraft

Farnborough, Hampshire — (CP) —The Canadian bush pilot who conquered the far north with a single engine fabric-covered wings and hopwire for emergency repairs would feel at a private man at the British aircraft industry show here.

Twenty years ago Canada normally led the achievements of the Pathfinder HISLs, Fairchilds, Bellancas, Ryans, Fokkers and Stinsons here at Farnborough they seem even more remote than that. For instance:

A glittering de Havilland Dove skither snorted onto a runway, stopped in 50 yards, then scooted backwards into a pit at the touch of pressure of reversible propellers. (Don MacLaren, Wop May, Punch Dickins, Al Cheesman and Herbert Hollick-Kenyon would have died of envy at their feats when the flying north was young.)

Lincoln bomber with two whistling jet engines and two thundering props flicked at a runway like a bit of down, moving its tons as if they were flecks of cloud. (Remember it's long run, the laborious climb, the lumbering engine of the Canadian airways pioneer?)

A Saunders-Roe flying boat (a "giant" plane 20 years ago) climbed, looped, dived and banked like a silver of silvered paper within the airfield space. (Remember the terrific run, the long take-off, the ripple to give them a "start in getting" off and the "prayer" of many a pilot?)

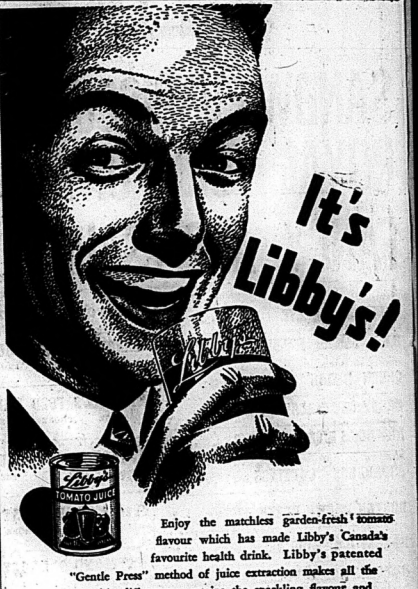
Some Detail

A Bristol freighter zoomed about with one of its two propellers "feathered," and a motor stilled. It landed. The fat nose opened and it unloaded a full deck of passengers. (Remember the little tractors taken apart to be loaded by hand into the British Columbia goldfields? And the pilot's dislike of stout passengers?)

Hordes of fighters slipped across the sky at about 600 miles an hour, screaming like banshees under the solemn thump of the Prairie night air mail, racing above at 50 miles an hour.)

The silvery Canadian-built Chipmunk monoplane trainer showed its place among the big ones, twisting out of the runway into a fast turn that would have grayed the hair of aero club instructors from coast to coast. (Remember the early training planes that had to be coaxed into the air, and handled with reverent care?)

There were bellowing Sea Otters, such as much like airplanes as a cow is like a bird, and a jet-propelled interceptor that shot like a bullet with a long tail but with a big cockpit as black as a hooded sheepdog. And sailing serenely overhead was a jet that swooped and turned in eerie silence.



"For other visitors in the world can show so wide a range of aircraft from flying machines to the modern flying machines," Sir Arthur Robinson, director of the Society of British Aircraft Constructors told at Farnborough.

'Re-Birth of Freedom' Must And Will be Given Canada By P-C Party Says O'Leary

Ottawa, Sept. 30 (CP)— The Progressive Conservative party must and will bring Canada a "re-birth of freedom," the party's National Convention was told today by M. Grattan O'Leary of Ottawa, temporary joint chairman.

Addressing delegates as they assembled to choose a new leader, Mr. O'Leary said the party was preparing to resume its historic task of rescuing this country from crisis.

Mr. O'Leary, associate editor of the Ottawa Journal, spoke affirmly after the convention opened. It was a rousing pep talk setting a fighting mood for 1,311 delegates starting to pick John Bracken's successor and to fashion a platform directed at carrying the country at the next election.

Democracy Still Living Faith

Mr. O'Leary said the party gathering gave testimony that "Democracy in this land is still a living faith, and that the Progressive Conservative party prepares to resume its historic task of rescuing this country from crisis."

"The survival and extension of Democratic traditions are the challenge of our day," he said.

For too long, Mr. O'Leary said Canada had been governed by "Motion and hammer. There had been government by anniversaries; by slogans; by men rather than by laws; by questionnaires; by a hierarchy of bureaucrats; by order-in-council; by taxation imposed over the radio; by surrender to socialists; and government to beat Walpole's record of power.

"And now," the joint chairman added "government by a party leader appreciated to a Prime Minister who is , responsible to no one at all."

While his indictment of the Liberal party might be strong Mr. O'Leary said, he reminded his audience that at the Liberal convention last month, the government had been criticized by two for giving power to persons not responsible to the people.

These were premier Macdonald of Nova Scotia and former Air Minister C. G. Power, a leadership candidate.

Of Canada's foreign policy, he said it "has looked suspiciously like humbug." It had certainly lacked consistency and clarity, and probably competence.

Attack on Liberal Policy

Attacking liberal budget policy, Mr. O'Leary declared every month this year the government was taking from the people $80,000,000 more than it needed. That was Information.

"Not only our workers," he said, "but hundreds of thousands of our people on middle-class incomes are being taxed to a point of cruel hardship — at this that the government may boast of a surplus and enlarge its mania to spend still more and more."

In the Progressive Conservative Party, there was an abiding faith in human achievement, but "we must have the fear to proclaim that the way is hard, not a beaten track for sheep, but an advance calling of what is best in man's nature."

P.C. NATIONAL CONVENTION OPENS TODAY

Toronto's youngest Progressive Conservative M.P., Ellen Fairclough (Hamilton West), left, is flanked by Mrs. Joe Harris (Danforth) Toronto's oldest in point of service in the House of Commons, during discussion of proposed resolutions at the National Convention in Ottawa. Other Toronto delegates, Harry Jackman (Rosedale) and Fred G. Gardiner, K.C., chairman of the resolutions and policy committee and reeve.

Gross Production In Electrical Industry High

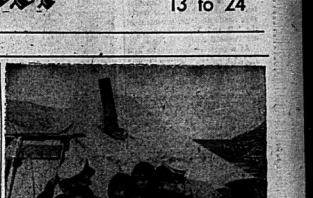
Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 30— (CP) — Production of the electrical industry in Canada is more than four times that of 1939, A. S. McCordick of Toronto, retiring president, said today at the annual convention of the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers' Association.

For 1948, gross value of production is estimated in the neighborhood of $400,000,000, nearly 10 per cent above last year. Its 300 plants employ nearly 53,000 people.

"The C.E.M.A. chief, Mr. McCordick, "has offered its services to Canada's industrial defence board in case of national emergency, and we feel that the facilities of the electrical manufacturing industry would, if and when needed, function in the most efficient possible manner in the national interest.

Some of the reasons for expansion in the industry, and also for power shortages, were given in a luncheon address by W. C. Johnson, president of the United States National Electrical Manufacturers' Association.

"People are living a better life all over the hemisphere and that continues to improve their status as long as ever-increasing, inexpensive power is available to perform tasks in the home and to provide the means for craftsmen to produce more."



"Domestically, the all-electric kitchen, the all-electric laundry, electric blankets, home freezers, have added to the demand and it is the number of such additions that has brought about the staggering peaks which require reductions of voltage to pull through."

R.C.A.F. HUT REMODELLED TO FORM SCHOOL

London, Ont., Sept. 30 (CP) — School bells will ring at nearby Crumlin eastern part of Lower Monday. Children there lacked a school until city council approved remodelling of an R.C.A.F. hut into class rooms. Last term the children went by bus to local schools.

GREAT LAKES SKIPPER DIES

Buffalo, Sept. 30 (AP).—John W. Keeley, 73, a skipper on the Great Lakes for several years before his retirement in 1937, died Wednesday. Previous to his retirement, Capt. Keeley was master of an automobile ferry between Ashtabula, O., and his native port Maitland, Ont.

There are no rent bills at Wakeham Bay and no taxes. Pitch your tent and you are home free. Above, Petty Officer Edward Poirier, of Dartmouth, N.S., and Able Seaman Real D'Anjou, of 5959 Foucher Street, Montreal, made friends with an Eskimo mother and two children.

Propaganda Guns Begin Hammering Hard at Iran

Washington, Sept. 30, (AP)— Moscow's propaganda guns are hammering so hard at Iran that American diplomatic authorities are wondering whether Russia is considering a new move in that part of the world .

Four Moscow radio broadcasts assailing the Iranian government and criticizing conditions in the oil-rich middle eastern land were recorded in a single day this week by United States government monitors. Ascret "Azerbaijan democratic station" joined in the Anvil chorus with two additional verbal attacks.

Iran is a recognized strategic soft spot. It was the scene of a misfired Russian adventure of two years ago. Soviet occupation troops finally were pulled out of Iran's Azerbaijan province under pressure from the United Nations Security Council in a crisis somewhat similar to the present Berlin dispute.

One Moscow broadcast this week charged the Iranian government with failing to carry out an amnesty order freeing pro-Soviet leaders rounded up after the Russian troops withdrew. Another claimed Iran is about to enter an Arab bloc which "will serve the interests of the Anglo-American monopolists of the Middle East". A third reported that danger of "famine" in increasing in Iran.

Meanwhile the clandestine Azerbaijan station was calling the Shah, Iran's ruler, a traitor because of his talks with British officials in London.

The United States has a veteran career diplomat, John C. Wiley, on the scene as ambassador. The Soviet Ambassador is reported absent from Tehran at the moment, wrapping with the Russian military attache. They ostensibly are on vacation.

BABY FOUND DEAD UNDER MOTHER WHO HAD FAINTED

Reading, Pa., Sept. 30 (AP)— Four months old Dolores Helge Lake was found dead Wednesday beneath her mother, Mrs. Helge Lake, who had fainted while holding the child. Police said Mrs. Lake was found lying on the floor of her apartment.

BOEING STRATOCRUISER TESTED AT 408 M.P.H.

Seattle, Sept. 30 (AP). — The Boeing Airplane Company said Wednesday that its flight-tested its new Boeing Stratocruiser at a speed of 408 miles an hour. It said that was faster than any transport or other airplane of its size has ever been flown.

CLOTHING PROBE BY COMMISSION NEARING END

Evidence Shows One Firm Made $5,956 Profit on $15,000 Capital

Ottawa, Sept. 30 — (CP) —The Prices Commission was scheduled to wind up its investigation of men's work clothes today with an examination of Hudson's Bay Co. officials.

One of Wednesday's witnesses, Arthur Jacobs of the Union Overall Manufacturing Co. of Montreal, described it as "a low-profit, high-turnover business" after Chairman C. A. Curtis had drawn attention to the firms yield on its capital.

Mr. Jacobs had presented records showing that last year the firm's $15,000 capital yielded $5,956. A return of that nature "is something we'd all like to get into," Prof. Curtis declared.

Later in the day commissioner counsel H. A. Dyde declared that the profits of the Wilkinson Steel Works Ltd. of Winnipeg amounted to a $90 yield on shares with a par value of $100. In this case, however, the full capitalization of the firm was not drawn out.

"Your gross profits are immeasurably better, immeasurably more favorable to you than most companies that have appeared before us" Mr. Dyde told the firm's representative on the witness stand, Samuel D. Nilkman.

Mr. Nilkman, secretary treasurer of the company, replied:

"Thank you."

Mr. Nilkman, discussing the price of overalls, declared that it was reasonable in relation to farmers' increased incomes. Two bushels of wheat would buy a pair of overalls today" which it certainly wouldn't during the 30s.

When Mr. Dyde skede When Mr. Dyde asked what lines yielded a 50 per cent markup the witness replied:

"In children's wear you can sometimes get that — it's perhaps a bit exaggerated.

"I don't think it's much exaggerated — we're looking at your statements," Mr. Dyde said.

Royal Commission On Liquor Asked By United Church

Vancouver Sept. 30 (CP) —The United Church of Canada, its 13th General Council concluded, has placed on record a demand for curbs upon the liquor industry in the Dominion and royal commission to inquire into all aspects of its operations.

The church made known its attitude toward alcoholic beverages and their manufacture, distribution and sale by accepting Wednesday a report prepared by a committee under R. T. Richards of London, Ont.

The report asked the church to urge governments to institute a steeply graded tax on capital gains of beverage alcohol companies" and, in line with the British example, increase taxes on beer, wines, and spirituous liquors.

A study of alcohol to protect society against the evils and ravages of the drug" also was recommended, this to be carried out by provincial health and education departments.

Rev. J. R. Mutchmoor of Toronto secretary of the Evangelism and social services department, said there now was more money in the liquor traffic "six times over than the richest gold mine in the world."

Before concluding in its nine-day sessions first held on the west coast, the council approved a $3,000,000 development program designed to overcome four "obstacles."

These were listed in a report presented by Rev. W. Harold Young of Toronto as a lack of "Spiritual conviction and response" on the part of a large section of the church; a shortage of personnel and candidates for full-time service; and an insufficient number of new churches.

In dealing with observance of the Lord's Day, a report prepared by a committee under Judge Archibald Cochrane and Rev. R. C. Chalmers of Toronto called for organized Sunday sport, called upon the church to undertake activities which would appeal to youth "who have regular activities on Sunday afternoon and evening" and asked the government to refrain from having armed force training on the Lord's Day unnecessarily.

VERDICT BELIEVED NEAR IN MURDER TRIAL OF RIVERS

Defence Counsel Claims No Evidence Given of Accused's Activities When Girl Slain

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 30 (CP) — A murder trial jury is expected to rule today on the guilt or innocence of Richard Rivers, 30-year-old Dilbert Jordan, accused in the hotel room sex-slaying of his 21-year-old fiancee sister-in-law.

Mr. Justice G. A. Cale said he would deliver his charge to the jury at the start of today's hearing.

Defence counsel Ian Munro told the jury the Crown had presented no evidence concerning Rivers' activities at the time of the slaying. The girl was beaten and strangled July 23 in a hotel room registered in Rivers' name in Blind River, 96 miles east of here.

Rivers previously testified he went to the bedroom with the girl, had sexual intercourse with her, then left her "half drinking eight pints of beer and a pint of whisky. He said he came to several hours later on the street, returned to the room and was shocked to see his sister-in-law "on the bed, naked and strangled and beaten."

Mr. Munro said anyone might have gone to the room unseen after Rivers left it. Rivers claimed he was out of the room about four hours.

Town Full of Firefighters

"There is much doubt in this case," Mr. Munro said. "The town was full of firefighters. These were men of all characters. Remember that men were conscripted for firefighting with the only requirement being strong backs."

The slain girl was "a person of primitive emotions and led a type of life that leads to violence," Mr. Munro said.

Crown Attorney Arthur A. Wishart asserted sex was the motive. He denied that Rivers' fiancee was a woman of loose morals. He said Rivers had visited his sister-in-law to spend the night with him and killed her when she decided to leave.

The defence had offered no evidence that Rivers was anywhere else than in the death room at the time the girl was killed. Rivers had been "running from justice" when arrested in the Mississauga bushlands west of Blind River three days after the slaying, he said.

Mr. Wishart described Rivers' story of losing consciousness for most of the night as a "fantastic fabrication."

McCallum Critical Of Ontario Govt. Over Indigents

Toronto Sept. 30 (CP) —Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto charged Wednesday night the Ontario government failed to keep up understanding with municipalities concerning payment of hospital debts for indigent patients.

He told the Board of Control government officials had told him "they might be able to take care of the deficits if they were spread over a five year period" by taking over the amusement tax for hospital aid purposes.

"Now the province has changed its mind because it feels revenue from the tax should go as capital grants for construction of hospitals and not to pay for debts in 1946 and 1947," he said during discussion of a request for $800,000 to pay hospital deficits for indigent patients.

Canadian Textiles Said Best in World

Montreal — (CP) — Canadian textiles are the best in the world, says Emile Collette, president of the Silk and Rayon Manufacturers' Association.

At a press conference, he said that Montreal is becoming a world fashion centre due to the growing independence of Canada's textile mills in fabric design and production.

The textile executive attributed this to the fact that 12 of Canada's 14 rayon mills are in the province of Quebec. From the creative point of view, French-Canadian textile workers have inherited a tradition of old habitant handicraft which goes into their work.

This, he said, makes "the distinctive Canadian design which, in return, leads to distinctive Canadian fashions."

Most Canadian mills now have their own designing and research departments. The industry is also growing color-conscious with the mills turning out 30 to 40 shades, compared with five and 10 shades only a decade ago.

Mr. Collette emphasized that Canadian textile prices were also lower than those of other countries.

A trawl made at 4380 fathoms produced no fish, but there was evidence of life at this depth. Specimens of lime tubes of worms are at present undergoing investigation. Dr. Kullenberg is in London, Eng., at the moment.

Dorothy Norman Publishes Books Of Significance

New York (AP) — Authors don't always expect to make money but publishers usually are in business for love of lucre as well as literature. Yet I've just met a different kind of publisher who says:

"I've never made any money publishing books and never even tried to."

She is Dorothy Norman, an attractive woman who claims to be a lot older than she looks. She has two children a husband and a house; has written several books; is active in political affairs; makes speeches, does a thrice a week column for the New York Post; works a camera. And as the Twice-a-Year Press now ten years old, she has published 15 books.

Ten are successive numbers of "Twice a Year; A book of literature, the Arts and Civil Liberties." The new number, called Art and Action will be out soon. For it, as well as all the others Mrs. Norman read hundreds of manuscripts submitted during the year. She decided on the ones to print, edited them, designed the book itself, and even sent the word around to book stores for she hasn't any salesman. One year she even took care of wrapping the volumes and mailing them.

Famous Europeans

It's a one-woman but many author house. Art and Action as well as the preceding numbers. is not like any other collection in book form. Besides an impressive group of young writers, there is a remarkable European contingent. Camus, Sartre, Malraux, Brecht, Silone; and along with them are political, legal and sociological documents of first importance, such as speeches by George C. Marshall, United States secretary of state; a proposed world constitution; and reports of hearings held by the House of Representatives Un-American Affairs Committee.

There are photographs by Strand, Brett Weston and Mrs. Norman.

"To understand is not enough" the editor says. When she first came to New York from Philadelphia, she worked for the Civil Liberties Union. Acquaintance with modern art taught her, she says, that organizational defence of individuals was not individualistic enough. Art got closer to a man; literature was written not only by the professional literary man but also by the doctor lawyer, Judge and statesman.

Her convictions were confirmed by Alfred Stiegitz, art dealer- photographer and sympathetic and helpful friend of the new artist. Stiegitz was the subject of an anthology of appreciations edited by Mrs. Norman and of a memorial portfolio issued a year after his death. Mrs. Norman now is at work on his biography which she plans as a definite source book running to two or three volumes.

Other publications of Twice a Year are books by Angna Enters and John Beecher, and a Franz Kafka "Miscellany."

Mrs. Norman says the new volume ought to sell for $8 for her to make a two per cent profit; the loss she'll sustain at $4.75 a number, comes out of her newspaper work. Her associate editor is Mary Leacze and Richard Wright.

London — (CP) — Herbert Perry, 44, was dismissed from the police force for stealing two cauliflowers and one cabbage — valued at 64 cents. He had been a police constable 22 years and would have received a pension in three years.

Three Edmonton Kids Run Hand-Car "Taxi"

Edmonton — (CP) — Three Edmonton youngsters have turned out a working and profitable version of the horseless carriage.

The three — Grant Bryenton, 13, Donald Carle, 13 and Allan Brookes, 12 — have put into operation the "93 Street Taxi," a frail but serviceable contraption that operates on the same pricple as the railway hand car.

Two operators sit at each side of the car, pumping oars attached to bars that turn the wheels. Passengers ride standing in the back.

Made of a few scraps of lumber and old bicycle rims, the vehicle runs up and down 93 Street carrying youngsters at the rate of one cent a block.

Since the start of the business in June, Manager Bryenton said the company has made a profit of 76 cents.

"Kid Scientist" Amazes Teachers in the Pas Schools

The Pas, Man.—(CP)—Learned men and women in various other parts of Canada know more about The Pas' "kid scientist" than do most local residents as the result of his correspondence on such subjects as zoology, botany, physics, chemistry and mathematics.

He is 16-year-old Walter Krivda, who entered The Pas Collegiate this year after amazing his teachers in the separate school with his profound interest in scientific subjects since the age of 12.

His home laboratory appears a jumble of specimen books and vessels for the study of alchemy. In the summer he carries his botanical studies into the field. In the winter he ponders questions of chemistry and physics. As a year-round spare-time hobby he discusses these questions with such men as Professor Charles Lowe and Norris Eley of the University of Manitoba.

Walter won six prizes and a diploma at the separate school graduation exercises in June. His schoolmates termed him a "mathematical wizard." He does not think so. His comment typifies the detached way in which he discusses nearly everything.

Can't Explain — Yet

"That's exaggerated," he says, "I believe the proof of understanding anything is your ability to explain it; and I haven't reached that stage in higher mathematics by any means."

He admits that one of his most pleasant evenings recently was spent in a discussion of the Darwinian theory of evolution with a local naturalist.

Walter has some specimens of northern wild life mounted. His ambition is to complete the work of Prof. Shirley Brooks, who died several years ago. At the time Prof. Brooks was engaged in classifying northern butterflies. The young student would like to complete the task started by Brooks "if I ever reach the stage of his knowledge."

Walter frankly explained his status among students of his own age. "Some of the polite ones tell me I'm a little eccentric. Some others tell me I'm nuts."

He explains his keen interest in questions which would befit the average adult as the continuation of a childhood curiosity which his mother did nothing to discourage.

He is determined to complete zoological and botanical studies and is not particularly interested in financial returns "just so long as I get enough to live on."

Many French People View Canada As Sunny Land of Higher Wages

By NORMAN CIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Paris Sept. 30 (CP) — Travelling in France on a Canadian passport is an experience in itself. Everywhere the little blue book evokes interest and is regarded with respect and sometimes envy.

"You'd better take care of that," customs officer told me on the train from Calais. "Lots of French folk would give 1,000,000 francs for a Canadian passport."

Fear of another war that might wreck Europe seems to be the thought uppermost in the minds of Frenchmen and women anxious to seek a new country — preferably a new country with some French traditions. But they have economic reasons as well.

People with property view Canada as a near-Socialistic paradise where they can escape from the taxes imposed by a changing but consistently left-wing government. Many business men say as soon as they take a substantial profit they put the money back into renovations and repairs.

To the average wage earner Canada is a sunny land of higher wages and better living standards.

A French artist I met in the Louvre — home of French and foreign art treasures was hugely excited by a newspaper announcement that French settlers would be welcome in French Canada.

"I see no future for France but rising prices, worse poverty and the threat of another war that will leave Europe in ruin. I would give my last franc to go to Canada, but I should still want to earn my living as a painter. Does Canada want painters?"

Men and women of many trades and callings talked in this strain.

A tired middle aged woman: a war widow with five children, said gloomily: "Europe belongs to the past. It is bankrupt morally and financially. I would go anywhere out of Europe, but preferably to a new country where my children would have a real chance in life."

Home Problems Are Neatly Solved on Radio Program

You can put a stop to that very quickly, just sew a piece of lace on the tail of his shirt and he'll keep it out of sight.

Are you trying to get your weight down to 120 pounds? Here's a trick that will help. Cut out a picture of a girl who is as slim as you'd like to be. Paste it on the ice box door. It will halt you in your tracks when you have a yen for snacks.

Does your husband forget to mail the letters you write? There's a remedy for that. Just tie a long string around the envelope. When he puts it in his pocket the trailing string will serve as a reminder.

Perhaps he can't even remember your birthday. You can overcome that fault with a couple of vegetables. Spell out the date with peas in the mashed potatoes on the dinner table several nights before the anniversary.

These are examples of feminine ingenuity brought to light on the radio program "Hint Hunt." Women write out their suggestion and submit them for judgment. Authors of the best ideas win prizes.

The show has received so far 80,000 solutions to as many problems that confront housewives. Most of them are practical. Some are amusing too.

Cure for Crying

One mother had a child who wept without cause. So she gave him a potted plant and told him to water it with his tears. This placed the lad in a situation that was more silly than sad and his sobs turned to smiles.

Another woman had some sound advice on how to keep children who play across the street out of the paths of automobiles. Just give the kid a whistle. He will blow it when he is ready to come home. Then you go out and guide him through the traffic.

A lady didn't need a laboratory to work out a method of making sure she didn't leave her apartment without a key. She used sound effects. She tied a bell on the key and put it in her purse. Now, when she is stepping out, she shakes her purse. If it tinkles, she knows the key is inside.

Does a dripping faucet drive you wild? Tie a piece of string to the faucet. The water will run down it in silence until the plumber arrives.

Suppose the ceaseless tick-tick-tick of a clock annoys somebody in a sickroom. Cover the clock with a glass bowl. The patient can see the time but he can't hear it go by.

Nobody knows how many fountain pens have been borrowed and never returned. But there's a way to scotch that. Keep the cap. The party who has the writing end will notice that something is missing. That will jog his memory.

This idea exchange has been operating for two years. The top tips are broadcast five days a week over the Columbia Broadcasting System network at 2 p.m. C.S.T. and originate in a Chicago studio. Winners to date have walked off with $600,000 worth of merchandise.

Advise Doctors Work in Groups

London — (CP) — The day of the family doctor working a practice single-handed is over, the British Medical Association says in a report.

Partnerships should be formed. Better still, doctors should work together in health centres planned under Britain's new Health Service.

The report, prepared by a committee appointed last year to study conditions of practice throughout the country, says single practice entails too much strain on the doctor's wife.

Irregularity of meals in a doctor's house, interruption of family activities and disturbed nights are too much for a woman, the report says. The doctor cannot take a holiday, when he wants to, works often when too ill to do so and has no time for post-graduate study.

Presidential Campaign Finds Cards Stacked Against Truman

Washington (CP) — They used to call Al Smith "The Happy Warrior" of United States politics. One of these days someone will coin a phrase like that to describe Harry S. Truman.

Truman entered the current campaign as Democratic candidate for re-election as president with the stacked against him, an under dog presidential candidate if there ever was one. He went into it smiling, wisecracking confident and serene.

The Wallace Progressives were dragging away at his normal leftist and Liberal support. The Southern Democrats had deserted in force and even wiped his name off the ballot in one state. Public opinion polls and the great bulk of newspapers were against him. Campaign donations were scanty and the party treasury was low.

Beyond all that loss of normal support, Truman was facing an anti-Truman hungry rejuvenated Republican party with two able candidates and a two year old grip on the House of Representatives and Senate which they seemed certain to extend to the White House after 16 years' Democratic occupancy. Truman was counted out and weighed down with handicaps, but no one would know it to see him talk and hear his confident "We'll give 'em hell" promise as he started away on his appeal for the American Peoples votes.

TOP-DRAWER DIPLOMATS IN SPIRIT OF AMITY

Man of the People

Truman is a man of the people. He was born in humble circumstances, had a high school education went to war and did all right, came home as a cavalry major, w a small town business man and a county judge. Then, through the friendship of political boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City, he got a shot at the United States and won election easily.

By hard work and a deep interest in government affairs Truman succeeded as a senator and got the chairmanship of a committee set up to watch government expenditures during the Second World War.

That made him a big shot. The brass hats and top government officials some of them million-a-year dollar-a-year men, squirmed before him and his associates investigating expenditures of public money.

But he never really got highhat and he did not make important enemies. He did make a lot of friends and it was been said his committee saved the United States from a lot of expensive mistakes in wartime.

During her husband's 10 years in Washington as Senator, Mrs. Truman did their own housework in a modest five room apartment where they lived with their only child Margaret. There was no change when he was elected vice-president in 1944. He still helped Mrs. Truman with the dishes.

President Roosevelt's death snatched them into the White House April 12 1945, and probably no more humble and reluctant family ever took up residence in that old mansion.

Homespun President

Except for Margaret's tentative plunge into an operatic career the family has remained humble and homespun and Truman has retained the same family gusty enthusiasm for friends of the days when he was a haberdasher as for the greatest in the universe who come to him as president of the United States.

He worked a farm in his native Independence, Mo., near where he was born 64 years ago, worked as a bank clerk, did many odd jobs and for $30,000 in a haberdashery store partnership after getting out of the army.

Truman married his childhood sweetheart, Bess Wallace, whom he met at Sunday school class and grade school. He is proud of his daughter Margaret and they are great pals. It is known that he would have liked a son too.

Recently a Canadian resident correspondent in Washington took his own a cub reporter on a Canadian paper to a White House press conference. Afterwards he introduced the son to the president.

Truman greeted the reporter heartily then the smile left his face and his eyes lost their usual twinkle. Seriously he looked at the older Canadian and said. It must be a grand feeling to have a fine son at your elbow.

Truman took office at a critical time in the world's history and crisis has piled on crisis since. He has given his word everything a sober. intelligent, God fearing every day man could give. It is unlikely anyone will ever accuse him of insincerity or self-seeking.

Material Witness In Connection With Slaying Held

Montreal, Sept. 30 — (CP) — Police said Wednesday night that Joseph Desrosiers, wanted as a material witness in connection with the slaying of two Montreal policemen in a gun battle last Thursday, has been arrested.

They said that Desrosiers was arrested around 10:30 p.m. and that he was taken to police headquarters where he is being questioned. Police said they had nothing further to say for the moment.

Search continued, meanwhile, around the Ottawa and Hull districts for Donald and Douglas Perreault, unrelated, said by police to be responsible for the slaying of the two policemen.

Noel Cloutier, 24, was captured by police a short time after the holdup in which policemen P. E. Dureniseu and Nelson Paquin were killed.

COINCIDENCE!

Paris, Ont., Sept. 30 (CP) — Talk about coincidence!

Unable to read a letter from Germany, thanking her for clothing sent to that country last year, Mrs. Albert Edginton asked a young displaced girl working here, Stanislaw Pusinjak, to translate it.

he writer, Miss Pusinjak gasped had lived only two doors from her in Austria.

Whalemeat Not Sold In Vancouver Shops

Vancouver — (CP) — British Columbia whalemeat, retailing at about half the price of high-cost land meat, has little market in Vancouver.

For some weeks no whalemeat has been on the market here, although plenty is available. Western Whaling Corporation has, however, shipped some to Seattle, Portland and Sacramento.

Vancouver butchers have declined to handle the product, which some consumers have difficulty distinguishing from beef when cooked.

One reason given is that its status, from the government import regulations standpoint, has not been clarified.

Union Nationale Party Not Taking Part in Election

Ottawa, Sept. 30 (CP) Ivan Sabourin, leader of the Progressive Conservative party in Quebec, said today night and day — livestock for a red cow in a farmer's barnyard.

Wild Bull Moose Forms Friendship With Red Cow

Barrie, Sept. 30 — (CP) — A wild bull moose, cut from its companion of the lunge Wednesday — livestock for a red cow in a farmer's barnyard.

His sickness was brought on by struggles with men who wanted to take him away from the farmyard and back to his natural habitat.

The 1,200-pound moose wandered out of the bush and struck up a friendship with the red cow on Lawrence Offner's farm near Port Severn, 30 miles north of Barrie on Georgian Bay.

Game Department officials decided it was dangerous to leave the animal in a settled area with the mating season approaching. They lassoed and trucked him away to a provincial park.

But the park proved weren't strong enough to hold him so he was sent over to a farm on another nearby farm Tuesday. He died Wednesday.

The Soviet "iron curtain" has nothing on this scene, made at the Soviet embassy at Washington, as L. E. Thompson, deputy director of European affairs for the state department, delivered a note rejecting Russian proposals for settlement of the Berlin crisis. The note informed the Soviet government that the entire German issue will be submitted to the United Nations. Indicative of the feeling existing between this country and Russia is this hand cautiously poked out of the door to take the note from Mr. Thompson. Nowadays the Russians "just ain't talking to nobody."

Irishmen Pause On World Jaunt

Vancouver — (CP) — Two wandering Irishmen who think there is more to see in the world than their own Emerald Isle are in Vancouver on the first leg of a projected five-year world tour.

Dennis Lowery 23 and Anthony Neary 26, both of Dublin, arrived here 23 days after leaving home. They paid their boat fares across the Atlantic, but hope to make the rest of the trip "on the thumb."

Travelling light, in funds as well as baggage, the pair have slept in more jails than the average crook sees in a lifetime — always, of course, with official permission.

From New York, their debarkation point, they made San Francisco in 13 days. Another four brought them to Vancouver.

After a short halt to raise funds the travellers will move on to South America, New Zealand and Australia. They hope to return home through Europe.

Build $5,000 Centre For Edmonton Youth

Edmonton — (CP) — A dream is finally coming to reality for the Edmonton Athletic Club. Work has started on $5,000 clubhouse project to provide youth here with all kinds of sport activity.

"The project was made possible by a city council grant to athletic clubs of a plot of land. The project will include an open-air rink, gymnasium, baseball diamond and other sport facilities.

Al Anderson, president of the club, said, "One main reason for building the rink is to have a place for the Bantam hockey league to perform and develop young players."

Nat Cole to Use Farmer's Lyrics

Two tender love lyrics written by the bachelor have been accepted by Nat (King) Cole, noted Negro entertainer.

After years of suffering and hard luck, R. G. Cumming now is so happy he can't help smiling, despite the fact his upper lip is split almost in two. He was struck by a stone flung by an unknown assailant while strolling in Stanley Park a few days ago.

King Cole, winding up a Vancouver appearance, accepted lyrics for two songs entitled "My Melody" and "The Wine Is Enough for Me."

"They are both very nice sets of words, and I'm quite pleased with them," he said. "As soon as possible after I return to Hollywood I will write tunes for both of them. One of the tunes is sort of running through my head already."

Mr. Cole said if either song is a hit it quits easily could "put Mr. Cumming on easy street for the rest of his life."

Benedict-Proctor Hearing Postponed

Toronto Sept 30 (CP)— A hearing on application of Bendict Proctor Company Employees at Treston to prosecute the company's owner yesterday was postponed to Oct. 27 by the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

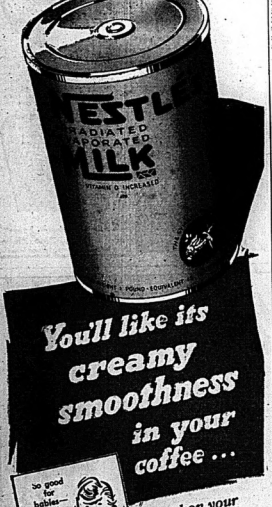
The A.F.L. jewelery workers union are requesting the right to prosecute company owner H. J. Craddock on charges of violating Ontario Labor regulations.

Mr. Craddock recently announced he would close his silver-plating plant on grounds that he was operating at a loss because of high cost. The employees took a five per cent wage cut at Craddock's request and went back to work for one month. The month ended Sept. 24 and employees said they would strike unless they received an increase by that time.

The union charges that Mr. Craddock attempted to break the organization, refused to negotiate in good faith and interferred with union administration.

ACCUSED BY PERON OF "MURDER PLOT"

—Central Press Canadian



Staring wide-eyed (with surprise maybe) is John Griffith, the American accused by President Juan Peron of Argentina as the instigator of a plot on Peron's life and seeking the overthrow of Peron's government. Mr. Griffith, former U. S. attache at the Buenos Aires embassy, was ousted from Argentina early this year as the instigator of a bank strike. When informed of the Peron charges in Montevideo, where the above photo was made, Mrs. Griffith designated them as a "detective story" and "vengeful persecution."

New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox Must Win Today to Keep Flag Hopes Alive

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

Victory is a must today for Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees. They have to win in order to keep alive their slim mathematical chance of overhauling Cleveland Indians in the American League's pennant race.

The Indians, two games ahead of the runner-up Red Sox and Yankees, are idle today, and New York and Boston draw with them the titles of no worse than a tie for the crown. Should both the Yankees and Red Sox bow the Indians can clinch their first flag since 1920 by beating Detroit Tigers Friday. All this with the contenders have three games left to play.

Boston clashes with the seventh-place Washington Senators in Fenway Park while the Yankees tackle the tough Athletics in Philadelphia.

The Indians maintained their commanding three-game bulge by defeating Chicago White Sox, 5-2, Wednesday. The Yankees downed the Athletics 4-3 and the Red Sox stopped the Washingtons, 8-3.

Going into today's games the picture is this:

Clubs	W.	L.	Pct.	G.B.	T.P.
Cleveland	95	56	.629	—	3
Boston	93	58	.616	2	3
New York	93	58	.616	2	3

While the Indians are idle in the American League's reorganizative in the classic, suffered a severe blow.

The Braves lost the services of Jeff Heath their slugging outfielder. Heath, a native of Fort William, Ont., broke his leg for a sliding home in the sixth inning attempting to score from second base in a game against Brooklyn Dodgers. Heath was batting at a .318 average and had belted 12 homers. The Braves won the game 4-1 when Phil Masi singled in Phil Mast from second in the ninth. Johnny Sain went the distance to record his 23rd victory.

Gordon, Keltner Helps

The booming bats of Joe Gordon and Ken Keltner gave the Cleveland its 18th victory in the last 21 starts.

Gordon drove in three runs with his 32nd homer and a double and Keltner punched in the other two with his 30th seat-smasher and a two-bagger.

Bob Feller, showing the effects of working with only two days of rest, went the route for Cleveland to post his 19th victory of the seventh straight. He allowed ten hits, walked three and fanned three.

The Sox jumped on Feller for two runs in the second inning. For a time it appeared that was all they needed as Letty Fraser Papish held the Indians almost in complete submission for five innings, blanking them on four singles.

But in the sixth the Indians struck. With one out, out Boudreau walked, Gordon and Keltner followed with homers and the Indians were in front to stay. Gordon and Keltner went to work again in the seventh, rifling successive doubles behind a walk to Dale Mitchell to bring in Cleveland's final run.

Yanks Stage Rally

The Yankees also staged a three-run sixth inning rally to overpower a 3-0 Philadelphia lead. With two out and Tommy Henrich and Joe DiMaggio on base, rookie outfielder Hank Bauer blasted a first major league homer to get the Yankees off to a hot start. The blow came off loser Dick Fowler of Toronto.

Post-War Criminals Said More Cynical

London — (CP) — Britain's post-war criminals appear even more cynical, irresponsible and unco-operative than their predecessors, says the current report of the Prison Commissioners.

One prison governor described the younger prisoners as "self-centred, unappreciative and lazy."

Prison populations now total nearly 20,000. Convictions for crimes of violence, burglary and housebreaking have been more than doubled since 1938 and nearly trebled the 1913 figure.

The commissioners commented: "This reversion to conditions which have not been seen for some 40 years is more than disturbing in that the peak clearly has not been reached."

Chicago Sept. 30 (AP) — Kid Chocolate, Cuban-born Santo Domingo welterweight boxer, died in hospital today, about five hours after he suffered a technical knockout in a bout at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

Dr. Roger Vaughan, night superintendent at the hospital, said Chocolate died of an appared cerebral hemorrhage. He did not fully regain consciousness after his arrival at the hospital, Dr. Vaughan said. He was unable to answer the bell for the ninth round in his 10 round bout with Bobby McQuiller of Port Huron Mich.

Chocolate, whose true name was Felix Lopez, was engaging in his 81st bout Wednesday night on his 22nd birthday. McQuiller floored the 144 pound Dinamita with a right to the chin in the ninth round and the bell saved him from a knockout. He was unable to get off his feet for the ninth round and was removed from the ring on a stretcher. McQuiller weighed 139 pounds.

'C' Form Player Of Maple Leafs Joins Quebec Aces

(By The Canadian Press)

Dean McBride of St. Catharines, one of the "Form C" players the Toronto Maple Leafs signed, Quebec Aces was charged with having attempted to rustle from Toronto Maple Leafs when he jumped the Quebec Senior Hockey League Aces, it was learned today at Quebec City.

Club officials said that the Leafs had offered to release both McBride and Ray Hannigan of Welland, other players involved in the hockey rustling case, for $2,000 apiece. Neither has not been heard from by the Quebec Club.

Both signed 'Form C', a National Hockey League form, with the Maple Leafs who wanted us send McBride to the Pacific Coast League and Hannigan to Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League.

"McBride wants to play with us and we'll do everything we can for him," Coach Imlach said "But $2,000 is a pretty steep price to pay, and we want to see what he has to offer before the Leafs buys the rights to sign him."

Imlach said another prospect, William "Wiggy" Wylie of Galt, who played for Galt Juniors last year, was scheduled to report today.

The National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs came from behind to defeat Pittsburgh at Waterloo to defeat Pittsburgh Hornets in an exhibition match before a crowd of 2,700. Their American Hockey League farmhands were leading 6-5 with less than five minutes to go but Bill Ezinicki tied the game 13.30 on a disputed goal and Harry Watson clinched it with the game-winning marker at 16.05.

Cincinnati Reds Wednesday announced the purchase of Jim Konstanty, relief pitching second baseman, who was named most valuable player in the International League. At the same time they announced the outright sale of pitcher Johnny Hetki and outfielder Bobby Usher to Syracuse Chiefs of the International League.

Detroit Red Wings moved into their hometown Olympia Stadium at Detroit yesterday to begin their final two weeks practice before the opening of the National Hockey League season. Close to 70 players from Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, Canada took the ice with another 50 aspirants to arrive today for the Wings' western camp at Saskatoon, Sask.

Hamilton Tigers last night won their third straight junior Ontario Rugby Football Union game by overpowering Kitchener-Waterloo 67-0 at Hamilton. Tigers went for 7 yards every time they carried the ball while the hapless visitors moved the yardsticks only twice and never threatened to score.

Mrs. T. J. Agars of Toronto York Downs, today added a two-stroke lead in defending her Canadian Senior Women's championship at Toronto Golf Club. With an 18-hole total of 94 at the half-way mark reached Wednesday, Mrs. Agars was followed closely by Mrs. G. E. Hackney of Quebec Seigniory Club who shot 96. Mrs. G. McMillen of Toronto Golf Club was third with 98.

Demon Hanover, winner of the Hambletonian, stamped home in straight heats at Lexington, Ky., yesterday to win the $3,000 Arden Homestead stake, a re-feature of the opening day's card of the 1948 Lexington Grand Circuit trots. Harrison Hoyt's streamlined three-year-old trotter, turned in a sparkling 2:01 3-5 in the first heat for his best time of the year for the mile.

Gaston Reiff, who won the 5,000-metre race for Belgium at the London Olympic games this summer, yesterday bettered the world record for the 2,000-metre run at Brussels. He was clocked in five minutes, seven seconds. The listed world record is 5:11.8 by Gunder Haegg of Sweden.

CHIPS
OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Another highly entertaining boxing card was offered the public at Memorial Arena last night. Like its predecessors it produced two hours of high class ring entertainment that consisted of nothing but clean cut knockouts. There was not a dull moment from the time the 88-pounder from Hamilton smacked each other about the ring until a solid punch in the Middle East was good enough to put Pretty Boy Neal Hall, Whitney, Hamilton, to temporary sleep in the fourth round of their scheduled five round main bout.

Promoter Murray Swarik, Oshawa, deserves a pat on the back for the fine boxing cards he shows time for, and the boxing public should show a little more box-office appreciation. Every card offered thus far has been the cream of Ontario amateur boxers in bulk and there has not been a "dud" bout present. Last night's show was no exception. It was productive of high class clean fighting with the boys well matched and each going out there to win.

Next week's card offers perhaps the best main bout since the start of the season. Chief Kinsman Charles, classy Cobourg mitman, who has been blazing a name for himself at the Memorial Arena, meets Ken Eatman of Hamilton with "Red" A. A. Toronto. Kolaski won a main bout fight here a few weeks ago and is considered one of the topflight boys in his division. Hall is by far the best main bout presented yet, and the boxing public should not pass up the opportunity to see this pair in action.

The pigskin season opened here on Saturday with "Red" Twaroschuk's Collegiate Institute senior gridders taking on the Peterborough C. I. squad.

Albert College field and should get under way about 2:30 pm. Peterborough has a strong aggregation this year, as a strong aggregation despite the fact they are minus their star, Simcoe, C. I. as far as can be ascertained is also strong in all departments and the first clash of the season should be worth seeing.

The scheduled game between the intra-city rival Albert and BCI slated for Oct. 6 has been laid over to Oct. 13 it has been announced. The change was made on the fact that BCI is staging a field day on the first-mentioned date.

The Bay of Quinte District of the COSSA held its annual meeting the other day and for the first time in its history a lady will preside over affairs from the presidential chair. The new prexy is Miss M. Lenore Bateman, B.A., with the honorary president being Mr. George Currie, BCI principal. Vice presidents are Mr. Bert Reddick and Miss Hurdle again in the secretarial chair is the "perennial" Tom Moffitt, of BCI fame.

Convenors named are: Girls' Basketball, Miss Martin, Trenton; girls' volleyball, Miss Gibson, Napanee; rugby, Frank Cunningham; hockey, E. Byrne, Tweed and basketball, N. A. Beach.

The meeting drew up football schedules among other business. In senior "B" football Picton and Trenton will enter teams with the BCI junior squad playing these teams in exhibition games. Junior football will be confined to the winners of the northern group of the district and the district winners will take on the representatives of the Lakeshore district on November 6. Reddick, Belleville CIAU will revive the six-man rugby in a special grouping and will be on their own as there is no official COSSA competition. The OSD team may play exhibition games with the junior squad if such a team is available. These games, of course, will be the twelve - man team affairs.

There is considerable silence on the senior "B" and midget hockey fronts these balmy fleeting days. Other centres are ringing to the hub-bub of leagues and teams in the throes of winter conversation, but this village, outside of junior activities has been quieter than the tomb of the Egyptian pharaohs. It doesn't bode well for the senior situation, and right now, according to the hints the insiders have been giving, there is very little chance of Belleville operating a senior calibre squad this year unless an overnight sugar daddy comes along — or a miracle happens.

And if a senior club is not operated, it means there will be no intermediate "A" squad. For the benefit of the fans, it definitely states that cities of 10,000 population and over must be represented by a senior club if an intermediate "A" squad is to function. So there it is gentlemen, the senior hockey outlook is decidedly dark, as far as we can ascertain. The Army, Navy, Air Force Club has withdrawn completely as junior "B" frahchise for the past two years, want no part of it this year, after the financial shellacking they took last season.

Meanwhile the junior Rockets are going about the business of organization. Four new youthful faces are in the city, which will be seen in action when the Rockets step on the ice. We'll have more about the new players later. Jack Maureece LaFort, starry junior goalkeeper of last year's team, has reached the age where he can mark "X" on a ballot, so he will not turn out with the kids this year.

Manager Bill Cook, of the juniors, announced the other day that Ken. McNaught, former Oshawa junior "A" star and latterly of the senior "B" squad here, has been named coach or the team. McNaught has plenty of hockey experience and should fill the bill satisfactorily.

The Belleville Merchants Midgets' manager, Alderman Newt. Wilbur informed us yesterday that his executive would not extend the franchise in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association this year. This means that unless another sponsors are up-coming, midget hockey will be dropped. This is definitely regrettable, as there is a wealth of potential hockey ability last year, and it will be a shame if they are not encouraged along organized lines.

The colorful career of baseball's greatest figure, the mighty Babe Ruth has been placed on the motion picture screen and sports fans, baseball followers in particular will thrill to the fast-moving events that sequence the life of the idol of baseball boyhood. Exciting baseball scenes, laughter, tears, fast-moving dramatic action combine to make the film "Babe Ruth" one of the outstanding pictures of the year. It is being shown at the McCarthy Theatre for four days starting Friday. Don't miss it.

Harris Unhappy Although Yanks Win Ball Game

Philadelphia, Sept. 30 — (AP) —"Looks bad," Bucky Harris observed today.

Harris' statement was made as he studied the American League standings, which showed Cleveland Indians two games ahead of New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox with only three games to play.

Harris and his Yankees were about as unconcerned as successful baseball warriors can be as they tramped into their dressing room after defeating Philadelphia Athletics 4-3 Wednesday.

For the Yanks to win the pennant outright, Cleveland must lose its three remaining games while the Yanks are beating the Athletics and Red Sox.

"It would be funny," Harris said without a change of facial expression, "if the Indians lost the three."

Then he grinned. "But that won't happen. Feller won't lose."

The Yanks almost bowed out of the flag fight We'dnesday because of a fly ball dropped by Joe DiMaggio, one of the greatest centre fielders in baseball.

DiMag was a pathetic looking figure as he hobbled about nursing a charley horse in his left leg. He looked most pathetic as he hurried in for a fly lifted by pinch-hitter Carl Scheib in the last of the ninth.

Joe reached the ball, but could not hang on as Phil Rizzuto stepped on base. Then with one out, Barney McCosky blasted a double to right and the tying runs were on second and third.

Edmonton Sept. 30 (CP) — The Canadian west has been praised for a Dominion ring title the last few years but a slugging policeman from Edmonton hopes to set things right. He is Roddy MacDonald Western Canada welterweight champion, whose undistinguished ring career was brought to an abrupt end more than a year ago when he injured his back.

Johnny (Edmonton Journal) Hopkins has a word of explanation as to why the slim heavyweight has agreed to a comeback against Cliff Beckett, a Toronto tornado who showed up well in exhibition bouts against Tony Zale and Sugar Ray Robinson.

"MacDonald, 27, is fairly confident he can win the middleweight crown. Combined with MacDonald's ability is his desire to prove to local scoffers that top flight boxers can be produced in the west.

Jim (Edmonton Bulletin) Algoe quotes rock-a-bye Roddy as saying, "I can win that crown and I'm going to win it just to prove it to the Edmonton fans. I'm in good shape and plan to stay that way until I win the laurels."

Both boys took a look at Roddy's ring career which started in the Canadian army. He won the Canadian and British army crowns in uniform and knocked out Elzo Poquet, Belgian middleweight champ, in seven rounds.

Roddy captured the golden glove middleweight crown in 1942 then moved to Manhattan. He won 10 of 12 bouts before his hands gave out.

Roddy figures it will take him four warm up fights before he is ready to meet George from the Nova Scotia coal miner who holds the title pinned on him Oct. 15 date with Beckett is the first step.

Bud Pypher K.O.'s Hal Whitney In Fourth Round of Main Bout

A two-fisted attack featuring a devastating solid right was too much for Hal Whitney, Hamilton, in the main bout of the boxing card at Memorial Arena last night and a fourth-round smash to the stomach followed by a gouging attack to the jaw put the glowering Bud "Peter" Pypher next him screaming halfway through the ropes where he was counted out by Referee "Chuck" Murphy, of Toronto.

The card was another Murray Swarts presentation and another feather in that gentleman's promotional cap. All the events with the exception of one which ended in a first-round knockout were rousing battles. The boys went out there to win and the result was a fine evening of boxing entertainment.

The main bout gave Pypher another Belleville triumph and he was master of the situation all the way with perhaps the exception of the third round when Whitney in a furious flurry of fists drove the Oshawa boy back to the ropes. Pypher, however, slid both fists to good advantage with a powerful right cocked at all times, caught Whitney bouncing off the ropes with the right connected and he clipped him solidly on the rebound.

Pypher, as opportunist fighter followed up his advantage boring in and jetting go with both fists at the mid-section and head of Whitney. The Hamilton boy retorted a flicking left jab but Pypher got around that defense and pounded his man against the ropes with both gloves flailing.

The end came in the fourth when Pypher drove a hard right to the solar plexus of Whitney, crumpled and spun halfway through the ropes. His full inside the ring and failed to hear the count of ten.

The rematch between Jumping Jerry Dawes and Bud Henry of Oshawa was a rip-roaring struggle. Dawes, clever boxer, put the fighter tore into the clever Oshawan with both fists, wrestling and throughout the five rounds the tall Henry had to give plenty of ring room back for more. The fight almost stole the show with its five rounds of fast action. Dawes got the nod on a split decision with judges Joe Sasseni and Eddie Lee giving Henry the tab and referee Murphy giving the bout to Dawes.

Ron Mansfield, Belleville, made an auspicious comeback in his 1948 debut when he defeated clever Tony Bloel of Hamilton. Mansfield, a fast, shifty fighter who packs plenty of punching power lost most of his former ability. He is aggressive and moves around the ring with new purpose. Bloel fought back savagely and rocked Mansfield with some solid rights at times, but the Belleville fighter came back to win a unanimous decision.

Gerald Ellis, Trenton, won his fight before a knockout in the first round had gone. He drove a hard punch to the solar plexus of Wallace Bowie, Hamilton, and when the lanky Bowie crumpled plainly hurt, to the floor, and was counted out.

Carl Clapper, Belleville, after taking punishment in the first round came back with a savage two-fisted attack to pound out a victory over George Swenor, Belleville. Clapper showed plenty of Clapper punches, however, in the second round and the first and in the second. He lost on a TKO when the referee stopped the fight with a minute to go in the second heat.

Wallie Duby, Trenton, turned the tables on Ray Lucas in another exciting knock-out-go-round. Both boys slugged it out for three rounds with Duby getting the decision.

Jay Lucas (75), Belleville, lost to Bobby Vieau (73), Trenton, decision.

Bill Lewis (135), Hamilton, lost to George Vieau (135), Trenton, split decision (5).

Ray Lucas (126) Belleville, lost to Wall Duby (127) Trenton, decision (3).

Main Preliminary

Main Bout

But (Peter Pipher (139) Oshawa, K.O.'d Hal Whitney (139), Hamilton, in 1.15 of 4th round.

2nd Main Bout

Jerry Downes (133), Belleville, lost to Bud Henry (177) Oshawa on a split decision (5).

"He's a fine fellow and a grand wrestler but I think I can defeat him again and retain the Empire title" quoth smiling Whipper Billy Watson. He was referring to handsome Fred Atkins, Australian champion who is intent upon removing the Empah baubles from the Watsonian noggin. The pair clash in a rematch for the title in Memorial Arena tomorrow night.

"I didn't win the blinkin' Australian championship by twiddling me thumbs, y'know" grinned good-looking Fred Atkins, Australian wrestling champion who tangles with Whipper Watson tomorrow night at the Arena. "I lost a close fight against Watson last week but if I clamp the old Kangarod Klutch on him, the championship will flit from his brow to mine in jig time. There will be no fooling in this bout. I can beat Watson and I intend doing tomorrow night," he said.

McCarthy Thinks Birdie Tebbetts Best Catcher

Boston Sept. 30 (AP) —Win, lose or tie, Manager Joe McCarthy is convinced he has the best catcher in the American League in Birdie Tebbetts.

"I don't know of anybody else that has outcaught him," said the skipper of Boston Red Sox after Wednesday's 5-1 victory over Washington.

"Tebbetts really has been a big help to our pitchers. I don't think he ever hit as good in his life. I don't know about the National League. They've got a pretty fair catcher at New York in that big Cooper, but in the American, you'd have to give it to Tebbetts."

Tebbetts job isn't over yet for McCarthy refuses to give up on his struggling Red Sox who are two down to Cleveland with only three to play for the American League pennant. He has his pitching plans lined up for the rest of the season.

Heath Breaks Leg Trying to Slide Away from Tag

Brooklyn Sept. 30 (AP) —Jeff Heath's dreams of playing in his first World Series after 13 years in the big leagues lay shattered today in a plaster cast surrounding his left foot.

The Boston's Braves' Fort William born outfielder broke the foot Wednesday trying to slide away from a tag at home plate in a game with Brooklyn. The game didn't mean a thing, since Boston already had won the National League pennant.

The injury means a lot. It is so severe that Heath, now 33, may never play again. It robbed the Braves of their most powerful left-handed hitter and cut them to only three outfielders.

Heath wasn't a defensive star, but he is familiar with Cleveland Stadium. He started his major league career with the Indians.

"Oh, why did I slide!" he moaned after being carried to the club house.

"Because you're a hustling ball player," came the answer from pitcher Johnny Beazley.

Manager Billy Southworth, who missed his first game of the season Wednesday, heard the bad news on the radio. Wednesday night he said he had made no decision on a possible series replacement for Heath. To add a player now he would need special waivers, he asserted in commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Guesses were that he would ask to bring up Marv Rickert from Milwaukee of the American Association. Rickert, a lefthander hit 27 home runs and drove in 117 runs this season.

Sheffield, England — (CP) — Belief that a drowning man sees a panorama of his life is true says Arnold Freeman, Sheffield University lecturer, who investigated 150 cases of "temporary death" from drowning or falling from heights.

Mustangs Show Sarnia Imperials System at Work

Sarnia Sept. 30 (CP)— Coach Red Davis has been trying to get his Sarnia Imperials to adopt the wide open system used by Johnny Metras at the University of Western Ontario.

Wednesday night Metras' Mustangs showed the Imperials how it worked — they let loose a seven touchdown attack and snowed the Imperials under 48-0.

The attack was spearheaded by flashy Jack Parry who rolled up 21 points — three touchdowns, a single and five converts, including an 83 yard touchdown dash in the closing minutes.

Plunging half Bob Pulbbs got three more and Blake Taylor powerhoused three yards for another touch. Bob McFarlane converted.

Neither McFarlane nor his brother Don — members of Canada's Olympic games track team made any major scores but both helped set up several chances.

Only once did Sarnia threaten. The imps recovered a Western fumble in the third quarter and went down to Western's four-yard line, only to fumble at the goalmouth.

WANTS SHIPS RETURNED

Washington, Sept. 30 — (AP)— The United States has demanded anew that Russia return lend-lease naval ships.

The State Department revealed Tuesday that it is prodding Russia to settle its long-overdue $11,000,000,000 lend-lease account. Wednesday it said it also had renewed demands for the ships.

Russia still has 87 American liberty type ships, 28 frigates, three ice-breakers and some smaller naval vessels. Return of all except the liberty ships is sought.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A million to one shot sounds like improbable odds. But a bridge player must take it when necessary. The time is when he can find no other possible way of fulfilling his contract.

Look at this tournament deal:

NORTH
♠ 10 9 8 3
♥ K 8
♦ A 5 4
♣ A K 10 9 4

WEST
♠ 5 3
♥ Q J 9 7 6 4 3
♦ 8
♣ Q 8 7 6

EAST
♠ K J 7
♥ A 9 3
♦ 9 7 3 2
♣ J 5 3

SOUTH
♠ A Q 6 5 4
♥ 10 2
♦ K Q J 10 5
♣ 2

At one table the south player became the declarer at a contract of six of spades. Dust your optics over the east trumps and deal's scarce. It looks as if the contract is a goner, on such opposition.

An opening heart lead from west will wreck the slam. Lead of heart queen from west will give his pair two heart tricks right now. A sure trump trick in east means the bidder goes down two.

But east elected to lead his singleton diamond. Given this slim chance to manoeuvre, declarer did just that. If he can beat his operations seemed the best bet by a mile.

Dummy took trick one with the diamond ace. Dummy was led at once from there. When east did not go with the king, south played the diamond queen. Another successful finesse.

Dummy ace was laid down without waiting to return to dummy. When this trick was over, east was known to have a sure trump trick. There was no need to lead another trump round to force it.

The small south club was led and won in dummy. Then the other top club was shuffled a south heart. Nod declarer must find east with four diamonds or go down to defeat. Luckily for him, they were.

Three more diamonds were cashed, dummy shifting a heart. When east followed suit this time, the rest was easy. South simply led his last diamond and shifted dummy heart king.

It made no difference whether east used up his trump on this. The only trick his side will get is with the trump king. As you can see, an impossible looking contract is not necessarily so.

London Majors Sandlot Champs Of the World

London, Ont., Sept. 30. (CP) —London Majors are the 1948 sandlot baseball world champions.

Wednesday night, in a five-run outburst in the top of the ninth, McCray Ave. of Fort Wayne, (Ind.) General Electrics 5-0. They broke a 4-4 tie in the game to win the best-of-seven Sandlot series.

It looked as though the United States Sandlot champs had the series all sewed up when they scored their third win Monday night. Majors, with little fanfare, struck back Tuesday to tie the series and then won the clincher Wednesday night.

Brilliant right-hander Tommy White of London was the hero of both the game that tied the series and the game that won it. Tuesday night he pitched his team to a 13-1 victory.

White slipped only in the ninth inning Wednesday night when Fort Wayne rallied to fill the bases with one out. He snapped out of it though and kept the losers scoreless.

Lanky London hurler also paced Majors at bat, with three hits. His final hit came in the ninth and drove in the winners' second run.

Montreal Royals Defeat Chiefs To Win Series

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal Royals, having won the pennant and the International League's championship playoff series are setting their sights on adding the Little World Series title to the record collection.

Manager Clay Hopper's high-flying Royals qualified for a Little World Series berth Wednesday night by humbling the defending playoff champions Syracuse Chiefs 7-3. The victory was the Royals fourth in five games over the Chiefs in the best of seven final series.

It is the second time in three years that the Royals have swept the pennant and playoffs. They performed the feat in 1946 under Hopper and went on to take the Little World Series from Louisville's American Association Colonels, four games to two.

At the moment the American Association still is playing its final series, St. Paul leading Columbus two games to one. Both Montreal and St. Paul are Brooklyn farm clubs.

Shortstop Bobby Morgan paced the Royals to victory Wednesday night. Morgan clouted a three-run homer and drove in four runs as the Royals made it three straight over Syracuse.

The Royals rolled up a 5-0 lead for Clarence Podbielan but the rookie righthander had to be lifted in the sixth after the Chiefs, Al Zachary took over and held the Chiefs scoreless until the ninth when they tallied their final run. Dixie Howell went the route for Syracuse.

Soot should not be left in the furnace as it will absorb moisture from the air and soon rust the interior.

Gordon Enjoying Greatest Season In Major Loop

Cleveland, Sept. 30 (AP)—Nearly everyone on the Cleveland ball club has been nominated key man in the Indians' pursuit of the American League pennant.

Bob Feller, who Wednesday recorded his 19th victory! Yes.

Lou Boudreau, playing manager? Of course.

Bob Lemon who tomorrow goes for his 21st conquest of the year when the Tribe resumes against Detroit Tigers? Certainly.

Gene Bearden, Ken Keltner, Jim Hegan, Dale Mitchell, Larry Doby? Take your pick.

At 33, the Flash is enjoying his greatest season, even if he did bat .322 in 1942, the year he was voted the league's most valuable player.

Wednesday he produced two wallops that eased Feller's road, which became pretty rocky before ending in his seventh straight victory.

In the sixth inning, Gordon stepped to the plate with second and a two-run homer that brought the Indians even with Chicago White Sox, 2-2. And then, Southpaw Frank Papish was the complete master.

The next inning saw Gordon deliver another four-base homer with a two-bagger, giving him a total of 121 runs batted in for 1948. Never before had he batted in that high a figure. The home run was the 32 for him, another career high for the clouting Californian.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 30 (AP) — When and if the Indians and Braves meet in the World Series it will be a team averaging 32 1/2 years in age against one averaging 29 years. That probably doesn't prove anything except that Cleveland's Joe Gordon is the only player who can carry the nickname of 'old pro,' but it also gives you a satisfaction that few rookies have been able to match the pennant-winning grade so far. The Indians range from 23-year-old Al Rosen up to Satchel Paige, who for convenience is pegged at 42; the Braves from Earl Torgeson, 24, to Nanny Potter, 37. Since both managers use their men liberally, it isn't possible to strike an average for the 'regulars', but chances are if you listen carefully you'll be able to hear the creaking limbs over the radio.

Sports Before Your Eyes

Virginia baseball fans hear the Red Sox are about to ask waivers on Curt Stobbe, their $25,000 bonus pitcher who has been outpitching bench splinters all season. Oakland, Calif., is looking for a gate of $50,000 or more for the Rocky Graziano-Fred Apostoli fight in November. The customers should be paid that much for watching them. A Cleveland World Series automatically will cause the postponement of the Browns-Dodgers pro football game from Oct. 10 to the 12th.

TREAT FOR CHILDREN

Montreal — (CP) — More than 125 children from the School for Crippled Children were treated to a three-hour outing yesterday from Lachine to Lake St. Louis in buses loaned by one of the children — who received sandwiches and soft drinks — it was their first boat ride.

GIANT SWEET PEAS

Edmonton — (CP) — Sweet peas seven feet high have been grown by S. Grimshaw in Edmonton's east end. The flowers won four prizes in a local Horticultural Society show.

Baldock, Herts., England (CP) — Bluff Sydney Avery, for 14 years owner of the George and Dragon Inn, was 7,000 miles away in Capetown when he died last March.

But his love was still for the hotel, which he had sold to his manageress, Miss Beatrice Mary Lawn, before sailing for South Africa.

His will left most of his £30,000 ($80,000) estate to her, the staff and "my friends in the bar." His ashes were brought back to Baldock and scattered in the churchyard. Then the old customers returned to the pub and drank to his memory.

AT THE BELLE — Playing his first all-out screen comedy role, motion picture star Clifton Webb is given a self-admitted pass and flirtatious glance by Maureen O'Hara, with Robert Young and Marjorie Reynolds, three stars of "Sitting Pretty," Friday and Saturday.

Curator Interested In Snapping Turtle

Winnipeg — (CP) — Some of the 30 young born to a snapping turtle which invaded the property of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gage, suburbs of Winnipeg have been preserved as specimens by L. T. C. Norris-Elye, curator of the Manitoba Museum.

He said he would send others to the National Museum at Ottawa, the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto and the University of Minnesota. He would keep some alive to learn more about the behavior of young turtles.

Mr. Norris-Elye said snapping turtles, though uncommon in Manitoba, were rarely seen. The female seldom left the water except to lay their eggs.

There is only one adult snapping turtle in the Manitoba museum. It is a female specimen taken with 80 eggs about three years ago on the grounds of Riverbend Girls' School on the banks of the Assiniboine River. The turtle was probably 60 or 70 years old.

Answers to Yesterday's Puzzle

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reading his paper and ma was reading hern, saying. Do you know that animal women remind me of, William?

According to one school of thawt they're all cats, pop said, and ma said, No, they're sheep downright sheep.

Maybe they're sheep in cats clothing, pop said, and ma said, According to this article, a poll has just been taken among a cross section of women to find out just what sways them in their selection of perfums.

Could it be their sense of smell? pop said, and ma said, Aw at all, it's the suggestiveness of the names on the labels. Ninety nine or a hundred per cent of them are named after sex appeal, because the names on the bottle suggests some sutch nonsense as danger, or secrecy, or temtation, or imprudence, or even utter carelessness. In other words they're for to low each other like sheep chasing labels at the rate of a sevin fortune for a few ounces, sh said.

That reminds me, I met Car Oldfax today, pop said. He's a perfume importer. You know there's a terrific profit in that stuff, and Carl offered to let me have a bottle of anything in his line for just what it costs him in other words, only 6 dollers for a 45 doller bottle of perfume, pop said, and ma said, How exciting I just imagine. What perfume does he import?

He's leading brands are Puritan, Bashful, and Mousey, pop said, and ma said, Sutch names no wonder he's trying to unload them for 6 dollers.

Why my dear, you're not talking like a sheep, are you? pop said, and ma said, Certainly not, but no good perfums would dare fly in the face of popularity by maskerading under any sutch silly names.

I forgot to tell you he also has and last a cupple called Heads Up and Wowie, pop said, and ma said, Oh hush, I know you were just making the whole thing up and if you think its so funny, go ahead

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"I'll sleep up there a few nights and take over," Clay said lastly.

"Leave a lot of loo and milk and stuff up there in the diet kitchen. He'll be all right with me."

"Not with your eyes!" I exclaimed involuntarily. For since his visit to the oculist Clay had worn a heavy bandage over the bad eye and the usual dark glasses over both. And I knew that he had suffered from the new treatment, for Louise told me of sleeping tablets and pain tablets that she was authorized to administer.

"My eyes don't hurt any—more" he said quickly, as if his pride was hurt that I should mention them. I subsided, my heart beating uncomfortably. "Billee may be back any time, may she not?" he mused. "And you, Gail?"

"We'll keep her room ready," Mrs. Grizzli put in resignedly. "But I give up! We've had some pretty queer things going on in this house, but I never anything like this."

They went on talking inconsequentially, and I sat snugly listening and enjoying the sense of being entrenched against the very center of the Hillyard House, a part of all that was going on. Whatever happened, they couldn't blame me, and if Virginia had snatched into the unknown and Billee was returning to face the music, it wasn't my doing.

Bill and I were presently to say good-by to all this, to start life together. Mr. and Mrs. Williamson [illegible] Brent. I liked the sound of it. The thought of her new name is always thrilling to any engaged girl. "Liberty Brent," she said to myself over and over, and I smiled the sound of that too.

A few days later, when I was out on the terrace in the morning sunshine, two letters came from Bill; heart-, filling letters. They were all love and flattery, and I had not had too much of either in my life and drank them in with such a serene rising at the heart as I had only known. Every woman ought to feel herself loved, for a while anyway; it is so delicious to me to read that he loved the shine of my hair and the notes of my voice and that the grip of my fingers on the walking-stick, the garden together and the touch of my cheek against his when we parted had stayed with him, living sensations to carry him thru his visits to London."

"Bill is in Oakland," I said, being obliged to say something about him. Clay was the only other person on the terrace, so of necessity the remark was addressed to him.

"Oh, one of your letter from Bill?" He was lying stretched in a deck chair, the August autumn sunlight was spattered over him through oak branches.

"Both from Bill," I couldn't help it.

"Both," he repeated absently. After a minute I said, quite without meaning to say it, "Any one who likes me will have to like Bill from now on."

"Ah, is that the way the wind blows?" Clay said quietly.

"That's the way the wind blows."

"He's to be congratulated," Clay began. "Upon the ease with which he brushes his affections," he added in an indifferent almost bored voice.

"I don't think there was any transfer of affection," I said as calmly as I could over a tumult of resentment and hurt within, and then I added, "Do you?"

"Well, I don't see very well," he apologized, in that way of his that was no apology at all.

"If you mean that Virginia and Bill have a sort of flirtation," I said, "of course they did. But Bill and I had been friends long before that, and he was never so serious with Virginia as you might have thought. When she left it ended, and Bill had talked the whole thing over with me."

"And he doesn't feel himself in the least to blame?" Clay asked, so simply that I answered as simply.

"He certainly does not."

"And you have pressed Clay.

"I certainly don't."

There was a silence in which I wished that I had never opened the matter, and I put my letters, folded flat, in my sweater pocket.

"It's hard to believe that a girl of your calibre could consider marriage like that," Clay presently said slowly.

"And you know him. After all," I said, tryin' for an air of cool and lofty confidence, "you are devoted to this Mrs. Greer, aren't you? And yet you could ask another man to marry her."

"True, true," he agreed, undisturbed. "But I'm old, Gail," he said, "I can't ask her."

"She's married, you mean?"

"Well, and even if she were not." His tone was reasoning, reflective, almost as if he were glad to talk of his affair as I was of mine. "I don't think that I was attuning love and felicity and was not only less ruthless than Louise's acidities but so wrapped in my own happy dreams that I often hardly heard them.

We had three very hot days in here, they often come in threes and are almost insufferable to a white woman used to the heat and cold nights the year round. The sun was lazy and low, and the sky blazed blue and liquid, melting into itself, melting into itself again. It was too hot to go onto the cliffs at all; it was almost unbearably hot in the old garden under the heavy trees. The cattle—about six of them—had been driven down from the ranch to pasture on the lower fields that bordered the property on the south. They grouped themselves under the oaks, where there was an old lichened trough filled with water, a resentful lowing could be heard through the hot noon hir. The windmill whined never moved; the rusty, high, shaggy spires of the eucalyptus never moved.

Inside everything in the old house smelled dry and musty. Draperies smelled; upholstery gave forth no odor. The wood in the wainscoting smelled; and the carpets. In the dining room there was a sharp odor of apples and wine and mice. In the library, I could smell leather and the backs of the books.

On the third afternoon, I remember, I hung out of my bedroom window and tried to get a breath of air. There was no air. There was no moon; stars shone languidly in a smoky sky. We ate our dinner almost no noise tonight. One had to listen closely to hear it at all, quite unlike its usual glorious rush just a large soft sigh and gurgle, and tumble.

Mounty Recalls Notorious Gambler

Edmonton — (CP) — The days when Soapy Smith, notorious gambler, ruled Skagway are good fortune but they linger in the memory of Col. F. L. Cartwright, who was the first Mounty officer in North West Mounted Police and the well-famed sidehat four days before he was shot.

Col. Cartwright, retired at 73, is on his way back to his old beat at White Pass Summit where he administered law and order as commander of a non-too-willing settlement of gold seekers.

Son of Sir Richard Cartwright, minister of trade and commerce in Sir Wilfred Laurier's cabinet, Col. Cartwright joined the force in 1897 and was sent with a group of 30 men to the Yukon. Their duties ranged from collecting customs, banking gold dust, keeping law and even burying those unfortunates not fast enough on the draw.

In fact, we did everything except marry people," the veteran police officer recalled.

It was in 1898 that Canada was trying to protect her claims to the Yukon and Col. Cartwright served as practically every department of government.

Soapy Smith was one of the biggest problems. He had picked settlement and when he appeared in White Pass Col. Cartwright was there to meet him.

"I told Soapy to leave or the gambler met the fate of so many of his kind — he found a quiet place called Dead Man's Gulch," Col. Cartwright said.

Commissioner S.T. Wood, president of the R.C.M.P., has made it possible for Col. Cartwright, who now lives in New England, to make a trip to Dawson City with R.C.M.P. officials. Commissioner Wood's name is not unfamiliar to Col. Cartwright. His second son has commissioner's father before leaving the force in 1905.

During the Boer War, Col. Cartwright got leave to go overseas with Sir Sam Steele in the Lord Strathcona Horse. Sir Sam, too, was a good friend of Col. Cartwright's who knew him as Col. Steele, another N.W.M.P. officer in the Yukon.

Only 70 Out of 572 Pigeons Return

Toronto Sept. 20 (CP) — There are a lot of worried fanciers Toronto and district pigeon lofts today. Of 572 homing pigeons released in Montgolfier, Que., last Saturday in the annual 304 mile pigeon derby only 70 have returned to their lofts.

Pigeon fanciers have little idea although they have a fair guess as of what caused the birds, worth thousands of dollars, to go astray, been 12-mile-per-hour north-east wind.

The race was won by a red check cock owned by Jim Robertson, of the Dominion Racing Club. His bird averaged 941 yards per minute and brought him prize money of $500.

Business Spotlight

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

The housewife is accustomed to streamlined food stores these days but a few more ideas for her enticement may come out of the food show which the Foods Division of the Retail Merchants Association of Canada is sponsoring at their convention in Toronto Oct. 4-5. (Royal York Hotel).

The show, described as the largest yet held in Canada in conjunction with a foods convention, will consist of a "model store" 25 by 60 feet, with all-steel shelving fully stocked with a complete line of groceries.

Featured will be the latest in a service meat refrigerating counter, self-serve refrigerated dairy case, frosted food cabinet, fruit and vegetable display unit, ice cream cabinet, beverage cooler, coffee mill, together with the most recent thing in check-out unit.

Steelmen Meet

In the meantime if you wish to know the origin of the frame of that new bed or farm fence post, go now to Hamilton where the executives of 13 Rail Steel mills of Canada and the United States are meeting.

An interesting thing about them is that their industry is based on conservation. Instead of making steel from scratch, they begin with railroad rails which have been removed from service.

The rails are graded as to sizes and lengths, heated to high temperatures in huge furnaces, and split into three parts: the head or top of the rail; the web, or slender upright portion; and the flange, the portion that lies on the ties.

Each part becomes a separate billet and, when rolled, say the Rail Steel people, provides a more homogeneous and finer grain structure than the original rail.

Principal products are bars and shapes for such uses as metal furniture, agricultural machinery, bars for reinforced structure — not to fogret bed frames and farm fence posts.

Markets Wednesday

International news remains grim but security markets added to their recovery Wednesday. Grains were uncertain in Chicago, but firmer in Winnipeg.

STUDENT FARMER

Drumheller, Alta. — (CP) — Francis Olson, a high school student and member of the Drumheller Junior Wheat Club, has grown 648 bushels, averaging 44 bushels to the acre, on a plot on his father's farm near here.

Bear Chooses Montreal Garage For Winter Sleep

Montreal Sept. 30 (CP) —Apparently bears have their housing problems too. At least one bear has, for he was found in Montreal yesterday happy in his new hibernating spot. Where he came from nobody knows.

An animal ambulance crew from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals found Bruno peacefully settled in a garage at Bonsecoeur Market. The attendant gingerly put a hand into the garage first. This produced little result, so he tried a foot. Back came the foot minus part of the shoe.

Finally the trucelent visitor was captured with a large net. The trouble for the S.P.C.A. wasn't over yet though, for when they took Bruno back to their sages the other residents put up a howl. The bear growled, the cats meowed and the dogs were highly indignant.

"We will just have to put up with the howling until we find him a home," one S.P.C.A. official said.

RESTOCK FOR HUNTERS

Welland, Ont. — (CP) — When the pheasant season opens, nearly 6,000 birds will have been released here and in Lincoln County it was announced recently. The Niagara District Pheasant Breeders Association said they had released about 20,000 birds in the last four years.

CHEHAB REVISITS PARIS — Following his participation at the ceremony in which Queen Juliana succeeded to the throne of the Netherlands (formerly, H. R. H. Princess), wartime commander of the Canadian Army, is making a "good-will tour" through Belgium and France. This Canadian Army photo shows him inspecting a guard of honor at the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, where he placed a wreath. Accompanying him is General Devyck, commander of the First Military Region of Paris.

(CP Photo).

When the ships of the Royal Canadian Navy's northern task force visited Wakeham Bay, near the northern end of Hudson Strait, they found the population there to consist of one Oblate missionary and 30 Eskimos.

The Eskimos spoke neither English or French but this proved no obstacle so far as making friends was concerned. Gifts of candy, fruit and cigarettes quickly established the sailors' popularity.

Accused Claims Man Fatally Shot During Struggle

Toronto, Sept. 30— (CP) Fred Aldred, 23, stated his life today on his story that storekeeper William Cowan was fatally shot with his own revolver Aug. 1 when it discharged accidentally in the merchant's hands while Cowan struggled with Aldred in a darkened store.

Aldred, on trial for murder, said in a statement admitted Wednesday the weapon was discharged twice while he fought to escape from Cowan who had caught him breaking into his store at Malvern in the Ontario area.

Aldred said Cowan surprised him in the store and that he told Cowan he had broken in to look for something to eat for himself and his girl friend, May Hill, 17, with whom he was eloping.

Defence Counsel Harry Rose said there was no evidence Aldred had any weapon when he entered the Cowan store. The revolver was in Cowan's hands and in some manner it went off during the struggle.

He said the most severe conclusion that could be reached on the evidence was that it was a case of involuntary manslaughter.

Crown Counsel W. G. Gibson said it would be practically impossible for a shot to pierce Cowan's breast in the way the fatal shot did if the revolver were in Cowan's own hands

In view of the fact that Mrs. Cowan (wife of the slain storekeeper) was hit over the head with something harder than a fist and also that the revolver was found on the accused when he was arrested, can you come to any other conclusion that the revolver was in the hands of the accused when the second shot was fired."

Similar announcements came earlier this week from the Examiner and the Times both morning papers.

Argentine Police Free Two Priests

Buenos Aires, Sept. 30 (AP)— Argentine police Wednesday freed two priests held in connection with an alleged plot to assassinate President Juan Peron. At the same time they arrested an Englishman.

The Briton, Geoffrey P. Brooke-Taylor, 53, was picked up after the police said they discovered a store of arms and ammunition in a wine warehouse. Brooke-Taylor is assistant manager of El Globo Wine Company.

Rev. Fidel Horacio Moreno, a navy chaplain, and Rev. Carlos Grandi were freed when Judge Oscar Palma Beltran said the only evidence against them was that they had been invited to one of the plotters' meetings by a third priest still held.

Peron has blamed North American Imperialism for fomenting what he said was a plot to assassinate him.

CONVENTION STAGE— Draped with blue-and-white bunting and decorated with party mottoes, this platform is ready as a backdrop for the Progressive Conservative national convention at Ottawa's coliseum which opens tomorrow. It will be the centre of interest as the party chooses a new leader to succeed John Bracken, retiring after six years as national chief. (CP Photo)

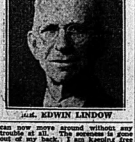
RHEUMATIC PAIN EASED

"Feel Years Younger," He Says



"Pain Was So Severe I Could Hardly Move My Leg." Had Headaches, Backache, Dizzy Spells. "Got Relief by Taking Syntona," He Says.

Nearly every day you can read in the paper how someone has obtained good results by taking a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound. This medicine has brought relief to many hundreds of grateful local men and women and, like so many others, Mr. Edwin Lindow, 40 Beechwood Avenue, Hamilton, has good reason to be happy about his experience with Syntona.

"For about three years, my entire system was sore, aching joints and muscles. The pain in my leg was so bad I could hardly move it and I had backaches all the time. I had a dizzy spell was sore and what finally made me feel worse, was a nervous condition. I was so nervous that I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells and I could seem to get my proper sleep at night.

"Since taking Syntona I began taking Syntona and this medicine has done me more good than anything I ever took. My nervousness is relieved, headaches and pains are relieved and I can now move around without any trouble at all. My appetite is good and I sleep fine. I am keeping free from headaches and dizzy spells and my nervousness is relieved. I am certainly glad to recommend Syntona to other people who suffer as I did."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you, too.
